Look lugubrly at CBC; recent sins. A book decision on a TV program in Montreal, a misunderstanding about a joke taken decision at Ottawa that became a political commentary program when not being read done it should be killed altogether (and it was); the misguided and irresponsible attacks, resignations which revealed bad management and poor staff relationships, the decision to wave by hardpressed CBC executives of several levels; and lastly, the revelation that the CPC is costing too much money to pay the advertisers may be getting too easy a ride.

Well, that's quite enough to make any public corporation or company, specially one run by civil servants, a target for the pendulum has started an axe-like descent. Half-truths and half-knowledge ridiculously high. "The CBC is losing money and prospers. It doesn't get full payment for" "The politicians are smothering free speech" "The CBC is a non-professional business and we should have more like the United States and then we'll get better TV and pay lower taxes!" "Ernie Bushmill says the CBC is too much; what we should do is offer him the contract (hugh) and make him responsible for every thing — then there'd be order and discipline."

And so on, and on.

One wouldn't mind the clamor for improvement of CBC. But the legislators, beginning to bring in the commercialists and let them pay the costs overlooks the fact that they would also call the tunes. In impassioned debate I admitted to fumbling and extravagance the "mess-broadcasting" is losing to the United States as though it were a better ole. Bairns-dale (Ont.) Mail-Star.

This American system some people seem to be coveting how it is doing?

By chance just this month we had an article interesting views on that, by Americans!

Oscar Schaefer is editor of Harper's, and there is a powerful voice of some stature. In this month's issue he writes about American TV. Hear him latently:

"The TV industry in its present form is evidently powerless to what is destroying the audiences that it serves. It is dominated solely and legally that it would collapse. Quickly is dandy, as Ogden Nash has observed, but what if You want beef steak for a dollar? You won't get it. The sponsors in their infinite wisdom have decided that most people want candy between 8.00 and 11.00 p.m., and you will, by God, take candy!

"The result is that the best brains in television, its best hours and its best shows are dedicated to making the American people fat, dumb and happy. Is this bad enough? Can we afford to use our best resources in this way, at a moment when the world's entire straining all their resources to make their people lean, smart, and tough?"

Mr. Fischer gave some staggering examples of big business sponsors who wouldn't care less about the quality of their programs provided they got the listeners. "TV is not a philanthropic enterprise." And even though Firestone, for example, wanted to continue to present an hour of good music at its own expense, the network refused it it could not retain its 9.00 hour for it's own profitable audience that might listen to programs before and after it (which were not as good, he says, without it).

Mr. Fischer concludes that the "very existence of radio and TV isn't good enough and urges creation of "a National broadcasting Authority," free from economic and political pressures, responsible in respect to their eminence. "Such a Board might include the president of Harvard, the head of Carnegie and Rockfeller foundations, the director of the Metropolitan Museum . . ."

Mr. Fischer's Board, he hopes, would do for TV and radio what something of the kind of thing that Canadians hoped CBC would do for Canadian radio!

And now another witness, a report by Jack Gould in the New York Times on the hearing held in New York 10 days ago by the Federal Communications Commission. That the American: can authority of the airways and it was continuing a long hearing into its practices and publicity of the TV networks. The Gould report refers to the testimony of the executives of the four or five giant American advertising agencies who handle the accounts of the sponsors of broadcasts.

Gould says it was "abundantly clear" that the radio and networks and stations, and even the Hollywood Theatre Guild which is New York's only quality theatre producer, do not really put on the show. Mary. "The advertising agencies said that they review all scripts in advance, scrutinize dialogue line by line and have their "program representatives" on hand to check each day's production work.

On show after show the advertisers delete material deemed objectionable to the sponsor's interest. "An advertiser cannot be affected in how any segment of society", a sponsor does not want to leave a viewer "sad and depressed" and so on. Gould cited one percent of the country's population is mentally deficient, that every; displeasing or disturbing people is bad business, and so is controversy. Result: the barrenness, the innocuous and the uninspiring get by.

"It also was made clear that, in one way or another, the function of selling, not the show is paramount," reported Mr. Gould.

"The testimony left no doubt that if a writer has the potential as a medium giving access to the limitless thoughts and ideas of mankind he must escape "the taboos, apprehensions and timidities of sponsors and agency men". "It does not follow that such a set of mores should govern one of the country's major platforms for human expression.

"In recent years economic pressures and FCC indifference have brought about the present method of broadcasting" Gould went on. "It is not at all said that agency men themselves said that some scheme must be found out of existing economic pressure and giving the listener and viewer more solid fare.

There is still another witness to be heard in Toronto to-day and broadcasting fame, who some months ago made a speech to the industry" which he thought radio and TV were doing. He is Dr. Amerindon of Mr. Fischer quoted Mr. Murrow indirectly, as did the Director of News and Current Affairs of the BBC in a recent speech Moore. Following his graduation from Albert College he attended Queen's University graduating therefrom with B.A. degree in 1927, and received the degree of M.D., C.M. from that institution in 1929.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If you can get up early enough those mornings so as not to have to rush off to work like a fireman, you can witness one of the wonders of the world. I mean the tenderest scenes in all nature, human included. You can watch a mother robin trying to teach her young to fend for themselves — in other words, to get rid of them.

There she is on the lawn. The young are much bigger than their mother, are running at her, their beaks of the bedges and flowerbed. Their beaks are pointed slightly up, and they have that look out of the nest maybe five or six days. They wear a slightly goofy look.

Three weeks ago, they were blue eggs. Two weeks before that, they were mere tapioca in the mother's vitals. And here, thanks to the fantastic fury of the speed of life and growth in birds, they stare out at astonished eyes at their mother coaxing them to get off their arses.

To wheedle them out onto the lawn, she catches a worm and flies with it to a spot a few inches it to bits. She runs part way to-wards one, then flies another three feet and is fed. One by one she gets them onto the lawn. The greediest fledgling discovers that it sees her thrashing a worm, it flies to her. She feeds it a nibble, then she stands back, beckons, sees if the stupid infant will notice her offering amounts of worm, and help itself.

It won't. She'll stand there, beak up, half-cocked, and disgusted. She runs over and bites the same act on another. Every now and then she stands back and stares in a sort of speechless desperation at them. It may take an hour, two hours, yes, her to induce the first one to get it through his head that he's on his own.

Maybe by nightfall, she can get them all to the point where they can fend for themselves. Maybe by nightfall, she can get them all to the point where they can fend for themselves. Maybe by nightfall, she can get them all to the point where they can fend for themselves.

Stories of Famous Hymns

THE TOUCH OF HIS HAND ON MINE

There are days so dark that I seak in vain
For the face of my Friend
Divine
But though darkness hide, He is here to guide
By the touch of His hand on
mine.
There are times, when tired of the toilsome road,
That for ways of the world I pine:
But He draws me back to the upward track
By the touch of His hand on
mine.
When the way is dim, and I cannot see
Through the mist of His wise design,
How my glad heart yearns and my faith returns
By the touch of His hand on
mine.
In the last sad hour, as I stand alone
Where the powers of death
combine,
While the dark waves roll. He will guide my soul
By the touch of His hand on
mine.

CHORUS:

Oh, the touch of His hand on
mine!
Oh, the touch of His hand on
mine—
There is grace and power, in the
trying hour,
In the touch of His hand on
mine.

Some of the world's most precious gospel songs were being written, 60 or 70 years ago, for the religious revivals which were being held on both sides of the Atlantic and for the new Christian Endeavor movement which was summoning young people to consecrated living and Christian service.

One of the most famous of the gospel hymn writers of the day was Jessie H. Brown, an Ohio girl. She was scarcely 13 when her poems and writings began appearing in religious magazines. She wrote books and stories for children, cantatas for church choristers, and hymn-poems which, more than any of her other writings, helped to carry her name through the land.

Her consecration hymn, "The Touch of His Hand On Mine," was a top favorite in church prayer services and in Christian meetings. Christian Endeavorers used to sing it regularly, too. They liked its chorus message:

"Oh, the touch of His hand on
mine,
Oh, the touch of His hand on
mine;
There is grace and power, in the
trying hour,
In the touch of His hand on
mine."

The hymn was given a musical setting by Henry P. Morton who also composed the tune for T.O. Chisholm's gospel song, "You Can Find Him Where You Left Him."

Jessie Brown wrote many other fine hymns including "Anywhere With Jesus I Can Safely Go" and "The Way Of the Cross Leads Home". The hymn writing continued even after her marriage to the Rev. John E. Pounds, pastor of the Central Christian Church of Indianapolis and there are some hymns in the song collections which show "Jessie Brown Pounds" as their author. One of these is the much-loved hymn, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere".

A Lift For Living

Jesus and Nature's First Law

BY DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Firmly embedded in the minds of men is the maxim, "Self-preservation is nature's first law." Wherever we look we see life struggling to survive itself. Consider the fowls of the air. They build their nests, shelter their young and migrate with the seasons, all as part of the instinct for self-preservation.

Look through the microscope at your own blood stream. If a blood vessel is wounded, an army of white corpuscles is rushed to the defense, all as a part of this same principle of self-preservation. The cry of the wolf in the back, the concern for health which sends us to a doctor, the struggle of a boy to equip himself with knowledge or a trade, the raising of armies, the conference of diplomats — do not all these stem from the main root of man's desire for self-preservation? And is not this desire the first law of Nature? That is the belief on which we have been reared.

Now, in the light of this law of self-preservation, how are we to explain the self-sacrifice which Jesus taught and supremely demonstrated when He deliberately laid down His life on the cross? Or to come nearer home, how do we account for the acts of heroic sacrifice which take place around us in our own time — the mother giving her life for her child, the firemen dying to rescue the occupant of a burning building?

CRUEL BUT PLAUSIBLE

We recall what they said to Jesus. When they beheld Him hanging on the cross, some cried sarcastically: "He saved others; Himself He cannot save. If He be the King of Israel, let Him now come down from the cross and we will believe Him." However cruel these words were, they soundec plausible. There on the cross was a Man who had gone about professing to save people. He allowed men to call Him God. He assumed to speak in the name of God as master of life and death. Surely if He really possessed such power, He would use it on Himself.

Such would be the natural assumption. We take it for granted that if a physician has a secret cure, he will use it on himself. The lawyer who sets himself up as a counsellor on others ought to be able to manage his own affairs. No wonder His critics cried to Jesus on the cross, "He saved others, Himself He cannot save." Jesus broke Nature's first law of self-preservation, He looked like a failure.

How then are we to explain Jesus's principle of self-sacrifice? My conviction is that He was demonstrating self-sacrifice as necessary to real self-preservation.

If we are to save ourselves, we must spend ourselves. We cannot save our life by hoarding it as we hoard money. A person does not say, "Since I shall need all my strength in 1960, I shall save my muscles this year." He would become weak and flabby. When a man tries to be a miser of his own health, he usually makes himself miserable. He comes a slave to the thermometer and a fugitive from germs. We develop our physical strength by spending it in work which sometimes seems to tax us.

Likewise we enlarge our mental powers by spending them to their limit. The student tries to save his memory or sympathy by not using it is sure to weaken it. The power of love is strengthened by stretching.

SAVE BY DENYING

Another principle Jesus laid down is that we save ourselves by denying ourselves. He said, "If any man would be My disciple, let him deny himself." All the great world religions advocate self-denial.

The lawn of my boyhood home was fenced with an ever-green hedge. Every year when it was trimmed, I thought the gardener was cutting away too much. But I learned that only by such radical pruning could the symmetry of the hedge be preserved. Similarly our lives must be pruned if they are to grow in grace and fulness of stature.

Horace Mann, the pioneer educator, once wrote: "In vain do they talk of happiness who never subdued an impulse in obedience to a principle. He who never sacrificed a present to a future good, or a personal to a general one, can speak of happiness only as the blind do of colors."

A mother once brought her baby to be blessed by Gen. Robert E. Lee. The gallant old soldier, who was essentially a man of peace and who gave his postwar years to training young men for the pursuits of peace, took the infant in his arms, and as he gave it back to the mother

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

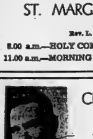
Did you ever think that finding a nest might be a misfortune rather than a joyful event? Our pleasure is only one side of the picture; to the other side of the the finish of family life for the pair of birds in possession — at least in that particular place, and possibly for the rest of the season. Whether or not the parents desert depends largely on the habits of that special species, but is partly a matter of individual taste. We may reason that we touched neither nest nor its contents, and that the birds were not in sight. However, there is much more to the business of nest-finding than we might at first realize.

Experiments have proved that though all birds have olfactory nerves leading to the brain from the nasal passages, the majority have little sense of smell. Nevertheless, comparatively recent experiments show that peregrine falcons, rock doves, some kinds of owls and individual crows can detect human scent. So there is at least a possibility that birds are able to smell sufficiently to know when we have interfered with their nests and eggs or inadvertently touched the nearby foliage.

Their reaction to this interference depends partly upon how far incubation has progressed. The crucial time seems to be when the eggs are in the nest. Once they have hatched, parents are loath to leave their young ones.

SOME BIRDS FUSSY

Certain kinds of birds are especially fussy, or temperamental. Catbirds and waxwings certainly come into this class, and some people have found rails particularly scary. Catbirds seem to sense if anyone has come near their home during their absence, and will abandon the family at any stage of their growth, leaving nestlings to die of starvation. Both catbirds and waxwings will build another if we persist in tracking them down. Rails have been known to destroy their own eggs if they are aware that a human has been there.



The worst of discovering a nest is, however, that we are most likely to expose it to enemies. Many animals have no difficulty following our scent. Grassy ground will be trampled down, leaves twisted or twigs bent on surrounding bushes. The nest is over displaced. We may imagine that have disturbed nothing; but the first fox, weasel or owl passing that way will have no trouble at all in locating a dinner.

IF YOUR daughter were her long hair lesson, "mornings" and bathing suits to be particularly troublesome. You can avoid them by braiding her hair into one neat pigtail before she goes to bed. Don't make it tight, but braid the hair and end with a rubber band. Cool, too.

Slick Motel Operators Make Matters Rough for 'Amateurs'

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

We are speaking to you from a motel.

The air conditioner (we suspect it's really an air cooler but we're not sure we know the difference) is blowing a virtually unmodified version of the midsummer prairie air outside. The manager says they all do that.

The drain in the sink won't close and the quarter-an-hour television set is suffering from electric dyspepsy. The manager says they all do that too.

Last night, riding from one of those nagging backache-type mattresses to relieve our nagging backs is hot tube, we found the water emanating from the spout in a trickle usually reserved for delinquent water-bill payers. In desperation we tried the shower and found it squirted in all directions but down.

All the mattresses are that way, said the manager of that motel, and they've been having troubles with the water pressure in all the motels.

We didn't even bother complaining about the doll-sized crib provided for the baby. We probably would have been told all babies are that small.

Both these motels, as well as a number of others we've stopped at that were equally neglected in basic facilities, came with the usual list of memberships and "recommended" and "approved" game ranging from the recognized and dependable to the outright phony.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

What's happening in this world of Kozy Kourts and Travellers' Rests, we thought we knew so well? Why is deterioration and disrepair the thing to become a pattern in these one-time showplaces of the highway, making it increasingly difficult for the traveller to choose the spots where he is most spend one-third of his holiday time?

The answer is that as happens in every industry, the professionals are being weeded out from amateurs, the shoestring operators on the fringe concerns.

The big time is coming to the motel industry and Mama and Papa with their limited resources are taking second place to the slickly and economically run novice hotels that are rapidly taking over a major share of both hotel and motor court business on this continent.

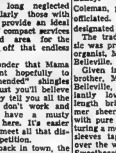
These big, modern places, some on the highway and some in town, are combining all the best features of motels with those the older city hotels would like to provide but for which they just don't have the plans.

They are new buildings that they can afford to keep up: swimming pools, room service, television sets, and dollar-and-a-coffee shop or fancy dining room, free parking, spacious grounds and enough rooms good sense and competition so that they can afford facilities, reasonable rates and dependable reservation service (small motels can't afford reservation service about not holding reservations after six without a deposit) and civic organizations they provide banquet and dining halls.

COMPACT SERVICES

And for the long neglected tourist with children and small children, they provide an ideal combination of compact services and widespread plots for the kids to burn off that endless energy.

It's little wonder that Mama and Papa point hopefully to a reconstructed motel as objectives outside and trust you'll believe them when they tell you all the leading lamps don't work and all the rooms have a musty smell. It's easier than trying to meet all that distinguishing competition.



Meanwhile, back in town, the hotels continue to make the best of a bad job. They were slowest to know 30 years ago that the time would come when no longer the vast majority of their guests would step out of the railroad station and promptly look around for the nearest hotel.

While they haven't overcome the burdensome necessity for tipping all hands, they have made commendable progress in providing motorist and metropolitan facilities — free parking, free children and tie-free dress in the coffee shoppe.

There is still a lot to be said for the city hotel on behalf of the motorist. Its central location means complete services, free parking, shows, a choice of eating places and other metropolitan conveniences. In large cities, the motor hotels can't get that close into town.

And if here are no grounds for the kids to chase around, it's remarkable what a few rides up and down in the elevator will do to let off steam — even for the elevator operator.

If he complains we tell him they're all that way.

The Power of Praise

By Alma Mason

As I grow older I realize more and more the dire necessity of and the pitiful lack of the spoken word of praise. Flattery is an empty vessel, meaningless and cold — but heartfelt praise is golden, warm, stimulating. Would you like to dip a wand in a magic potion, wave it over the heads of weary mankind—then—watching perhaps from a mountain top —see each tired being come radiantly alive? Of course this would be impossible but such a transformation can only flow out of intimate friends. Praise can make of you a human dynamo, endowed with unbelievable and translucent beauty and power. Feel loving praise for a month as you would a new diet or a new medicine, then take stock. The result will astound you. Before one can use true praise one must truly know the recipient, experience of cultivating true sympathetic understanding.

I have a very dear friend. She has formed many enduring friendships with all types and classes of folk. Speaking to her recently I probed the source of her friendship wealth. She told me all through her childhood she has been drawing on a seemingly endless flow of compassion for those less fortunate than she for her own mother's kind hard fortunes has been badly battered by life's storms — often to the point of complete destruction. This has developed in her a deep loving kindness and she has truly become a good Samaritan. With her hand safely clinging to the hand of her Heavenly Father — love has poured through her life in ever increasing stream, has flowed on abundantly into the lives of all about her. She has proven to me that the old saying "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" can well be applied to her life. Her magnetism stems from her simply expressed philosophy — "I love people so—all people. My heart aches for those in distress. I simply cannot pass them by. What do I do? Not much as the world counts it. I share a flower, a delicacy from my table, pudding, cake, a jar of fruit or jam or jelly perhaps. I send out many cheery cards. All have a few words of sincere praise or loving appreciation. I have found that of all gifts, the greatest gift one can possibly bestow on another creature is praise, warm stimulating phrases, emulating from the deepest recesses of the heart."

This old globe is so full of loneliness, heartache, intolerance, bigotry, persecution, misunderstanding. Today so many feel utterly bewildered over the apparent lack of the milk of human kindness — by a dearth of tenderness too often we forget that God has bequeathed to us many finely sharpened tools which, when properly used, will pry loose the hinges on the doors of unrest and suffering. Let us use these tools wisely but abundantly. They will flood light to the darkest corners of many seemingly hopeless lives. One of the most effective tools in our endless stockpile is praise. Let us use it and behold pure magic which will surely result. We will heal a wound left by criticism — develop latent talent — stimulate a desire for mental and spiritual improvement — promote peace and goodwill — strengthen the ties of friendship —act as anchor against evil desires — make the cross of the sick and afflicted easier to bear.

Occasionally I have a little chat by telephone with a dear soul who has been confined to a hospital bed for more than thirty years. Those who have been privileged to visit Ida have marvelled at her keen intelligence — her interest in world affairs — her great qualities of the spirit — her ability to lift and enhance the lives of all about her. They go to help her and cheer her and come away with a more buoyant step — lifted shoulders — brighter eyes. She always has a word of loving praise for all who visit her. However, knowing her intimately, I have found her cross often becomes very heavy. Then she finds it necessary to go to her Great Comforter and Friend and renew the source of her strength. Then she is prone to wonder why God leaves her on earth to suffer. She feels mediocre and inferior and useless as we all do at times. Then I tell her of her intrinsic value to all about her; of her steadfast courage as reflected by self —of her love that is magnified because it is sifted through sacrifice — expecting nothing in return when bestowed — of her ability to revitalize and rekindle so many who visit her. So those who go to Ida to help her — leave her greatly helped themselves. Approbation from a hospital bed is magnified a thousandfold in power and result.

We all need commendation — a loving push — a pat on the back. How great and small talents can become when a kind friend says "How well you do that." In fact— the little undeveloped talent but often springs into full flower when it is rained with warm approval. Walter Rauschenbusch once said, "To break down a man's sense of his own worth murders his power of expression just as much as faith in his higher possibilities awakens his soul to a new birth."

The genius of Edison can, in part, be attributed to the praise his mother always gave him. When his teachers said he was stupid and it would not be worth while keeping him in school, his mother scolded them and told them they were wrong in their deductions concerning her son. She was the most enthusiastic champion he ever had. Edison determined that he must be worthy of her trust in him and of her praise. He became obsessed with the desire that her confidence in him would not be misplaced. So a great part of the development of Edison's genius can be traced to the praise given him by his mother. Others were trying to destroy the creative spark. She coaxed it into flame.

Self development is accomplished in a full sense only through a wish for the spiritual and mental development of those around us. To awaken and enhance the lives of those we contact daily — drops a warm little seed of beauty in our own hearts. All good returns magnified to the giver. Praise from the heart returns to bless a million times over.

I believe you can do it, dear;
I believe that the goal is near;
I believe that you're dreaming, sun
Will prove that the race is almost won.

I believe that the skies will clear;
I believe you will conquer fear;
I believe that your loving heart
Will hope and joy to others impart.

I believe you are fine and true,
I believe through my faith in you,
I believe and believing, say
I trust and honor you more each day.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

T & T thanks the office of the High Commissioner for New Zealand for a fascinating holiday Brochure. It is holiday "season" in Canada when we are prone to think of it between washing the dishes, scrubbing the kitchen floor, dusting, and making beds. Early in the season we stumbled through a splendid brochure handed to us by our local representative Mr. Lorne Sandercock, M.P.P. Ontario is indeed a veritable paradise for tourists, but as we sat reading the blissful tourist attractions of our wonderful sister-land, we concluded that in perspective we appreciate our own blessing, while admiration mounts simultaneously for the countless of nature others have to offer.

Quite unconsciously and with satisfying smugness we read just a tiny bit to our allotted span of knowledge.

Once upon a time we listened to a sceptical acquaintance of her sex make remarks in disparagement that the only reason most women went to big church weddings was to see what the gals were wearing or what they had. We replied indignantly — but let's skip that sentence! It is not that we are interested in what other women are doing, even in their hats. Mrs. Graham Bradshaw is also for her contribution to the N.Z. Brochure which she calls "Meet Your Hostess." Isn't that an enticing title? Mrs. Bradshaw's hats or weddings let's take a peek through the curtains of Mrs. Graham Bradshaw at our readers.

She tells us that the N.Z. women and "quite often visitors," say that they are the hardest working in the world. With lavish modesty we are reassured N.Z. "Such a sweeping statement clearly requires all manner of cautious qualifications." American newspapers and magazine N.Z. The same is asked, will assure the visitor that "the world" is not what he might even use the term "the misers," or "mum," but he will find on his visit to Auckland "he thinks the world of her." If the wife is asked who he has the will tell you her husband is boss, the family unit is strong.

T & T's drink water is getting cold so we must let the curtain fall on Mrs. Bradshaw's article but we may return for another look at our hostess. Our weekend thought might well be that as many labor saving devices as possible are encouraged and not more than most of her English sisters in N.Z. housewife's we are told has a trait which T & T blue Pacific.

"During the first thirty years after the completion of the Canal," writes Robert Legget in his book "Rideau Waterway" (University of Toronto Press), "the Rideau was maintained by the British army as a military enterprise."

Maintenance work was executed and lockmasters made their own nests.

Winter inspections were necessary and were maintained, though under many difficulties.

Now, Mr. Legget informs us, since the provincial government took over the responsibilities of the canal when it was offered as an outright gift, after 1853, the traffic of pleasure boats has grown steadily and today there is a staff of a hundred and twenty men or so.

The lockmaster and his assistants are extremely busy at the lock, whereas any one may "tell I find another boat down there to come through, I'll drop dead," declared one assistant in mock seriousness, though the enjoyment and delight was very evident. These are responsible men. Their ages vary, from the twenties to well past middle age.

This is one profession not invaded by women! At no time are the wives of these men seen about the locks. We wonder about these women, who live in the neat white frame houses, midst well cared for grassy, green surroundings. We spoke to one of them.

"My father was a lockmaster," one young wife told us. "I was born in this lockmaster's house and later (in my late teens) when a young assistant came to help him, we fell in love and were married and lived next door to the assistant's house. My husband was made lockmaster upon my father's retirement. Now we live in the lockmaster's house where I was born."

Though my husband is assistant lockmaster," another wife reasted, "little did I ever think this one day I should live at this very lock where, as a school girl, I came for the annual school picnic and played upon the very grass before my door, here.

"The year after I graduated from high school, I married a young farmer and lived on his family's farm with him, which was not far from the canal. During slack seasons my husband used to come and help out at the lock when it was busy.

"One hot August afternoon, a thunder storm suddenly blew up. We were in his kitchen having a cup of tea. There was a loud crack of thunder over head which made the telephone ring.

"That's a bad one," my husband observed. Just a little later, we smelled smoke as though something was burning. We threw open the kitchen door to find our barns were on fire."

"We rushed to let the cattle out, as well as the horses and pigs. Fortunately only seven chickens were burned. Well I remember the number, for they were my prize hens. Then we tried to get the fire department but the line was dead. It was a mile and a half to the nearest phone at a neighbor's house. We had to drive there, and in a short time the fire department came. They poured water on the barn for five hours. They were afraid of the house going, a nine-room frame.

"One of our neighbors said: 'I'll go home and milk our six cows and then I'll return and help.' For no more water on the barn. (For three weeks afterwards the barn smouldered and there'd be little flames flicker up out of the bottom.)

"So he went home and do you know? A small storm came up again and his barns were struck by lightning, and the fire department had to leave our place and go fight his blaze.

"Yes, we had some insurance on our place and when we got a chance to sell the land without barns — for it's hard to sell a farm without a barn, and we felt lucky to have the offer, we sold. But we kept four acres and the house. I raise and sell gladiolus, etc., and last year, my husband worked by the day from eight to five on the locks here.

"Then, he was offered the job for the summer. He asked me if I'd come and live here so he wouldn't have to have meal tickets. I didn't mind coming. I like to be near him. Though we live quietly, we live pleasantly and

GOOD MANNERS

THANK-YOU NOTES FOR MEMORIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My beloved brother passed on very recently, and in the obituaries my relatives decided to ask those who wished to, to send, in lieu of flowers, contributions to a Boys' Club in which he was deeply interested. Many donations were received, and the Secretary has written us, giving us a list of the donors, and saying that these donations have been acknowledged. Now the question has arisen in our family as to whether someone in the family should write notes of thanks for these contributions. I maintain that this isn't necessary, since the contributions have already been acknowledged by the Club. What is the right thing to do about this?

Reader.

The right procedure is for a member of the family to write a thank-you note to each person who sent a contribution in memory of your brother. Just as a small, informal wedding in the church to which we both belong, inviting the few guests verbally or by telephone. However, since we both have quite a few relatives, and many friends living in various places here and abroad, and since we both have many professional connections, we are planning to send many formal, engraved announcements of our marriage. Will you be so kind as to give us the correct form for these? Thank you so much.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychologist, a lawyer, three clergymen, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lucy C. — She threatens to tell my parents if I don't.

Carol S. — They might let her marry him.

Lucy C. — I recently made the mistake of telling my secrets to an older cousin who has just gotten married.

I am 16 and have been going out with Tom, 18, for the past two years. We have had relations, but I am sorry about it and have refused to go on that way with him. He says he is in love with me and wants to get married, but my parents don't like him and want to break us up.

I am all upset one day and told my cousin Carol everything and she threatens to tell my parents if I don't. My parents would kill me if they found out. Isn't Carol in the wrong?

Carol S. — I think that if Lucy's parents knew the whole story, they might be willing to let her marry this boy. After all, she might become wild now that she has been intimate with Tom.

Lucy's parents don't like Tom because he comes from a broken home and has peculiar ways. But he is a hard-working boy and he seems to really care for Carol. What he needs for her to marry him than someone who might find out about her and hold it against her for the rest of her life.

Lucy doesn't realize I'm just trying to help.

The Council: Carol may be right in trying to persuade Lucy to tell all to her parents, but we don't think she is right in threatening to go over the girl's head to reveal the confidences given to her.

It would be far better for Carol to suggest that Lucy go to some other older qualified person, if she has reason to be afraid of her parents. There is no doubt that Lucy needs the help of an understanding older person and in some cases a doctor or clergyman can fill the bill better than parents. Adolescents, however, are often mistaken about their parents' ability to face such problems.

Unfortunately, Carol is too young and confused herself to know what to do in such a case. She doesn't realize that a hasty, foolish marriage is not the escape to past errors, nor is it a guarantee of future good conduct. On the other hand, there is no reason for Lucy to "become wild" simply because she has unmarried until she...matures.

Lucy should realize that the future is in her own hands. She had just certain very fine possibilities because of her mistake, but she certainly hasn't closed the door on happiness and a decent life. She should not feel pressured into marrying Tom simply because she thinks there is no other way out of her problems.

Research Body Is Civil Service

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Research Council has objected vigorously to any move that might put the government research agency under the jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission.

"Canada is in fact one of the few countries which has recognized the fundamental fact that the control of a scientific organization must be in the hands of scientists," the council's annual report says.

The council says, in effect, that if NRC is placed under the commission it will be hamstrung by government red-tape and centralization. Nothing could be worse for a scientific organization than the "big organization" point of view.

WANT TO CONTROL STAFF

The Civil Service Commission last January recommended a gradual assimilation under its central authority of Crown agencies like NRC.

The commission said the rise of Crown agencies with staffs exempt from commission authority has produced many administrative and personnel difficulties in government service. Salaries, for example, were generally higher in such agencies than in corresponding jobs under commission jurisdiction.

The NRC report, signed by Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president, does not refer directly to the commission's recommendation.

POWERS DIFFERENT

However, it says that 'the National Research Council Act gives the council a number of powers not possessed by government departments. As a Crown corporation, NRC "is outside the civil service, has a governing body of independent, non - government scientists, can earn revenue and spend it ..."

"The status of the staff is due entirely to the control and selection being in the hands of an advisory council, a group of the most distinguished non - government scientists in Canada."

Your Car

Valves Suffer If You Neglect Oil or Filter

By EUGENE MILMOE

Any car owner who tries to save pennies by buying the cheapest grade oil or by taking one or two thousand miles more than he should from oil, filter or both is toying with trouble of the expensive variety.

Many times the valves are the first victims. They soon become dirty, sludgy, gummy. Symptoms may take the form of valve noise, pinging, stalling, power loss, rough idle, poor oil and gas mileage or even backfire. Eventually an engine repair job must be faced.

Fouling, of course, is not the only threat to valves. There may be weak or broken springs, loose guides, incorrect timing, insufficient clearance, burning, warping, pitting, etc. Service stations often find a vacuum gauge very useful for pinpointing the causes of poor valve operation.

G.N. writes: "My automatic transmission makes a can actually go forward when the shift is firmly in reverse. Does this make sense?"

(A) It does. This can occur when there's trouble in your rear clutches.

D.G. asks: "Does a car battery charge more quickly in summer than in winter, or is it only because the drain is less in warm weather?"

(A) Both. Battery strength is not only taxed more in winter, but the engine must run longer in winter before the battery begins to charge.

From E.R.: "How can I cure the occasional miss that occurs in my 1956 engine? I know a lot about cars but can't find anything wrong with the plugs, points, fuel pump, carburetor or ignition condenser. I've checked them all twice."

(A) You might also check for a weak or faulty coil, or defective ignition cable.

D. M. writes: "Is it possible for bugs, dirt and other leaves to cause overheating when they are stuck on the outside of the radiator? A mechanic said that it all he could find wrong with my engine."

(A) It certainly could be possible. A clogged-radiator exterior will block the flow needed for efficient cooling.

Housing Starts Below Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—An increase in the flow of direct federal mortgage loans in June was not sufficient to offset a drop in new housing construction, a report by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation indicates.

In a preliminary report covering centres of 5,000 population and over, CMHC said Thursday that new housing starts in June fell by 12.5 per cent to 11,312 from 12,923 a year earlier. There was a slight gain from the 11,158 homes started in May.

For the first half of the year construction starts were made on 45,231 homes compared with 52,882 in January-June last year.

Direct loans by the corporation in June were made for 3,166 units, compared with 2,905 a year earlier. However, National Housing Act lending from private lending sources declined.

The largest decline during June in new housing activity was in Ontario, where construction starts fell by 221 per cent from last year to 4,046.

Currants for the Home Garden

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Currants seem to have gone out of favor for home garden, but too long ago every kitchen garden had at least two, red, white and black currant bushes. Myrm other used the white currant uncooked with a cup of brown sugar sprinkled over it and fruit was chilled to be served with Devonshire cream, cookies and sour cream cookies which tasted faintly of nutmeg. There were rows of jars of red and black currant jelly and quarts of black currant juice to be used for a cooling summer drink and hot as a cure for winter colds. Since black currants are rich in vitamin C, no doubt they are just as good for us as citrus drinks.

A shrub border for the back garden might well be made up of currant bushes. The red and white are low growing, the black larger in spread and height. Currants are ornamental and provide a welcome variety of fruits. They can be used to separate the lawn from the vegetable garden or along the property lines.

GROW ON FENCE

The red and white varieties may be trained on a wire fence, a trellis, or against a wall as a cordon. They can also be grown on a standard or trunk of four feet high. If planted as cordons against a wall they may be planted close together and allowed to grow upward. They attain a height of six to eight feet. It does not matter which side of a wall they are planted on. Those on a north wall will ripen much later than currant planted on sunny walls.

When grown as bushes they should have a short leg or trunk this causes the branches to grow higher and avoids mud splashed fruit. Bushes should be five feet apart for red and white currant, black need eight feet between bushes as they grow to a large bushes and last many years.

Currants may be planted spring or fall as long as the bushes are dormant. Dig the soil deep and mix in a good quantity of humus such as peat moss, leaf mold or compost material. Include a cupful of balanced fertilizer well mixed in for each bush.

If the plants are two years old when you plant them cut back the branches about half way to an outside bud. You should aim for an open bush with six to eight branches. In future winter pruning shorten the leading shoots to six inches and cut back the laterals to within two inches of their base. Eventually little shortening will be needed but old branches should be cut out occasionally to allow new ones to take their place.

HOW TO SHORTEN

If cordons are being grown shorten the leader in the winter to a good bud and cut back the laterals to one inch or less. If the leader has made strong growth allow it to stay.

In summer the lateral growth might be shortened to five leaves to allow light and air to penetrate. In cordons treat the laterals in a similar manner but do not shorten the leader until the required height has been reached.

A winter mulch is especially beneficial to currants and it should put one ounce of sulphate of potash for each bush, well worked in. Apply this after the ground is frozen solid.

Red and white are subject to attack by eating green worms some seasons. At the first sign of the pest spray the bushes with arsenate of lead or Nicotine spray.

Black currants should be pruned after bearing is finished for the year. Branches which had borne fruit for three years should cut off at the ground and burned. Branches which have borer holes play host to fungus disease spores, which may spread to other plants. Black currants seldom are troubled with diseases or insects.

SENIOR "A" HOCKEY

The die is cast.

The new Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" league will operate with a five-team roster—with a slim chance that other aspirants for entry will have any success.

Cornwall reluctantly dropped out of contention, due, Manager Ray Miron said, to the lack of obtaining a suitable sponsor. That left Belleville McFarlands, Whitby Dunlops, Windsor Bulldogs, Kitchener Dutchmen and Chatham Maroons. And that, apparently, was what the boys wanted.

Far better, was the consensus, expressed by Whitby's "Wren Blair, "to have five strong teams, than five teams and a weak sister."

And there will be no sneaking in the back door by other clubs who want to get into the act. They must have at least seventy-five per cent of the league's backing before they enter.

That decision leaves the fate of the Kingston Merchants, who might be playing the OHA loop against the new Eastern Professional League, and the North Bay Trappers open to question.

That failure to pay the new famous $2,500 pool debut might prove to be the suicidal rope around the necks of the Kingston club. Their debtors are the Whitby Dunlops and the Belleville McFarlands, and three-fifths of anything is not 75 per cent, if our arithmetic is correct.

The Kingston Merchants, who stalled entry in the new Eastern Pro League at that leaky "closed meeting" the other day, have until August 1 to raise a wad of dough to satisfy the nice friendly pro clique who would like to adopt them. And there will be no stalling like there was in senior "A" circles. It is August 1—or get off the pot. It was noted at the meeting in Toronto last night that the Habs have no cancellation of their hospital exemption on gate receipts.

Mention of Kingston did not draw any enthusiasm from the meeting. In fact delegates appeared wary, and rather concentrated on consolidating what they had left.

They agreed on a club's maximum salary of $1,700 and a player's minimum of $75. "Still, that seems dead," said Whitby's Blair, "we've got a surplus of players. We must cut salaries."

With Kitchener in California and the Dunlops probably in Europe, drawing up the schedule will be no easy task. The clubs agreed on a season that would run from October 23 and closing February 28. Playoffs will begin March 1.

All agreed that financial success next season depended on a well-balanced league. With Whitby and Belleville saying they were satisfied with their present rosters, Chatham and Windsor stated they badly needed reinforcements.

With Cornwall given a year's leave of absence, its players will be distributed to other teams of the league. Belleville signed pat. Windsor grabbed Denis Boucher, Gerald Sevrin, Daryl McMillan and Diego Krust; Chatham took Marcel Goyette, Aggie Kukulowitz, Reg Grigg. Kitchener drew Ron Maki, Guy Henri and Don LaBelle; Whitby grabbed Ted Sydlowski, Ron Ingram and Bob Slaigley. As was said the McFarlands took nobody.

Past president Lorne Cook of Kingston and Lloyd Pollock of Windsor will act as joint conveners of the league. Cook will work out the details of the league pool. The next meeting of the league is scheduled for September 18.

Belleville fans will probably wonder why Denis Boucher, one of the nicest guys we ever met, was on the Cornwall roster. As subsequent events proved, Denis was merely "on loan" to the Maes.

All-in-all it looks like a neat, compact and eventually well balanced league, one which Belleville will provide hockey fans of the various centres with the best senior brand ever paraded.

Some fans will also wonder why the McFarlands stood pat on their roster — and did not pick up any Cornwall players. Press information cleared, we understand Ike Hildebrand and the executive have plans of their own regarding reinforcements to replace some of the "old pros" unavailable this year.

We like the set-up with a tear in the columnar eye over the departure of our ancient and honorable enemies from the Limestone City. There was always plenty of action between Belleville and Kingston clubs and we enjoyed the job of covering the battles and brawls. Oh, well, there's always another year.

Maintain Pace With Wins As Tigers Claw Caseymen; Braves Bounce, 'Bums' Lose

By ED WILKES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Johnny Antonelli had more trouble with the wind at Seals Stadium Friday night, but San Francisco Giants hustled six hitting Willie Mays off the beach and Sam Jones out of the ballpen for a 2½-game lead in the National League race.

It was Jim Davenport's two-out, 10th-inning single that gave the Giants a 6-5 victory over Chicago Cubs, but only after Mays, out of the lineup because of a sore neck, had come through with a pinch-hit single as San Francisco gained a 3-5 tie in the eighth. And it was Jones, an ace as a starter or in relief, who blanked the Cubs on one hit over the last two frames for his 14th victory.

Antonelli, still smarting from the rebuttal after blaming the Giants' wind-blown pals for two homers that beat him earlier in the week, got in trouble when the Cubs overtook a 2-0 Giant lead with three in the fifth, touched off by Bobby Thomson's home run.

Second place Los Angeles slipped with a 3-2 defeat by St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers now are just a game behind idle Milwaukee Braves, who rapped Pittsburgh 8-0 behind Juan Pizarro's seven-hitter. Cincinnati Reds defeated Cincinnati 2-1 on Carl Sawatski's two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth.

THIRD STRAIGHT WIN

A wind-aided Chicago Davenport's single after an intentional walk to Mays, added another game to the Giants' skein as they beat reliever Don Elston (5-3) for their third in a row.

The Cubs, losing home run king shortstop Ernie Banks, who was knocked out on the field in the first inning, had taken a 5-4 lead in the sixth on Earl Averill's two-run homer but the Giants then tied it when Thomson and Mays delivered pinch singles in the eighth ahead of a single by Jackie Brandt, who earlier had homered.

Southpaw Johnny Podres (8-7) lost his third in a row for the Dodgers after blanking the Cardinals on five hits until the eighth inning. Then four singles gave the Cards their only runs with Bill White's tying it 1-1 and Gino Cimoli's two-out hit beating his ex-mates. Harvey Haddix, Milwaukee's opening, hitless mopup saved it for Ernie Broglio (5-6).

Joe Adcock hit a two-run homer, his 16th, in the first for Braves' ace Warren Spahn, then added another RBI with a single in a four-run fifth against loser Harvey Haddix (7-8). Pizarro (3-1), the young Puerto Rican who earlier pitched a two-hit shutout against the Bucs, struck out 12, fanning Jerry Pirate Lynch once.

Rookie righthander Jay Hook (1-1) had the Phils shut out on five hits until the ninth, when he was relieved by Jim Owens after 8⅔ innings. Jim Owens (6-8) was the winner, blanking the Reds after Hook left in the eighth, when Eddie Kasko hit his first home run.

Pitching — Juan Pizarro, Milwaukee, struck out 12, fanning every man at least once, while giving up just four hits for 8-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

Leafs Split With Richmond; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It'll take more than a revolution to derail Buffalo's pennant-bound express.

The Bisons, winging toward their first International League flag-raising in 10 years, upped their lead to six games as lefthander Ken Lehman shut out second-place Miami 1-0 on five hits Friday night.

That dig did it despite a minor incident by the Cuban revolution.

Under new immigration regulations instituted by the Castro regime, Frank Herrera, the Bisons' big gun and the league-leader in home runs and RBI, was detained in Cuba so he could arrange a special permit required of citizens leaving the country.

SUB GETS JOB DONE

Herrera didn't reach Miami in time for the double-header opener with the runner-up Marlins. Jack Phillips substituted-at first base, doubled in the seventh inning and picked up a scoring the game's only run when catcher Jim Coker singled.

Third-place Montreal gained on Miami, hanging a 10-7 defeat on Columbus. Havana moved into the first division with a 4-2 triumph over Rochester. Toronto won the opener of a doubleheader with Richmond 5-4 and the Vees took the nightcap 8-5.

The Royals pounded four Columbus hurlers for 11 hits, winning with a six-run seventh inning. Sandy Amoros scattered to get the rally started and 10 more Royals marched to the plate before reliever Paul Giel finally clamped down.

HOT ON HOME FIELD

The Sugar Kings, winning their fifth in their last seven, broke a 1-1 tie with a three-run fifth. Consecutive singles by Jim Pendenas, winning pitcher Raul Sanchez, Elio Chacon and Ed Bouchee accounted for two runs. A balk scored Davalillo. The Red Wings' runs came on homers by George Wilson and Charles James.

George Susce pitched a two-hitter as the Maple Leafs won the nightcap with a three - run seventh inning. The Richmond rally came on a three-run homer.

In the nightcap, the Virginians' Jim Pendenas hit his 12th game with a seven-hitter backed by Davalillo's homer and Chris Boyer's three runs - batted - in. Archie Wilson homered for Toronto.

Wolves Get Soccer Focus With Season Few Weeks Off

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—With the opening of the 62nd English soccer season only a few weeks away attention is fastened on Wolverhampton Wanderers, if they win the league title next season, they will be their third straight championship.

Only two clubs in football history have achieved this distinction, Huddersfield Town in the 1920s and Arsenal in the 1930s.

The Wolves, as the Midlanders are known, won the league championship in fairly comfortable style the last two seasons. If they do it again this year, they will have achieved a distinction as rare as the league and Football Association Cup double, something no team has accomplished in the last 50 years.

TOUGH OBJECTIVE

In post-war soccer competition two clubs, aside from Wolves, have won the league championship twice but both failed in the third attempt. Both Portsmouth and Manchester United found the task was too great.

To win it this season will require the maximum of effort and a lot of luck. In addition to regular league and FA Cup matches, Wolves will be engaged in the European Cup competition, meeting the best European club winning sides in many countries.

Wolves' European experience has grown considerably in stature since its inception four years ago and generated much of the glory apart from financial reward. Manchester United has become one of the best-known clubs in Europe largely through participation in the European Cup competition.

STRONGEST CLUB

Will it be too tough for the Wolves? Opinion is divided. The Wolves are undoubtedly the strongest club side in England but in the last two years the first team has shown little change in personnel. Regulars like skipper Billy Wright, who has played 105 times for England, are getting older and no replacements have been bought on the transfer market.

However, the Wolves have an excellent farm system and have a habit of coming up with top-liners in times of trouble. Last season right winger Mickey Lill stepped out of the second team and performed so well some thought he could play for England.

One team that may bother Wolves is Arsenal, which finished third in the 22-team First Division last season. The London team is proud of being one of the two to win the title three times running and will be fighting to defend the distinction it shares with Huddersfield Town now in the Second Division.

'Hag and Hut' Best on Paper But Foemen Couldn't See It

By GEO. R. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Hard-boiled Haggerty and Dick Hutton, the Three-H Boys fans would shout like to see interwed, will be contingent, of course, on accomplishments. Versatile, that is.

They are experienced relay runners, you could tell that by the way they passed the baton between heats.

Both have the knowledge of football, as quarter-backing. You could tell that by the many "hand-offs".

They can wrestle, too — if they have to. But their specialties reek with mulldoggery. Hutton is an ex-world champion and Hard bolled, who is not averse to pours sour milk on his cereal every morning, is an experienced "crime buster".

He's the only guy extant who could make Perry Mason look a court case.

One of their most popular indoor sports is the paper - chase. They are champions at this, even to the point of superiority. Hard Bolled can hide a paper cup, reduced half-size, behind a tooth or a tonail with such ease he could convince a dentist it was a natural growth.

Hutton has a sleight-of-hand routine that would make Houdini look like the top crackman of Tickled Pink, Arizona.

They use the finest paper cups made. They have to be the right size and texture. The size is important since it must fit the eyeball of an opponent. It is used crosseyed on the victim in the looking through first one ear, then the other.

It wasn't too tough at that, on Yukon Eric, who teamed with huge Dave Cheatham in the first mayhemic maul last night. For Yukon has one ear, and his 240 pound weight was only fifty percent impaired after the first series of treatments.

It was a rough, tough battle. Over a ball ton of unrelenting hamburger on-the-hoof, threw muscle, mast and mayhem all over the lot. And last we forgot, the Brawl of the Beefies way added singles.

ended in a draw after each team won a fall and time interfered just as the Brie-Jonathan bleddigits were becoming properly focussed.

Joe Gollop, who looking like a pea rolling in and around a frickasinie futurama of pumpkins, has a massive job as Master. But Joe has a wholesome respect for his heath, got he takes the point kind of a course at the Collingwood Applied Printing, the pickpocket Joe would make a fine fan-dancer.

Perhaps it was a bit tough looking up, then trying to look down a pachydermian gullet for a massive paper cup with no advertising on it.

Anyway that's the way it ended. Hardbolled and Hutton were happy to have their hides, and Yuke and Don Lee fortunate they were not looking for a new wrestling partner in their noggins.

Pal Flanagan won over Howard Martin after eighteen minutes when the latter was unable to continue. Jack Stanley Steamboat from Hawaii defeated Ron Starratt in twenty minutes. Mr. Steamboat proved popular with the fans on his debut here.

Lacrosse

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Mercurians clinched first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series Friday night as they defeated Brantford Warriors 12-11.

The second-place Switzens lost their last mathematical hope of catching Mercurians.

Rock Bailey led Peterborough with four goals. Barry Teague, Frank Farley and Bob Allan netted three each. Lou Nicks a pair and Ted Harris and Carl Bristow one apiece.

Ron Roy had three for Switzens, while Jack Harris, Ted Howe scored two each and Frank Benedict and Scotty Callard one apiece.

Sportsmen Have Less Open Space

All too often we hear older men, hunters and fishermen of the many years standing, speaking nostalgically of the good old days. Speaking as one who hunted and fished in the good old days of 55 years ago, I can't see that we sportsmen and sportswomen (indeed a certain 25 years ago) are so much worse off in today's crowded conditions.

Admittedly, we do not have the latitude for our outdoor activities that we had. Conservation, however, we have more game in our hunting covers and more fish in our streams than we had 50 years ago. Such imports as the ring-neck pheasant and the brown trout have changed the outdoor picture a great deal.

As time goes on all of us are faced with the inescapable fact that our open spaces are not so open as they used to be. Through the influence of the automobile and incredibly good roads, more and more folks are realizing that they can work in the city and live in the country. Thus, acre after acre, most of which used to be good hunting land, is being taken over by suburban dwellings.

Consider for a moment the problem which now faces our conservation commissions. There able men do their utmost to provide for us the fish and game in our great outdoors. Nature no longer can be depended upon to supply the demand. But fish must have ample food and cover in which to swim, and game must have maple food and cover in order to survive. Gradually our great outdoors is shrinking.

OTHER USES FOR LAND

Each day, to meet present demands, 3,000 acres of land in the U.S. are being bulldozed under to make way for housing developments, shopping centres and highways. Multiply by 365 and you find that each year 1,095,000 acres are being removed from public use insofar as the outdoor sports are concerned.

Constant pressure is placed on highway commissions to provide roads for automobiles. Few people realize just how much land is involved in the construction of a modern, safe highway.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike, obsolete now according to modern standards, has a 200-foot right of way. Thus, it takes up about 25 acres of land to the mile. Ireland is proud, forever, so far as fish and game are concerned. Recently it planned (and construction has been started) a 41-mile interstate highway system.

Specifications for this highway call for approximately 50 acres of land to the mile. You figure it out and see how much acreage will be deducted from shrinking open spaces when this highway system is completed. And this acreage is permanently deducted, not reclaimable.

Meanwhile the population continues to increase. At present there are about 175 million people in the United States. Every nine months babies born, over the with the influx of immigrants, add to that total the equivalent to a city the size of Philadelphia or Minneapolis or San Diego.

At present there are 58 people for every square mile of land in the United States. By the year 2000 there will be at the present rate of increase, 70 people for every square mile. To accommodate these people means, of course, building more houses, shopping centres, manufacturing plants, and highways, all of which probably will take up more and more land.

STEPS BEING TAKEN

The authorities — State and Federal conservation agencies, legislatures, etc., are well aware of the problem facing them. Steps are being taken. Boat launching sites are being acquired, new parks are being established, wildlife sanctuaries are being set aside, pollution control laws have been with some teeth in them so that streams flow clear and pure.

So, despite the somewhat dismal outlook, there will be waters in which we can fish and land on which we can hunt. And, as new techniques are being developed by biologists so that maximum use can be had from the land and water which remains available to us.

For a great many years there has been little or no open hunting or fishing in Great Britain and on the Continent countries. There the outdoor sports can be indulged in only through arrangements with the property owners. It is doubtful that we ever will come down to that situation in this country but there is always the possibility. Best take the dim view and make your plans accordingly.

But the quality of the fishing and shooting that we can expect to enjoy 50 years from now will be a good deal better than it is today and certainly better than it was 50 years ago. Our fish and game technicians will see to that. Admittedly, procedures, laws and regulations will change, but the results will, in all probability, improve.

On thinking it over, I can't find it in my heart to think too long-ago of the good-old-hunting-and-fishing days. I'm having a right good time now, in the good old days, and there is every reason to believe that the newer days of the future will be equally pleasant.

How About Hula Gals in The Backfield

VANCOUVER (CP)—Don McPherson of Regina, president of the Canadian Football League, said Friday night he will have informal talks shortly with a Hawaiian football official.

There were reports the talks would concern a Hawaiian entry in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

McPherson said he had been asked by R. J. Bricker, a car dealer and general manager of the semi-pro Hawaiian Warriors, for an informal meeting.

"I don't know what he wants to discuss," McPherson said in an interview. "Maybe it's exhibition games with the WIFU or just the good of football."

Al Pollard, sports director of radio station CKLG, said he learned Bricker will ask McPherson about the possibility of Hawaii getting a WIFU entry.

The proposed entry, Pollard said, would be built around the present Warriors, with a few Canadians added. The Hawaiian club probably would guarantee travelling expenses to WIFU teams flying to the island for games.

Bricker could not be reached for comment.

Here's News Big Trout Baits Anglers

ALLISTON (CP)—Here's an authenticated story about that big one that's always getting away.

A large brown trout has been outwitting anglers for two years in a pool on the Boyne River in Tecumseth Township just west of this town 35 miles north of Toronto.

J. S. Ellis, senior conservation officer in the area, says scores of anglers know of the trout's hideout but no one has been able to land it. Evidence of the fish's size range from 12 to 20 pounds "depending on the state of excitement the fisherman is in when it breaks water," Mr. Ellis says.

Last season the whopper was hooked three times but broke away. One angler played it for 400 yards along the river and got it into his landing net. But the netting broke as he was about to lift it from the water.

The fish has provided little action this year but records by two skin divers went into the pool and saw the big brown feeding. They said it followed them around for a time before retreating into the mass of roots surrounding its lair.

The divers got a bonus for their trip—all artificial spinning lures picked off the roots.

Mr. Ellis says the big trout's favorite trick is to jump near bathers who invariably go away goozle-eyed with exaggerated reports of its size.

Aussie Youths Waltz Away With Cup Singles Matches

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Australia said, "We knew Lavér would be is virtually certain of knocking tough but I really did not think the ball out of North America today in the Davis Cup finals.

Driving both way, Australia's capital city hospitals, gained a 4-1 Wimbledon championship double stain to face Canada today after his two singles players swept their matches Friday as expected.

Unexpected was the brilliant play of Young Bod (Rodney) Laver, the redhanded ace who showed speed, control, strength and determination in beating Canada's 37-year-old champion Jack Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Marlier Roy Emerson, 32, had quickly disposed of Toronto's 23-year-old Don Fontana 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 in the opening match.

FRASER TO PLAY

Today Neale Fraser, 25, and Emerson are to play Bedard and Fontana in the doubles.

Fraser and Emerson beat Laver and Bob Mark, 21, the other playing member of the Australia team, in the recent Wimbledon doubles final.

Mopman had nothing but praise for the 30-year-old Laver.

"Frankly I had thought Bedard would win at least one set and my cass Bedard played very well, said Emerson.

Canadian captain Lorne Main said he would be the best one of the world's great."

Main said he thought Bedard had done well and but for a few bad breaks in the first set "might have surprised everyone."

UNABLE TO CLINCH GAME

Beard broke Lavér's service and had a 2-0 lead, the first time Canada had been ahead, but Laver recovered rstinly and started. Bedard carried Laver's service into deuce four times but the speedy Australian held strongthe rest of the way. In one game Bedard held the game point five times and was frustrated by Laver's returns.

Emerson and Fontana both got off to shaky starts, apparently unable to adjust to the fiery cross-wind and the rough, tricky turf of Mount Royal Tennis Club.

Until the sixth game of each two points were made on errors. Emerson made one placement in the third and another in the fifth game.

Emerson rushed to the net and kept Fontana under control throughout.

Friday's two singles matches will likely be played strictly for the record and rankings points will play.

The winner of this tie meets Cuba here next weekend.

Leonard Fires 6-Under-Par Has 5-Stroke Lead on Field

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HULL, Que. (CP)—Stan Leonard must love the Rivermead Golf Club course.

The machine - like Vancouver veteran practically put his seventh Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship on his well-stocked trophy shelf Friday with six-under-par 66 that gave him a five-stroke lead on the record pace of 136 after a 36-hole total of 67-66—133.

The last round of the three-day 54-hole championship, worth $8,-725—with $1,000 to the winner, starts at 10:30 a.m. EDT today.

THREE IN A ROW

It was the third consecutive subpar round for Leonard, 45, on Rivermead's par-72 layout. He warmed up with a practice game on the course Monday.

The man with the best chance of catching him today was veteran Doyle Conner, Atlanta, British-born professional at the Royal Ottawa club since 1954. Wakeham, 61 years old, was one of two players turning in 68s on opening day. He had an up-and-down 72 Friday. That gave him 138—three strokes better than Hal Sutherlier of Oshawa, all alone with a 71-70—141.

Tied second at 142 were eight players including Al Balding, Markham:

Defending champion Henry Martell of Edmonton has 73-73—146.

Balding carded another 71 Friday and faced the possibility of making his CPGA championship record of 204 eclipsed by Leonard if the Vancouver player turns in a better 68.

Leonard now has played 36 holes and has gone over par on only one of them. His practice 64 lowered the unofficial course record by two strokes, and both his tournament scores have dropped the competition on which Hal stood at 69.

Grouped in a tie for fourth place at 142, in addition to Balding, were eight players including Bill Kozak of Minneapolis, Ont., and Larry Edwards of Lakeview. Bob Dean of Cornwall was not far off the pace with 146.

Leonard, who had six birdies said putting was "the whole key. If your putting goes sour, you're through."

Wakelam, a First World War British navy veteran, has clinched his fourth CPGA seniors title.

Lions, Stamps Play in East Next Week

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two western clubs head east next Tuesday for the first of a round of pre-season mid-week exhibition football games that give the fans their annual taste of national football other than the Grey Cup classic.

In Montreal Tuesday it will be Calgary Stampeders and already beaten twice by the Edmonton Eskimos, against the untested Alouettes.

The only battle of an eastern team with Edmonton Eskimos, who have scored 15-10 and 23-7 victories over Calgary, is in Ottawa Wednesday when it meets Ottawa Rough Riders.

CARDS MEET ARGOS

Aug. 2—Winnipeg at Montreal.

Aug. 3—Ottawa at Vancouver; Hamilton at Winnipeg.

Canada's Aquatic Athletes Seem Only Ones on Upgrade

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRANTFORD (CP) — You've got to hand it to the swimmers.

They are the only Canadian athletes to show a noticeable improvement in international competition since the days of Percy Williams.

While track and field hopefuls are floundering around in times that stamp them as also-rans in any competition outside of Canada, the swimmers are making gallant bids to stay up with the rest of the world.

The aquatic boys and girls still have a long way to go to make serious passes at the world's top stars, but they are gradually closing the gap.

About 70 of the country's best swimmers have been fighting for places on the 24-member swimming and-diving team to the Commonwealth Games at Chicago Aug. 27 to Sept. 7. It took them just 24 hours to erase six Canadian records — three Thursday and another three Friday night.

Monday Lynn Vanderburgh, just 16, holds two of the new marks, a 2:36.6 clocking in the 220-yard breast stroke Fri. night and 1:15.1 in the 110-yard distance for the same stroke on Thursday.

Janice Shepp, a young Windsor girl who was a comparative unknown, swam to a record in the 440-yard free style Friday night. Larry ready to pitch every time the Tigers meet New York this season.

"He holds them back, that's what he does," said Stengel. "He had that Mossi back a whole week just so he could pitch against us."

Dykes had a sharp reply waiting for the grizzled Yankee manager.

"I've been called a lot of things since they don't know Dykes of being stupid too often. I'd be crazy not to use Mossi and Larry."

Mossi beat the Yankees 4-2 Friday night and has stopped the Yanks seven straight times.

Larry, whose 19-5 lifetime mark against New York is the best of any active pitcher, has beaten the defending world champions three times without a loss this year.

Come, Come Mr. Stengel Act Your Age!

DETROIT (AP)—Casey Stengel was in a talkative mood Friday because the Detroit Tiger boss manages to have Don Mossi ready to pitch every time the Tigers meet New York Yankees.

"He holds them back, that's what he does," said Stengel. "He had that Mossi back a whole week just so he could pitch against us."

Dykes had a sharp reply waiting for the grizzled Yankee manager.

Royals May Enter A.H.L. Next Season

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Selke said Friday that the application of Montreal Royals for a franchise in the American Hockey League for the 1960-61 season still stands.

The managing director of the Canadian Arena Company and of Canadiens of the National Hockey League said in a prepared statement that the application, recently rejected for the coming season, has not been withdrawn.

Selke quoted from a telegram sent by AHL president Richard F. Canning saying the AHL stands ready to work out details incident to the Royals' admission beginning with the 1960-61 season.

Royals and Quebec Aces both applied for admission to the AHL. After they were turned down, the Quebec Hockey League went out of existence and Royals entered a newly organized league—the Eastern Professional Hockey League. Quebec Aces did not enter.

The Big Hero Of This Was the Ump

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Fidel Castro put on a baseball uniform Friday night and pitched one inning of a game to benefit agrarian reform. With the support of the plate umpire he was sensational.

A roaring crowd of more than 25,000 in Gran Stadium watched the rebel chieftain, hurling for an army team, retire the opposing police team in order.

It was the first time in more than two years Castro has appeared in public wearing a uniform other than his military one.

Throwing a few curves, but depending mostly on a straight pitch, Castro was wild. However, of the three batters facing him, only one managed to get wood on the ball.

Castro "struck out" two with umpire Amado Maestri's help.

On the first batter the count ran to 3-2 and the rebel chief came in with a high, hard one over the batter's head.

The crowd moaned, then cheered when the umpire called it a strike. Castro ambled to the plate and shook the umpire's hand.

Castro had been billed to pitch at least three innings but after the first was called with no score after his one turn on the mound and at bat, since it was time for the regular International League game between Havana and Rochester.

In his turn at bat Castro hit a liner to short but it was an easy out.

Canada Outdoors

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Firmer measures to save the Barrens caribou are being studied.

By agreement with Saskatchewan and Manitoba, it may lead to sharp restrictions on what northern natives can do with the meat of the animal that has been a source both of food and shelter for thousands of years.

Authorities estimate the Barrens caribou now is down to about 200,000 head, compared with perhaps 700,000 about 10 years ago and as many as 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 before the rifle began to cut great inroads into the migrating herds.

There have been some estimates that the animals may have numbered 30,000,000 at one time but scientists here discount such figures.

FOUR TYPES

The Barrens caribou is the most abundant of four types. There are the woodland and the mountain species, the latter showing around the Mackenzie River delta in the northwestern Arctic and linking up with the Alaska herds.

In the far north, in the Arctic archipelago, there is another smaller than called the Peary caribou.

Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said recently in the Commons that something has to be done fast.

The only sign of hope is a recent consecutive good calf year. A survey report just received by the Canadian Wildlife Service indicates that calves constitute more than 20 per cent of the animals that left Manitoba and Saskatchewan this year to migrate north about breakup time. But the danger is that the number of calf - producing adults is sliding lower all the time.

WOLVES TAKE TOLL

Extensive field work has shown that wolves traveling with the herds take a tremendous toll of the migrating caribou. A wolf extermination program may have helped.

There has been no visible sign of disease among the caribou and most of the decline is attributed to indiscriminate slaughter by Indians and Eskimos using powerful modern rifles.

Right now, the Indian affairs branch of the citizenship department is considering preliminary steps to control the taking of caribou by treaty Indians, who so far have been under no form of restriction.

In the Northwest Territories, Indians and Eskimos have been encouraged not to use the caribou for dog food. However, a ban on human consumption of caribou meat is considered too drastic a measure in view of the value of the caribou as a source of food.

It was only within the last few years that Saskatchewan and Manitoba stopped the sports shooting of caribou.

WINS LEFTY TITLE

TORONTO (CP)—Ken Thorpe of the Whitevale Golf and Country Club won the Ontario Golf Association's first southpaw championship at Islington Golf Club Friday with an 18-hole score of 71, five over par.

Although many television troubles originate within the set —here is an easy way to determine if the antenna is causing faulty reception.

Check each channel for quality of reception. "Ghosts", "venetian blinds" or weak, fuzzy reception may indicate the need for a newer, more powerful type of aerial.

Reception trouble which begin in the antenna system requires experience and training to correct. Richard Long's Luck Changes After Years of Bad Breaks

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Long, who has had more than his share of bad breaks, is getting a good one—as star of one of TV's promising shows for the fall.

Dick attended a bad actor, then had his career disrupted by military service. His first marriage to Suzan Ball ended with her death by cancer. His second marriage to Mara Corday has had its stormy seasons, though it appears calm at present.

His career never seemed to spark, possibly because he is handsome, clean - cut, well-groomed and not the least neurotic.

"When I was under contract to Universal-International, I could not seem to get any kind of role but the boy next door or Madison Avenue type," he recalled.

But his luck has changed since leaving the studio. He made a good impression as a suave gambler on the Maverick series. This led to his selection as lead in the new Warners whodunit, Bourbon Street Beat. He and Andrew Duggan play partners in a New Orleans detective agency.

"But it's a different kind of locale", Dick pointed out. "We don't have to find a dead body in each chapter. There are many kinds of possibilities in the territory, even finding buried treasure.

Bourbon Street Beat will be the centre of ABC's powerhouse trio aimed at dominance of Monday nights. It will be preceded by a western, Cheyenne, and followed by the South Sea series, Adventures in Paradise.

"But they won't help us much," Dick said. "It has been proved that they don't automatically inherit much of an audience. It's too easy to switch the dial. And we're up against such shows as Peter Gunn.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Planning to Move at Retirement? Here's Suggestion That May Help

By THOMAS COLLINS

Here, from a woman, is a letter that holds some interesting possibilities for your retirement:

"I have been a widow for over five years and have lived alone most of that time. Now I would like to have some nice, refined people to share my home — maybe a retired couple, maybe a retired widow like myself.

"I have a nice, large modern house. It has large porches to enjoy during the warm months. It has good shade and lots of flowers. I have every reason to believe that a retired people would like living here.

"This is a small, progressive town, not far from Richmond, Va. There are five churches here.

"Can you tell me where I might get in touch with people of retirement age who would be interested?"

I can't give her that information, except to suggest that she place want ads in newspapers in the cities. But here I think I can pass on some information on this matter to you who read this.

About eight or ten letters which read much as this one come to me every week. Invariably they are from "nice, refined" women in small towns who are not landladies. Usually they come from the South.

CUT COSTS TOO

In the letter above, I presume, the woman would offer a retired couple a private room and bath, use of the kitchen and half of refrigerator and the run of the house and yard. The cost, in all probability, would be about half of what comparable housing would cost in the city.

But that is not the point. The point is that you would be renting — along with the house — an introduction to the best people in town under the auspices of a refined, Christian woman who has lived there many years. You would telescope the months of loneliness and ignorance that are usually the lot of those who move after retirement into a new town.

Conceding that you are reasonable and good people, you would be on speaking terms with most citizens in town in a few months — and in the person of the widow you would have a talking encyclopedia on the community sitting in the living room.

If you are retiring with a fair income you might not be content to share somebody else's house indefinitely. But in buying your own home, or perhaps buying a small business in the town, you could have no better jumping-off spot than the home of a well-established and respected citizen.

PICK A TOWN

How would you find such a home? There are no rules. It would be best perhaps to first pick out the town you would like, then go talk to the pastor of a church. You might also inquire among members of the local chapter of any civic or fraternal group to which you belong — such as Rotary or Kiwanis. A want ad in the local newspaper might work. Real estate agents do not always handle these deals.

A few years ago, a man who had worked at the Chicago stockyards until his retirement moved with his wife to a small town near the Albama-Georgia border. They moved into the home of a well-known widow in town, got their bearings over the next six months, then gave the word that they wanted to buy a small farm at the edge of town.

They were comfortably fixed when they were, and waited until what they wanted came along. Capitalizing on the career a' the stockyards they went into business as livestock buyers, and the last time I saw them — about a year ago — they were busy, making some money and calling everybody in the county by their first names.

30,000 SEE QUEEN ON TRENTON VISIT

Queen Telephones Her Family in England; Church Service Only Public Engagement

PORT HOPE (CP)—The Queen telephoned her family in England and Prince Philip romped in a swimming pool at Batterwood House Sunday as they relaxed in restful seclusion on the second holiday of their tour.

A trip to old St. Mark's Anglican Church for Sunday services was the only public engagement of the day.

Afterwards they had a quiet buffet luncheon and took it easy at Governor-General Massey's red-brick home built in 1931 from the Lake Ontario community of Cobourg.

During the afternoon, the Queen spoke by long distance telephone to Prince Charles and Princess Anne and Queen Mother Elizabeth, the presumption was based in on such news as a London newspaper's report that Anne had undergone an examination which indicated she may need glasses.

SWIMMING PARTY

Meanwhile, Philip went for a swim in the hedge-hidden swimming pool on the estate with the Governor - General's son Lionel and his three daughters, Jane, 10, Evva, 8, and Susan, 7.

Later the royal couple went for a walk through the gardens of Batterwood, wandering along a maze of paths, through its courtyard and formal rose garden.

Today there was more of the same. Not a single public engagement was scheduled, a contrast to the normally-heavy program of the 6-day tour. They leave Tuesday at 10 a.m. by the Comet for Fredericton, where they begin the last five days of their Canadian visit.

The holiday, which began Saturday night when the royal couple reached Batterwood after a 45-mile drive from Trenton was at their plans leaded after a trip from Goldenrod, a high point of the tour. They rested for several days while in British Columbia.

The Queen also had to attend a forced holiday at Whitehorse when she became ill. She appeared tired on her arrival at Batterwood, and also looked a little weary while attending church services Sunday, suggesting that perhaps the respite there is a necessary one.

The private service decor of 137-year-old St. Mark's Church, nestled among the trees on top of Port Hope's Protestant Hill, fitted the informality of the occasion.

The Queen wore a tangerine green and white silk print dress with closely fitted white organza hat.

Philip read the New Testament lesson, Philippians III, verses 7-21, upon which Rev. C. E. Moffatt, the rector, based his sermon. Mr. Massey, a regular attendant at the church, read the lesson from the Old Testament, I Kings 17.

1,000 OUTSIDE CHURCH

Some 300 members and guests of the church filled St. Mark's and more than 1,000 others sat or stood outside, listening to the service over public address systems. Mr. Moffatt urged his listeners to follow the example of St. Paul in recognizing that all accomplishments spring from God.

"You have not chosen God; God has chosen you," he said.

"The greatest danger in the world is not wickedness. The greatest danger is pure Godless piety."

After the services the royal couple were driven through the streets of Port Hope, lined with a crowd police estimated at 25,000 to Batterwood.

MOTORCADE FROM TRENTON

The royal party flew from Sudbury to Trenton Saturday afternoon. After official greetings at Trenton, the royal couple motored through Trenton, Brighton, Colborne, Grafton, Cobourg and Port Hope to Batterwood. Thousands lined the route, and the motorcade slowed to 10 miles an hour through each community.

SNAKE BITE FATAL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Rev. Earl Kennedy, 34, a Methodist minister of a denomination which practises snake handling, died Saturday of a rattlesnake bite. Relatives said Kennedy, minister of a church at Jasper, Ala., died within a number of times before without ill effects.

Residents of Gaspe Village Told to Flee Forest Fire

ST. BERNARD DES LACS, Que. (CP)—The entire population of this small Gaspe village today was ordered to abandon their homes in the face of a raging forest fire.

The order to evacuate the town was given after the flames destroyed four or five farm buildings on the outskirts of the remote community, 350 miles southeast of Quebec in the Matane-Gaspe Peninsula.

It was not immediately known how many people or homes were threatened by the blaze. No injuries or deaths were reported.

The provincial department of lands and forests has provided a number of trucks so that the village's car owners can move some of their belongings out of the danger area.

The forest fire started last week near the tip of this vast and rugged St. Lawrence Gulf finger-sula and tore into the little town of St. Joseph des Monts, near here. The flames ripped through about a dozen homes, several farm buildings and the town chapel before veering away into open forest stands.

More than 250 men were battling the fire in an attempt to halt its progress.

Would Welcome Showdown With Israel, Nasser Asserts

CAIRO (CP)—President Nasser said a showdown battle with Israel that Arab armies would erase Israel from the map if Israel attacked Egypt.

The United Arab Republic president spoke at a rally in the Mediterranean port city of Alexandria. In a briefing, confident speech, Nasser said he wanted to reply to what he called menacing statements by Mosha Dayan, former Israeli chief of staff.

"If Dayan is talking about a battle we accept this challenge," Nasser said. "All Arabs want a showdown battle to wipe out the crime of 1948" was reference to the creation of Israel.

"When they (Israel) attacked us in 1956 our orders were not to strike at cities, but in the next battle, Nasser said, Israel."

Nasser declared.

He said Dayan was talking "impolitely" about a new invasion. "We await them and anybody else who may harm us," said Nasser.

He cited the U.A.R.'s new industrialization program as benefits for which the people of the U.A.R. soon will produce its own armored cars, tanks and planes.

"The industrial revolution in our country is now tightening around Israel's neck," he added.

Nasser was speaking at a ceremony commemorating Egypt's nationalization of the Suez Canal July 26, 1956. Egypt and Syria formed into the U.A.R. in February, 1958.

The U.A.R. today put its naval strength at Alexandria, where Nasser reviewed the fleet, to wind up the celebrations.

Israeli forces have a list of the Egyptian Sinai Peninsula Oct. 29, 1956, in the Anglo-French paratroopers struck the Canal Zone in the Anglo-French intervention.

Since the 1956 dispute, Egypt has closed the Suez Canal to Israeli ships and ships carrying Israeli cargo. The Danish freighter Inge Toft, carrying a cargo of Israeli potash, cement and marble, has been detained in port since last May.

Dayan urged last week that Israel meet Egypt "hostility for hostility."

Dayan, in an article in the Jerusalem Post, Dayan said:

"I do not know we can obtain any concessions from Egypt by peaceful means. But Egypt should know that as long as she maintains this policy of hostility against us, we shall seek and find the right time and occasion to settle her."

But Dayan, cautioned:

"I do not mean we should provoke and create difficulties as an excuse. This must not be done. But if war is forced upon us, then the test of practical policy will be the peace and its overriding importance to economic."

Dayan quit the army to enter politics and now is leader of a large group of so-called "angry young men" in Premier David Ben - Gurion's Socialist Mapai party.

Nickel Company Bars Press as Queen Visits

SUDBURY (CP) — Officials of the International Nickel Company Saturday barred some press representatives from watching some of the Queen's activities at the company's Frood mine here.

No reporters were permitted to descend into the mine with the Queen because, company officials said, a safety factor was involved.

However, only six photographers and two reporters were allowed on the company premises to see the Queen enter the cage to go down the mine and later to walk through the hoist room.

The reason given by the company was that there was not enough room for the national press corps. There are about 50 in this group.

However, there was more than enough room for all press representatives and Robert Dunn, deputy informational officer of the tour, persuaded the company to change its stand. This was in time to permit all photographers to take pictures of the Queen leaving the cage after 27 minutes underground.

Only the photographers and two reporters, however, were permitted into the hoist room to see the Queen walk outside the building when others tried to force their way past company police.

The Queen was unaware of the incident, which did not involve in any way the RCMP, provincial or city police.

What's in Name and 3 Asterisks? All of Space and Its Astro Risks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here's a sporting tip for any Martian spies that may be lurking around:

Take a look at page 250 of Space Propulsion, a transcript of hearings put out recently by the House of Representatives committee on science and astronautics.

Oh, it's censored all right; enough to be incomprehensible to the layman. But the close reader will find something in—a name and three asterisks on each line, and there are lots of lines. And who knows that cold, alien intelligence might be able to do with what's left?

Chairman Overton Brooks starts the exchange by asking Dr. Robert L. Stroup, "what is the extent of the research and development program of the United Aircraft Corporation?"

As printed, Dr. Stroup's reply is "."

The transcript continues:

"The chairman . . .

"Dr. Stroup! . . .

And it goes on like that for 72 more lines; a name and three asterisks to each line.

Or you might want to tackle Dr. Stroup's original prepared statement, as published by the committee:

"Statement of Dr. Robert L. Stroup, project engineer, Canel, United Aircraft Corporation.

"Dr. Stroup . . .

"The chairman . . .

"Dr. Sheldon (Charles S. Sheldon II, committee technical director) . . .

"Dr. Stroup . . .

"The chairman: Thank you very much doctor."

CASTRO 'BOWS' TO PEOPLE'S WILL, NAMED PREMIER

Crowd of a Million Cheers His Address

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro was swept back into the Cuban premiership Sunday night by an enormous popular demonstration he had called for the purpose.

The spectacular crowd estimated at nearly 1,000,000 cheered wildly as he told them he would bow to "the will of the people" and resume office.

The sea of humanity sent up reverberating cheers as Castro, by telephone, called off cities in the United States.

The 32-year - old revolutionary leader asserted that Cuba is not a protectorate or colony of any other country but a free sovereign nation and "we have to account to no one."

Castro said Cuba wants to be friends with all nations ,but cannot be white with "who offend us, who insult us and who exploit us" or with any vested interest which tries to impose itself on the destiny of our people."

REDS NOT MENTIONED

In 2½ hours of talk, Castro did not mention communism. He referred to it only obliquely, when hitting at his critics, but apparently did not feel it necessary to deny charges that he is helping the Reds influence his government.

Uptown Havana's vast Civica Plaza was packed with the shouting, cheering throng. Castro told it emotionally that from now on the "symbol of democracy will be the machete"—the long, sharp knife used for cutting sugar cane.

The announcement provoked furious response during which some 400,000 counter-demonstrators—brought from the provinces by a series of free excursions—clashed machetes together in unison to add to the general uproar.

Castro whipped up another ovation when he added that if his enemies should ever think of coming back to Cuba, "let them contemplate for just about five minutes those machetes."

HE'LL RESIGN AGAIN

Castro made it clear that such mammoth demonstrations will be

U.S., Britain Policy Rift Rumored at Geneva Parley

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Big Four foreign ministers resumed top-level discussions on Germany today amid reports of a policy rift between the United States and Britain.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was entertaining Russia's Andrei Gromyko at a private lunch and later was giving a "working dinner" with all foreign ministers attending.

Lloyd returned here Sunday night from talks with Prime Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in Paris and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn.

The British foreign secretary was reported trying to convince Herter and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville that enough progress has been made since he warned a summit meeting. The United States and France were holding out for some settlement of the Berlin-Germany dispute over Berlin before any heads-of-government conference.

The main conference stumbling block was Gromyko's insistence on linking an interim Berlin agreement with the establishment of an all-German committee to negotiate on German reunification.

Gromyko backed down slightly last week on his demand that the two Germanys be given a veto but still did not completely break his ties between the two proposals.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Mr. Alton. "It was a massacre."

Witnesses said the fog had reduced visibility at times to about 100 yards.

Peter Kushner, 34, of Hamilton driver of a truck which collided head-on with the car on fog-shrouded Highway 6 Sunday, escaped only bruises. Wayne Shropshall, 20, of Harperville, Ont., a passenger in Kushner's truck, was uninjured.

Says Russia Has Fewer Than Ten ICBM's in Stock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Sunday that Russia has fewer than 10 intercontinental range missiles capable of hitting the United States.

McElroy said during a television interview that U.S. defence officials believe the U.S. space weapons system "could more than offset" any advantage the Russians will have in intercontinental ballistic missile capability."

Small Plane Takes off by Self Flies 2½ Hours With Nobody in It

MONTREAL (CP) — A small, private plane had authorities scrambling for 2½ hours Sunday. The trouble was its pilot stayed on the ground, but the plane didn't.

The two-seater craft was being warmed up by Rene Laliberte near St. Hyacinthe, 30 miles southeast of Montreal, when it took off on its own, skimming rooftops before climbing.

It headed eastward at 4,000 feet and a cruising RCAF CF-100 was ordered to intercept it. A decision was delayed by a search for all other craft in the area.

Returns Tuesday After Two Days At Massey's Home

Jet Lands at 6.20 p.m.; Crowds Line Streets

By ALTON GEORGESON

TRENTON — An estimated 25,000 (p to 30,000 persons lined the route from Trenton Air Station to Fourth Avenue, on the western outskirts of the town, Saturday afternoon to see the Queen and Prince Philip arrive by on their way to Batterwood House, Governor-General Massey's Port Hope home, where they are enjoying a two-day rest.

Police Chief Jack Taylor, who drove the leading vehicle through the town, stated that in some places the crowd was so thick that it barely left room for the cars to get through. The chief said that the car he was driving never went over the speed of 8 m.p.h and at some times it was only travelling five m.p.h.

The Queen arrived by air from Sudbury at the Trenton Air Station in a huge Comet Jet airliner, which touched down at exactly 6.20 p.m. On leaving the plane the Queen and Prince Philip were introduced to Air Vice Marshal and Mrs. J. G. Bryan by Group Captain and Mrs. D. J. Williams and Mayor and Mrs. Ross Burns. Immediately after getting off the jet the Queen was in her car and on the way to Batterwood.

SLOW DOWN IN TOWNS

After leaving Trenton, the Royal Party slowed down to 10 m.p.h. in Brighton, Colborne, Cobourg and Port Hope. In these towns police travelling with the party said crowds were more turned out to see the Royal couple.

They also report that many children were noted at road intersections along the way and at railway level crossings where the cars automatically slowed down for safety reasons.

Throughout the Queen and the Prince will return to the Trenton air station where they will board the Comet for a flight to Fredericton, New Brunswick.

Belleville-Picton Highway Relocation Work Starts

Visits City First Time In 70 Years

Joseph O. Reid of Vancouver left here this morning for Quebec City, New York and Washington, after visiting this city and his old home district of Ivanhoe, for the first time in seventy years.

It was in 1889 that Hiram and Margaret Reid left Ivanhoe with their children to homestead at Griswold, Man. Then in his earliest teens, Joseph O. Reid was one of the children. He resided at Griswold until four years ago, when he moved to Vancouver, his wife by whom he was accompanied by his son, Laurens Reid of Vancouver, Ubbie his father, Mr. Laurens Reid who has been a frequent visitor here, particularly during the time when he served in the Navy during the Second Great War.

Mr. Joseph Reid and his son visited the former's brother, German Reid, 194 James Street, for the past three days. The brothers had not met for forty years. This morning they left to continue what Laurens Reid describes as "the grand tour", after having already crossed the continent.

"At 85, father is years younger than I am", laughingly said Reid, as he prepared to drive east.

The north end of the Belleville - Picton highway will take on a new and improved appearance within the next few months as a program of improvements now underway is brought to completion.

The highway contract recently commenced by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Belleville involves the complete relocation of the highway route for a distance of approximately 1½ miles south of Belleville.

Mainly the work will eliminate the many sharp turns and curves now part of the highway route and with the exception of about three or four long turns the new highway route will be practically straight from the Bay Bridge to Crofton.

Amount of the contract which includes provision for widening and re-surfacing as well as the new grade is approximately $700,000 and weather permitting is to be completed by next June 30th.

It is understood that the paving contract to be tendered later this fall will call for 24 foot roadway.

Two big items in the highway contract are the elimination of the dangerous Bay Bridge hill and crossing of the big marsh, part of Prinyer's Island.

At the Bay Bridge the new highway route will sweep south of the hill and The Tatlock Company premises and will cross No. 14 south of Rossmore. The route will then continue southwest across the big marsh and will rejoin the present highway near Barber's greenhouse.

Approximately two thirds of the 10 miles stretch of highway will be over a new route.

From here to the foot of the Mountain View hill the old highway route will be widened to modern standards, and an entirely new route will be taken up the hill to the intersection of the Rossbank Theatre in Hamilton, Bermuda, Mrs. Quinney announced this morning. The architects, Urbahn, Brayton and Burrows of New York City, specified this material in order to cope with a roofing problem predominant in the Bermuda area.

Three local men, Allan Dafoe, Dimitri Lazaroff and Jack Quinney, will be flying to Bermuda this Thursday and will remain there to take the installation of the roofing.

Hits Poles Leaves Scene And Automobile

City and provincial police reported a comparatively quiet weekend with no serious accidences and only one traffic accident resulting in personal injury coming to their attention.

Sunday evening two cars were in collision at the intersection of Bridge Street and Dufferin Avenue and the third concession of Thurlow.

Police said that Charles Isadore, 54, of Point Anne, a passenger in one of the vehicles suffered facial cuts when the car in which he was riding was struck by another driven by Sidney Lewis of Toronto.

In the city police are seeking the identity of the driver of a car which early this morning struck a hydro pole on Yeomans Street, then crossed the street and struck another hydro pole. Neither pole was damaged but the right side of the car was completely damaged.

The driver of the car failed to remain at the scene of the accident.

Failure of the Lewis car to stop at the stop sign at the intersection of the Shannonville Gravel was given as the cause of the first accident. Both cars were almost a complete write-off, it was stated.

English Swains Insure Against Being Jilted

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters) — Latins may be lory lovers, but worried England's swains aren't taking any chances.

They're taking out insurance on girl friends who vacation on the continent just in case they fall for those dilated nostrils and impassioned looks of foreign romeos.

One Birmingham insurance broker reported that 300 young men had taken out policies which pay £1,000 if their fiances break off the engagement and marry a rival.

Premiums are highest for girls between 17 and 25—30s for £100—and lower for those from 25 to 30. Women over 30 are considered safe risks.

Said broker Arthur Harrison: "Those young men whose girls are going to Spain, Italy and France seem to be the most worried."

Eisenhower Joins in Prayer For Captive Folk

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower, against the background of Soviet denunciation of his captive nations proclamation, joined in prayer today for those living under tyranny.

At Presbyterian Church services Eisenhower attended, the chief executive issued the proclamation so sharply criticized by Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a Moscow exchange with Vice-President Richard Nixon.

Rev. Robert A. Macaskill said in his sermon:

"Communism is doomed. It is doomed because it denies the dignity of human beings and the authority of God. The veredict is already pronounced."

Eisenhower said later he had received from Nixon a report on the vice - president's exchange with Khrushchev last Friday in Moscow. Eisenhower remarked the exchange apparently was not as bitter as he had thought in reading about it in the newspapers earlier.

Strike Will Close Down Salmon Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's $98,000,000 salmon industry, the province's second largest, is to close Wednesday when 3,000 fishermen and their tendermen strike.

United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) set this strike deadline Sunday.

The strike will affect $400,000,000 coast lumber industry has been called since July 6 when 10,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) struck in support demands for a 30-per-cent wage increase in the basic rate of $1.40 an hour. No settlement is in sight.

Five thousand independent salmon fishermen will be affected along the B.C. coast Saturday when they put the job to back demands for price increases ranging from four cents a pound to eight cents.

WANT 25-CENT RAISE

The cannery workers want a 25-cent hourly increase over the basic rates of $1.32 and $1.67 an hour.

The tendermen, who take fish from the boats to the canneries, also are seeking a one-quarter-cent bonus on all fish handled. They now earn between $315 and $390 a month. Both groups voted Friday in favor of strike action.

James Sinclair, president of the Fisheries Association of B.C. said the picture was confusing because at some plants the cannery workers voted to strike while the tendermen did not. At other operations it was the opposite.

B.C.'s labor laws prohibit a strike being called at any plant where the majority of workers have voted against it.

Member of Local Club Wins Class In Auto 'Prix'

In the dusk and cool air of the early evening hours of last Saturday night, a new chapter was added to the long and illustrious story of motorsport in Canada with the running of the first six-hour endurance race — the O'Keefe Sundown Grand Prix of Endurance at Mosport Circuit, near Port Dover. It presented a challenge to both men and machine for Canadian enthusiasts, very few of whom have ever had the opportunity of competing in this type of event. The problems and preparation involved are of a completely different nature to those which are incumbent to the usual Canadian racing event which consists of a 20 to 80 mile sprint on a closed road circuit.

Vic Yachuk of Cataraqui, local T-Bird Automobile Club member, encountered a few difficulties with his Thunderbird entry including a breaking clutch linkage, spinning out on a corner, replacing his engine, and running short on fuel. In a six-hour race for the Touring entrant, Roy Price, the lead in Canada Class was exchanged several times, but the Thunderbird car, co-driven by Bill MacDonald, of Toronto, came home onto the finish straight at the end of six hours and ran out of fuel. Pushed across the line by the finisher's flag for a fifth place finish.

Overall first position for the race was won by H. Blanchard and P. Jones, both of Columbia in a Porsche RSK for first place after a six hour marathon. Blanchard was over fifty last cars for the hours. Second place went to M. Goldman and Jack Dunfield of Detroit in the Hi-Tors Special (the ex-Kimberly) and a Ferrari with a supercharged Mercedes engine, and third place went to M. Riply in a Porsche RS. From the thunderous roar of running engines at the winner's circle it was certainly apparent that the first Canadian endurance race was a success, for spectators as well as drivers.

Space Men May Experience Rude Shock

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Repeated detection in recent weeks of huge "objects in space" in the form of great streams of atomic particles shooting out from the sun have aroused speculations about the future of space travel. Minneapolis scientist supplied up the early reaction of a physicist who has studied the coveries when he said, "The space travel enthusiast are in for a rude shock."

He said the particles, called protons, are hurled into space during some solar flares, actually great explosions on the sun's surface. The protons travel faster than 1,000 miles per second, and could kill any space explorer in their path.

Stopping most of them in space, he said, would be a tough job — maybe two inches of lead, at vast, lous early estimates. Enough lead to protect a spaceship's travelers could weigh tons: more tons than any present rocket could lift, the known future may be able to lift.

Cohn said the first wide scientific report on the solar protons was distributed last week in a preliminary report mailed by the University of Minnesota school of physics. Another report, group of some 200 cosmic ray scientists throughout the U.S.

Cannot Move, Her Pet Mouse Is Too Shy

HAVANT, England (AP)—Miss Stella Thompson thinks mice are nice. She would rather have a mouse than a house.

The mouse, a wild one with big, bulging eyes, certainly has the run of her one-roomed flat. She calls him Will.

Miss Thompson, 57, has lived in the tiny modern house by her late father, but she has decided not to move. "I don't think Will would take to new surroundings," she explained. "He is shy and cannot fend for himself, and I just can't leave him."

Non-Reds Barred From Seminars Of Youth Parley

VIENNA (AP) — Non-Communist youth guests to the seventh World Youth Festival charged today that the Reds are locking them out of important discussion seminars where the main political property of the 10-day rally takes place.

The non-Communists, including 1,000 Britishers and 330 U.S. delegates, charged that the Communist festival organizers deliberately keeping them out of the discussion meetings because they fear free information about democracy versus communism."

The Communists claimed the Communists were lying to the s that all space and speaking apportionments had been made.

The festival, first of its kind to be held in a Western bloc state, Ibrfon Curtain, opened Sunday night under heavy police protection from the Communist side.

The Communist sponsors said more than 40,000 youths from 104 countries are attending. The lavish opening show attracted about 45,000 spectators to the 60,000-capacity Vienna Sports Stadium.

Booing occurred when a Vienna government representative called for "free travel, free press and free speech" in a countries. The Communists thought this was a dig at them.

No New Cases Of Hepatitis At Mom Whyte's

BOWMANVILLE (CP)—There are no new cases of influenza or hepatitis in the Whyte-Monkman and the emergency is expected to be over by the end of the week, Dr. J. E. Hetherington, Whyte said Sunday.

Seven cases of hepatitis (yellow jaundice) were being treated in isolation and four children were under observation, he said.

Mrs. Whyte said there were 13 cases of influenza in the Monkman ward, including two staff members.

"If we can carry on for a few days without any new cases we expect to be clear," she said.

Welfare Minister L. P. Cecile denied Sunday that he had advised Whyte to close the hospital. He said he had discussed the matter with Dr. Hetherington and that it was the doctor's decision to close the Orphaned-area home.

SUGGESTED TRIBUTE

"I suggested that parents should go to Whytehaven to make a tribute to the doctor who protected against the disease," Mr. Cecile said.

"I certainly didn't suggest that any child suffering from the infection should be taken out so that he might be able to spread the disease to other quarters," Mr. Cecile said.

The home now contains about 120 children. About 25 had been taken home by their parents, Mrs. Whyte said.

Industry, Union Resume Talks On Steel Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The first joint peace talks between industry and union officials to settle the steel strike open here today under the auspices of federal mediators.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, reiterated his warning that no early or easy settlement of the strike appears likely. The walkout began 13 days ago.

Finnegan said he received no indication during the weekend that either side had changed its position.

Heading the negotiations teams for today's meeting are David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, and R. Conrad Cooper, executive vic. - president of the United States Steel Corporation.

Nixon Leaves For Leningrad On Russian Tour

By JOHN SCALE

LENINGRAD (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon of the United States flew to Leningrad today to begin a three-day swing through parts of the Soviet Union.

Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov and his wife were among those accompanying Nixon and his wife. Also along was General Zhukov, chairman of the Soviet government committee on foreign cultural relations.

Nixon's departure from the Soviet capital began a stormy weekend visit with Soviet Premier Khrushchev during which they discussed East-West differences for six hours.

Neither side would say whether the marathon talk had increased in any way chances for removal of the Soviet threat to Allied forces in West Berlin. But Nixon said the discussions were helpful "because it provided an opportunity for frank and complete discussion in a calm and objective atmosphere."

BIGGER CROWD

A crowd of 1,000 greeted the Vice-President and his party at the Leningrad airport. It was much smaller than the welcome that turned out for their arrival in Moscow last Thursday.

Nixon said in a brief arrival speech he and Khrushchev had a "very interesting and useful exchange of the many problems that we have between our countries."

It can say that we had some difference with chairman Khrushchev at times on the issue. I would say it was not a case of his dominating me or me convincing him."

Nixon told the crowd: "The exchanges of opinions in today's world-must be settled at the conference table and not on the battlefield."

Nixon and his wife were given a big welcome Saturday in Khrushchev's big cream - colored country house in the suburbs, about 30 miles part about 30 miles outside Moscow.

Nixon returned to the U.S. Embassy residence Sunday night and Khrushchev went to the conversation for President Eisenhower and U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter.

NOT OFFENDED

The two leaders agreed Sunday that their second-day discussion debate at the American Exposition Friday had not offended either.

The exchange, Nixon said, was hard-hitting and frank—but not bad-tempered. Khrushchev said, "Were you offended?"

"Never," replied Nixon. "Mr. Khrushchev and I have some real and honest differences and we talk as frankly in this respect: We both came from humble families and have had a practice of speaking directly and not beating around the bush."

"I agree, Khrshchev said.

Before lunch Khrushchev and Nixon went for a swimming party on the river, stopping sight times to traffic bands and talk with bathers.

STANDARD QUESTION

"Captive people?" Khrushchev asked Nixon in reference to the U.S. proclamation of a special week of prayer for those in Communist countries.

"No, no. Peace and friendship," was the reinvented reply, Nixon said.

The U.S. Embassy dinner Saturday night Nixon and Khrushchev talked of peace and compliments Eisenhower.

Toasting the president's health, Khrushchev told Nixon: "We like his sincerity, his gentlemanliness, which is quite up to the mark."

Opposition Head In Ghana Loses Seat in House

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Dr. K. A. Busia, leader of Ghana's opposition party in Parliament has lost his seat in the National Assembly, an assembly spokesman said today.

Busia, 45, who is at present visiting Europe, recently was refused permission by the assembly speaker, A. M. Lutterodt, to be absent from parliamentary sittings for about three months.

Under parliamentary rules, a member loses his seat if he is absent, at consecutive sittings, without the Speaker's permission.

Busia is the parliamentary leader of the United party, main opposition to the governing People's party led by Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah.

Busia is the third opposition member to be unseated under the Disqualification Act passed by Parliament four months ago.

The others are R. R. Amponsah and M. K. Apaloo, who lost their seats because they are at present detained under the Preventive Detention Act in connection with an alleged plot against Nkrumah.

Burglars Push Child Between Bars on Bank

LONDON (AP) — A burglar gang spearheaded by a child or midget made off with £30,000 in a weekend raid on an east London bank.

Police said they got into the bank by pushing a tiny member of the gang between the bars protecting a lavatory window. Once they let the mob in they broke open the safe.

The burglars used acetylene torches to cut through the steel door of a strong room, then blew open a safe with dynamite.

The gang apparently took several hours, and the culprits paused from time to time to brew and drink tea. They forgot to wash the teacups, which were sent to Scotland Yard for possible fingerprints.

The tea, cups and teapot were taken from a cabinet where they were kept for the use of the bank's staff.

Will Discuss Hockey Future At Meeting

TRENTON — The first step towards providing good hockey for Trenton fans this winter will take place at a meeting to be held in the Community Centre on Thursday, July 30 at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be chaired by the chairman of the Community Centre Commission, John Farrell, until a permanent chairman is elected. Other officers needed to form the hockey executive will also be selected. All who are interested in hockey this winter are asked to attend.

Besides the election of the officers, the meeting will discuss the present financial situation with further money possibilities investigated and definite plans made to form an entry or entries to represent Trenton in hockey this winter.

Although the Trenton Community Centre Commission members feel now is the time to organize hockey for the winter and that other than provide the necessary facilities for meetings, practices, games, etc., the commission cannot take an active interest in sponsoring or operating hockey in town.

This meeting was instigated at a discussion of the Community Centre Board members and last year's president and treasurer of the hockey club, "Mac" McGaughey and Ken Culbert.

In his announcement John Farrell said, "The fate of hockey in Trenton this winter will depend on the turnout at this meeting and I urge all who are interested in seeing a hockey team for this town to turn out for the discussion".

U.S. Air Cadets, Touring Canada, Visit at Trenton

TRENTON — Twenty four U.S. Civil Air Patrol Cadets on tour of Canada were guests at a banquet at the Quinte Gilbert and on a boat trip to Prespu'le, Point Friday evening. Hosts were members of the sponsoring body of the Trenton Air Cadets, the Trenton Board of Education.

These boys arrived in Trenton last Tuesday by plane from Ottawa and were billeted in private homes until their departure by plane for Fort William Saturday morning.

While in Trenton the boys were taken on a bus tour of this area and a tour of some of the local factories. Also on the agenda was a half day in the downtown area with the families that were hosts to the boys and an afternoon cruising at Number 6 Repair Depot Pool.

The band for the banquet was Mayor Ross Burtt and members of the Trenton Board of Education. The guests were interspersed throughout the group for the meal, so that opinions and views could be exchanged.

W. D. Whitley, co-ordinator for this portion of the tour, spoke briefly to the group welcoming the Cadets to Trenton. He told the group it had been a pleasure meeting the boys from the different states and extended an invitation for the boys to return at any time. As a memento of their trip to Trenton Mr. Whitley presented each with a new silver dollar.

GIFT TO MAYOR

Cadet J. Whalen of Dallas, Texas, presented a $100 bill of the Republic of Texas to Mayor Ross Burtt as a reminder of the group's stay in Trenton.

Major R. S. Hazzard of the Civil Air Patrol spoke to the group after the banquet. He said when the boys had left their respective States they had only a sketchy idea of the country they were going to visit. He stated the trip had been a pleasure as well as very educational. He told the guests he was sure that neither the Cadets nor he himself, would ever forget this trip to Canada. He also said the hospitality they had received in Canada excelled that of some of the places in the U.S. visited by the Cadets.

-si'- nMFVAP gfiOo- C cr

The cadets travelled to Prespu'le Point in four boats operated by local men. This two-hour trip across the Bay of Quinte, up the Murray Canal and across Brighton Bay proved not only enjoyable but educational to the Cadets. Upon arrival at Presqu'ile the group visited the dance hall where they were given some time for dancing prior to the journey back to Trenton by bus.

J. D. Vanstone, J. S. Carney, F.S "- Height and Walter Mesarvey gave their time and boats to take these cadets on this tour.

He Must Keep Windows Clean

TRENTON — An unidentified customer of the Skyline Restaurant on Dundas Street West in Trenton mistook a glass panel alongside the glass door for the way out and almost made it. He was not injured although his hand cracked the glass.

The incident happened Saturday afternoon.

The proprietor said the man always ate at his restaurant and on Saturday they were talking and all of a sudden he looked at his watch and said, "I'll miss the bus!" and made a dash for the door but missed it and ran into the glass panel instead.

He ran from the restaurant across the street and into the front door of the Hotel Gilbert and out a side door and towards the bus depot.

The window was insured.

Two Bicyclists Meet With Grief

TRENTON — Two young Trenton lads were injured while riding their bicycles Friday evening. Neither of the lads was injured seriously although one was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for treatment and then discharged.

At 8.05 p.m. Jack Lowe, 17, of 14 Bayside Street, was riding his bike along Front Street and the front wheel hit a hole in the road and threw the boy to the pavement.

He was taken to the hospital where he was treated for bruises and a swelling over the left eye. The impact tore the seat wheel from the bike and broke the front forks.

A few minutes later, in another part of the town, Richard Chard, 12, of 264 Front Street crashed into the front of a stopped motor car when the brakes on his bicycle failed to operate.

The driver of the vehicle, Walter Cole of 174 Ryan Street, Trenton said he was coming out of the Trenton Public Library and had stopped to enter Quinte Street. He said the youth was coming at a fast speed and could not jam the front of his car.

The youth received only bruises and scratches and damage to his bike was estimated at $20.

Both accidents were investigated by Constable Sid Vickers of the Trenton Police Department.

Three accidents between cars on Saturday were only minor and no accidents were reported on Sunday.

Trenton's Fire Department had a very quiet weekend with no calls coming in.

Schooner Waits To Evacuate Fire Fighters

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A schooner is waiting off Cape threatened Port Hope Simpson, today to evacuate fire fighting crews in case a raging forest fire turns back on them.

Resources Minister Walter W. J. Keough of Newfoundland said although the wind was blowing the fire away from the settlement, it had gained another mile during the weekend.

RCAF volunteers from Goose Bay, Labrador, and department firefighters have built a firebreak around the community. If the fire did break through, men will be taken to safety in the schooner which would then take a new stand at Mary's Harbor about 25 miles south.

Weekend rains made it possible to widen the firebreak while favorable winds hindered the main fire away from the settlement, now completely evacuated, except for firemen.

CAUGHT BETWEEN 2 FIRES

Earlier, a forest fire caught between two fires at Gilbert and Alexis Rivers. Only a few miles separate them.

Another small community on the southeastern Labrador coast, Charlottetown, is also being threatened by a fire which has crept within a few miles.

So far the fires have burned more than 1,000 square miles of timber, mostly black spruce.

The fire area is about 160 miles southeast of Goose Bay.

ASSAILS UGLY HOUSING DEVELOPMENTS

"Most of the new housing in Canada today is being built without regard either for any but the most elementary human needs or for the broader interests of the community as a whole, totally neglecting both the need for a socially and (for want of a better word) spiritually full life at one end of the scale, and at the other end, a whole host of physical facilities and conveniences which happen to lie outside the four walls of the building."

That is the conclusion of Nigel H. Richardson, Berkinda-born British Columbia planner, in a feature article in the current issue of the Community Planning Review, the quarterly publication of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Mr. Richardson complains about the fact that housing developments display "either a depressing uniformity or a chaotic jumble" and considers the basic error in our approach to be "the practice of considering housing solely in terms of the individual dwelling and its equipment." He objects to "literally square miles of housing which is almost entirely standardized, not only physically but, of necessity, socially and economically, with no room for elderly couples, no room for single people, no room for large families, no room for anyone whose tastes and requirements happen to differ somewhat from the dreary average."

Mr. Richardson makes some telling points, but after reading his article, and studying the accompanying pictures, we are forced to the conclusion that there is one main difference between projects which he castigates and projects which he admires. That difference is trees.

The ruthless removal of every tree from the site when a new subdivision is started is a trademark of stupidity which has distinguished all too many building projects in the past few years. But here in Belleville, and we hope elsewhere in Canada, too, there is now evident a realization by many builders of the value of trees and, also, of natural variations in the landscape. They are being preserved, rather than eliminated.

We would perhaps be going too far to say that these features make an otherwise ugly development beautiful. Let us rather say that, if houses are well planned and if trees, hills and little valleys are preserved the development may become beautiful in time. Time, indeed, may make even the barest, most uniform development acquire character, as saplings become trees and houses age at varying rates. But this will come faster if something old is left to blend with all that is new, right from the beginning of the transformation from farmer's field to city street. Beauty is not something which is built -- it grows.

HAVE YOU HAD YOUR FLUORINE LATELY?

Well, this should settle the fluoridation issue. If fluoridation is your cup of tea, have a cup of tea. That's all there is to it.

Every now and then we get some public material from those who are paid to rack their brains in the interests of the tea trade, but none of these items comes close to matching the paean of praise for tea turned out in a release from the Health League of Canada.

Quoting the Journal of the Canadian Medical Association, it says that tea, having neither caloric value nor sodium content, can figure in any reducing diet, that claims that tea should not be drunk by those suffering from gout, hypertension or gastric disorders are false, that it may be given to children with no ill effect and that it is a valuable source of the fluorin "for those on the wrong side of forty," presumably over that figure.

Then, at the end, comes the payoff, in the form of a footnote: "Another beneficial aspect of tea-drinking which is not included in this report, but which has been stated by the Health League of Canada and the Canadian Dental Association is the fact that exactly the amount of fluorine recommended for the prevention of caries is present in one cup of tea -- one part per million."

Of course, it is easy to understand why the tea-publicity boys have never mentioned this fact. The anti-fluoridation crowd will now, probably, switch to coffee and cocoa.

HER PROUD FATHER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I thought her really wonderful
The very morning that she came;
The greatest thing in all this world
Although I didn't know her name.
At three months, I was sure that no
One ever had so sweet a child.
And I remember how I raved
The first time that she ever smiled.

At nine months she was marvelous,
Her voice interesting still;
At years, No one has such a child,
What is there, nobody,

(At two years she was simply great;
And when at last she numbered five,
Beyond all doubt, we all agreed
She was the sweetest thing alive.

And now she's seven, and still she grows
More interesting every day.
It's wonderful how much she knows—
Seven is the proper age, I say.
Yes, when they're seven, there is no doubt
That little girls are superfine;
As, for example, let me tell
About that blue-eyed babe of mine.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 29 contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

BELLEVILLE'S CHURCHES IN THE 1840's — AS SEEN BY SUSANNA MOODIE

Some weeks ago we commented on Susanna Moodie's role in the "clearings," now published for the first time in Canada.

A closer perusal of that book reveals one possible reason for its not having been published here in the 1850's when it was written. Mrs. Moodie was blunt, honest and frankly outspoken; some sections of "Life in the Clearings" would undoubtedly have gone over very well with her friends and neighbors in Belleville.

Indeed, some of her remarks are so controversial that we prefer not to mention them here. It is impossible to describe a church building as "a homely structure" and "a great eyesore" without sadly lowering our towards heaven," without arousing the anger of that Belleville supporter.

Fortunately this building was later replaced by a far more attractive building, to which Mrs. Moodie's remarks do not apply.

On the other hand, Mrs. Moodie did have kind things to say about some of our churches. The St. Thomas churchyard gave "the finest view of the town and surrounding country". St. Michael's was described as an "elegant structure" whose "graceful spire adds to the beauty of the scene."

She was delighted by St. Nicholas' "deep-toned music" as heard as far as the villages of Northport. "There is a solemn grandeur in the full swell of the magnificent bell, as it floats through the valley in echoes which stood on the East Hill, although she confessed she was no convert to the doctrines of John Calvin.

The Methodists and Methodist churches also came in for exact description.

And Mrs. Moodie concluded by writing:

"I can scarcely adopt a better plan of judging the wealth and prosperity of a town than by watching . . . the congregations of the different denominations going to worship."

So wrote Susanna Moodie of Belleville's churches in the 1840's. Much more interesting (and controversial) material is to be found in her book "Life in the Clearings," Macmillan Company of Canada, recent contribution to the study of Belleville's history.

Strictly Personal

A Lesson In English For Thurber

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Although I have considerable respect for James Thurber, both as humorist and as stylist in the English language, I felt that he was more cranky than correct in a recent New Yorker article about words.

Among other things, he objected to Stilton cheese's habit of turning nouns into verbs (such as the cigaret slogan, "travels a long, long way to get that 'time,'" and "worship," were all nouns to begin with, and have filled a real need, and were transformed into verbs.

English is one of the few languages, in fact, in which the same word in the same form can be all the different parts of speech. Take the word "cook," which can perform five distinct operations.

It is a noun in the round of the "stove"; an adjective in "a round table"; a verb in "the cook boiled the water for turning point"; an adverb in "come round tomorrow"; and a preposition in "sailed round the house."

What Thurber fails to do is to distinguish between those words which can handily be turned into verbs, and those which cannot. "The house sleeps twenty people," is a fine one-word description of what usage may be found in Shakespeare; while "we eat our food twelve" is just a silly way of replacing the perfectly good verb "feed."

Usage is always subject to the rule of "contact" as a verb, in the phrase, "I will contact him tomorrow." Admittedly, it grates on the ears of one sensitive to language, but "contact" is right here to stay, not because of barbarian usage, but because it is new and shorter than "get in touch with."

Language is as much abused by those who want to maintain still the rigid old forms as by those who have an utter disregard for style and sense. As in politics, both are reactionary and the radical are willing to sacrifice a living reality for

SOMETHING TO LEARN

Some people never wake up until they get a terrific wallop. Others do, but we are made in such a way that this is true. If we could just be receptive to truth as it is presented to us, the human race would be spared a great deal of heartache.

But we are otherwise constructed. Much of life's important truth we will not learn until it is fashioned into a club and we are belabored with it. Pride just will not allow us to admit that a certain course of action is reasonable and wise. Our policy has to be made into a pair of brass knuckles and we have to be prostrated as the result of a terrific wallop with the fist of truth wearing these knuckles. Even then we are inclined to nurse their wallops. Some lie on the ground and whimper, others sit up and rub their aching heads. Still others gather themselves up and spend the rest of their lives telling you in all bitterness that there is no justice in the world. Instead there are a few who learn from their wallops. They are not holy angels, they are human beings like you and me. But God loves them and the hands of experience have been directed to come up higher.

They know how to take a wallop.

Scot Showed Ingenuity

St. Thomas Times-Journal

A man living in the city of Aberdeen, Kent, England, expecting some money from a Scotsman, let it get the money by mail right, but he was surprised to find that his Scottish friend had not put the money in the envelope, and there was a check for the amount in the mail carrier on delivery.

The letter containing the check stated that he knew you paid to have to pay sixpence for this letter and added to it the amount I owed you. I calculated that it would cost more to send the money than the amount, but it is the cheaper way. I know also that you will appreciate the care of the letter in order to collect the sixpence."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

TEMPER, TANTRUMS CAUSES CHILD TO HOLD BREATH

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our baby is 15 months old. Since he was 6 months old he has had the habit of holding his breath. He pases, out and turns blue. We are at our wits' end with worry. We have taken him to different doctors. They all say he is a good healthy baby. But what can we do? One doctor says don't spank him, but that because he goes into it so fast he can't control himself."

MRS. R. O.*

This is one of the things that terrifies parents but doesn't hurt the child. It doesn't hurt him physically, that is, although unless he gets over the habit it won't improve his disposition in later life. But if you handle the problem right, it isn't going to hurt his disposition or anything else.

Holding the breath is a part of the "autonomic" system, and a tantrum, to one degree or another, is probably normal for all little citizens just starting out in life. Babies, I mean!

The basic point is that babies have but a limited number of ways by which they can express themselves. Crying, screaming, kicking, squirming. Some for whatever reason do their crying in the mouthful of getting so tensed up with their infant fury that they hold their breath.

They then relax, and nature automatically starts them breathing again. Even if they decided to harm themselves (which they don't) they can't.

Cold water in a baby's face will make breath-holding a more important factor to him. It will make him forget to hold by holding his breath, he can stir up a lot of attention. But cold water, nor spanking, nor anything else is going to make him stop holding his breath from time to time.

You know from experience that he always comes out of these spells unharmed. Well, then he is. The longest one I've spells. In his own good time, he'll come to a conclusion that he doesn't get anywhere that way.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any help for short sightedness? Is there an allergy that causes the nose to stop up and keeps you awake at night?

Allergy causes many manifestations from night blindness (a hay fever for one) to headaches, rash, hives, swelling, and stomach upsets. So the answer to your second question is "yes." To your first question, the best help is to find out what you are allergic to and avoid it. Alternatively (or along with this) are such possibilities as desensitization to an allergist, or use of the antihistamine drugs.

Mrs. E. B.: It's a mistake to think that bad breath is caused only by bad teeth, or only by bad breath from stomach trouble. All of these, especially the first two, may be the reason. But some of the worst cases don't come from these at all. Rather, they are infections or other problems involving the nose, throat, sinuses, or bronchi-tis, one of the most important. When the trouble persists, have these areas examined.

Detroit May Build Hills

Edmonton Journal

Detroit is considering a proposal by a pioneer in the topographical dullness of the city area be relieved by the construction of hills and mountains in the river.

It is a nothing extravagant about the idea in financial terms, nor is it fanciful considering the size of modern earth-moving machinery. Design of the hills is a system of expressways and for this purpose there is needed 60,000,000 cubic yards of earth. If it should not be used in the city it could be sold to be hauled away. Haulage charges are said to be such that a profit of $25,000,000 could be saved by using the earth to build hills and islands.

The planner, Charles A. Blessing, proposes the construction of promontory at the end of an existing island, a new island, a hill near the bridge connecting this island with the city, and possibly a bowl of earth to be used as an amphitheater. He also has suggested adding hills and islands to Detroit's flat golf course and building a stadium of earth rather than of steel and concrete.

The initial reaction of city and state authorities is reported to be favorable. Detroit might become the first city not only to use millions of earth but to turn them into little mountains.

We need to adopt a way to overcome with astonishment at the power of the engineer. Once the Egyptians built some mountains of stone, the pyramids, thousands of years ago, and apparently piled huge mounds of earth to raise their stone blocks.

One advantage lies in being able to perform wonders of engineering and construction in a much shorter time without the sacrifice of thousands of slave workers. Knowledge and machinery, not unrestrained misused, have been instrumental in making human beings from slavery and back-breaking toil arising from the whims of autocrats.

LATIN AMERICA

I have just been reading a remarkable book by Edward Tomlinson, on Latin-America, entitled "Look Southward Uncle". It was written by a man who has lived most of his life among the twenty Republics south of our public. The book is a classic of its kind. You will find more about these neighbors in South America than you have ever read or heard before.

This book is also more than a political picture. It reads more like a novel than a Best Seller among the novels. Tomlinson has gathered together certain personal contacts — more sound sense and naked information about Latin America than I think I that I have ever read. Why don't we know more about these Republics? Tomlinson touches on "examples of the most significant trends and changes" about people at our front door.

The Author calls one of his chapters "The Age of the Yuan." He gives us certain books on South America, and her heroes, that make grand reading. Get these people, and they need us. Why can't we get together and have sentiment misused, have been instrumental in making human beings from slavery and back-breaking toil arising from the whims of autocrats.

WETASKIWIN, ALTA.

The city of Wetaskiwin derives its name from the Indian name, "Wetaskiwin Spatinow" which means "Hills Place Where Peace Was Made." This came about in the 1860s when Broken Arm, chief of the Crees, made peace with a small party of Sioux who were on their way to trade at Fort Edmonton. It was commemorated because the chief's grand gesture in forgiving a Blackfoot warrior who had earlier killed his son.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At a unique summer resort on the Bridge River with the Indian problem name of Go Home Bay, they had a unique thunderstorm a couple of weeks ago. Suddenly, there was a blinding flash and down came the rain. Then there was a series of almost imperic confusion, the very air at ground level was positively electric electrically. Nobody remembers ever having such a storm. There were sizzling sound their pump taps. One cottager reached for the handle of her electric refrigerator and got a shock that numbed her arm for an hour. Fireballs were seen bouncing around on the rocks. In addition to the usual forked lightning that was blistering the air in the distance, there seemed to be a continuous flutter of what is called sheet-lightning all around the horizon.

Many of the cottagers were alarmed. One small girl, the daughter of Dr. David Stark, ran to her daddy for comfort.

"Why, my daddy said, picking her up, "God makes the lightning. It's perfectly natural. He rain or snow or wind. The thunder is far off, darling. Look! It's over."

He took her to the window and held her up. There was one, two, three, four, five, six. That meant it is six miles away. Soon we hear the thunder. There!"

And as he said "There!" ker-split, ker-bang, a bolt of lightning struck the building of his next door neighbor, fire flashed in all directions, sparks, smoke, and

"Wow!" said Dr. Stark, little girl in arms duly impressed.

Bank of Nova Scotia Finds Gold Trade Policy Brings Much Latin-American Trade

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Legend and romance have come to the Bank of Nova Scotia since it entered the gold trade last October. But underneath the glamor has been a great deal of profitable business.

Notably, in recent months, growing sales have been made to Latin-American countries for industrial purposes — presumably for manufacturing jewellers and dental supplies.

The bank does not disclose figures—beyond saying that June sales to Latin-America were as much as the total of the preceding three months — but various factors indicate that export sales are considerable.

BUSY MINES' OUTPUT

Two factors are:

1. The bank has contracted for the entire output of two Canadian gold mines — Consolidated Discovery Yellowknife Ltd. and New Dickenson Mines Ltd. — which have a combined annual production of 160,000 to 170,000 troy ounces, worth between $5,600,000 and $6,000,000.

2. It is understood that most of this production is currently going into export and that in June the monthly production was not enough to meet the bank's export needs and had to be supplemented by other purchases.

Physical export of gold, it is understood, currently makes up about a third of the bank's combined sales for both export and investment.

Whether for export or investment purposes from other than the two ment selling, the bank's purchases has run to many millions and of dollars. One such purchase was for 54,000 ounces (or two tons) worth $2,240,000.

Legend and romance enter when the bank is approached by inquirers who say they know of stores or caches of gold in one country or another. Some such inquiries are regarded as the product of tales-about old treasures.

An indication of widening interest is a growing demand for small bars.

VARIETY OF WEIGHTS

At first the bank planned to deal chiefly in 400 - ounce bars worth $14,000, though it would also deal in the kilo bar, weighing 32.15 ounces and worth $1,250.

With growing demand, however, it decided on a 50-ounce bar worth $1,400, especially for buyers who feel more at home in dealing in 5ounces. This bar is refined in Toronto by Englehard Industries of Canada Ltd. More recently, a 50 - gram bar worth $56.25 is being refined.

The Bank of Nova Scotia is one of several Canadian media for gold transactions.

Canadian Copper Refiners Ltd., a subsidiary of Noranda Mines Ltd.—started in the business in 1956 when the government freed gold for trading. The firm's sales now average about $1,000,000 a month.

This gold—refined by Canadian Copper in kilo and 400-ounce bars —is sold through bankers, brokers, the Toronto Stock Exchange, and in direct sales by the company itself.

MARGIN TRADING

In November, Doherty Roadhouse Company, Toronto brokerage and investment firm, started trading in gold on margin, and their experience led the Toronto Stock Exchange to establish facilities for trading in Canadian Copper's kilo bar, starting Feb. 3.

The exchange keeps no volume record but as Canadian Copper's sales are about half in kilo bars and half in 400-ounce bars, this agency indicates exchange trading of around $500,000 a month, though higher estimates are also made. The largest single exchange transaction to date was $1,000,000.

Other banks than the Bank of Nova Scotia are also understood to be in the trade, but no figures have been disclosed.

Total Canadian annual production is about 4,500,000 ounces worth $157,500,000. Of this, about 2,500,000 ounces is produced with some government aid, and must be sold to the Canadian mint.

Of the remaining 2,000,000 ounces about half was going to the mint at the end of 1958, but it is estimated that not more than 30 per cent now goes there. On a yearly basis, if continued, this is a switch of some 600,000 ounces worth $21,000,000 from sales to the mint to sales elsewhere.

The mint is a sure market for gold, but other sales generally bring a premium over the mint price, which is $35 U.S. an ounce. The premium paid by the Bank of Nova Scotia to producers is understood to be about 30 cents an ounce.

Outside the industrial export field, people buy gold for investment for a number of reasons.

Some investors buy it simply for portfolio diversification. It draws no interest and storage fees are charged. But if the price of gold goes up the investors would make a considerable gain. While it is at hand it may be used as collateral on loans.

held whenever it is considered necessary to demonstrate popular support for his policies. Sunday's, officially celebrating the anniversary of his 26th day of July revolutionary movement, was called originally to demonstrate support for his land redistribution program.

Castro said it was only the will of the people that persuaded him to resume the premiership he left nine days ago to force the resignation of Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

The first announcement of his return to office came from Provisional Governor Osvaldo Dorticos, Urrutia's successor. It set off a wild, jubilant ovation.

Enormous showmanship went into Castro's really big spectacular thing it was. Gimmicks included the release of a thousand doves at the Castro appearance and release of hundreds of red, white and blue balloons trailing the black and red colors of the 26th of July movement.

PLANES DROP CANDY

Planes and helicopters zoomed low overhead, dropping small, multi-colored parachutes containing candy.

Before the speech, a cabinet minister presented Castro with evidence of recovery of $20,000,000 in cash and $31,000,000 worth of property from collaborators of Batista.

Half a dozen persons died here and elsewhere in the nation. A guard's rifle fire killed a convict during a prison riot in Havana. A farmer deemed crazed was shot by police. Three persons, including a policeman, were killed in Santiago.

There were reports that 17 persons had been injured in various parts of Havana. A number of army officers were arrested for unauthorized firing of their guns to celebrate.

Cruiser's Shells Fall All Around Fishing Vessel

By EDDY GILMORE

PENZANCE, Eng. (AP)—The Royal Navy has launched an investigation into a Gilbert and Sullivan comedy that almost turned into tragedy.

Within a few miles of this setting of Gilbert and Sullivan's The Pirates of Penzance, Britain's biggest cruiser almost blew up a fishing boat out of the water.

It happened Saturday night. Chief engineer Clifton Pender of the trawler Lovesse told reporters about the nightmarish experience after docking today. Let him tell the story:

"Our ship is owned and manned by our family. We come from Mousehole, not far from here. Five Penders were aboard.

"We were fishing when suddenly we heard a great crash. It broke the peace of a very pleasant night.

"I thought at first the propeller had hit a shark.

"A few minutes later another bang, we say compounded by a flash and I shouted at those below to come on deck.

DOZEN SHELLS IN SALVO

"They came just in time to see a salvo of about a dozen shells pitch into the water within 200 yards to starboard."

The salvo was followed by another.

"By this time I was shouting to the Land's End radio, but they couldn't give me any information except that no naval exercises were on."

The man from Mousehole said he bellowed into his ship-to-shore radio that he wanted to talk to the naval commander at Portsmouth.

"Finally," said Pender, "I got him on the phone. He said no ship was authorized to fire."

POOR ASSURANCE

The engineer said such assurance was poor consolation when you're shocked hit by cruiser shells.

But the commander said there was a cruiser in the nighborhood. A few minutes later the admiralty came on the radio.

"They apologized and much regretted that I'd been shelled," said Pender. "They said the shells came from the 11,500-ton cruiser Belfast that failed to see us on their radar. They said there would be a full investigation."

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal parks department added archery to its summer recreation program for children and adults.

RETURN TUESDAY

Brighton, as well as some of Belleville's city police, were stationed at each intersection along the route through town and at the ends of the town bridge.

Cadets, RCAF personnel and legionnaires lined the route between the intersections in an effort to hold the crowds of anxious watchers back.

BLEACHERS AT HANGARS

The most densely-crowded spot on the route was at Gilmour Hig where thousands stood to wait for the Queen's arrival. At the air station hundreds of cars brought many to watch the arrival of the royal party and the departure from the air station. Bleachers had been set up at Number Nine hangar where the Comet came to a stop.

A red carpet was laid from the plane to the awaiting cars, in full view of the hundreds sitting in the bleachers.

Press and TV photographers were treated with gratifying respect although it was first announced that all "photographers would be static — the area on top of the hangar. At the last minute this was changed and the photographers were allowed to take their pictures from the runway and alongside the carpet which led from the plane to the cars.

Some complaints were voiced after the tour that the cars had gone too fast through the streets of town but Police Chief Jack Taylor said that at no time was the lead car moving over 8 m.p.h. and at times was even going slower. Other watchers complained of the half-cab which was over the driver of the Queen's car saying it blocked the view.

Labor Party's Dominant Issue Is the H-Bomb

LONDON (AP) — The H-bomb will be the dominant issue in the forthcoming national conference of the Labor party. The conference will decide on a platform for the next general election.

Formal resolutions adopted by local Labor party units call for a party pledge to abolish nuclear weapon tests and end the manufacture of such weapons.

The party conference is to be held in Blackpool Oct. 5-9 and the first general election may come shortly after it ends.

Resolutions drawn up by local Labor party councils will come before the conference of party delegates who will vote on a final platform.

NON-NUCLEAR CLUB

One resolution proposes:

"That the next Labor government, if general nuclear armament should prove not immediately attainable, should take the initiative in forming a non-nuclear club of nations, excluding if necessary the Soviet Union and the United States, whose members would give up nuclear weapons under suitable international inspection and control and that Britain be prepared to enter such an organization with as many nations as are willing to join without waiting for all other nations to do so."

Another resolution proposes that the party pledge to abolish existing stocks of nuclear weapons and stop manufacturing and testing them.

All in all the big party conference will take up 410 resolutions, plus any last-minute additions.

Shoots Man After Eating Picnic With Him

CRAWFORD NOTCH, N.H. (AP) — A widespread manhunt was under way today for a man who killed a pulp mill worker after sharing a picnic lunch with him and his wife at the White Mountains.

Eli Gendron, 51, of North Woodstock, N.H., was shot in the chest Sunday as his wife, Retta, 49, looked on. Another shot grazed her Gendron's artificial left ar...

The gunman then forced Mrs. Gendron to leave the car in which the shooting took place and stole a wallet containing between $175 and $200 from the victim's body.

Gendron's wife said she and her husband were parked in a picnic area when the man approached them.

He said he had been sent by the Woodstock police chief to inform Gendron that his mother was dying.

The news did not shock Gendron, as his mother had been seriously ill for some time. The Gendrons decided to finish their lunch and invited the well - dressed stranger to join them.

300 Baptized By Witnesses

OTTAWA (CP) — More than 300 Jehovah's witnesses were baptized here Saturday in immersion in the Ottawa River at Britannia Bay.

The mass baptism was a highlight of the four-day convention of 12,000 Witnesses from congregations in Quebec and Ontario.

Adherents of the sect hold that total immersion is the proper form of baptism as ordained in the Bible.

The newly dedicated communicants, wearing bathing suits, were dunked by Gilford Higgs, presiding minister of the Witnesses' Aylmer, Que., congregation, assisted by a team of immersers.

Among those who submitted to the chilly ceremonial were eight-year - old Susan Villeneuve of Blind River, and 81 - year - old Thomas Upton of Britton, Ont. By their baptism both became qualified as "ministers" of the sect.

Honeymooners Spend 2 Weeks In Bomb Shelter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's newest bomb shelter honeymooners emerged from their bower 12 feet underground blinking like owls at the sunshine they had not seen for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mlainson were married July 12 a few minutes before they climbed down into the white cement enclosure seven by 13 by 6½ feet. The honeymoon was a promotion stunt for backyard bomb shelters.

"The first week went by like a breeze," said 28-year-old Mel.

"The second week we counted the days and hours. We couldn't wait to get out."

Mlainson grew a mustache and full set of whiskers, having stopped shaving to conserve water.

The couple reported their chief problem under ground was a tinky can opener.

Music at Stratford Festival

By ROBERT TANNER

"Orpheus in the Under-world," Offenbach's tuneful comic opera based on a parody of Greek mythology, formed the opening attraction of this year's Stratford Music Festival, to be followed by a two-week season of instrumental, orchestral and vocal concerts.

The last of the seventeen performances of the opera was given on Saturday night before an enthusiastic audience, which at one point succeeded in "stopping the show" by the concerted, prolonged applause that the slightly embarrassed but delighted cast were persuaded to give an obviously unrehearsed encore. This amusing work changes the original legend to the extent that Orpheus, whose wife Eurydice has been stolen by Pluto, the god of the Underworld, does not really want her back, and is only persuaded to approach Jupiter on the matter by the character Public Opinion, delightfully played by Eric House in the Victorian guise of Jaques Offenbach himself. The Gods, who are very bored by life on Mount Olympus, welcome the excuse for an excursion to the Underworld. Leading roles are played by Martial Singher, of the Metropolitan, as Jupiter, Irene Jordan as Eurydice, Jan Rubes as Pluto and John McCollum as a brilliantly funny Orpheus.

The direction, by Tom Brown was notable for its color and flexibility, and for such gems of humor as the continued efforts of Mercury (William Cole) to balance on one leg in the attitude so familiar to users of the telephone directory.

The National Festival Orchestra under the direction of Louis Applebaum played Offenbach's music for all it was worth, giving high promise of the concerts during the next two weeks when they will be playing on their own, or with such famous soloists as Claudio Arrau, Lois Marshall and Oscar Shumsky. In addition to these concerts the Festival is offering three performances of an unusual entertainment entitled "Shakespeare and Music" in which Michael Langham, Artistic Director and General Manager of the Festival, will be appearing on the Canadian stage for the first time. In a program of his own devising, and assisted by Marshall Singher, Irene Jordan and the orchestra.

In the past few years, the music portion of the Stratford Festival has gone through many vicissitudes in an attempt to find the right formula for a suitable accompanying series for the main dramatic attractions. It would seem that there is every chance that, with the very successful comic opera and a short season of very promising concerts, the organizers have come closest to the right answer. The music festival is to be followed by the production of a new revue entitled "After Hours" starring TV favorites Jack Creley and Charmion King, a Scottish fantasy, "The Heart is Highland," and an ambitious international film festival. It is understood that though attendance at the Stratford Festival is higher than ever this year, good seats are still available for most performances.

Ottawa Woman Finds Gliding Is Ideal Sport

HIGGINS (CP) — Mrs. Lee Smith of Ottawa enjoys taking about gliding, her favorite sport almost as much as chatting about her two - month - old daughter Linda.

Mrs. Smith and her husband formed the Gatineau Gliding Club near Ottawa before they were married. They met through the club with some of the pilots and soon found themselves members.

In Regina for the national soaring competitions this year, the Smiths entered themselves as be enthusiastic followers of the sport.

"If a woman can drive a car, she can learn to glide," says Mrs. Smith, who feels it is quite a safe sport. There is no possibility of engine failure and if a pilot is careful, accidents are unlikely.

Mrs. Smith says gliding is comparatively inexpensive. To learn costs amount to about $180. After that the only expense is a small charge for a tow plane and rental on the glider.

"When you start climbing, you really have accomplished something," she says. "It is very relaxing to be so high above the earth and hear only the noise of the air rushing past."

Mrs. Smith has glided to a height of 9,500 feet and has kept a glider in the air for three hours.

Her most exciting experience occurred soon after she had learned to soar.

The variometer or lift marker which measures the distance a glider travels upwards had been hooked in reverse. The variometer indicated that she was climbing so Mrs. Smith circled her craft.

Suddenly she noticed that she was coming closer to earth instead of climbing. Fortunately, she was able to straighten the glider and make a safe airfield.

Her husband, a technician with the National Research Council, is in the process of building his own glider.

Annual Battle of Hemline Will Rage in Paris Today

PARIS (AP) — The annual battle of the hemline will be joined today. Paris rings out curtain then on fall and winter fashions.

The richest tip is that some like them short and some like them long.

Dior's designer Yves St.-Laurent, has vowed he'll maintain the status quo with shorties.

But Lanvin Castillo declares Lanvin Castillo doesn't want to see any others this season."

But if the hemline is to be a highlight, the French designers are at least agreed on colors. They will be almost mourning-sober, with brown and black to the forefront.

TALL AND SLIM

Nobody seems to want to emphasize the waistline too much. Necklines will have a lot, probably with chin to depth, as the rule.

The all-over silhouette will be tall and slim, rather than flaring.

Young St.-Laurent—he's nearly 23—in the first collection he has considers "really me," promises to elongate the silhouette, to cover long necks, and put legs "in value" with no change in length.

Castillo decrees that skirts shall be "a lot longer" this year very close to the season) with the waistline a little off centre. Brown, mauve and black are the colors.

Nina Ricci strives for a soft, rounded look, with a natural line. Hemlines still short, brown, false black and bright red.

Jean Pomarede, designer for Jacques Heim, talks about a "heightened feminine look" with waist indicated but not strangled. He won't change skirt length. Plum black is his top color.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

— David S. — She ought to get rid of Lloyd.

Daisy S. — He might do something desperate.

David C. — My wife and I are in our early 30's and have been married two years. We have no serious problems about marriage, but we do have one that concerns one of my best friends.

This guy Lloyd is my age, but as far as women go he's like a 13-year-old. He is so shy he blushes if a woman walks into the room. Well my wife, Daisy, decided to try to do something about him. She brought him out, got him to talk about himself, fixed up dates for him.

Unfortunately, the dates didn't work and now Lloyd is in love with Daisy. He goes around mooning after her. I'm not worried or jealous or anything like that, but, I think Daisy ought to do something quick to stop this. Anyone sees what's going on and it's embarrassing.

Daisy S. — David should trust me to handle this thing right. Lloyd is a very sensitive guy and I can't just boot him out of my life now that he has gotten to depend upon me for sympathy.

I am trying to match him up with a particular friend of mine. He tells me he can't stand her, but I'm sure she's the right one for him if only he wouldn't think about me all the time. He compares all his dates to me and winds up hating them. I have tried to show him how wrong his attitude is but it hasn't helped so far.

David thinks I'm being silly, but I think this shy young man. She could have helped him — if she had known when to stop.

The danger sets in when the bestower of kindness falls in love with his own powerful, beautiful image. It can happen all too easily.

We won't accuse Daisy of actually encouraging Lloyd in the worst sense of the word, but we think she has taken much too much satisfaction in his devotion. Through him she has found a way to lord it over all her girl friends. She has found a new source of power.

If Daisy will dare take an honest look at herself, we think she'll be able to see that she has been using Lloyd as her unfortunate admirer. Despite her marriage, she apparently doesn't have a deep enough sense of security in her feminine attractiveness. It is indeed too cruel to use another person's weakness in an effort to gain a feeling of power for oneself.

Daisy, let Lloyd off the hook.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: KNOW WHEN IT'S TIME TO GO

You'll be more enthusiastically urged to "come again" if you don't get the reputation of always being a late-staying guest. You may be able to sleep on and on in the morning . . . but your hostess and/or host may very well be haunted by the thought of the terrible imminence of that early - morning alarm. Have a heart!

ADD CHICKEN SALAD FOR THE "SUSTAINING" ITEM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

After our 4 o'clock church wedding in August, we are to have quite a large reception. Besides serving the customary small assorted sandwiches, the wedding cake and small cakes and cookies, punch and coffee, we think we should serve something more "sustaining," because there will be many guests who will be driving here from various distances. We can't afford much extra service, and therefore it must be something that can be prepared beforehand. Have you any suggestion? — Bride-to-be.

Chicken salad . . . really good chicken salad . . . is an excellent "sustaining" food-item to serve at a late-afternoon wedding reception in August. It also serves its popularity, for practically everyone likes it, it can be delicious (if well made) it can be made well in advance, and with it can be served such easy-to-serve supplementary items as potato chips (no "service" needed here!), or two appetizing varieties of packaged tidbits, perhaps also stuffed olives and small gherkins, and rolls, hot or heated. Also, if your budget approves, you might serve ice cream with the wedding cake and the small cakes and cookies.

CALLING ON NEW HOUSE-OWNER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several months ago a family whom we knew in our apartment house moved to a new house they had bought in a suburb not very far from here. One evening my husband and I met them at the movies, and although the husband was very friendly, as he always is, the wife was, I thought, very sarcastic about our not having come to call on them to see their new house, and definitely implied that we should have come before this. I told her that "from one housekeeper to another" I wouldn't have thought of coming until she invited us, as we wouldn't have been sure that they were ready for callers. She certainly didn't seem very convinced. What is your point of view about this?—R.J.

I would more or less have your point of view . . . for a judge from your letter that you and they are really more acquaintances than intimate friends. However, to convince her of your cordiality, you might graciously have added to what you so well said: "I'd love to come to see you and your new house, Mrs. Blake. May I telephone soon to ask you when it will be convenient for you?"

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE — WEST HASTINGS W.I.

SIDNEY — The July meeting of Uniondale-Hastings West Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. W. Ross, Frankford. There were 23 members, eight visitors and three children in attendance.

Pollard who had been ill; a letter from Mr. Bleecker informing the Uniondale ladies of the Belleville Fair dates and that their services were required in the usual way, serving and home cooked meals. A letter in connection with "Guelph Holiday" in July was also read.

The delegates for the district annual, Mrs. Max Dodds and Mrs. George Halsall, gave a splendid report on the day's affairs which was held in Stirling.

The ladies were thanked by the president, Mrs. F. Loney, for their full report.

Grills, "How's That Again"; piano solo by Mrs. Sine and Betty Sine; readings, Mrs. R. Dafoe, "Double Exposure"; Mrs. M. Sine, "Double Exposure"; a solo, "After the Day Is Through," by Mrs. A. Martyn with Helen Burkitt as pianist.

Readings were also given by Mrs. E. Sine, "A Matter of Taste"; Mrs. R. Fleming, "Heavenly Admonition" and by Mrs. J. Morris, "The Happy Worrier."

A paper, "What a Good Home is Like," by Mrs. A. Sine brought out the theme that a good home is the most important problem in the whole world.

A demonstration on the new Women's Institute stamp was passed around for viewing, and Zelda Halsall, a student of BCI gave a thorough display of the home economics course work, which consisted of leather craft, knitting, weaving and sewing.

Mrs. Rose was thanked for opening her home and a delicious lunch was served.

August meeting hostesses will be: Mrs. M. Reid, Mrs. G. Burkitt with Mrs. E. Sine as convener. Topic being "Papermaking From Log to Paper"

Hamburg Comes To The Rescue

by Mary Moore

My sister Peady called me on the phone, but I took my nickle's worth first: "If you had to economize what meat would you buy for dinner tonight?"

"Hamburg" and then went on: "Hundreds and thousands of women have to manage on hamburg and wieners all week so they can splurge and have a chicken or a roast on Sunday. You ought to know that."

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI WITH MEAT BALLS

Use exactly the same recipe as above for meat loaf but increase the garlic powder to ½ teaspoon. Shape into 1" balls and brown on all sides in hot fat. Remove meat balls from pan and stand aside. In the same pan make the Spaghetti sauce (as directed on pkg.) but stirring together the Mix with a 6-ounce can Tomato paste, 1¾ cups water and 2 tablespoons cooking oil or margarine and simmering 5 minutes. Add meat balls and simmer 10 minutes longer. Meanwhile boil in large amount salted water about 6 ounces (package) long spaghetti about 15 minutes and drain stirring piled on platter topped with meat balls. Pour sauce over all. Pass generous quantity of grated old Cheddar or Parmesan cheese.

2 small slices bread (1 tyr, 1 white, ½ cup boiling water, 1½ pounds hamburg meat, 2 small eggs, ¼ cup grated old cheese, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 or 3 shakes of Tobasco, 2 or 3 shakes of garlic powder, 1 tablespoon hot catsup. Additional hot catsup to spread on top.

In the big mixing bowl I poured the boiling water over the bread then added all remaining ingredients, except catsup for topping, and mixed well. I pressed this into a glass loaf dish (roughly 8½ x 4½ x 2½") and spread hot catsup thinly over top and baked it 1 hour at 300 deg. Fahr. We lifted it out with 2 egg lifters so top side was up on platter. It yielded 2 slices each for 2 while hot and 3 thin slices cold for lunch next day. In other words it sliced very well indeed and would serve 6 adequately.

I had a full package of Spaghetti Sauce mix left over sufficiently to be tried by me so made

Ceylon Premier Clings to Power By Fingernails

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

COLOMBO (AP) — The gov- ernment of Ceylon is hanging on to office by its fingernails.

Prime Minister S. W. R. D. Bandaranaike — opposed in Parliament by only a minority of the elected members. The six votes of members appointed by the government give him a one- vote margin over the opposition members.

Bandaranaike came to power in April , 1956, at the head of a coalition. Its members ranged from leftists who advocated ex- tensive nationalization to middle- of-the-road politicians.

BROKEN COALITION

The coalition fell apart last May amid heated name calling. The leftists were forced out of the cabinet and with them went some members of Bandaran- aike's own Sri Lanka (Free Cey- lon) freedom party.

The first test of the newly co- alitioned government came in a recent opening of a new session of Parliament. Bandaranaike an- nounced no controversial legisla- tion would be introduced. Ob- viously all the government was too shaky to stand any more con- troversy.

Not all opponents are trying to throw out Bandaranaike. His de- feat probably would force new elections since no alternative coalition government is in sight.

NEW VOTERS

Most of the political parties don't want elections now.

An electoral commission re- cently established new constit- uencies for the 19,000,000 people of Ceylon, raising the number of parliamentary seats from 101 to 131 (The Speaker occupies one seat and at present two seats are held by one man).

The vote has just been given to about 500,000 persons between 18 and 21 years of age.

SIX MONTHS DELAY

Until voting lists have been made up for the new constituen- cies and the young voters reg- istered — which will take six months to one year — politicians prefer to avoid an election.

The one party which wants elections as soon as possible is the one expected to gain the least from the young vote. This is the United National party.

The UNP ruled Ceylon from the time Britain granted inde- pendence to this Indian Ocean island in 1948 until 1956. Although considered on the right side of Ceylonese politics, it professes a widely socialistic program.

On the far left stand two part- ies. One is the Communist party, a nuisance but not a real threat. The other is the Ceylon Social Equality party, known by its initials, LSSP, in Ceylon's pre- dominate Sinhalese language. A Marxist group that reverts Trot- sky rather than Stalin or his suc- cessors, its strength lies in Col- ombo labor unions.

Missile Experts Do Not See Space Travel as Any Threat To Man's Belief in a God

By JACK STILLMAN

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Will man's first flight into space cast doubt on the existence of God?

Two men closely associated with American space projects have taken special pains to an- swer that question.

Their interpreted conclusion: No.

The men are Maj.-Gen. J. B. Medaris, commander of the U.S. Army ordnance missile com- mand, and Dr. Wernher von Braun, the army's leading civil- ian scientist. Both are stationed at Redstone Arsenal.

Medaris and von Braun, like many other scientists, measure their words carefully when they try to explain why they believe man's flight into space will not provide religious dogma.

10 COMMANDMENTS

In speeches, both have tried to show that there is room for re- ligion and the scientific and tech- nological revolution, hinging their remarks on the 10 Command- ments as man's guideposts.

Says Episcopalian Medaris: "The 10 Commandments are guided men and brought them safely through the upheavals of the past. They should be the rock of decision today and through all our tomorrows."

Von Braun, a Lutheran in his native Germany who attends an Episcopal church in Huntsville, says: "I think it is a fair as- sumption that the 10 Command- ments are entirely adequate, without amendments, to cope with all the problems the tech- nological revolution not only has brought on but will bring up in the future."

Medaris says he believes sci- entific advance has been made with the grace of God. He told a recent meeting of army chap- lains:

"It is my own belief . . . that the door would have closed in our faces if what we are attempting contravened God's design."

BEAUTY OF CREATION

"Our first steps into the vac- uum of space, he says, have re- emphasized the beauty and order of creation . . . and have verified

Think Wreckage That of Vessel Sunk by Indians

VICTORIA B.C. (CP)— Dr. G. W. Cottrell, Portland, Ore., dentist, is positive the wreckage of a ship sunk in Sydney Inlet on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Dr. Cottrell says he believes it may be the remains of the trading ship Tonquin, owned by John Jacob Astor, which was blown up in June, 1811, after the massacre of all but one member of her crew by Indians. Astor amassed a huge fortune in the fur trade and for years was active on the Pacific coast.

In July, 1957, Dr. Cottrell and his party recovered a cannon from the wreck. The seven-foot gun had a four-inch bore.

Later they located a second cannon, a large captain about three feet in diameter and the remains of an iron windlass 20 feet long.

The stub of a mast, many brass and copper pins and other pieces used for fastening and supports for several other cannon were found.

At the time bad weather prevented further work, but Dr. Cottrell will return to continue the search for proof that the wreck was indeed that of the Tonquin.

Under arrangements made with the department of transport, any relics recovered from the wreck will remain in Canada.

European-Style Barns Are Built In Kent County

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — European-style barns, built to replace barns destroyed in a fire last year, have become a centre of attraction for farm tours in Kent County.

The three barns, located on the Dover Township farm of Murray Jack, are in an H shape. The ends are closed with fences and the enclosed barnyard is divided into four separate sections.

Alleys are covered with a metal roof with a six foot overhang to protect livestock during feeding in severe winter weather.

Concrete mangers, constructed along each side of the four alleys are reinforced with steel. There is an additional 30 - foot open front hog pen capable of holding 300 pigs.

Mr. Jack says the arrangement permits cleaner bedding for cattle since feeding takes place in the open yard and simplifies cleaning both barns and barnyard. Manure loaders and spreaders can work inside the barns.

"The barns are perfect for cattle in the winter," said Mr. Jack. "They get just enough fresh air to keep them healthy."

'Just a Second'

"Oh, Fred, how passionate you are. I can feel your hot breath on my back."

Special Flowers For Special Places

Flowers like most people are individualists. They have very real preferences in regard to soil, shade and moisture. For slopes, for instance, there are a dozen of special plants, mostly tiny, that thrive in such a location. Those are listed in the seed catalogus usually under the general heading of "Rock Garden" plants. They need very little soil or moisture and they will add color and cover to any bit of steep ground.

Then there are flowers that do best in shade, things like begonias, violets, pansies, lily of the valley and so on. These are just the right sort for planting on the north side of house or wall, or other places where the ground is heavily shaded. Here too is the right place for the wild flower garden. There is even special grass for shady locations.

At the opposite end of the scale are those flowers which will not do well unless they get lots of sun, things like poppies, nasturtiums, portulaca and many others. Most of them are not very particular about soil or moisture but they do love the hot sun.

Indians Back In Familiar Spot; Braves Two Shy

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Al Kelleher, the Ford Frick of the Belleville Umpires' Association, looked with one eye at the "Umpires' Manual," and cocked the other on the latest edition of the "Spalding News."

The guy can read, even, if as some baseball players hint, he cannot see a plate unless it has soup, or baked pork and potatoes on it.

He waggled his nose-finger, that's the one he waves under the schnozzles of protesting coaches, managers and players, under this innocent snout.

"The Ole Clucker, as you dubbed him, was big league stuff in his softball heyday, and as such is worthy of a tribute along big league lines," he said. His face was straighter than that of a landlord demanding two months back rent.

"Meaning what?" he was asked.

"Meaning that the Belleville Baseball Umpires' Association, which, I might add, was proud to elect me its president, will honor Herbie Henn in true big league style," Al grinned.

Swelp me, the guy meant it.

Before we go further in detail of this umpirical spectacle, this columnist thinks is a fair tribute to Al and his association, for the fine part they have taken, and are taking in making an outstanding success of "Herbie Henn Night" scheduled for the CNEA Park, August 8, starting 8.30 p.m.

The "Herbie Henn Fund" is coming along very well, but there is lots of room for more donations. They can be forwarded to this department or to the fund treasurer, Herb Polster, 11 Willard Street. Those who wish to contribute in a smaller way can do so by purchasing one of a book of the tickets now on sale by the umpires and many store outlets in the city.

We talked with Herbie via telephone yesterday. There was the timbre of illness in the familiar voice, but it has not quenched nor dimmed that fighting spirit and will-to-win that won many a softball game for his teams.

The Ole Clucker was cheerful. He was feeling better, he said, and able to move around the house. He hopes to be improved to be able to be present at the August 9 game.

Now, back to Kelleher and, as someone has unkindly dubbed them, the "Brigade of the Blind."

"They will," said Kelleher grimly, himself always sartorially perfect in umpire habiliments, "be properly and correctly dressed. They will undergo inspection by the CNEA club house prior to the official parade to the playing field."

They will wear white shirts, black ties and blue trousers. None will be permitted to chew tobacco until after the game. Their shoes will be shined and their trousers held in the proper crease. There will be no crap games between innings.

They will have their hair properly trimmed. They will not wear red fingernail polish. This tends to further excite a bumper or coach should an argument ensue and an umpire is forced to waggle a finger under a nose to emphasize a point. Field umpires will carry magnifying glasses in case close plays take place at the various bases.

Eyeglasses will not be worn. This eliminates the danger of glass cutting a pugilistic player's fat. They will remain standing at all times unless forced to adopt a sitting position through contact with a pop bottle or other missile tossed from the stands. If this occurs time will be called to allow the bottle or missile to be retrieved by the fan. If a thrown bottle is half-full it immediately will be returned to the sender.

Prior to the game they will undergo an eye inspection. Those with one-third vision will be passed. This is regarded as normal in umpires. Balls and strikes must be called as they are — not as seen.

Six members of the Mask-and-Pad Local 3765443 will see action. Others will be held in reserve. Commissioner Kelleher will be in charge and marshal the parade while Grand Vizier Harold Bawden will keep major league scouts away from his charges until the game is over.

Changing of the guard will take place every three innings. The clan will march, counter march, and the festive occupants, who will remain at their posts until awakened. If a fight occurs, they must remain neutral when umpires join same to disturb an umpire. This is considered par for the course.' If an umpire is killed, maimed, or has his eyesight restored through injury, the Players' Union will arrange for a benefit game.

Commissioner Kelleher makes it plain that that on any account any umpire ejected from a game, or other gifts from the fans after the game is completed.

Joking aside, the boys, as was said, are doing a magnificent job aiding a swell guy. On hand will be Kelleher, Don Thomas, Shed Ethier, Mike Whalen, Herb Polster, Jim Tolworth and Harold Bawden. Not only are these good fellows giving their services free for the game but each has made a substantial personal cash donation to the "Herbie Henn Fund." It is sportsmanship and community spirit at its very best.

Adds Braves To All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Milwaukee manager Fred Haney has added pitcher Sam Jones and infielders Johnny Logan and Jim Gilliam to his National League all-star team for the game at Los Angeles, Aug. 3.

When league leaders decided earlier this year on a second all-star game, they agreed to retain all the players from the first game —except pitchers. The managers also got the right to pick three new players.

Haney elected to go with the seven pitchers who comprised the staff for the first game, plus San Francisco's Jones. They will include: Johnny Antonelli, San Francisco; Lou Burdette, Milwaukee; Gene Conley, Philadelphia; Don Drysdale, Los Angeles; Don Elston, Chicago; Roy Face, Pittsburgh; Warren Spahn, Milwaukee.

DINEEN IN HOSPITAL

OTTAWA (CP)—Hockey player Bill Dineen, 27, is expected to be out of hospital in a week after an attack of what his doctor described as a mild form of poliomyelitis or virus infection. Dineen right winger with Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League, was to remain under examination until the exact nature of his ailment is determined.

Tribe Socks Senators Twice As Orioles, Chisox Split; Yanks Blanked, Giants Lose

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Six months ago Jim Perry and known as Jim Baxes.

Perry was a good Cleveland Bobby Locke were as widely prospect who had just finished a fine season in class A, Locke was in the army or just getting out. Baxes, pacific a little apt, was just another infielder in the Los Angeles organization.

Because Locke shut out Washington with two hits 9-0 and Baxes singled home the winning run in the 12th inning for a 4-3 victory in the second game, Sunday, the Indians are back on top in the American League. Locke pitched 11 of the 12 innings before giving way to a pinch-hitter and Modest Grant, a 1936 rookie, picked up the decision.

BIG DISCOVERY

Perry has all the earmarks of a real find for the Indians. Although his two-hitter was only his second start, it was his sixth victory. The freshaller has been brilliant in relief. A pair of home runs by Hal Trosky eased his way.

Locke's effort was outstanding. The 25-year-old righthander gave up only six hits. Baxes, a 30-year-old Yeoman, took up the winning game with a single off Pete Ramos after Minnie Minoso doubled.

Baltimore dropped Chicago half a game behind Cleveland by winning the second game 6-0 on a combination of Milt Pappas' three-hit pitching and the hitting of Gene Woodling, who had a three-run homer. Chicago won the opener on Early Wynn's two-hitter, 4-0, and Al Smith's three-run home run.

LARY BESTS YANKEES

Detroit dropped New York Yankees into a games off the pace with a 1-0 victory behind Frank Lary, who is a career record of 20-3 against the Yanks. Neil Chrisley, who had had no hits in previous pinch - hitting appearances, lined a 10th-inning pinch single off Ryne Duren to decide only run.

Kansas City ran its winning streak to seven by thumping Boston 9-4. It was the Red Sox' ninth straight defeat.

The second game at Cleveland was a tough'e for Ramos, The Cubans got up a three-run homer to Rocky Colavito (No. 20) in the first and added the knockout blow in the 10 innings. Baxes' winning single came with two out in the 12th.

Pappas' shutout that knocked Chicago out of first place was his third of the season and his 11th victory. Like Wynn in the opener, Pappas was in charge all the way.

Saturday, Chicago went 17 innings to defeat Baltimore 3-2. Cleveland pitcher Cal McLish was his eighth straight, downing the Washington 8-1 and Yogi Berra's two-run homer in the ninth gave New York a 9-8 victory over Detroit. Kansas City shut out Boston 2-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Bud Daley who got his 11th win.

Milwaukee Braves, trailing league - leading San Francisco Giants by only two games after a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader with Pittsburgh, seem to have stepped out of their early summer slump.

Warren Spahn's five-hitter in the 4-0 opener was the Braves' third straight shutout. One earned run in the fourth inning of the second game finally snapped a string of 30 2-3 scoreless innings for Pittsburgh but it didn't help much. The Pirates still lost 3-1 to Bob Buhl, making his first start since June 19 after a siege of arm trouble.

GIANTS' LEAD SLICED

Bob Anderson pitched Chicago Cubs into fourth place with a 5-2 victory over San Francisco. The Giants' defeat and Los Angeles' 8-3 decision over St. Louis sliced San Francisco's lead to 1½ games.

Cincinnati snapped Philadelphia's five - game winning streak in the first game 4-2 but Gene Conley got the Phils an even break with a 5-3 triumph in the second game.

On Saturday, San Francisco's Wyatt was run to the showers by southpaw Art Ceccarelli won his first decision since May 30 and since his recall from Fort Worth. St. Louis Cardinals came up with a 10-hit attack that defeated Los Angeles 4-2. Dodger catcher Johnny Roseboro committed three errors.

Ace Pitcher Burdette of Milwaukee Saturday shut out Pittsburgh with four hits 3-0. The Braves remained two games back as Spahn was hit on the head by a Vern Law pitch in the fifth. Milwaukee slugger was saved from serious injury by his batting helmet. Although Cincinnati collected only out 15 Philadelphia batters, the Reds managed a 6-3 victory over the Reds.

ANOTHER ARM READY

Boston Braves added another pitcher Sunday, the 252th of his long career, was impressive. It may be that Bob's performance was the most important for it meant that another experienced arm was ready for the stretch drive.

Milwaukee had only six hits in Ohio opener but Johnny Logan, Friend his 13th defeat. One was a single home run by Hank Aaron, had only five hits in the second but con was Joe Adcock's 11th homer.

Anderson grew stronger as the game progressed at San Francisco Ernie Banks' 21th homer helped Chicago to an early lead while Max hit No. 14 for the Giants.

Don Drysdale drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single to help him to his 10th victory this while winning his 13th for the Dodgers. Drysdale and Charlie Neal hit homers for the Angeles and George Crowe for the Cards.

Brooks Lawrence, taking over after Don Newcombe left because of leg injury, limited Brooklyn Reds in the first game at Cincinnati, Wehmeier's four singles in five trips helped hang a fourth defeat on rookie Jim O'Toole.

Davis Cup

Young Aussies Oust Canada Without Losing a Match

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Australia prepared on toward the Davis Cup tennis challenge round by brushing aside Canada 5-0 in the American zone semi-final.

The Australians, outclassing Canada's best tennis players by wide margin, took the singles Friday and the doubles Saturday in straight sets and lapped it up as they slipped to four-set victories Sunday.

The high spot of the series for Canada was the brilliant play Sunday of Wilmer Francis Godbout, 23, of Waterloo, Que., who took Davis Cup debut took the net from Australian Rod (Rocket) Laver before losing 7-9, 6-4, 6-4.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., 27-year-old veteran champion, forced Roy Emerson to four sets also but lost 4-8, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4. Two years ago in Kent, England, Bedard had polished off Emerson in two straight sets.

Godbout, a lanky lefthander, was conceded little chance to beat his lefthanded opponent who at 20 is recognized as the future world champion. But the rookie took to the grass courts of Mount Royal Tennis Club cool and relaxed and proceeded to give Laver trouble.

Laver in the first set was fortunate from the same player who disposed of Bedard 8-6, 6-2, 6-4 in Friday's expanded singles. He gave up chasing shots that Friday he would have raced to return and his volleys were hitting him often.

"He seemed to have trouble with my forehand," Godbout said. "I was surprised because he has been practising against Bedard. He must have also a lefthander. He caught on to me after a set or so hard, though."

Godbout displayed a good overhead kill and backhand, but Laver was accustomed to the second set and finished strongly.

Bedard and Emerson fought on almost even terms throughout their match, but Bedard folded at critical points.

The doubles Saturday were strictly routine for Australians Emerson, the Wimbledon doubles champions, slapped down Bedard and Fontana 8-3, 6-3, 6-1.

Friday, Emerson easily beat Godbout of Toronto 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

Australia now goes against Cuba here this weekend in the American zone finals. The winner takes on the European zone champions, in Pennsylvania early next month.

Gunfire Halts Wings, Kings; Player Hit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons took giant strides over the weekend toward sweeping to the International Baseball League pennant. They moved 7½ games ahead of the runner-up Havana Cuban Sugar Kings by beating Miami 5-3 Sunday for their third straight over the Marlins.

Rochester, where possibly for the first time in organized baseball history a game was called Saturday because of a fusfire, Rochester Red Wings refused to play a scheduled Sunday doubleheader, and secured official backing from the league. The postponement hurt the Cubans' chances of staying close to the leaders.

Saturday night the Cubans were returned victory, 1-0, in the second game of a June 7 game with Rochester, but the regular game following was couldn't be finished. It was called after 11 innings with the score tied 4 and Rochester Havana player wounded.

Cubans celebrating the beginning of the regulation under Carlos began firing off guns in the stands, and Cuban shortstop Joe Rabbitt was wounded slightly. Frank Verdi, Rochester infielder, was struck on the third basis and had a bullet hole in his helmet but was not injured.

JETS GET SOLDIER

The resurgent Columbus Jets took a doubleheader from Montreal Saturday, 6-3 and 3-1, to move into a fourth-place tie with Richmond, while Toronto Maple Leafs dropped into the cellar by losing 4-1 to Richmond.

Buffalo's Sunday victory was attributed to Warren Hacker (8-5) with Herb Medford the loser. Johnny Hutchings hit his 10th home run for Buffalo.

Two Columbus southpaws, Joe Gibbon and Ken Lintz, served up the Columbus victories. The Jets hit Lintz in the first but in games, Clyde Parris tagged Gibbon for a home run. John Cox's single in the 10th drove home the losers.

Toronto Leafs were victims of Bill Short, who rang up his 13th victory against two defeats, but received relief help. Jack Wilson's home run was the only score off Short. Darrell Johnson, Jack Reed and Jim Piagni hit home runs off a pair of Toronto hurlers. Johnson was the loser—his 12th against four wins. Saturday, Toronto gave Richmond 3-1, Columbus beat Montreal 3-1 and Buffalo topped Miami. Harry Harris was the Montreal loser.

OUT FOR SEASON

DETROIT (AP)—Bill Skowron, New York Yankees' first baseman, will be lost to the club for the rest of the season.

The muscular ex - football player, who has been sidelined by an assortment of injuries through his six-season major league career, suffered a fracture of his left wrist Saturday in an American League game here.

Skowron, who had been out of the lineup since July 11 because of a chronic back ailment, was to reach in front of first base for a throw from third baseman Hector Lopez and the Tigers' Coot Veal smashed into him as he blocked the base.

What's the first thing to do in case of fire?

Call the Fire Department!

Many homes could be saved if this were done. Of course, you should keep a fire extinguisher handy . . . follow safety rules set up by the Fire Department.

But safety rules aren't always enough. Make sure your home is fully protected with fire insurance, too. Call us for a checkup.

Ox Pointers Capture League Title Scoring 11-5 Victory Over Cobourg

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Point Anne Canadian, perennial champions of the Belleville and District softball league, captured the 1959 league pennant in Cobourg Saturday night by whipping the Marshalls 11-5.

It was one of the tightest wins in the history of the league the Canadians sweated up and top with 12 wins and six defeats. The Bobcats will finish in second place, Cobourg third and Frankford fourth. The schedule officially winds up Tuesday night when the Bobcats travel to Cobourg.

The semi-final playoffs will pit the champion Canadians against Trenton with Bobcats meeting Cobourg in four-of-seven series, and expect to get under way the middle of this week.

Although Point Anne was never behind in Saturday's tilt the Marshalls threw off their comfortable distance for six innings on the strength of a couple of home runs. The visitors led 4-3 going into the seventh when they wrapped it up with four unearned runs that closed the scoring with one in the ninth.

Bobby Hunter pitched the clinching victory, allowing seven hits, two of them homeruns by Campbell and Turpin. He struck out ten and passed half that number.

Rolly Campbell went the distance and was tagged for nine safeties. He slipped five on strikes and walked four. Five errors by his mates didn't help any.

A walk, Batchelor's double and a wild pitch gave the visitors a 1-0 first-frame lead. Campbell got that back when he led off the second with a long drive homerblast.

Three Ox-Point runs in the third came when McSporran overran Jones' pop double, Doug Hull singled home Jones and Ivory Batchelor slammed his fifth home run for the year. Two more passes, Hull's sacrifice and an error made it 5-1.

Cobourg reared back with a walk and Dick Turpin's fourth homer and three 5-3 singles to shut the door however, allowing only two scratch singles after that. Infield hits by Gerry and Hunter plus a passed ball scored another Point Anne tally.

Batchelor's slugs started the fourth-inning rally when big mistress, a hit batter and a wild pitch scoring the stanza. Green and Elliott singled, a sharpshot and error, with Green scoring on Batchelor's fly ball to make it 11-5.

The Canadians nipped Hunter out with three twin-killings as Batchelor to Carr at third and Carr to Goyer in left field came up with double-play starts. The Batchelor-Hunter-Jones combined for the third. Carr was especially sharp, with a number of sharp plays.

Batchelor was the winners' big slinker with a home run, double, single and a walk in five attempts. Jack Elliott Jr. had a brace of singles and Dave Jones a double-single. Doug Hull, Pete Green, Gary Goyer and Hunter shared the other base knocks.

Rec Mac Cousins were a credit to Cobourg's seven hits while Leo O'Brien had a pair. The other seven safeties were Campbell's and Turpin's homers.

Swimmers Face Tough Grind Canadian Coach Tells Team

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staffer

BRANTFORD (CP) — Canada's swimming stars, reminded by coach Abel Stanmac that they were back to win the gold medals at the 1959 Pan-American Games, buckled down to a training diet of hard training today with the idea of making him gag on his words.

"You were lucky in 1955," Stanmac told them at the start of the Canners Saturday night after the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association chose a 23-member team for the Pan-Am festival in Chicago next August.

"This time, you probably won't as well-trained Yanks are competing on the home grounds for one of the toughest swimming stations in the world," the Australian-born Toronto coach said. "We've got our work cut out for us."

BEET 'AUG. 24

Members assemble here Aug. 1 for the trip to Chicago and by what they quoted slower times than their best during the three-day trials ended Saturday night will be dropped from the team, the coach said.

Eight Canadian records were eclipsed at the trials and selectors picked 10 men and 13 women for Chicago. Of Monday City in 1955, women swimmers pilled up four gold medals among eight first of the Canadian contingent.

On this year's team are seven veterans of international competition including Brantford's incorrigible Sara Harris, a specialist in the backstroke who has blossomed out as the outstanding sprint female swimmer in the country. She won the 110, 220 and 440-yard free style along with the 110-yard backstroke.

The Ocean girl and Cameron Grout of Montreal ended the trials as the individual stars among the 70 or 80 swimmers and divers who competed. Grout captured the 110- and 220-yard free style and the butterfly for the same distances.

12-YEAR-OLD MEMBER

The rawest rookie is 13-year-old Mary Stewart of Vancouver. The 88-second youngster made the team with a disputed fourth-place finish in the women's 110-yard freestyle Saturday.

She was clocked with the second faster than her sister, Mrs. Ted Hunt, but the judges overruled the timers and gave Mrs. Hunt third spot behind Miss Barbel Hunt, another sister from Vancouver, a 17-year-old Japanese-Canadian who is a star in the 1958 British Empire Games in Wales. The judges said the 31-year-old Mrs. Hunt touched a split second ahead of her kid sister.

The men's team includes Ernie Bietzsner of Kitchener.

K'TOOP'S

...ace held Saturday afternoon and evening. Grout won two, the men's 220-yard butterfly and the 110-yard free style. He best his own record of 58.3 seconds in the free style with a time of 58.3, following up earlier victories in the 110 butterfly and 220 free.

Miss Barber, a double winner, clipped eight-tenths of a second off her 1957 mark of 1.15.3 to take the 220 free style. She won the 110-yard backstroke and 30 minutes later added a second victory in the 110-yard freestyle.

Irene MacDonald of Hamilton, 16, broke the record in the three-metre springboard diving, won the event with ease.

Cuban Bullets Send Wings Scurrying Home

HAVANA (AP)—Havana Sugar Kings and Rochester Red Wings are far from this trigger-happy city today, and the Red Wings, at least, couldn't be happier.

The Cubans are in Montreal and the Wings at home after they begin a series against Richmond.

In fact the Wings have been home since Sunday. They couldn't get out of this violence-torn town fast enough "following the hitting of three players by stray bullets and the calling of Saturday night's game after two innings with the score tied 4-4.

Sunday's doubleheader here was cancelled by apparent league president Frank Shaughnessy after he heard from the umpires a telephone report of Saturday night's incidents.

The Wings, whose Frank Verdi was knocked to the ground when a bullet shattered his batting helmet, refused to play and appealed to Shaughnessy.

"I told them (Rochester) if they didn't want to play, they didn't have to. I wouldn't ask them to play under those conditions," he said. "The police and celebrations for Castro are still going on," Shaughnessy said Sunday.

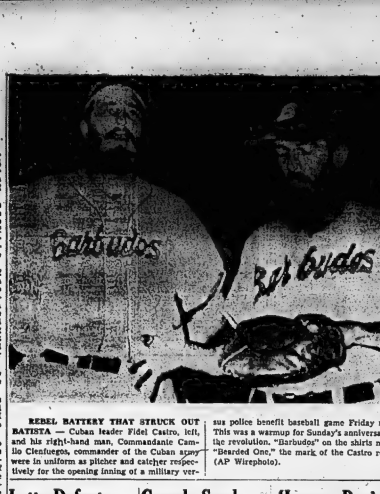
Havana's Leo Cardenas was struck on the shoulder by a stray slug but was not injured seriously. The Cuban management vowed to Shaughnessy's satisfaction.

Saturday night's incidents were the result of the wild celebrations that rocked this county's capital as Prime Minister Fidel Castro's followers celebrated the anniversary of the beginning of the campaign to overthrow former dictator Fulgencia Batista.

Shaughnessy said he was informed that some of the fans in the park Saturday night had gunning guns and were firing them into the air.

Jurges Talks Turkey to His Bosox

CLEVELAND (AP) — Manager Billy Jurges of Boston Red Sox apparently restored harmony to the team with an emergency clubhouse meeting but their troubles continued.



When Kansas City Athletics edged Boston 7-6 Sunday it was the 20th straight loss for the Red Sox. They've dropped 19 of 20 since Jurges took charge. The lanky Jurges Red Sox play the last-place Cleveland Indians here tonight.

Jurges called a meeting of all players after newspaper men left for Saturday night's game in Kansas City. The unprecedented action stemmed from a story in the Christian Science Monitor quoting an unidentified Red Sox player as saying many team members were fast going Jurges' way. Jurges denied that an iron - fisted manager was needed.

Jurges demanded that the player identify himself. There was no response.

"I want harmony," Jurges said. "My business is baseball and I'm going to run baseball. I want to get this thing out into the open.

"I don't want the players to be afraid to talk to the press or to me. I don't want anything that might be critical of other players, then I ask in private. I'm open to any implications before writing. I hope there are no hard feelings, not more difficulties."

REBEL BATTERY THAT STRUCK OUT — Batista-era Cuban leader Fidel Castro, left, and his right-hand man, Commandante Camilo Cienfuegos, commander of the Cuban army, were in uniform as pitcher and catcher respectively for the opening inning of a military versus police benefit baseball game Friday night. This was the first anniversary of the revolution. "Barbudos" on the shirts means "Bearded One," the mark of the Castro rebels. (AP Wirephoto).

USED CAR FACTS

By Ken Finder

EXAMINE THOSE RUST SPOTS

If your examination of a car shows traces of rust around the tires — near headlights and tail lights for example — scrape lightly to see what lies beneath. If there is solid metal which can be painted, all is well, but if there are holes by means replacing a panel which is usually quite expensive.

Although performance is the main factor to be considered when you buy a car, appearance is important. A car that is rusted through in many places hasn't the value of one that is completely sound.

The cars at KENDRY PINDER Ltd. are carefully graded according to mechanical condition, performance and appearance . . . which means that you get the best possible value in a used car.

Janet and John From U.S. Run Afoul of New Zealand's Usually Retiring Nationalism

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP) — National ism is not usually very assertive in New Zealand. But it has suddenly appeared in surprising form by banishing the school reading books which a generation of children have used.

The Janet and John series of infant school books originated in the United States and have been widely used there and in Britain for the last 50 years. They have been universal in the public schools in New Zealand in recent years.

But the education department has suddenly rebelled against these two golden-haired characters. They are not typical of New Zealand, it says. They do not talk like New Zealanders. NATIONAL SLANT

So new books are to be prepared with a distinctive New Zealand slant and introducing among other things, Maori children of New Zealand's native race.

Janet and John will linger on awhile until the new books are prepared, but they stand under sentence of immediate banishment as soon as their replacements become available.

Teachers have shed few tears about the passing of these universally known characters. Janet and John may be bourgeois words in homes throughout the U.K., Britain and New Zealand, but teachers do not seem to look on them with any great affection. "Janet and John are mainly namby-pamby darlings who just don't ring a bell in the mind of the New Zealand child," says J. F. Johnson, senior inspector of primary schools in the Auckland district.

"The books, he says, are not indigenous and the pictures and language are often foreign to New Zealand children.

Teachers believe that livelier children, who talk with more of the New Zealand idiom, will learn more to young pupils in New Zealand an ebod their interest better.

Vancouver's Music Festival Well Received

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The box office isn't what it could be, but there is no lack of critical or audience enthusiasm as the Vancouver International Festival moves toward the halfway mark.

Despite a few setbacks, ticket sales for the five weeks of concerts and other presentations are running some 40 per cent ahead of last year. Receipts totalled $143,258 in the first week.

There have been some busts financially. Among them were two concerts last week featuring Canadian performers, but festival officials said a gala concert for the Queen a few days earlier — with seat prices running in the $7 bracket — drained much of the audience.

The biggest festival production, a costly presentation of Gluck's Orpheus and Eurydice with soprano Kerstin Meyer of Sweden and Mary Costa of Los Angeles, drew less than full houses in its first three of six performances.

TWO SELLOUT CONCERTS

In contrast, two concerts under Hector Swan Karajan of the Berlin Philharmonic were sellouts.

Still to come before the festival ends August 15 are several performances that could give further life into sales. Two symphonic concerts under Paul no Walter are sure-fire full houses and good turnouts are expected for the festival's Stratford play, Schiller's Mary Stuart, and a six-night stand by Japan's Kabuki Tezuka-roku dance theatre.

How do the experts find the festival?

Howard Taubman of the New York Times reported the festival as "alive and bursting with energy." Although Vancouver lacks historical and musical background, he wrote, "some of its leaders are aware that it is not enough to seek to imitate Edinburgh and Salzburg and they wish to develop ideas of their own."

"But even as it stands, it is an arresting expression of Canadian dynamism."

Toronto Man Wins Decathlon

WINNIPEG (CP) — Husky George Stulac of Toronto Saturday won the 10-event decathlon of the combined Pan - American track and field trials and Canadian championships, amass ng 8,- 603 points in the two-day affair.

The 6ft-4in., 26 - year - old Stulac gained a berth on the 30-man Canadian track and field team which will compete at the Pan - American Games in Chicago, Aug. 27-Sept. 5. His performance in the decathlon put him ahead of first alternate, high jumper Eleanor Ward of Fort William, on the squad now completed of 21 men and nine women.

The other 29 placed on the team were decided here the previous weekend following completion of the two-day Pan-American track and field trials, excluding the decathlon.

Dave Lichak of Noranda, Que., already on the team as a pole vaulter, placed second with 3,- 900 points.

Events completed in the two-day decathlon trials were the 100, 400, and 1,500 metres, 110-metre high hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus and javelin.

Stulac won the shot put, high jump, discus and javelin. His weakest events were the hurdles and the 1,500 metre.

Lacrosse

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Welland-Crowland Switsons hit winning form one night too late to stay in the hunt for leadership in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series.

On Saturday night at Welland the second-place Switsons banged six to edge Peterborough Mercurites 10-9. However, the win was in vain as far as any aspirations by first place were concerned since Mercurites had mathematically eliminated this possibility Friday night by defeating Switsons 17-11 in Peterborough.

In Saturday night's other game, at Brampton, the outcome was a doubt until Florie Tomchiachen scored the winner with two minutes remaining to give Long Branch-Dixie Castrols a 9-8 win over the hometown Excelsiors.

Astrological Forecast

TUESDAY, JULY 28

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Here is one of those days when you are tempted to try to increase your income by benefits by unwise methods. Stick to present security and work hard to repair property or retain what you now have, whether it is much or little. See expert.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Being ruthless in your desire to get ahead today will only have serious repercussions. Go in for self-analysis instead and for taking inventory. Don't criticize others or belittle them in any way. Concentrate on self-betterment.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A grave error could be made today if you do not take yourself in hand and forget that private anxiety. A few moments of clear thinking will do more good than all the fretting imaginable. Get out and assist the afflicted and you win out.

Born Children (June 22 to July 21) — A day for rest caution in all financial affairs as well as anything that concerns your good name. You cannot afford those investments you have in mind and comrades cannot understand your ideas, as yet. Keep working steadily, as usual.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take care you do not break any rules today, or you may have serious loss. Curb your temper, too, or you may hurt the feelings of a higher-up and this could be very detrimental to your interests. Think before you act.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Better stick to regular routine today instead of dropping everything in search of supposedly greener pastures. There are nothing but will-o'-the-wisps right now. Find a more efficient way of doing your work. Read paper for ideas.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — It's all right to consult that adviser today, but do not follow advice to the letter since he, or she is not fully cognizant of your true state or affairs. Act justly. Help a friend in need.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Do your best to stay out of argument, causing friction between a stubborn associate and a higher-up. It does not concern you at all. Hence, you do not lose friendships and neither do you get emotionally upset. Be objective, neutral.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Labor carefully now or you have upsets, spills, ruin furniture, etc. Relax at your work and keep an even pace. Later, look into matters of health. Also, in P.M. you must get wardrobe in order, especially stockings or hose.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It is not very likely that you will get that raise or added revenue you have contemplated just now so do not be extravagant with savings. P.M. placate loved ones with smiling mien and gentle ways. Be good.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Better leave home early and avoid that annoying situation. Impress others with your loyal support, though your ideas may be at variance with theirs. Each has the right to own particular opinion. Take it easy tonight.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Imperative you act very courteously and magnanimously with fellow workers and friends now, though they may not agree with you at all. Get regular work done methodically, do your shopping, but keep within your budget.

If Your Child is Born Today — The dear child born today soon believes in order to know his or her relation position with others, it is necessary to pick a quarrel. Early let your progeny be enrolled in some sports actively so that excessive energy may be used up constructively. Then teach to consider other person's viewpoints, too. Excellent chart for anything in connection with government, and very fine for the police field.

Plan Fellowship

The fellowship, the company said in an announcement Sat., is to honor the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip to the nickel mines in the Sudbury area.

TEACH GARDENING

Practically Worthless

Owner of this car wanted to buy a new one — trouble was he didn't have enough money. We looked at the car and found it practically unmarketable because of its age. But we did notice how the care taken of the car spoke eloquently of the owner's character.

So we lent him money to buy a new one!

In other words, you don't have to make a show of money to get a loan — we look at the character of our client more than we value his wares.

LAY OFF CBC STAFF

OTTAWA (CP) — Col. R. P. Landry, chairman of the CBC's interim management committee, said Friday a seasonal decline in production and broadcast time has made necessary the layoff of 157 employees in Toronto and Montreal. The staffs, starting Aug. 1, involves members of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees.

"I'm afraid this club is in danger of breaking up into small cliques."

Arctic Program Gamble on Future

LONDON (CP) — "Canada's program of Arctic development is a gamble on the future, running to hundreds of millions of pounds. So far there is little to indicate how, or whether, it will pay off."

The quotation appears in The Sunday Times, London newspaper, under the byline of Blair Fraser of Maclean's Magazine.

Fraser describes the "deep-frozen desert" of the true Canadian Arctic as a frozen region without trees, without productive soil, virtually without people. But the last seven or eight years, have seen a "multiplication of effort and public money" in the Canadian North that has no parallel."

FEAR BOGUS BILLS FLOOD

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan Toronto police have warned that a batch of counterfeit $10 bills is expected to be put into circulation when tourists flock into the city for the Canadian National Exhibition at the end of August.

HOMES WANTED

The Children's Aid Society is anxious to obtain foster homes for a number of teen-age girls who will be attending upon a Secondary School program in September. For a limited period of months it is proposed to locate in the City of Belleville or in the immediate vicinity of Belleville.

Many compensations arise from being a foster parent to a child in this age group. These are:

—the companionship of a young adult.

—assistance with the normal routine of the home.

—help with the supervision of younger children.

—$13.00 per month maintenance — the Society is responsible for clothing, medical and dental; also for hospitalization, spending allowance and the like.

—the opportunity to discuss the child's adjustment in your home with the experienced and skilled caseworker, who in turn receives professional supervision.

—the satisfaction that comes from knowing you are sharing with a person less fortunate than yourself.

If you are married, in good health, 25 to 55 and without children under 16 and are interested in foster parenting, please write in confidence to Miss Peggy Hall, Executive Director, Miss Peyton, Box 911 or phone WO 8-6611 for further information and application forms.

Canadian's Car Attracts Crowds In Native Land

EASTERN PASSAGE, N.S. (CP) — Chris Kielbaskowski has covered a lot of territory in his 1959 car this year and he's tied up traffic in almost every town he's visited.

Chris isn't accident-prone. He just took his car with him on a visit to his native Poland. In that country, he said on his return here, every North American car attracts crowds.

Everywhere he went in Poland people gathered to admire it, making a lot of extra work for policemen. The car almost became a political problem, too. He said a Communist party member accused him of taking the car to Poland as a propaganda weapon.

Kielbaskowski escaped from German-occupied Poland in 1942 with the aid of the underground. He went to Britain and came to Canada in 1952. Now he is a truck farmer and meat cutter in this suburban community on the eastern side of Halifax harbor.

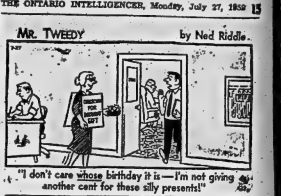
It was his first visit to friends and relatives in Poland since his escape. He said he feared for a while the authorities might not let him return to Canada after he had no trouble, except for being watched closely by the secret police.

MANY POLICEMEN

Chris said armed policemen were to be seen almost everywhere in Poland.

Living standards were only about one - third of Canadian level. The average work week was 48 hours and workers could not change jobs without government permission.

Even Poles could afford television receivers and many not even radios. Every home had a loud speaker hooked up to the state radio, installed by the government and paid for by a small tax.



Only bureaucrats and Communist party members had automobiles.

He said most Poles hate the Russians and "if 85 per cent of the population of the satellite countries are opposed to Russia, a war could result in such an uprising behind Russian lines that they'd be beaten before they even got properly started."

A reporter asked him if he was glad to return to Canada. His answer: "Are you kidding?"

COMO'S MOTHER ILL

RE-ENACT LAVAL LANDING

PERCE, Que. (CP)—A fleet of 30 gaily - debked fishing boats sailed into this Gaspe Peninsula harbor during the weekend, touching off celebrations marking the 300th anniversary of the arrival of Msgr. Francois de Laval, first bishop of New France. Most Rev. Paul Bernier, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Gaspe, stepped ashore from the schooner Lady Nelson to re-enact the landing.

BOMB WOUNDS 42

It Takes A TOTAL Selling Medium To Push A Sales Curve UP! . . .

Today's market for almost anything you can name is rich, responsive, rewarding . . . BUT highly competitive! To keep sales mounting under such conditions calls for a TOTAL selling effort. In particular, it calls for the use of the TOTAL selling medium, the newspaper.

No other medium covers the advertiser's TOTAL market so thoroughly . . . no other medium delivers his message with such powerful selling impact as the newspaper. Most shoppers check the ads in their newspaper, last thing before setting forth to buy. This gives the newspaper advertiser the opportunity to put in that all-important last word for himself, the word that pays off so handsomely in SALES.

United States To Pep up Food Giveaway

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—A new proposal is before Congress to step up the huge United States food giveaway program to the fullest extent possible.

That, in effect, is one of the major recommendations of a presidential study committee headed by William H. Draper former U.S. ambassador to NATO.

The committee's latest report has been turned over to Congress for study and there is no doubt that Congress will have a hard look at it, especially with a presidential election coming up next year and farmers pressing hard for ways of ridding the country of heavy surpluses.

STILL HAVE SURPLUSES

The committee concludes that though the U.S. government would like to see its food surpluses reduced, "this does not seem likely in the near future." It asks that U.S. surpluses be distributed abroad "to the maximum extent" subject to the considerations that normal commercial markets should not be upset.

Just what such a step-up would mean to Canadian growers in export market could only be determined in the light of U.S. determination to keep clear of Canada's traditional customers.

The committee points up a significant trend that may reduce Canadian fears that their markets may be snatched away. The world population is growing in an explosive way and much of the world is also industrial-

Soviet Teachers Stay With Pupils Almost From Cradle to the Grave

By PRESTON GROVER

STALINO, Ukraine, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Soviet teachers stay with many of their students literally almost from the cradle to the grave.

Russia is being trained as a nation of technicians.

Toddlers are cared for by teachers and nurses while mama and papa and big sister and big brother work in the fields or in the factory.

"One out of every fifth or sixth person in this city is a student," said the vice - chairman of the economic council of Kharkov, a mill town of nearly 1,000,000.

He added that the students, including himself, are primarily studying technical subjects.

But there is an effort to instill culture. Take the city of Stalino, almost one solid factory and coal mine. The city population is 701,000.

The mayor of Stalino, who took a party of newspaper men on a tour of his city, said there are six colleges, 12 technical schools, 12 research centres, 185 secondary schools, six theatres and 79 culture palaces and clubs. Of the secondary schools, three specialize in music. There are also three boarding schools.

Ten more schools are being built.

Work and technical training are emphasized. In many schools, much of the maintenance is done by the students. University students, beginning with this year's classes, must work on doing a year's practical work, either in one big lump, or as part - time work associated with their studies.

Some American students, training on an exchange basis in Moscow, said they were impressed by the teaching methods, the tough screening of students and elimination of misfits.

"They don't fool around," said one American student. "They throw them back to the coal mines."

Shift Of Wind Saves 25 Men From Gaspe Fire

Were Trapped in Town, Then Flames Receded

ST. BARNARD des LACS, Que. (CP)—The wind, which shifted here Monday to save 25 men trapped in this tiny community 350 miles northeast of Quebec City, loomed as the big factor today as raging forest fires threatened destruction to small Gaspe lumbering villages.

A wall of fire, which had crept to edge of the parish church and presbytery were receded with a change in the wind. Twenty-five men had been trapped in the smoke-logged village. Women and children were evacuated earlier.

There have been no reports of injuries.

OFFERS HOPE

A weather forecast of cooler air and some showers and thunderstorms actively offered hope to area. The forecast called for 15 mile an hour winds.

Jean Barger, area radio station reporter who was at the fire scene Monday described them this way:

"Flames jumped from one hilltop to another as embers carried by the wind spanned across the sky like meteors."

The continuous shifting of the wind kept about 400 fire-fighters hopping. A back - door "wall of flames drowned number" volunteer and a house in nearby St. Joseph des Monts which was almost completely burned out by the fire Saturday.

FAMILIES LEAVE

The flames gave St. Bernard des Lacs a terrible one - two - three sans Sacre Coeur des Landes to the west. It was evacuated. About 30 families left the area along the trans-Gaspesia highway.

At St. Foulin, 20 miles west of here, 200 men fought a blaze eating toward the Cap Chat River valley. Ste. Octave, a lumbering village just cross it. The fire scorched through a 10 - 20 - five mile area of rich timber and farm land.

South of Matane, 60 miles west of here, another fire has flamed dangerously close to the north and eight miles long. Some of the 1,000 persons in the Mt. Hill have moved out and others remained on the alert.

The Red Cross has set up aid stations at Cap Chat and Ste. Anne des Monts, north of the fire-ravaged area. There were some 200 homeless persons or severe-ly in the area. Red Cross officials said many others had probably moved in with friends.

Two Restaurants Subjects of Vice Inquiry

TORONTO (CP)—Two restaurants which indirectly set off an extensive investigation into this city's illegal narcotic and prostitution traffic were the subject of the vice inquiry here Monday. But the hearing adjourned until Aug. 27 before determining whether the proprietors of Norm's Grill and the Spot One restaurant should retain their licences.

Both restaurants are located in the Dundas - Jarvis - Sherbourne street area, which for the past month has been the object of scrutiny by police, civic and welfare officials.

Magistrate Gordon Tomalty, a member of Western Ontario civilian rule of the RCMP, said that through a secret hideout in the Spot One restaurant he saw narcotics being passed.

Both restaurant proprietors said they had on occasion hired "strong arm" doormen to eject unruly patrons.

But said Koula Stolkos of Norm's Grill: "When I got some muscle on there to throw out the police found out my man had a criminal record and I had to get rid of him."

Said Metro chairman Fred Gardiner: "This government is nothing more than a head office for a large number of neighborhood prostitutes."

Reporters were excluded from the inquiry while RCMP officers answered questions dealing with persons suspected of being "higher ups" in city drug traffic.

Magistrate Macauley of the Western Ontario drug squad said in the majority of cases the restaurants are used as a rendevous between drug addicts and sellers and in the summer they often used the parks as meeting places.

5 Adults, Baby Perish in Two Brooklyn Fires

NEW YORK (AP) — Four adults and a baby girl died today as fire swept through two Brooklyn tenement houses. Two of the dead were women and two men.

Four others jumped from the third floor to the pavement.

Arson is reported in addition to hospital.

Police said the fire apparently was of suspicious origin. Two three-storey tenements in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn were involved.

The blazes were not immediately identified. All were listed as Negroes.

RADIOACTIVITY TESTS

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton will conduct its own tests beginning this week to determine the radioactivity count in the water. Equipment bought by the city for $7,000 will be used in air and water at Hamilton harbor and Lake Ontario.

Today's Chuckle

In front of a western church hangs this sign: "Support your church. You can't take your money with you, but you can put it on ahead."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Very warm and humid weather is finding into Ontario Monday night, bringing higher humidities to all regions. An increasing tendency to afternoon cloudiness and isolated thunderstorms is present in northwestern Ontario and in the extreme southern sections. Partly cloudy, very warm and humid. Risk of a shower or thunderstorm. Winds light.

OUCH! OUCH! OUCH! — Camera records facial expressions of Bill Vaughan as he gets the needle for the first of a series of anti-rabies shots.. He was one of 32 Toronto children getting the treatment after handling a suspected raccoon. But the sad part of the story is that the pain was in vain. Bill had to get his shots again because the needle blocked up, which prompted him to ask, "How much of that junk have you got there?" Bill can look forward to getting the shots daily for several days. (CP Wirephoto).

Comet Jet Carrying Queen and Prince Philip Takes Off From RCAF Station Trenton for Fredericton This Morning

TRENTON — The Comet carrying Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip left RCAF Station, N.B., took off from the RCAF Station in Trenton at 11.39 today nearly 15 minutes behind schedule.

It was due in Fredericton, N.B., at 2.15 p.m. EDT, from where the tour of the Maritime provinces will begin.

The Queen, wearing an apricot-colored dress and coat, with hat to match, shook hands with Mayor and Mrs. J. D. Burnett of Cobourg, Mayor and Mrs. E. Rushforth of Peterborough, Reeve F. E. Goodrich of Brighton and his daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Morgan, Reeve and Mrs. F. W. Hardin of Colborne and Reeve and Mrs. D. C. Johnston of Haldimand county.

After the brief ceremonies the Queen and Prince moved to the jet plane and in a few minutes were airborne, followed by the cheers of the estimated 5000 people at the airport to see them off.

The Royal cavalcade was reported to have been in position late leaving Batterwood where the royal couple had spent the weekend and although some time was made up on the trip to Trenton the cars were slowed through town when it was noticed that huge crowds lined the main streets.

Chief of Police Jack Taylor and Inspector McDougall, driving the jeep cars, estimated that 20,000 people turned out to get another look at the royal couple.

Originally the schedule called for a 30-mile-per-hour trip through the town on the return journey but this was slowed to give the many adults and children another chance to see the royal couple.

After the jet carrying the Queen and Prince Philip had left the station, a second comet carrying the rest of the royal party also took off. Still later a North Star loaded with baggage belonging to the royal tour left.

Before entering the plane the Queen and the Prince both turned to wave farewell to the spectators and to Ontario.

Between now and the time they leave for home by plane from Halifax Aug. 2 they will travel through New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, the last three provinces on the tour which began in Newfoundland June 18.

The royal couple's brief rest at Batterwood, Governor - General Vincent Massey's quiet, tree-shaded home, was completely informal. The only time they left the grounds of the 400-acre farm was Sunday morning when they went to church.

Their privacy guarded round the clock by the RCMP and provincial police, they were able to relax and do as they pleased in the restful surroundings.

The efficiency of the guard was tested only once, on Sunday evening, when a district farmer who once worked for Mr. Massey and five of his friends attempted to enter the grounds of Batterwood.

The farmer thought he knew a way of accomplishing the feat without being seen but one of the RCMP constables spotted them. After questioning the Mounties escorted them from the farm.

Prince Philip went swimming three times during the stay at Batterwood, twice in the pool owned by Mr. Massey's three granddaughters. Despite the 85 degree heat, the closest the Queen came to the private swimming pool was at the edge while her husband swam.

Princess Anne spent the week-end with Phillip in the gardens of the estate and got plenty of rest in preparation for the final part of the tour.

Mr. Massey, the royal couple's host here, will see the Queen once more before she leaves for home. He will fly from Trenton to Halifax for what is expected to be a farewell visit to her in his capacity as governor-general. A cabinet meeting will be held in the Nova Scotia capital Aug. 1 and it is there that an announcement of a visit by Mr. Massey is expected to be made. Most often mentioned for the post is Maj.-Gen. George Vanier.

NIXON VISITS WESTERN SIBERIA ON SOVIET TOUR

Novosibirsk Gives Him Warm Welcome

NOVOSIBIRSK, Soviet Union (AP)—About 20,000 friendly, applauding Russians gave U.S. Vice President Richard Nixon the warmest welcome of his Soviet tour when he arrived in this Siberian city today for a goodwill visit.

Nixon arrived amid solid signs he was considering another and more favorably a recommendation that President Eisenhower invite Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States for a visit.

Persons close to Nixon were understood to be making some impact on him with arguments that Khrushchev must see the U.S. for himself in order to rid himself of misconceptions.

Thousands of men and women lined the streets here, in some places four and five deep, to wave greetings to Nixon and his party.

Communist leaders of this developing Siberian industrial area took through town with the Nixons.

A bus carrying American correspondents travelling with Nixon was nearly mobbed by several thousand excited Russians, hands outstretched in greeting when they arrived in Sibiu Square.

TO TOUR ACADEMY

Soviet authorities were understood to have agreed finally to allow Nixon to tour the Siberian branch of the Academy of Sciences. This is to be a huge scientific research centre for the entire Siberian-Ural area.

Nixon insisted on this visit during his 4½-hour, one-stop flight from Leningrad.

After touring a turbo-generator plant, the vice - president arranged to attend a performance of Queen Lake ballet with members of his party.

Meanwhile, authorities familiar with Nixon's views reported he believes his tour thus far has surpassed his expectations after a low, rather cool welcome in Leningrad.

The crowds who welcomed him in Leningrad were now about three

The association's biennial meeting will be held in Canberra Nov. 24 to Dec. 1 at the invitation of Australia.

The Canadian delegation also will visit Israel on the way back to Canada.

Will Request Riverdale Land Site For Major League Baseball Park

TORONTO (CP) — Alderman Kenneth Ostrander, parks committee chairman, said today he will ask the city to set aside land in Riverdale Park for construction of a major league ball park.

Announcement that a Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League have been granted a franchise to enter a third major baseball league is responsible for the request.

"We have to play ball with these people," said Mr. Ostrander.

Controller Jean Newman commented: "I want to make it clear that while the city may donate some land, I don't propose to spend any money on the construction of a stadium."

The $1,000,000 stadium will be necessary for major league ball games in Toronto.

Mayor Nathan Phillips said to it is "premature to say" what city council will do if Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Maple Leafs, asks the city for help to build a new stadium.

Mayor said Mr. Cooke has not yet asked for financial help to build the new stadium.

ONTARIO WELFARE MINISTER DEFIED BY MOM WHYTE

Officials Barred; Plan Legal Action

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte and Ontario welfare officials were deadlocked today as legal action seemed the next step to force the release of children lodged at Whytehaven Mission.

Welfare Minister Cecile has asked the attorney-general's department for permission to prosecute under the Child Welfare Act. He said there was no intention of closing the home or persecuting Mrs. Whyte.

"Mrs. Whyte is not the issue. Our concern is the children."

SERIOUS OVERCROWDING

He said there is a "serious situation" because of overcrowding at the home, which Mrs. Whyte maintains for homeless children on near Bowmanville, 10 miles east of Oshawa.

Two welfare officials sent to the home Monday to get the names of children in the home were turned away by Mrs. Whyte.

She refused access to her file on the grounds she runs a religious institution and declared that nobody but the parents can take the children away from her.

CECILE FIRM

"We're going to see this thing through," Mr. Cecile said. "I hate to dream of what might happen if a fire should break out with such overcrowded conditions.

He said there should not be more than 40 children at the high form home. There are 120 children living there now.

Recently the home was struck by outbreaks of infectious hepatitis, impetigo and influenza.

A welfare department official said there now are seven adults, including Mrs. Whyte's husband Bert who has a full-time job elsewhere, to look after the children. He said there should be a ratio of one adult to three children.

Both East, West Rewriting Their Berlin Crisis Plans

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four today were rewriting their proposals for breaking the Berlin crisis. Each side obviously hoped the other would come up with new concessions.

If neither side gives ground, the conference may end by the middle of next week, possibly sooner.

Soviet Western diplomats said chances are the new plans will differ enough to offer room for ones to indicate the possibility of a compromise agreement which would lift the Soviet threat to Berlin and clear the way for a summit meeting.

Reports circulated that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in recasting his Berlin proposal, might omit direct reference to his previous demand for creation of a committee of East and West Germans to negotiate on German reunification during a truce in the Berlin crisis.

Western officials said this could mean Gromyko was cutting his price for a Berlin truce. It also could mean he had decided against pressing his point for the moment in hopes of prolonging negotiations on other aspects of the Berlin dispute.

Officials of the Western ministers were reported working out a joint counter-formula calling for continuation of the Allied position in West Berlin and access to that city by land, water and air. Their aim is to get Russia to agree to a new truce collateral to action against West Berlin, at the same time putting no time on the pledge.

One proposal discussed — and attributed by some officials to U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd—would ask Gromyko to accept the principle that permanent arrangements for West Berlin be changed only by consent of the Big Four.

$111,000 Cost Of McFarlands To Taxpayers

Council Asks Enquiry; Plan Debenture Issue

Operation of a world championship Senior A hockey team can be an expensive proposition, it has been confirmed by a special auditor's report submitted last night to Belleville city council.

Council members learned that in the past three years of operation, the city-sponsored world championship Belleville McFarlands had an operating deficit of $111,000 which will have to be made up by city taxpayers.

At the same time council learned that the overall current city deficit was $255,000, including a Belleville Memorial Arena deficit of $142,351. The major part of the arena deficit is accounted for by the operation of the hockey team which is $111,000 in the red.

Following receipt of the auditor's report, council formally passed a petition requesting a judicial enquiry into the city's finance and administration.

PLAN DEBENTURES

Council also decided to apply to the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs for permission to float a $250,000 five-year debenture issue to pay off the city's deficit.

It was noted by Mayor Gerald Hyde that much of the over-all city deficit had been incurred by deficit financing with the city being provided with the money for services taxpayers have not been levied.

The special audit presented to council by city auditor John D. Lewarz gave the city's financial picture up to May 9th of this year and took in all phases of city finance.

MONEY MISSPENT

The special audit had been ordered to bring the financial picture up to date after the auditor for 1958, had said in the words of Mayor Hyde shown, that the city's money had been "grossly misspent" in connection with the operation of the Belleville McFarlands hockey team.

Bruce S. Denyes, manager of the McFarlands, and also city manager and city treasurer, was severely censured for misspending of the city's money by council last night. Mr. Denyes still remains under suspension.

The special audit completed only two weeks work was delayed by the fact that the city's books were incomplete and in many instances being posted, while additional delay was caused by the fact that Mr. Denyes' records pertaining to the hockey club account could not be found.

HOCKEY SALARIES $114,000

Although the Belleville McFarlands are rated as a senior amateur hockey club, the auditor's report showed that over the past three years players had been paid close to $114,000 in salaries and in 1958 alone over $15,000 had been paid out in purchasing referees for games from other hockey clubs.

The 1958 auditor's report showed players had received $113,664 in payments; in 1958, $24,260, in 1957, $74,147 and in 1956, $52,761.

The report also showed that 16 players were claiming unpaid back salaries for 1959, with claims of 14 players amounting to $9,305. Claims from two players had not been received in detail at the time of the report.

Other accounts purported to be owing by the hockey club, including printing costs and purchase of equipment, totalled $6,480.

OFFER RESPONSIBLE

City Solicitor R. A. Pringle was quoted by the auditor as saying that the city was not responsible for salary claims by hockey players.

Mayor Gerald Hyde, however, indicated that although there may not be a legal responsibility on the part of the city there was probably a moral one as well.

Players claiming back salary payments from the hockey club and the amounts claimed are as follows: M. Benoit $29.90; L. Bailey $65.75; W. Brown $60.90; F. Crawford $95.00; F. Geogan $1,400.00; C. Gosselin $36.00; D. Gratton $76.50; R. Marshall $250.00; J. McLellan $61.55; P. Mitchell $1,500.00; J. Hildebrand $1,067.50; L. Smike $28.50; G. Bernston $125.00; B. Bradley $60.00; total $5,000.00.

Quebec City May Be Site For Summit

NOVOSIBIRSK, Soviet Union (CP) — Aides of touring Vice President Richard Nixon today were mentioning Quebec City as a possible site for a summit conference if and when one is agreed upon.

Their reasoning was that Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev could easily visit the United States from Quebec City, which they were held in the Canadian city.

It is generally understood that Khrushchev is anxious to visit the U.S.

Stockholm and Geneva were other cities being mentioned as possible summit sites in informal talks on the Nixon tour.

Jumbo's Alp-Passing Dream Gone, Mountain Corridor Found Blocked

LE PLANEY, France (AP)—Hannibal used the lower passes near the Mediterranean.

The trip was to prove an elephant could negotiate the Clapier Pass.

Why hadn't the organizers of the expedition checked the pass before the start of the trip?

"We thought of that, about everything, even a coat for Jumbo's wife, but not about this chill," said Hoyte, "But we just didn't think of that. Who would have thought the pass wouldn't be open?"

Hoyte said he would try to find another route to negotiate the mountains and get back to Turin, where Jumbo was borrowed from a zoo for this trek.

The heavy stopped Jumbo had walked 727½ miles. From her starting point in Montreal she had climbed from an altitude of 926 feet to 7,150 feet.

Jumbo, the mountain - climbing elephant, and her saddened group of handlers plodded slowly out of this village Monday night, their dreams of glory shattered by a mountain snowfall.

An advance scout party returning from the Clapier-Cenis Pass — last big barrier along Jumbo's route to her home in Turin, Italy — had been blocked by a landslide.

Jumbo started out a week ago in re-enact Hannibal's historic crossing of the Alps with elephants to invade Italy in 219 B.C.

British historian John Hoyte, principal organizer of the trip, is of the opinion Hannibal used the Clapier Pass to reach Italy. He has accompanied Jumbo on her journey.

Chess Club Given Trophy

Timothy E. Moore, treasurer of the Belleville Chess Club since its inception in 1954, last night presented the club with a handsome trophy for annual competition, emblematic of the club championship. The trophy was inscribed with the names of past champions. This year's winner was H. S. (Bud) Ellis of Trenton, president of the club, who has been transferred to Ottawa by the RCAF in the fall.

Governor Urges Rotarians Take Time to Think

"Take time to think . . . be a man of ideas . . . catch the vision of service." This was the message which District Governor Dave Kennedy urged the members of the Rotary Club of Belleville in his annual visit to the club yesterday at noon. Enlarging upon various ideas and themes which he had gathered from the thoughts of many Rotarians he has experienced themselves during their service in Rotary International, the district governor urged that we present "not in resort to devices that cut out thinking; the problems of the world today would be solved if people would only take out time to think." And he urged club members to "take time to be still, to control by impulse," Mr. Kennedy, a McGill graduate, described the Rotary purpose as being a humanitarian service and endeavoured to show its relation with the basic bulwark of thoughtfulness of others finding its expression in the fulfilment of others.

In urging local Rotarians to do their utmost to build "bridges of friendship," the speaker quoted a part of the speech of the immediate past president of the Rotary International, Cliff Randall, who stated, "Rotary is in a world which is too dangerous for anything but truth, and too small for anything but fellowship." These "bridges of friendship" can be built within one's club, in one's community, in one's community and in one's relations outside of one's community.

"Do you but, and a little more, to be a one club member," said Mr. Kennedy emphasizing that there was the opportunity at every level for Rotarians to play a part in "bridges for friendship," whose purpose was "to uplift men's lives through association with others."

The district governor, who was introduced by club president Fred Wilson, was thanked by Joe Demeza.

Ab Wonnacott, a Rotarian for the past 18 years, was introduced as the club's "Man of the Week" by Fred Yealland. Mr. Wonnacott, a local jeweller, is a native of Prince Edward, a past man of the Eastern Star, and has a Rotary attendance record of over 90 per cent.

A very lively sing-song which drew lusty support from the visiting district governor, was led by Ernie Gurnett with Ernie Burnham at the piano. George MacIlhern introduced the visiting Rotarians and Francis Hyke of the Swansea Club of Toronto was awarded a carnation for visiting the "long-distance" visitor. Mr. MacIlhern and Dr. Austin Walters were feted on the occasion of their birthdays.

The meeting was one of the finest which the club has had in recent weeks and those present took full advantage of the opportunities presented, especially Dr. Harry Burns in his capacity as sergeant-at-arms. The meeting was under the chairmanship of the club president, Fred Wilson, and grace was given by Joe Demeza.

Dating Town Girls Just 'Isn't Done'

MALVERN, England (AP)—Boys at one of England's snobbier schools have been advised discreetly: "Dating town girls just isn't done."

Young gentlemen at Malvern College instead should choose their girl friends from the surrounding countryside — or four expensive private schools nestling in the surrounding hills.

"Chi li advice," said 45-year-old headmaster Donald Leese, "discreet advice."

The headmaster added quickly:

"It is not snobbery, you know. It is a question of manners. Boys will be boys—if you get them.

"It has been suggested, for instance, that in shops they should not strike up casual conversations with young lady clerks. It is a question of teaching them they should not go around talking to all and sundry.

"I am responsible for their behavior, and it would not be right for them to get mixed up with . . . shall we say . . . the wrong type of girl?"

Woman Injured At Centre

TRENTON — Mrs. William (Agnes) Camp, 57, of 19 Broad Street Picton suffered injuries to her chest last night when she fell on a step at the east side of the Community Centre.

Mrs. Camp's fall was attributed to the fact there is no light above this step nor is there a hand rail for people to guide themselves by.

Besides the chest injuries Mrs. Camp also injured her left wrist and broke her eye glasses. She was leaving the Community Centre following the Lion's Bingo game and is the first mishap reported this year.

Well over 2,000 persons attend these games from all over the province but one Lion's club member said that when it's over people leave in an orderly fashion and very little trouble is encountered.

The accident was investigated by the Trenton Police Department.

Jamaica Votes, Campaign Ends With Violence

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—Jamaica held a general election today after a campaign that ended in violence Monday night.

A supporter of the governing People's National party was shot down and killed. The man was showing the clenched - fist party salute when he was hit by a shot that came from a passing motorcade of the Labor party.

The election pitted Norman Manley, 66-year-old chief minister of the People's National Party, against his cousin, 75-year-old Sir Alexander Bustamante, who heads the Labor party.

The two men have struggled against each other in the Jamaican political arena since 1942. In the last election in 1955 Manley swept Bustamante out of office after a decade in power.

The present Parliament consists of 18 PNP members, 13 Labor members and one Independent.

WANTS MORE POWER

Whichever party wins today's vote, political sources here expect the election to lead to attempts to give Jamaica greater influence in the West Indies federal Parliament.

In the election manifests to Labor party says Jamaica, which has about half the population of the federation, will withdraw from the federation if it is not given more seats in the 45-member federal Parliament. Jamaica has 17 representatives.

Sources said Manley had been forced to take up an almost hostile attitude to the federation—never popular with the Jamaican voter — to keep peace with Labor in the campaign.

Hospital officials would not discuss the nature of his injuries. A knife was recovered but so far the person who used it has not been identified.

Total City Deficit $255,000 With $111,000 Cost of Macs

In addition to the above list, Minnie Menard and Denis Boucher are instructed they each have a claim but specific amounts had not been forthcoming at the time of the preparation of the report.

RECORDS MISSING

Lack of records for periods of hockey club operation had considerably slowed preparation of the special audit, according to city auditor Lewars.

For instance in 1957 cheques and vouchers for an amount totalling $8,706 were not available and were listed in the auditor's report "as "unknown items".

Also there were several unexplained items such as a payment in 1958 of $3,753 to Mr. Denyes and a payment this year from the hockey club to the Ontario Hydro for $750.

LOSSES IN 7 YEARS

The audit showed the hockey club operated in 1959 at a loss of $9,238. In 1958, the year the Macs won the Allan Cup, the team deficit was $24,292; in 1957 the loss went $29,320; in the red, and in 1956 the direct team cost to the city was $19,300.

Hockey gate receipts over the same period are listed as $37,753 in 1956; $61,564 in 1957; $77,221 in 1958, and in 1959 when the Macs played a shortened schedule before proceeding overseas, the hockey gate was listed as $11,694.

Separate revenue and expenditure statements for the hockey club, the arena commission and the arena canteen were presented by the auditor.

One bright spot in the report was provided by financial reports for the arena canteen which in each of the years listed showed a profit. This profit ranged from $303 for the short 1959 season, to $4,751 for the full year in 1958.

ARENA LOSSES

The report showed, however, that exclusive of the hockey club operation, the Belleville Arena Commission lost money in each of the four years listed commencing in 1956.

Total deficit of the arena commission for the four - year period exclusive of hockey was given as just over $30,000. In 1956 the deficit was $7,755; in 1957 the amount was $5,666; in 1958 the deficit was $11,122 and this year $5,934.

Councillors noted, however, that if the arena had shared a percentage of hockey gate receipts the arena commission deficit would have been wiped out.

One alderman noted that even 15 per cent. of hockey gate receipts would have put the arena commission in the black.

In the introduction of this report to council the auditor noted that there had been no books of account maintained for the hockey team accounts and many of the original records were not available.

It had thus been a difficult task to construct intelligible operating accounts for the club.

He said there had been extensive items for miscellaneous revenue or miscellaneous expenditures which he had been unable to analyze or identify.

ALL "GATES" TO CLUB

He further noted that all of the revenue from gate receipts for Senior "A" hockey had been credited to the operations of the hockey team during the years under review and nothing had been credited to the arena operations from this activity.

To a question from one alderman as to how the hockey club had been financed Mr. Lewars replied this had been done by bank overdraft, by payments to hockey players from the city general fund, and by gate receipts from hockey games transferred from the arena account.

Breaking down the total city deficit of $255,000, Mr. Lewars said the revenue fund deficit was $144,000, of which $31,429 was being levied for in 1959, the Belleville Memorial Arena deficit of $162,351 (including the hockey operation), and capital fund deficits of $39,724 of which $28,000 is the result of unpaid hospital building grants and work circles replaced by him.

and headed simply as "miscellaneous" to require a proper inquiry. The City Hall Board intends have a strong feeling that some of the public feels that in some way they may be responsible. They deserve the opportunity of appearing before council an inquiry and clearing their names.

The City-Manager-Treasurer, would obviously be the key witness and must have the responsibility of accounting for his actions under oath. Certainly the implications contained in this report as to his actions must be publicly aired for his own good and to protect his own future. Our bonding company must have full disclosures of all pertinent facts should the city decide to act under the terms of this policy. The members of this Council and the Board of Education for 1958, 1957, 1958 deserve the opportunity of accounting for their actions as the duly elected representatives of the people during the years in question.

I firmly believe that only a full public inquiry will provide the answers which the public must have and let that inquiry clear the names of those who do not to us who have been connected with this matter in any way.

The question will no doubt arise as to why I am asking this when I have not been a member previous occasions that this has been done. The answer is simple. The application which was submitted on May 9th was technically in order but the Minister can act upon it. But, the Department feels that such an application should be passed at a proper council meeting and this is the method of obtaining individual signatures and I have reason believe that tonight's request will be acted upon immediately. I feel I have nothing to conceal! I am confident that each of you feels the same way and, indeed I cannot help but express the opinion that the Mayor of Belleville might very well feel we did have something to conceal if any of us voted against this request in the light of this report.

MEETING DEFICIT

The second part of this recommendation deals with one method of dealing with the indicated deficit. I am suggesting to you that deficit, give or take a small amount, be spread over a 5-year period at a low rate of interest. I have every reason to believe that one of the largest financial institutions in this country will purchase the debenture at par. I have every reason to believe that the Department of Municipal Affairs will lend its support to our request to The Ontario Municipal Board, for permission to issue debentures for the purpose. I know that a tax increase of approximately 10 mills in the year 1960 for the purpose of wiping out a deficit only, would be very hard to impose on many of our homeowners. And if the Department orders that the portion of the deficit, which had accumulated prior to annexation, be levied against the property owners within the 'old' city limits, as it might well do, it could represent an approximate increase of 13 mills in the residential tax rate in 1960. Now, before everyone panics at the prospect of a huge tax increase in Belleville in 1960, it is the time for this council to take steps to see that every produces evidence which can be used in prosecution in court of one or several individuals, or firms, it would appear that the only way this money can be found is by taxing the ratepayers in 1960. I am suggesting to you that this burden be spread over a 5-year period. No one is going to be happy at the prospect of having to meet it, but at least their displeasure can be absorbed in small amounts if carried for five years.

"Some will suggest that it is a good idea to add interest to deficit, but I say to you that the proposed interest rate is a nominal one in these times and I further say that increased assessment each year will provide the funds for the payment of the interest.

I am sure council can appreciate that I am not able to make this recommendation to you in the belief that it can be successfully carried out without your assistance. I feel that a great deal of behind the scenes spadework had gone on to the negotiations I have made with the parties concerned. I know that the successful execution of out taxpayers will be that, in some way, their elective representatives, myself in particular, have let them down. I can only hope that in studying this whole situation quiet thought and study as the inquiry progresses and its results are made known, that these same taxpayers will feel that, in a most unhappy and disturbing set of circumstances, their Mayor and their Council have acquitted themselves in a manner befitting the positions of trust which they now hold."

A PRAISEWORTHY PROGRAM

The Hastings Children's Aid Society and its officials deserve the heartiest of congratulations for the initiative and imagination which has made it possible for 65 of the Society's wards to enjoy a ten-day vacation at Lake Consecon.

Incidentally, if any persons are critical of the principle behind the payment of family allowances, they ought to chalk up at least one mark in favor of the system - - it made this camp possible by providing a trust fund for each child from which it was possible to meet the expenses of this camp.

Mr. Bruce Kerr of the Society has ably answered one possible objection to such a camp, that it tended to segregate these children whereas the aim should be to integrate them with the community as a whole. He has pointed out that the children live the year around with foster families and that the ten-day camp has made it possible to reunite brothers and sisters for a brief period.

Aside altogether from that argument, though, we think there is something to be said for realism in dealing with these children. Most of them are tragically aware that their lot is different from that of more fortunate youngsters who have parents who love and care for them. There seems to us little to be lost, and perhaps much to be gained, from helping them realize that their position, though different from the normal circumstances of most of their friends, is not by any means unique. They should be able to draw encouragement and strength from the experiences at this ten-day camp which will show them how other children, in exactly similar circumstances, are meeting the early and hard challenge of life. The argument against segregation, for any reason, should not be construed as a valid argument against facing facts, against a recognition of differences, whether they be differences of race, color, creed or social and economic status.

THE SHORT ARM OF QUEBEC LAW

An incident occurred recently in the area of the Shefford-Richmond county line in southern Quebec when a professor of the McGill University law faculty was viciously assaulted on the farm of a friend when a motor caravan of hoodlums descended on the farm to create trouble. The incident occurred on July 12th and the Quebec Provincial Police were notified of it at once. It was reported in the Montreal Gazette over nine days later that the victim of the assault was not yet to be approached by a police officer to investigate the incident.

The various police detachments in the district consider the area to be out of "their" jurisdiction and the result is that there is now little if any hope of the assailants being apprehended or of police protection being available to area residents in the event of future incidents of a similar nature.

This is a shocking situation to say the least. We can understand that there are some aspects of French-Canadian life which we might not understand, but this complete show of disinterest by the police is beyond comprehension. Such an attitude, to say the least, can serve only to stimulate another occurrence of a similar nature. We fully believe that any police officer is concerned when the life of a citizen is threatened, whether this occurs within his bailiwick or not. In the case of the Quebec Provincial Police we cannot see even the slightest vestige of any reason or excuse for the complete indifference concerning the incident concerned.

THE DAY GROWS LONGER

"Nor brought too long a day - - "

The poet, musing about the difference between his welcome to the dawn in his boyhood years and his maturity, was almost certainly right in his evident supposition that the reason for this difference in attitude lay within himself.

And yet the days do grow longer, year by year.

That fact we learn in a report in UNESCO Features. This has apparently been known to scientists for 200 years. A day is now two-hundredths of a second longer than it was when Christ was born. The lengthening day is said to be caused by a slowing down of the earth's rotation, but what puzzles the scientists is what causes this deceleration.

"I love to study folks," said she,
And they were in a fine cafe.
"I like to go about and see
The very most human beings play."

"I like to see them come and go.
And ponder on the things they do,
For human nature, don't you know,
Is always teaching something new."

"Think not because you find me here
I really like this sort of thing,
But while the crowds are seeking cheer
Their faces I am studying."

She who had entered that cafe
To ponder on the human mind,
In that one lesson put away
Just seventeen dollars' worth of food.

Bridge Best of Card Games

New York Times

Contract bridge, that fascinated frenzy many of us remember as a fad of the Nineteen Twenties and Thirties, once again is in the news — if indeed it has ever been outside. Two recent events are sure to call it to focus attention on what Somerset Maugham once called "the most entertaining and intelligent card game the wit of man has so far devised." One was the start in this newspaper of a daily feature on bridge, the other an announcement that the fall would see a half-hour bridge show each Sunday afternoon over a national television network.

Those among the millions playing bridge today who are firm addicts probably contend there really is no other card game. Nevertheless, the hard-headed statisticians of the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers offer late figures, though, to show that bridge still remains far about share first place in the popularity poll among card games. Following them in order of popularity are pokeer, the pinochle, solitaire, rummy, 500, hearts and gin. Of the 40,000,000 Americans said to play bridge about 100,000 are members of the American Contract Bridge League, the governing body. They play duplicate bridge, the strictest card game in which the same hand is played more than once. This is the form used in the many tournaments conducted by the league, since it removes the element of luck to a minimum, for the scores are based on a comparison of the results achieved with the same cards.

Contract bridge is the fourth in the succession of partnership games that the family has fallen starting with whist itself and continuing with auction bridge, whist, auction, and then contract. As a measure of whist's antiquity, Edmond Hoyle (1679-1769) often was called upon to settle points of law in one of its teachers. He wrote the first treatise on whist and established the principles of law and order in card playing. Thus he gave rise to the current expression "according to Hoyle" to denote correct procedure in anything or whatsoever. Bridge whist first came into vogue in 1894 when it was introduced in London's Portland Club by Lord Brougham, and remained popular until the 1904 vogue for auction bridge a decade later.

Auction bridge, which introduced the element of competitive bidding for the privilege of naming the trump suit, remained supreme until late in 1925, featuring a bridge game at that time aboard a steamship route from Los Angeles to Havana. Harold S. Vanderbilt developed the game as it is played today. He introduced such ideas as vulnerability, three bidding, the point count bidding systems and many others that keep bridge players happy at the present moment. Mr. Vanderbilt retired from tournament bridge more than two decades ago, but the Vanderbilt Cup Championship he inaugurated in 1928 still is one of the top tournaments for teams-of-four.

What is it about bridge that makes it so appealing to so many millions? The eminent psychologist and obviously a bridge player, Sir Henry Head, has said this about the game: "As a discipline in unselfish social habits and as a means of self-development, it ranks high in the category of moral achievements." Certainly it has eggbeed snob appeal, as it often is referred to as the pinochle of all card games. Supporting this notion are the bridge hands and world statesmen who enjoy the game. Almost as well-known as President Elsehower's love for golf is his enjoyment of a bridge game, it is reported that the late John Foster Dulles played bridge so well that he was awarded upon occasions to play specific cards, having sensed that they must hold them. His successor as Secretary of State, Christian Herter, in the same tradition has long held Allied solidarity at the bridge table during the now renowned Geneva conference with such compeers as British Foreign Secretary Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville. Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko was invited to sit in but declined on the ground that he did not know how to play. Apparently he fears of the intellectual competition mostly had [illegible] since in his game, also one for the intellectuals.

Why Are We So Afraid Of Russia?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I don't know if you're getting as tir e of hearing about Russia as I am, but sometimes it seems as if everything in America would collapse and disintegrate if we didn't have the "Russian threat" to hold it.

Why do we need more science in the schools? Look at Russia, they are the answer to all intelligent, avoid forcest fires, have to make children attend religious hood meetings, buy a new car this year? It's because of that menacing Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Why can't we get anything done before the Bolshevik threat appeared on the horizon in years past? Are we lacking in initiative, energy, imagination and moral fibre? Is private activity must be keyed to some warning that Russia will outstrip us, outproduce, outeducate or outlive us?

Everyone comes a letter from Douglas MacArthur, on behalf of the 1960 Olympic Business Men's Club, which is better letter stirs:

"You have repeatedly read of the determined and unrelenting efforts of Soviet Russia to defeat the United States in big sports in the 1960 Olympic Games. We believe you will [illegible] to join with us right now to prepare to repel this threat. . ."

What have pole vaulting, broad jumping and discus throwing got to do with the political and economic systems of our two countries? These sports existed long before Soviet Russia came into political long after that particular tyranny has been ground into dust.

If we train a crack Olympics team it won't be to show superiority for diplomatic gloating; indeed, the whole purpose of training is for a man to do his individual merit ,without considering the feelings of the Yonkers, Yalta or the Upper Yukon.

But every sport has its speaker, every promoter of a cause, feels he must [illegible] in some action by rattling the Russian skeleton over our bedsteads. I cannot believe that a man in the street is generated by this tactic is better, more American, or less nationalism provoked by the Soviet leaders. The more "anti" we are against a foe, the more like the Russians we become.

And I don't want to lead our lives, individually and collectively, for positive reasons, because I want wisdom point the way, and not because the Russians are doing this or have not done that. Let us win the Olympics, but not in the name of our fitness, not as a grim manoeuvre in the perpetual chesagame of world politics.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS
EVERYTHING HAS A PRICE TAG

For some people one of life's hardest lessons is to learn that goodness of life come through effort.

These same people are perfectly willing to admit that there can be no business success without effort. They will tell you that the body cannot be made strong without exercise. They will even admit that the finest qualities of character are built up as the result of overmeeting life's hard circumstances and wrestling with them.

That figure of wrestling reminds us of the patriarch Jacob who, we are told in the Book of Genesis, thought he could rise up and cross the stream Jabbok and on the other side meet his brother Esau whom he had wronged, and again hoodwink that stupid, evil brother. But as he got to the other side of the stream he found himself grasped by the strong arms of a man — or was it an angel? — and then a wrestling match started. Jacob fought a new game, but a far vastly more important, he had to fight for his soul. He thought he could triumph just as he was. God showed him that it would take a lot more to answered — Jacob to win a real victory.

It takes effort to achieve success just as it takes effort to achieve success in any field. We wrestle with angels, with men — most often, with ourselves. A million dollars cannot be bought for a million dollars. Neither can good character or self-restraint be otherwise achieved.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A storekeeper I have known for 35 years telephoned me to say if I knew the identity of a man I had spoken to in his store an hour before. I regretted that I did not.

"Did he pay you?" I asked.

"No. I am afraid I gypped him," said my friend. "He helped himself to a pocket camera film that I had laid aside on a shelf. I didn't notice it until he left."

"Well, don't fret," I said. "It is like this:

"No, it is mine for leaving the film in view," said the storekeeper.

It is a small unprosperous store my friend has run these 35 years. He never makes more than a bare living from it; but he has raised a family of three sons and a daughter, all of whom are among the finest people I know.

The reason the storekeeper is not a more prosperous man is his fanatical honesty. Years ago he told me his creed and his philosophy.

"I have looked at the world," he said, "and I know one thing for certain. Every dishonest nickel you make costs you a hundred or a thousand nickels in retribution of some kind. For every stolen dollar you take in this life, you pay a thousand dollars, but not in money. All around us are trailing by evil-to-do people, who have made their fortunes by questionable means, and they wonder why their lives are plagued with trouble, their children go to pot; their comfort sours into discomfort, their security shrinks into the saddest insecurity of all.

My friend is a religious man, but fanatical in only this one respect.

He will hunt that man who picked up the outdated film until he finds him.

It may take him a year.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

CANCER QUACK IN THE MOST VICIOUS OF THE BREED

Maybe I'll never find out what promoted the following letter, but there it is anyway:

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is your opinion of persons who take their families to quackery doctors for treatment for cancer? They tell us someday soon they will find one that has the cure which so many have been looking for. Do you feel they will find the answer? — A.F."

I can't imagine anyone in his right mind taking a loved one to a person known to be a cancer quack.

A quack, by definition, is a charlatan who pretends to have medical ability, and boasts about it, but is, for all that, a fake.

Who'd go to a quack, knowing him to be one? Nobody!

The cancer quack is, by all odds, the meanest kind most vicious of them all. And unfortunately he is the wealthiest of all quacks, because desperate people will impoverish themselves by believing in some faker who offers a plausible story of having found a "secret cure".

Cancer is a terribly dangerous disease, but not always hopeless by any means. As things are now, only about one-third of all cancer patients is being cured by the two proved methods of cure: surgery and radiation (radium, cobalt, radium).

Many a cancer reason to believe that if only we could discover cases sooner, we could double the cure rate. That is, cure half of them, or substantially more.

About half the deaths are among people who go to the doctor, but who put off getting operations for some months but didn't go to the doctor for various reasons. Most often it is "It didn't thought it would clear up", or "I was afraid it was cancer", "Because I was afraid it was cancer and I didn't want to find out for sure".

The quack who uses his glib lines to sell pills, serum, salves, "electronic" treatments and so on, delays some patients from ever getting to them in time. It is promising that he can cure "without surgery", if the hopeless surgery could have cured many of them. After they've wasted time on the quack's nostrums and the quack, it becomes too late.

Other patients, who don't really have cancer (maybe they have a non-malignant sore, or a harmless lump, or just a case of the jitters) may not be harmed physically by the quack's cures. All they do is waste time that they are robbed of money.

Every honest physician subscribes wholeheartedly to the one rule that protects us all: If anyone finds a real cure for any thing, he is in honor bound to report it to everybody. If any of the many dishonest quacks published for such a purpose.

That's the right way, isn't it? And anyway, a man (or woman) who discovered a genuine cure would quickly become not only rich but famous. He wouldn't have to keep his "cure" a secret. Doctors also have a fixed antipathy against advertising ourselves or our treatments.

So there's one sure way of avoiding a quack: If a so-called healer, no matter how important he makes himself look, says he has a "secret" cure, stay away from him. He's breaking the basic rule of humane medical care.

And the same goes if he prints (or offers on the air) advertisements of his "Cure" if he advertises, he's breaking another rule. Stay away from the violators of those rules!

Maoris Love Fat Women

St. Thomas Times-Journal

A Maori woman known as Princess Rora Tera Rama Parata-Nui-Te-Rangi has revived the title through a relative who was created princess by Queen Victoria for being the first Maori woman to sing before her. The princess is appearing in a vaudeville show in Melbourne, Australia. Her only claim to being a performer is that she is very fat, even by Australian standards, and put-on a performance on the stage she performs pretty well with a drum and a knife and fork. She likes eggs and consumes 32 a day. She also puts away eight steaks a day.

While the average white woman tries to keep a normal weight it is a peculiar fact that among the dusky natives the fatter a woman is the better. A massive woman who does not have to work her meals, but eats as much as she can in order to get fatter, is a much sought matrimonial prize.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

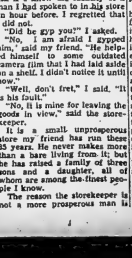
HOLIDAYS

People who do not take holidays soon rust. The soul has to be cleaned and oiled. At regular intervals, too.

"Time and tide wait for no man." So we must get in step with the going along with both. Holidays help. Study, recreation and growth come with the simplest holiday when we forget, but also even had his whole attitude toward life changed by the reading and absorbing of a single book.

Holidays are also not necessarily days made vacant in idleness. For idleness is a form of waste. Then time and tide do move on, leaving the man behind.

To holiday is to get away from things — the daily, day-by-day things that so often clog a mind. There can be holidays in busy days. Holidays in every day.



It was old Walt Whitman who found the soul in his rhymes, ferry rides and rambles through crowded streets, fields, and through wild stretches of country. It was he who saw in the "mere" a spectacle and "the world's presence" great fundamental truths.

A few nights ago I looked out of my home window and saw one of the most magnificent stars I have ever beheld. I immediately forgot my cares problems of the day — and took a holiday. Just a few minutes.

You don't always have to travel afar for a holiday!

Car Theft Ring Uncovered by Montreal Police

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police stumbled upon the headquarters of what may be a large stolen car ring, while investigating an anonymous tip Monday night.

Three teen-agers, a 16-year-old girl, and two 17-year-old boys, were arrested and six cars recovered.

Det.-Sgt. Rene Beauchamp of the stolen auto squad said police expect to recover at least two more stolen cars today.

He said he did not believe the ring was part of a larger international ring operating in Vermont, Quebec and Ontario. However he termed it "a big operation" that has been operating for the last two weeks.

Police also recovered $1,500 in merchandise cached in a nearby apartment rented by the teen-agers last Friday.

They are looking for other juveniles known to have frequented the apartment.

Police believe the cars were stolen chiefly to get the merchandise in them.

Hawaii Holds State Election

HONOLULU (AP)—The newest U.S. state voted today in its first election.

From Hilo to Honolulu, inhabitants of the 300-mile island chain cast ballots for two U.S. senators, one representative, a governor and 76 - member state legislature.

It appeared certain—for the first time in U.S. history—that a person of Japanese or Chinese ancestry would be sent to Congress.

Republicans conceded their rivals as underdogs but hoped to upset predictions of a Democratic sweep by grabbing several major offices.

Election officials predicted a record vote, perhaps 90 per cent of the 180,099 persons registered.

Most Hawaii attention was on the race for governor, pitting Democrat John A. Burns against the appointed governor, William F. Quinn.

Democrats believe they have a sure winner in 34-year-old Japanese-American Daniel K. Inouye, running for Hawaii's lone seat in the House of Representatives.

Widows of Ten N.B. Fishermen To Meet Queen

ESCUMINAC, N.B. (CP)—The widows of fishermen lost in the June 20 Northumberland Strait fishing fleet disaster will meet Queen Elizabeth Wednesday at Pointe du Chene, N.B., near Moncton.

Rev. Paul Arsenault, Roman Catholic priest at nearby Baie Ste. Anne, said the widows will be accompanied by some of their children when they meet the Queen before she embarks on the royal yacht Britannia for a trip to Prince Edward Island.

Thirty - five salmon fishermen died when the small-boat fleet was caught in a sudden storm. They left 24 widows and 83 dependent children.

Father Arsenault said some of the widows were unable to make the trip because of the long wait at the wharf with the children, some of them too young to walk.

He said, "They are very grateful to the Queen for her donation to the New Brunswick Fishermen's Disaster Fund.

dren in any well-operated home.

Mrs. Whyte Moodey night said five women and a man were on their way from Winnipeg to help out. She was also expecting a couple from Saskatoon and a woman from Port Credit.

PARENTS ON PHONE

She said: "A great many parents have called me up and they are really upset. They are satisfied the children are in the right place and being looked after properly. They have 150 acres to play in here."

Earlier Mrs. Whyte placed phone calls to Premier Frost and Governor - General Massey. The latter call was refused and she was advised to write the governor-general a letter.

"They will not take any children out of here without a real fight," she said. "This is a mission and not a boarding home. They would be interfering with religious freedom in this country."

Welfare department officials have already made arrangements to care for 30 of the children at another home.

Present Plan Of Preparation For A-Test Ban

By JOHN TLBOT

GENEVA (Reuters) — The United States Monday gave the three-nation nuclear conference a plan for a preparatory commission that would pave the way for operation of a treaty-agreed ban on nuclear weapons tests.

The United States, backed by Britain, presented the Soviet Union with a draft annex to any future East-West test-ban treaty. It outlines the establishment of a preparatory commission that would operate between the signing of the treaty and its coming into force after ratification.

U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth said the commission would survey the world for sites for test-detecting control posts, work out figures on how much money the treaty-signers would have to give the ban-policing control organization, and set up the organization's operational plans.

PROMISES STUDY

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said he would study the U.S. draft, but expressed anxiety that there could be a procedure of adopting decisions" that would work against his country.

This was a reference to the composition of the seven-member control commission, which operates the ban after the preparatory phase finishes. The control commission's composition has not yet been decided.

The U.S. and Britain have suggested representatives from three Western nations, three Eastern powers and one neutral.

The Soviet Union has objected, preferring two neutral powers, two Eastern and three neutrals.

At Monday's session, British delegate Sir Michael Wright said the Anglo-proposed preparatory commission would consist of representatives of the U.S., Russia and Britain.

The date for the next session of the conference is not set. It hinges on the current Big Four foreign ministers talks here.

Reds Blockade Youth Festival

VIENNA (Reuters) — Stern young Communists today erected a miniature Iron Curtain around the fairground headquarters of an international youth festival here as violent arguments erupted in the Communist-run rally.

Communist girls and boys forcibly blocked every entrance to the site despite the fact that organizers had promised that reporters would have free access to the delegations.

Communists did their best to break up an American delegation meeting aimed at avoiding a feud in the ranks and tried to bar invited Western reporters from the session.

Nazi and Arab delegates were reported to have clashed in a Vienna hotel Monday night and also on the festival grounds.

Knives were drawn in the hotel fight and only the intervention of a Vienna police riot squad prevented bloodshed, reports said. No arrests were made.

Other groups of Israelis brawled with Lebanese delegates — using milk bottles as weapons —on the festival grounds. Austrian policemen guards broke up the fight.

PM Not Rushing To Fill Senator Spots

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker appears to be in no hurry to fill remaining vacancies in the Senate.

One reason, perhaps, is that there are so few vacancies to fill. There are only six seats in the 102 seats of the upper house. Often in the recent past, especially when the membership was becoming heavily Liberal as a consequence of that party's lengthy reign in government, there were 15 and 20 openings.

At present there are three vacancies in seats allotted to Quebec, two for Nova Scotia and one for New Brunswick.

There has been no indication here lately that Mr. Diefenbaker has anyone especially in mind for any of the vacancies.

Present standing in the Senate is: Liberals 74, Progressive Conservatives 19, Independents 2, Independent-Liberal 1.

Senate appointments are for life. Senators receive an annual income of $10,000.

Obviously, this makes it an attractive job and no easily difficulty a prime minister usually has is deciding which of all the candidates he should choose.

Lately, Mr. Diefenbaker has been keeping his choices to a minimum and secret.

BELCH — PLANE

At high noon on Saturday, July 11th, a lovely, double-ring wedding was solemnized in Bridge Street United Church by the Reverend Harry Da Vis, when Lois Hazel Plane, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Plane became the bride of William Charles Belch, of Belleville, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. William Belch. White satin bows designated the guest pews and massive bels of pink and yellow gladioli, mingled with white and yellow pompom mums adorned the altar, while lighted candelabra, and tall vases of pink, white and yellow gladioli and contrasting chrysanthemums graced the sanctuary.

Mr. S. Alex Gordon, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Margaret Arnott, who sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly charming in her bridal gown of pure silk organza, having a pointed molded bodice with scalloped "V" neckline enhanced by Alencon lace and tiny cap sleeves ending in lace scallops. The floor-length skirt of silk organza, was caught at the sides in pinafore effect with four self-roses, while the lower portion featured a deep flowing ruffle flounce over nylon and taffeta underskirts. Scattered on the bridal gown were organza petals outlined with tiny seed pearls and leading studded centres. She wore an oval, finger-tip veil of silk tulle illusion accented with matching lace insertion held by a tiara of French lace, and elbow-length mitts of matching organza, illy-pointed over the wrists. A strand of cultured pearls completed the bridal costume. Her flowers were white Sunbeam roses, white carnations, English ivy and tulle with yellow Sweetheart roses knotted in white satin streamers, in cascade style.

She was attended by Miss Elaine Bourgeau, of Belleville, as matron of honor, attractively attired in waltz-length daffodil - yellow silk organza featuring a shirred oval neckline, short puff sleeves and tulip-effect bodice ending in a pleated cummerbund at the waist, and a harem skirt over nylon and taffeta underskirts.

A silk pillbox hat encircled by a band of flowers and short veil. Matching yellow silk organza mitts completed her costume. She carried a Colonial bouquet of iceberg 'mums, blue pinnochio 'mums, mingled with white tulle, and streamers of matching satin ribbon.

The three bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Belch, Miss Barbara Belch, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Ruth Rowbotham, of Belleville, were gowns of daffodil-yellow in silk organza, fashioned on similar lines to that of the maid of honor, with matching hats and veils. They carried Colonial bouquets of summer flowers.

The little flower girl, Miss Shirley Belch, seven-year-old sister of the bridegroom, was sweet in her short bouffant frock of light blue silk organza with Peter Pan collar, short puffed sleeves and matching mitts. She carried a basket of yellow Pinocchio pons, tied with pom-pom mums and baby's breath and wore a matching floral headband. All the attendants wore single strands of pearls, the gifts of the bride.

Mr. Carl Smith, Centreville, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Ralph Plane, brother of the bride; Mr. Gordon Currie, of Kingston, and Mr. Donald Wallbridge, Belleville, R.R. 7, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlors with the W.A. catering to over 100 guests. The tables were covered with bowls of Golden Sceptre roses. The bride's table, appointed with white damask, was centred by a three-tier, pillared wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of white rosebuds, suspending a white dove holding a wedding band. Tiny white rosebuds, entwined in white tulle, misted the base. Silver candles in silver candlesticks and the bridal bouquets lent a delightful nuptial accent. White tulle white standards of yellow, pink and white gladioli and fronds flanked the bridal table.

The bride's mother, wearing a stylish dress of slate-blue organza over taffeta, with pink and white accessories, received the guests. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in powder-blue lace with taffeta underlay with matching blue accessories. Corsages of pink carnations with silver ties completed their ensembles.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other western points, the bride chose a full-skirted dress with fitted surplice bodice in mini green and shades of mauve. Her shoes and bag were of matching mint green, with white hat and gloves. A yellow-shaded rose corsage and baby's breath corsage completed her ensemble.

Guests were present from Lakefield; Toronto; Willowdale; Bridgewater; Kingston; Ivanhoe; Napanee; Tweed; Roslin; Corbyville and Belleville.

The young couple are residing at 130 Stanley Street, Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the guest of honor at two pre-nuptial showers, one given by Miss Elaine Bourgeau, and the other by Miss Donna Mangulis a new autumn line was established "crossiow" in coats with wide, curved shoulders tappered to a narrower hemline.

He used smooth and shaggy mohairs, smooth and nubbly wools and for evening, silks and brocades.

Herre Balmain artfully reiterated his belief in the molded hour-glass silhouette — effecting the illusion of a lowered waistline at the back.

Vienna Again Takes Lead as Fashion Centre

VIENNA (Reuters) — Vienna, which used to rival Paris as the centre of fashion for central Europe and the Balkan lands, has been displaying its latest fall and winter fashions.

Leading fashion houses here and from Salzburg to Innsbruck showed an emphatic comeback of Austrian women, who prefer plain elegance and simple lines.

Twice a year, the houses give series of dress parades to show off, before a large and enthusiastic audience, what Vienna has described as exemplifying the famous "Vienna charm and elegance."

The Tenth Week of Fashion in Vienna was a great success.

PALACE SHOW

Held in the beautiful old halls of the Auersperg Palace, whose white and gold walls provided an ideal backdrop, Vienna's leading fashion houses welcomed guests from Austria and abroad.

The favorite fabrics used were velvet, brocade, multi-colored and plain, jersey-loop and mohair. Next to the dresses alongside winter cottons, Shetland wools, and newer man-made fibre materials like dacron, helanca and orlon.

All these were used in a symphony of colors. Mahogany, turquoise, jade green, midnight blue, raspberry and brilliant cherry were preferred for full-fashioned models while soft pastel shades of green, yellow and lilac were used for light wool dresses and dresses for the afternoon.

The main trend was the return of the feminine lines in which the bodice, hips and bust are accentuated. Round bells, collars and capes were prevalent and most of the suits were belted. Cocktail and evening dresses were in delicate materials and with tight fitting bodices showing off the figure.

MISS BELCH

Miss Barbara Belch and Miss Ruth Rowbotham, of Belleville, also entertained at a trousseau tea, given for the bride-elect, and at presentation by the staff of Queen Mary School, Belleville, when she was the recipient of a crystal breakfast set. The bridegroom was given a smoking stand by his co-workers.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom, consisted of tie clip and cuff links; the bridegroom's gift to his bride, luggage and to his attendants, Wedding ties and cuff links.

WESTERN WEDDING — There was no white carpet for the bride; instead she rode a white horse at her wedding near Kleinberg, Ont, July 25th. Here, bride Fran Selby, 21, of Orillia, Ont., rides over a small creek on the Circle M Ranch before taking marriage vows with Arthur Wellesley (Wes) Chapman, 30, of Kingston. With the future Mrs. Chapman is her temporary escort Albert Green. Reason for the frontier-style wedding, according to the groom: "It has been my lifelong ambition to be married on the ranch." Women Will 'Retain Waists' But Hemlines Are Lower PARIS (Reuters) — French fashion designers have left women with their waists for the winter. Hemlines have fallen, but not by much.

All in all, the first of the week shows produced little drastic change, but a good deal of elegance.

Young couturier Michel Goma called it the "longer than short look" when he dropped hemlines come two inches.

At Patou, interest centred on color and materials. He had a new polka dot theme for formal clothes, including a white cocktail coat with large, coin - size black dots.

There were luxurious Persian brocades in gold and silver. One striking dress was a brocade sheath, its matching jacket bordered in gun-metal grey mink.

EXOTIC FABRICS

One of the most exotic fabrics was a blue and green, "stained glass" silk print in satin with black cut velvet "lead" to outline at the back.

Grès, a top Paris female designer, had three-quarter-length tunic jackets on her suits with a flared riding coat effect.

For afternoon and late day dresses, she had Persian - like spiced tunic dresses with tiered overskirts over a two-thirds petticoat—often in a contrasting fabric.

BOOK BAN REFUSED

NEW YORK (AP)—Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the U.S. Appeals Court refused Monday to continue a post office ban on Lady Chatterley's Lover, controversial D. H. Lawrence novel. The U.S. attorney's office here had asked that the ban on mail distribution be continued until it could appeal a court decision which upset the ban. The Appeals court is not scheduled to meet until October.

Mother's Helper

NEW IDEAS are constantly being developed for making babies healthy and comfortable. One of these is a removable fabric liner that dries in minutes inside the regular diaper. With one of these, when you pick up your baby after a sleep, his body will be comparatively dry—and his skin protected. Change him as usual, of course.

Summer Sparklers

By ALICE ALDEN

Glitter adds glamor to evening outfits this season, especially at resort. Versions constitute some nice notions, such as a dimensional circle pin fashioned of golden-flecked oval stones and iced with tiny rhinestones. The necklace, in matching design, is a ribbon of brilliance, as is the bracelet.

Tinka's Torte Or Four O'clock Coffee Time Cake

by Mary Moore

A carload of holiday weekend guests arrived at Tinka's apartment. With true European hospitality she greeted them with hot coffee and a cake the recipe for which, she came back to me w' my sisters.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Extra Good Meat Loaf (see Monday); Scalloped Potatoes; Green Salad Bowl with Shredded Swiss Cheese; French Dressing; Strawberries and Cream; Sugar Cookies; Coffee.

Tinka and I being sisted co.kz, although hundreds of miles apart; I wrote to her saying: "What's this I hear about w'-derful cake you made?" Return mail brought the recipe written in Tinka's inimitable hand and words: "Weigh two eggs (whole) take as much sugar, butter and flour. Cream butter fluffy add sugar slowly while beating, add 1 whole egg (best) the second egg (best) ,1 slowly the flour. Bake at approximately 350 deg. Cream. Four squares bitter chocolate with a few drops of water are melted. Take from stove mix with 1-4 pound butter. Cut cold cake twice fill with cream, etc."

These were sparse instructions considering the bullet-up my sisters gave this cake. So I set to, to fill them out.

What I produced was a chocolate-coated pound-type cake of sensational quality. Pete and I drove to Danny's and Barb's for dinner and I took dessert and Danny hid all the cake that was left saying "I'm selfish — I want it all."

Indeed it is a creation. The bitter-sweet combination could well be copied by Canadian cooks, who all too often smother too-sweet cakes in too-sweet frosting.

TINKA'S TORTE:

Method: I weighed all of the ingredients as Tinka directed, then measured them and here are the quality equivalents.)

Two large eggs, ½-3 cup (1-4 pound) butter, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted allpurpose flour. Beat butter and sugar with rotary or electric beater 10 minutes or until pale and light and full of air. Add 1 egg and beat 2 minutes. Add second egg and beat 2 minutes. Fold in sifted flour until blended. Turn into buttered loaf pan (8 1-3 x 4 1-3 x 2 3-4") and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 35 to 40 minutes. Turn out on cake rack to cool. While cake is cooking prepare Chocolate Cream: Slowly melt together 4 squares bitter chocolate and 1-4 pound (1-2) butter with 2 tablespoons hot water. As soon as blended remove from heat and mix well. I added 1-2 cup sifted icing sugar. Tinka did not. When cake is cold cut it into 3 even layers and spread the chocolate cream thickly between layers and on top and sides of cake. Chill in refrigerator overnight. Keep stored in refrigerator. Slice thinly and serve on plates with forks. When you taste this you will understand quickly why I recommend its bitter-sweet delicioumss

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

PRESENT FOR SECOND ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I believe I've learned my lesson about not being too hasty about giving an engagement present, particularly an expensive present. Some time ago a very good friend of mine became engaged, and in a burst of most sincere enthusiasm, I gave her a beautiful (and very expensive) engagement present. When that engagement was broken, she did not return my present, never mentioned she would return it. If I wished to have it back.

About a month ago her parents announced her engagement to a prominent lawyer here, very well - known professionally and socially. Perhaps the importance of this engagement has nothing to do with the fact that many engagement presents are being sent to her, but in telling me how many of our mutual friends have sent her engagement presents, I can't help thinking that she is hinting that I also should send her one. I'm getting embarrassed.

At the present time I'm not as financially able to send her such an important present as I sent her for her first engagement, and I'd prefer to wait and send only the wedding present. My oldest sister, who is also a close friend of this girl, suggests that it might be a good idea for me to ask her to consider my first present as the present for this engagement. Your advice, please — Constant Reader.

My first advice is that you should not say anything at all to her about the engagement present you gave her. I'm quite sure if she doesn't need any reminder about this, realizes all about its beauty and its value. Just give her the wedding present you can afford, and let it go at that. But if you're too bothered to "let it go at that," give her a simple, inexpensive present—one I'd soon chosen with such special thought that it takes on an air of being significant of your friendliness.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two lawyers. Each article, a summary of an actual case history, The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Martin G.—We shouldn't tell my sister what her little girl told us.

Edna G. — The parents should know what goes on in her mind.

Martin G.— My wife and I are having a disagreement about a problem that concerns my sister and her husband.

Recently her 12-year-old little girl came to stay at our home for a week. One night she came into our room and started crying, telling us she was very unhappy because her parents didn't love one another.

We comforted her as best we could and then scolded her for talking like that. I explained that a child can't understand the feelings of grownups and that parents sometimes have disagreements, but that doesn't mean they don't love each other. Shirley wasn't convinced no matter what we said. She made us promise not tell her mother and I don't think we should. It's a child's foolishness. Should I speak my sister?

Edna G. — I feel that I would want to be told if this had happened with my child. It is important for parents to know what is going on in their children's minds.

Aside from this, I have been quite sure that things are not as they should be in that household. Your brother-in-law has always had an eye for women and I'm sure it doesn't make his wife any too happy. Maybe if he knew these ideas were in his daughter's mind he would change. Of course I'm not saying the child really understands anything, but this might just be the thing to bring him into line.

What is most important is the fact that this child is going around talking like this. She might do the same thing with her schoolmates or adult strangers. Her mother should give her a good talking-to.

The Council: Neither Edna's reasons for telling nor Martin's against telling are entirely to the point.

It is true that children often imagine things that aren't so — but adults do the same thing. Most adults are too quick to accept what they want to hear and too quick to pooh-pooh the things they prefer not to hear. If the teller in the second case is a child it is easier to belittle it.

Edna's desire to use this child's confession to bring something to a head in another household is wrong. It is also wrong to break the promise to the child. But Edna's maternal instinct that tells her the parents ought to be made aware of the child's unhappiness is on the right track.

The right thing to do in this case was to have comforted the child and told her she could be mistaken. The statement that parents sometimes have their disagreements but still go on loving one another was a good one. It should have been supplemented by telling the child to talk to her parents the next time she gets into this feeling. When she demanded the promise that her mother not be told, she should have been advised to have no fear, but to tell her mother herself.

We feel that there is much to be gained by treating children with respect and by recognizing that they are extremely sensitive to the feelings of adults. Children are also very sensitive to moral issues and bitterly resent broken promises and unfair treatment. It would certainly be unfair to recommend this child for her unhappy feelings and her sad insight — whether or not they are founded in fact.

Women's Institute

MADOC W.I.

MADOC—The Madoc branch of Women's Institute held its July meeting on Friday evening at the summer home of the president, Mrs. E.T. Naylor, Metra Lake.

During the business period communications were dealt with, among which was a letter regarding the Kemptville holiday. Anyone wishing information call the secretary, Mrs. W. Forsesell. An offer by the Toronto Telegram in the reconditioning of radios to be given to shut-ins unable to purchase same was also discussed. A letter was read regarding a Red Cross manual on "Friendly Visiting." It was decided to send for one and have a talk on it at a later date. It was decided to purchase a new flag for the public school and each member was asked to bring a new teaspoon to be the property of the W.I. and to be used at the fall fair booth. Souvenir spoons are still available. Mrs. E. Moore gave a short talk on the importance of reading the "Home and Country" magazine, also briefly spoke on Canadian Association of Consumers.

Convening out the program, Mrs. W. Hill and Mrs. G. McCrimmin, presented an interesting program.

Mrs. Hill read a poem written by John Masefield, 84-year-old poet, on "Canada," the day the Queen and Prince Philip arrived in Canada for their tour.

A humorous poem by Mrs. McCrimmin, entitled "Writes Her Son," was followed by a poem, "Trees," read by Mrs. W. Hill.

Stunts and games provided a jolly time during part of the evening after which a bounteous pot-luck lunch was enjoyed by all.

Artist and Newspaper Woman On Hitch-Hiking World Tour

VANCOUVER (CP) — Susie Goll, an artist, and Elli Hammel, a newspaper woman, have met famous people and seen the unusual on a hitch - hiking tour around the world.

Here in the course of a trip which has taken them 100,000 miles through 60 countries, the European girls, both 22, soon will get set for much, after which they will go to New York, Washington, D.C., and South America.

They have slipped tea with Prime Minister Nehru of India, talked art with President Sukarno of Indonesia and met the king of Thailand.

They have travelled on elephants in Ceylon, camels in India and bullock carts in Indonesia and Thailand.

Susi is a native of Zurich, Switzerland, and Elli is from Vienna.

They set out in January, 1958, after working as embalmers in Stockholm, and rubbish collectors in Paris, to raise money for the journey. Three European newspapers also put up $800 to help them in return for stories as they travelled.

To help with their writing, they took along a typewriter which they had to change into the China Sea because "it was exausted after eight months in Asia."

They gave Prime Minister Nehru three white mice because they had read in his biography that once when he was imprisoned by the British he had a mouse as a companion.

"We got them in New Delhi and he was quite pleased with them," said Miss Hammel. "He keeps a collection of pets. We had two hours with him. We drank only tea and tried to be unpolitical in our comments."

Later they spent eight days in the palace of the maharajah of Mysore in South India. The maharajah allowed them 12 servants and presented them with an elephant carved in wood.

While in South Viet Nam they became honorary chiefs of an aboriginal tribe. This involved drinking or blood given them by a medicine man.

They also had an audience with the king and queen of Thailand who gave them a message for Yul Brynner, the king in the Rodgers and Hammerstein movie The King and I.

President Sukarno gave them a tame monkey as a present during their chat with him and they left it behind at the local zoo.

The pair plan to write a book and give lectures on their experiences.

Elopes Twice, Returns to Ma Still Unwed

BASINGWOLD, Eng. (AP)—Pauline Bonhill, 17, remained unwed from a double elopement Sunday, saying "perhaps I'm not the marrying kind."

Four weeks ago, Pauline went to Gretna Green, Scotland, where youngsters may marry without parental permission with Ken Robinson, a 21-year-old farmer.

But two days before they were to marry, Pauline ran off with the best man, David Lawe, 18.

She left a note saying:

"Dear Ken:

"I have gone off with Dave. I'm sorry to do this to you but you always said my happiness came first."

Happiness was brief, as David ran out of money and Pauline ran home to mother.

Ken said he would still marry Pauline if she'll have him.

Pauline says she doesn't want to marry either of them.

"It was their motorbikes that really attracted me," she said.

LARGEST PROVINCE? — Premier Bennett of British Columbia has made a proposal to the federal government that would make his province Canada's largest.

Under his proposal, B.C. would be given that part of the Northwest Territories lying west of the 120th meridian. The territory which would be taken over is shown as a shaded area on this map.

In return, B.C. would take over a full maintenance of the 400 miles of the 1,500-mile Alaska Highway lying within B.C.'s borders.

Mr. Bennett said he did not know how many square miles the proposed deal would add to the present 366,255 square miles of B.C., third largest province. Quebec, with 594,860 square miles, is largest. Ontario's 412,582 square miles make it second largest. (CP Newsmap).

Army Veteran Gives All Time To Retarded

OTTAWA (CP) — Sergeant Major C. J. (Cliff) Bowey, retired from the Canadian Army after 25 years' service, will devote all his time now to retarded children.

Sgt. Maj. Bowey, 55, will be undertaking a labor of love. He helped organize the Ottawa and District Association for Retarded Children in 1953, and now is president of the Ontario Association for Retarded Children, which he served as a director for four years.

He has a personal interest too. His daughter Kathy, 10, one of twins, suffered a brain injury at birth. Her sister Linda is normal. The Boweys also have adopted a three-year-old boy, born deaf, and Janna a nine-year-old girl.

SERVED OVERSEAS

Sgt. Maj. Bowey joined the active army in 1939 when his militia unit was mobilized. He went overseas in 1941 with the 13th Field Ambulance unit of the medical corps, serving in Italy and later in Northwest Europe as regimental sergeant major with the 3rd Canadian General Hospital.

He returned to Canada in 1945 and had postings to Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Camp Borden, Ont., being attached to headquarters in Ottawa since 1956.

Sgt. Maj. Bowey is still a director of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children and this year was given a certificate of appreciation, signed by Governor-General Massey, for his work as instructor in the St. John Ambulance Association.

To Shoot Food Into Mouths Of Spacemen

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Spacemen, who won't have any openings in their space suits for such everyday habits as eating, may get a special type of rations to keep their tummies from complaining while they're in orbit.

Southwest Research Institute chemists here are working on a ration capsule that would be "fired" into the mouth of the astronaut whenever he punches a chow button.

One of the problems forcing chemists to joan toward a ration capsule is weightless space —where liquids won't poor and solids won't fall.

A spaceman issued ordinary rations would not even be able to brew himself a cup of lemonade or coffee because he couldn't pour the water in his cup. He might not be able to get the powder in the cup either.

The space rations would line up so the space man could simply open his mouth, push a button and presto—his dinner would "blast off" right into his mouth.

His Inability To Shake Hands Harts Diplomat

GENOA, Italy (Reuters)—Jean Meziere, a home French consul-general here, has been awarded the equivalent of $6,500 damages for an injury to a finger three years ago that prevents him from shaking other diplomats' hands.

The damages must be paid by a Genoa transport firm, one of whose trucks was judged responsible for a road accident in which Meziere fractured the index finger of his right hand.

A lawyer told the court the injury seriously harmed Meziere's diplomatic career, preventing him from taking part in many public, social and sporting events and also from shaking hands.

The latter, the lawyer said, was an "important act of diplomatic life."

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Irene MacDonald is a bank clerk who dives strictly for gold but she usually pops up to the surface with the next best—silver or bronze. Gold, it seems, isn't her piece of cake.

The 25-year-old Hamilton - born springboard diver is tops in North America. She has beaten everybody in sight the last two years in Canada and the United States, but when the competition becomes international in scope, Irene simply can't win a gold medal.

Almost every year since 1951 some experts have been saying that the five-foot-two 115 - pounder was due to strike it rich. They've said it before Olympic British Empire and Pan - American Games and each time Miss MacDonald has wound up with second-place silver or third place bronze medals—or as a also-ran.

CRITICS OPTIMISTIC

Now the pool-side critics are saying that none can't miss for springboard specialty at the Aug. 17-Sept. 7 Pan - American Games at Chicago. Others temper their predictions with an "if." In other words, they say she'll win "if she is up on the day of the competition."

She has the ability to pan gold at Chicago where the competition is restricted to North, South and Central America and the Caribbean islands. Experts say there isn't a female diver in competition capable of beating her when she is on.

Take a look at her record. In the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver, she was termed a cinch for a gold medal. Irene finished third. It was the same story before the 1955 Pan-American Games at Mexico and she was fourth.

Last year, at the British Empire Games in Cardiff, auburn-haired Irene was considered tops in the Commonwealth. One bad dive in the compulsory six diver gave her a second-place silver medal.

In the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne, the dope was that Irene would finish second behind American Pat McCormick, one of the U.S. all-time greats. She was making the experts look good until an attack of bursitis hit her during the last half of the competition. The pain was so bad she was in tears but forced herself to continue, had a not-so-brilliant dive and settled for third spot.

Irene, who gave up competitive swimming for diving when she was 17, went to Los Angeles before the Melbourne Olympics to take coaching from Glenn McCormick — husband of Pat and himself an Olympic champion. The coaching has paid off with U.S. national titles in 1956-58.

AT TOP OF HER FORM

She had Canadian swimming officials ga-ga this year when she won both the one - metre and three-metre springboard titles in the U.S. She followed with titles in efforts in the Pan-American tower and springboard diving trials to earn her place on Canada's team.

"This was her first attempt at competitive tower diving and she proves she is the best in Canada," said Tommy Walker of Toronto, one of the best-known coaches in the country. "But more than that, her double victory in the U.S. senior nationals is something that no Canadian has ever done in swimming or diving, or in any sport that I know about."

Walker, an official at the Pan-American trials at Brantford, Ont., last week, said these victories would tab her as No. 1 in the world in the springboard diving.

"Don't forget," he said, "American girls have won Olympic springboard titles since 1920. They are acknowledged as the best in the world and Irene beats them two years running.

"You've got to say that it also steps up her great diving, she must not be overlooked for a gold medal in the 1960 Olympics."

But how about the Pan-American Games next month?

"You don't want me to jinx them, do you?" Walker replied.

And Irene? "No comment."

Says Hula Boys Interested in Football Team

REGINA (CP) — President Dou McPherson of the Canadian Football League confirmed Monday that Hawaiian officials are interested in getting a football team into the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

"Possibly for the next year or two they will be asking Canadian teams to play exhibition games on the Hawaiian Islands," McPherson said, enlarging on an earlier statement he made in Vancouver last week.

"They would play half American rules and half Canadian." Games would be in Honolulu.

Later, a Hawaiian team might come to Canada for exhibition games.

McPherson said the only approach from Hawaiian officials has been made to himself. He has made no official statement to the CFL yet.

OHA Will Consider Action Against 3 Northern Clubs

MIDLAND (CP)—George Dudley, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Hockey Association, said Monday the association's subcommittee will meet tonight to consider action against the three northern clubs of the OHA-Senior.

Dudley said the Kitchener, Windsor and Chatham clubs have complained that the Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay clubs have failed to pay their portion of hospital tax from last year's operation.

The Sudbury and Soo clubs have announced they will join a professional league this season but the OHA still has jurisdiction over them and the professional league would have to honor any suspensions made now, said Dudley.

Under the complicated hospital tax arrangement the northern clubs had agreed to reimburse the southern three for one half the tax levy paid by the southern clubs when visited by any of the others.

The OHA teams claim the northern clubs have been stalling payment for months. Several thousand dollars is said to be involved.

100 Pros Enter Millar Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — About 100 professional golfers will enter today's qualifying round for the Millar Trophy at Cedar Brae.

The field will be cut to 64 after today's 18 holes, with three days of match play starting Thursday. Wednesday will be taken up with a pro-amateur tournament.

Defending champion Al Balding of Markham is favored to pick up the $1,000 first prize again. Stan Leonard, winner of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association tournament at Hull, Que., last weekend, passed up the Millar to return to Vancouver.

RARE MEDIUM, WELL DONE

By Geo. H. Capper, Sports Editor

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association meeting monday threw collective noggins together over the weekend in Hamilton and there emerged the maps of campaigns for the upcoming playdowns.

Ten-problems. Don. Lee, in charge of eastern operations, released the information which should be read, mastered and generally digested by all concerned. Don, if memory serves, was the author of sentences and subjects to revision, but, until they are club managers should make their plans accordingly.

The first playdown date for member clubs of the Belleville District Softball League is Aug. 4. When the league final standing has been decided, the schedule does not actually end, until tonight when the Bancroft visit Coboconk.

We understand the league playoffs between Point Anne and Trenton and the Bancroft and Cobourg clubs are on a best-of-seven series. So-that as it may. With the OASA playdowns more than a month off, there is no reason why all league affairs, championships, etc., should not be finished, files and placed in the archives ere the first playdown date arrives.

It is stated, too, that the Bancroft, Trenton and Sports Centre of the Commercial League have planned a roundrobin series to decide an "AA" representative. No time should be lost in getting this matter into the history books. As a matter of fact, it must be settled before August 22, for that is the day the winners entertain young and green teams looking for a good time.

So here are the series and dates, home-and-away, and the "finishes if necessary" of the District League club memberships, those in the lower brackets together with some out-of-town squads.

In intermediate "A" Peun Anne has drawn Peterborough in the opening joinds with the first game set for the Penn August 25. (And, "Peterborough," does that mean Brother Judd and his talented bridge players, does it, BHP?) The second game will be played in Peterborough August 27, with the "third", August 29.

Chief Tubbie Bob Temple's Bancroft, if they weather the round-robin storm with Trenton and Sports Centre, also clash with a Peterborough squad in the "AA" opening best-of-three with the first game set for Peterborough August 26, the second here on August 29 and the TIN (third if necessary) September 2.

In intermediate "B" circles, Stevey Dunn and his Cobourg gunners clash with Picton in their inaugural series, first game in Cobourg August 28, second at Picton, August 29, and TIN September 2.

Baldwille juvenile have drawn Kingston as their initial foemen in their juvenile "A" playdowns, first game in Kingston August 28, second back here September 1 and TIN, September 3.

Lee Cobban's hustlers open their championship search this year against a Peterborough squad, the first game scheduled for Bolleville August 28, second in Peterborough, August 29 and TIN, August 30.

In the district, Frankford tangles with Madoc in the junior "C" series, the first game slated for Madoc August 19, second in Frankford August 19 and TIN, August 22.

Stirling has drawn Hastings in the juvenile "C" series with the opener set for Hastings August 18, return at Stirling August 18 and TIN, August 20.

WORLD CHAMPION

Hardboiled Haggerty, world champion paper-pulverizing-punishment pounder, may have bitten off more than he can chew this week. For he meets a fighting fishman from the west who wears a world championship wrestling belt.

He's Pat O'Connor, so tough a hunk of lrisher that ever kissed a serpintal blarney stone. Pat took the humble one, Dick Hutton, buff sed. O'Connor is well known here but he's a vastly improved athlete since his last appearance here.

So it looks like a rough night for Hardboiled, yet the rough codger might, and can, make it mighty uncomfortable for the champion.

Then there's this up-and-coming young Hawaiian, Sam Steamboat who has been a terrific hit since his recent Canadian debut. A protege of Lou Thez, Steamboat is one of the best mat prospects to show in years.

Harmon Slips, Colavito Picks Up Ground

NEW YORK (AP) — Harmon Killebrew, Washington's streak while killer, has found the going rocky the last two weeks, trailing Cleveland's Rocky Colavito to close the gap in the American League home run and runs batted-in competition.

In seven games last week, Killebrew failed to hit a homer or drive in a run while Colavito had one homer and collected five RBI. Their total through games of Sunday, July 26, were Killebrew 32 homers and 80 RBI and Colavito 30 home runs and 76 RBIs.

Killebrew has hit only .135 in his last 15 games with seven hits in 52 times at bat. This has reduced his batting average from .276 to .254. He has had two homers and five runs batted in during that span.

BANKS TAKES LEAD

Meanwhile, Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs took over the National League lead in runs batted in and gained ground on Milwaukee's Hank Aaron in the race for the batting title.

Banks drove home 22 runs in the past seven games to boost his RBI total to 84. Aaron, batting .375 in the same period, has 83 RBIs.

Plans to Operate in 1961 With at Least Eight Clubs; Toronto in Founder Five

By JACK HANE

NEW YORK (AP)—The five-point plan Senator Kefauver is expected to propose to the senate July 31 in Washington to form an anti-trust sub-committee to study matters in the baseball league presidency, the additional cities, television, bonus payments and the minor league situation aims at a major league baseball that will be determined.

PAY $2,500,000

Each club would be put up $50,000 and is prepared to ring down but $2,500,000. The cities of each five would finance the promotion.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, is the boss of the three league franchise with $2,500,000 of his own.

Houston's effort is backed by Houston Sports Association, under the chairmanship of Craig Cullinan, Jr., son of a Texas oil millionaire. The group of Buffalo, Paul Krauser is backed by a group headed by Wheeler Whitney.

In Denver it is Robert H. Howard, president of the Denver Bears of the American Association, that is behind the move. Howard is a former Colorado governor, former United States senator, and former head of the Western Division of the Republican National Committee.

Minneapolis-St. Paul is backed by a group headed by Elmer L. Andersen, former governor of Minnesota.

Houston's entry in the league would be a natural for the Texas-Louisiana league. Denver would be a natural for the Pacific Coast league. Minneapolis-St. Paul would be a natural for the American association.

Each would be required to have a minimum league park of 10,000 seats and would be required to play a minimum schedule of 154 games.

Each would be required to post a bond of complete and unqualified cooperation of the two organizations with baseball and have their baseball rules and regulations and have their baseball rules and regulations and have their baseball rules and regulations

Braves Make It Five in Row As Joey Jay Baffles Bucs; Tribe Slips, Score Drops 4th

By BD WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Herb Score still is the "if" man for Cleveland, but now the young left-hander could be the difference between the pennant and a near-miss by the Indians, not just a first or second-division finish.

For two years now the lightly-regarded Indians had been figured to be only as good as Score. Last season it was "if Score can come back from that tragic injury." This spring it was "if Score can shake that arm trouble."

Now, with the Indians shooting for all the marbles, he's been their tough-luck disappointment.

Score lost his fourth in a row Monday night, a loser to a shutout for the second time in three weeks. This one was a three-hitter by Jerry Casale that sealed Boston's slump at six games with a 4-0 victory, clipped the Indians' winning streak at five and dropped them into a tie for the American League lead with Chicago's idle White Sox.

HAS 9-0 RECORD

It was only the sixth time Cleveland has been blanked this season, but Score (9-6) has been the loser in half of them.

In the only other games scheduled, Kansas City ended the longest winning streak in the majors this season—by White Sox—making it eight in a row with a 7-4 decision over Washington that hoisted them past Detroit into fifth place. Baltimore dropped the Tigers 5-4, with Gene Woodling driving in all the Orioles' runs.

The Indians managed nothing but singles off Casale, 25 a righthanded rookie whose only other shutout was a three-hit job on the White Sox last month. He was touched for the hits by George Strickland in the second inning, Jim Baxes in the seventh and Minnie Minoso in the eighth while walking five and striking out three for a 7-4 record.

The Indians had the first put it away with a run in the second on Dick Gernert's single, two walks and an infield out. Vic Wertz' double and Frank Malzone added solo homers, Jerry Lumpe hitting his 22nd of the season, and Malzone his 12th.

ONLY FOUR HITS

Score, winless since July 2, gave up four hits, walked five and fanned five in his five innings. His new bar an 11-12 record since almost losing an eye when struck by a line drive in 1957.

Two runs in the eighth on singles by pinchhitter Frank House and Joe Demaestri won it for the Athletics. The Senators, losing their sixth in a row, set a Washington record with 125 home runs for a season on Harmon Killebrew's 33rd and a grand-slam by Faye Throneberry, which was matched by the Athletics' Roger Maris. Harry Chiti also homered for Kansas City, Murray Dickson (1-0) won it, with Hal Woodeshick (0-3) the loser.

Woodling, driving in the Orioles' last nine runs, cracked a grand-slam, his 12th homer, and Jerry Lumpe (9-8) in the third inning then added an RBI single in the seventh. Hec Brown (7-6) won it with Billy Loes' three innings of hitless relief.

No Rematch Until First Fight Settled

GOTTSBORG, Sweden (AP)—Edwin Ahlquist, advisor to heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson, said Monday night there will be no negotiations about a world title rematch until all questions are fully settled about the outcome of the last Johansson-Patterson fight.

Ahlquist said he pres conference promoter Bill Rosenohn is going back to the United States today to get a complete explanation on the income of the world title match in Yankee Stadium June 26 in which Floyd Patterson was dethroned.

"Not until Rosensohn has returned with that account will we discuss the terms for a rematch," Ahlquist said.

Johansson said he was ready to fight Patterson "any time" if a match is arranged for that date."

Charges Selke Let Royals Aces Down

QUEBEC (CP) — Ovila Cote, president of the Quebec Aces Hockey Club, said Monday that Frank Selke, general manager of the Montreal Forum, did not live up to assurances he would try to get Aces and Montreal Royals in the American Hockey League.

Both clubs formerly played in the Quebec Hockey League which folded four weeks ago.

Mr. Cote, in a statement AHL regulations require that a $10,000 cheque accompany each application for membership.

The Quebec Aces eagerly sent a cheque but the Montreal Royals did not do so.

"Through this act alone Mr. Selke risked compromising the entry of Montreal Royals and that of Quebec Aces because everyone knows our club could not hope to enter this league unless Royals also joined."

Foresees Big-Time Theatre Will Play Only in Gotham

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Billie Burke, one of the great ladies of another era of the stage, sadly foresees the time when big-time theatre will vanish from the United States, except for New York.

"I don't see how touring shows can continue," she said. "The cost has gone up terribly. And most of the theatres are old and rundown. In time, I suppose there won't be any stage, except in New York, which can support it."

Miss Burke prided new generations that might know nothing but canned entertainment.

"Wonderful things are done in the movies," she said, "but after a year or so, you can scarcely remember performances that you have enjoyed.

"The stage has much more impact. You remember even the smallest things for years and years. There is something about seeing live actors that gives you a memorable experience. That's why the passing of Miss Barrymore affected so many people. They could recall the marvelous things she had done on the stage.

Miss Burke herself still returns to the theatre occasionally. A summer ago, she toured with Solid Gold Cadillac and was delighted with the reaction—"there is no more beautiful sound than to hear people at a full theatre."

THEATRE BURNS

Last season she toured in a Broadway tryout of Listen to the Mocking Bird. Said she: "The title was enough to have against it; everything else happened, too. The final blow came when we got to Washington. The theatre burned down."

Miss Burke is getting ready to appear in a western, Captain Buffalo. It's her first with John Ford.

The actress spoke about the present and the past in the den of her Brentwood home. She will be 73 Aug. 7, yet she remains an amazing beauty with pink skin and lovely reddish - white hair. She talks with affection about her husband, Flo Ziegfeld, whose bust and photos adorn her den.

"I don't think his contribution to the theatre was truly appreciated," she commented. "He brought taste to the theatre. He was careful with everything he did, supervising every detail of lighting and costuming.

"His musical contribution was enormous, too. He wouldn't accept just any work from his song writers. He told them, 'you can do better than this. Try it again.'"

Larks Worry, What Will Abbruzzi Do?

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While the Hamilton Tiger-Cats supposedly bask in blissful ignorance over the degree of strength of the B.C. Lions, Montreal Alouettes are said to be quaking in their cleats over what has been hailed by the Montreal newspapers as the "revenge of Pat Abbruzzi".

Teats claim they know next to nothing about this year's B.C. team and are quite happy to have it that way. They did read somewhere that B.C. defeated Saskatchewan Roughriders in an exhibition game last week 30-14.

Coach Jim Trimble says it's more of a challenge to go into tonight's exhibition game with Lions "cold."

CHANCE TO GET EVEN

Abbruzzi was traded to Calgary after four years with Montreal and tonight gets a chance to be in the Als' backfield gradually coming from the opposite side of the line. Calgary hints strongly he plans to throw Als they shouldn't have traded him.

Bernie Faloney, Hamilton's starter, worked Monday night with some of his receivers. Tom Dublinski will also play in what could work out as a battle of passers.

B.C. has such passing starts as Randy Duncan, Iowa's all-American, Bill Jerome understudy Mitch Ogiego and former National Leaguer Al Dorow.

The four clubs will dress approximately 40 players each.

Meanwhile, Calgary Rough Riders reported that Jimmy Hunter, who had picked up on waivers, would be given a shot at a backfield position.

NBC Will Run Drama Show Against Sullivan, Maverick

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In the confusion NBC will create a strong bid to help bring mature television drama back to the status it enjoyed in times past.

"If counting heads, we know that general drama doesn't have as big a drawing power as westerns and variety shows," David Levy, vice-president in charge of programs, says. But counting heads isn't the only criterion you should use in judging a network schedule. One needs at least one hour-long-and-produced drama show, because it is a staple of the entertainment world.

Thus there will come into being on NBC-TV the Sunday Showcase of dramatic specials. Scheduled for 8 p.m., it will run against two popular programs on the opposition networks: Ed Sullivan on CBS and Maverick on ABC.

THREE SPECIAL SHOWS

Sunday Showcase is one of three weekly hours that NBC-TV will devote to a variety of special shows embracing drama, musicals, documentaries. Starting at 9:30 p.m. has been purchased by the Ford Motor Company for what network officials feel will be an outstanding series of varied entertainment. The first hour, Fridays at 8:30 p.m., will be a nesting place for other specials, documentaries.

Here are some examples of what will be seen in these three hours:

Ingrid Bergman has been signed to star in a drama on the Ford series. The Best of Donald Duck, a compilation of Disney cartoons of yesteryear, will be followed by a two - part adaptation of Budd Schulberg's What Makes Sammy Run?

The Sunday night program will not be confined to drama, however. Two Milton Berle specials are scheduled for that hour and occasionally a documentary will be shown.

INVITED TO PARIS

Montreal's Theatre du Nouveau was the first Canadian group invited to participate in the Paris Drama Festival.

At the Belle

Douglas, Quinn Clash Head-On in "Last Train From Gun Hill"

Two top motion picture male stars — Kirk Douglas and Anthony Quinn will be seen in two big roles in "Last Train From Gun Hill," the new Hal Wallis production for Paramount, which arrives tomorrow, Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre.

Filmed in Technicolor and VistaVision and with some of America's most magnificent country, scenic Arizona, as talisman, "Last Train From Gun Hill" seems destined to line up with the great westerns of the screen. It was directed by John Sturges, whose "Bad Day at Black Rock," and "Gunfight at O.K. Corral" stand head and shoulders above ordinary western.

The new film co-stars the vibrant Carolyn Jones, whose career took a spurt upward when she was nominated for an Academy Award for her work in "Bachelor Party," and Earl Holliman has been making a name for himself in a variety of films including "The Rainmaker," "Hot Spell" and "The Trap".

The story of "Last Train From Gun Hill" has to do with former friends (Douglas and Quinn) who become bitter enemies when their son hunts down Quinn's son for the rape and murder of his beautiful Indian wife. The film's suspense and climatic showdown are said to rival the excitement anything the screen has yet offered.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Use it a point to avoid both gossip and criticism today, also from others. Everyone is warm and uncomfortable and apt to feel unkind. Only in this way can you feel close to God and derive blessings that can be yours now.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) You want to have a good time at all cost, but if you are forceful with others or think money will buy what you want, you will be disappointed. Stick to important tasks at hand instead and learn to economize. Get charm higher.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You are tempted to be sarcastic and unkind with family ties, but it would be much wiser to go do just the opposite. Show gratitude for being part of the family unit. Take the treatments that will improve your health.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Are you certain you have completed those annoying but important little tasks before you go out? Get them done first, then go about shopping, etc. Take real care on the road or in motion anywhere.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) You cannot decide whether to stick to regular duties or delve into some clever new outlet. By intelligently planning your time and duties, you can accomplish a good deal of both, but do not invest heavily and deplete your savings.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful in action or conversation or you may make valuable connections. Get your credit higher and follow every rule and law that is required of you. Attend to any civic chores with real diligence and acumen.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) This is the time to step out of your daily routine, feeling others are not being good sports. Meet new people, be broad-minded, and live on the very highest level of consciousness.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you follow the advice of a quick-talking advocate or advisor today, you will make a grave error and lose much. Listen to suggestions of ethical associates and comrades instead and this can be a very profitable day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Here is a day when partners, co-workers and everyone in general is apt to be feeling very irritable an. you could get into many unnecessary and unhappy arguments. Retain own calm for best results and be an example to others.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being emotionally disturbed over loved one now, and particularly showing any evidence of jealousy would result most unfavorably for you. This is a test, so come through the day with flying colors. Be gentle and generous.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) That impending fight between two individuals who are a vital part of your life threatens to come into the open now, with you stuck-dab in the middle! Keep busily occupied all day and cver clear of both studious.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You have a tremendous amount of energy today, so be sure you use it constructively at the outset, that bring you greatest success. Also, write those important letters and do much silent studying that equips you for the future.

If your child is born today . . . The sturdy child born today is the type who early loves to fight, so you must quickly show your child that much more of real value can be accomplished by being co-operative with others. Apply disciplinary measures early and see that your child gets into sports. The chart, of course, is especially fine for the pugilist, and any other professional where physical stamina is a prime requisite.

Trade Union Chief's Stand On H-Bombs Forcing Labor Party to Reappraise Aims

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Frank Cousins, the pinnacle of power in Britain's biggest trade union, will likely become known as the man who forced an agonizing reappraisal of Labor's aims at a time when the party could ill afford it.

With two passionate speeches he talked his 1,300,000 - member Transport and General Workers Union into repudiating the Labor party's new policy on H-bombs.

He did this at a time when many supporters felt he should have backed the official line to maintain unity in this pre - election period in Britain.

BASIC CONFLICT

His action brought into the open the basic conflict between the pacifists who favor unilateral disarmament, and the party leadership which feels strong ties must be maintained with other Western countries in the face of the Communist challenge.

It almost certainly ensured that the annual Labor party conference in October will be dominated by the H - bomb. Constituency party organizations are demonstrating on a demand for nuclear disarmament. A preliminary list of 1,400 resolutions includes more than 140 on the bombs.

Some observers view Cousins' action as another manifestation of the revolution that has occurred in the British trade union movement.

WORLD THREAT

The workshops and factories no longer are the only interests of trade union leaders. Deliberately they have broadened their range of interests until now the problems of a seething, nuclear-threatened world are within their orbit.

This has taken them to the heart of the Labor party. Frankly all have concluded that only through political activities can they achieve the ends desired for their members.

"In my opinion politics cannot be divorced from trade unions," Cousins told delegates to his union's biennial conference on the Isle of Man earlier this month.

"The trade union movement always was political. I think it is essential for trade union leaders to take an active interest in politics."

Such a statement at this time can hardly be a comfort to Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell. During the union conference, Cousins made clear that he wants to see the election of a Labor government prepared to pursue Socialist aims.

PROVIDES ANSWER

The danger of this pronouncement to the party is that Labor's political foes can easily convey the impression that the trade union movement cracks the whip and the party comes to heel.

The recent public disputes over Labor unity will undoubtedly provide the Tories with a reply to the Labor charge that the Conservative party is controlled by big business interests.

Party politicians already have launched a campaign to convey the impression that the Labor party is not responsible to Parliament at all, but to three or four union leaders who control as many as 1,000,000 votes at Labor conferences.

But a far greater threat to Labor's electoral chances is that the new symptoms of disunity may strengthen the impression among independent voters that the party lacks the stability demanded of a governing party.

LET SERVICEMEN MARRY

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist China's Parliament is considering a measure to let any Nationalist servicemen marry after three years in the armed forces. At present, no soldier, sailor or airman may marry before reaching 30.

2nd Sidney

SIDNEY — Larry and Dolly Hudson, of Trenton, are staying with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jeffrey, and Sharon, while their parents are on a trip, stopping at Detroit along the way.

Mrs. Frank Reid spent the weekend with her daughter, Miss Marilyn Reid, of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hart, Carol, Betty and Judy spent a few days this week with Mrs. Hart's aunt, Mrs. Ethel Jennings at her Genore Bungalows on St. Mary's Lake, Bancroft.

205 Canadians Regain Vision With Eye Gifts

TORONTO (CP)—At least 205 blind - or nearly blind Canadians had their vision restored through corneal transplants in the year ending March 31, 1958. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind has records of these operations, but more may have been done without the institute's knowledge.

The sight-restoring surgery replaces damaged corneas with healthy tissue. The Eye Bank of Canada now operates in six of the seven institute divisions.

The bank is one of many services outlined in the institute's annual report.

In his presidential message, Ralph S. Milsener, said, "As the year drew to a close it was apparent that CNIB service was enabling a better life for blind Canadians and at the same time opening new opportunities for the blind in need of assistance beyond our borders."

The institute provided service for 23,263 blind Canadians at a cost of $2,466,525 during the year. The work included special counselling for the parents of 517 preschool blind children and the provision of residential care for 750 elderly persons in 17 modern residences.

"TALKING BOOKS"

"Talking books" marked their 25th anniversary. There are 50,000 printed books on 700,000 records circulated among blind readers in Canada. The service was expanded to French in the past year. A braille magazine for children of school age was also started.

A consultant service for an estimated 14,000 diabetics, in line with the appointment of Mrs. Albert McGuffin of Vancouver as its medical consultant.

More than 2,000 blind people, trained mostly on the staff and in institute workshops as well as in general industry, earned $4,500,000 in wages during the year.

Services to war blinded are not included in CNIB's operating expenses as the department of veterans' affairs meets the full cost.

U.S., Canada Sign Atomic Energy Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—The agreement signed May 22 by Canada and the United States for co-operative use of atomic energy for mutual defence was put into effect Monday.

The agreement was tabled in the Commons May 25 by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The delay between signing and implementation results from a requirement of the U.S. Atomic Energy Act that there be a waiting period of 60 days before such agreements are final.

As announcement by External Affairs Minister Green said Monday "The agreement will continue and extend the harmonious co-operation in the atomic energy field which has existed for many years."

The prime minister said it provides that the agreement will "clear the way for the way for the transfer at some future time to Canada of military reactors and any special nuclear materials required for them."

It is understood a separate agreement will be required for any storage of nuclear warheads in Canada. A congressional committee was told recently that if the U.S. did store such weapons in Canada, it would as usual retain control over them.

SMOKY SKIES — Heavy clouds of smoke climb thousands of feet in the air over the flaming forests of the Gaspe Peninsula. The Red Cross at Montreal says at least 72 people had lost their homes and 218 others have been evacuated from communities along the north-eastern side of the peninsula and around the village of St. Bernard Des Lacs where this aerial picture was taken. Rain Falls on Fiery Gaspe, May End Forest Devastation

ST. BERNARD DES LACS, Que. (CP)—Rain fell Tuesday night on the charred timberlands of the northeastern Gaspe Peninsula.

It was just a drizzle, but a continuous one—the first substantial rain the area has had for a month.

The wind also abated, and with it furious forest fires that blackened miles of timberland, destroyed most of one village and threatened to devastate other communities.

If the drizzle continued and the wind stayed down, residents looked for an early end to the conflagration.

72 HOMES LOST

More than 300 square miles of rich pine, spruce and cedar lands and some 72 homes have been burned. The fires forced 218 people to evacuate settlements.

The fires were stationary Tuesday because of lack of wind. But they showed signs of their former frenzy when the wind picked up late in the afternoon, once more threatening this village 350 miles northeast of Quebec City and nearby Sacre Coeur des Monts.

A dozen St. Joseph des Monts buildings fell prey to the flames Saturday and only a few remained.

All women and children of the 30 families at St. Bernard Des Lacs were evacuated early Monday before the flames took eight houses. The men stayed behind to fight fire.

The village seemed about to be engulfed Monday night until a shift in the wind detoured the danger towards Sacre Coeur des Landes to the west.

STOPPED AT OUTSKIRTS

The wall of fire was stopped at Sacre Coeur's outskirts when the wind subsided.

Henry Keiffer, chief of the forest protection service, said some 300 volunteers are helping the side 800 regular firefighters. Authorities in Quebec City continued to debate whether to ask the army to send in troops.

After Enthusiastic Welcome, Nixon Suddenly Is Heckled

SVERDLOVSK, Soviet Union (AP) — A U.S. Vice - President Richard Nixon drew a big welcome in the eastern Urals today for a two-day visit and was met by several thousand silently waiting Russians.

He flew from Novosibirsk in western Siberia where he weathered last - minute heckling from otherwise friendly crowds. The welcome in Novosibirsk Tuesday was the warmest of his Soviet tour, and frosted Reds there had mobbed him.

But shortly before leaving Novosibirsk he was subjected to some questions from hecklers. One of Nixon's staff said some of the hecklers appeared to have been planted in the crowd.

Nixon showed no outward sign of being upset at the sharp voices flowing while came as he toured the huge hydro-electric plant and big scientific centre.

But twice he challenged inisistent critics of capitalism and free bases to "hear the truth" by tuning in on his' farewell speech from Moscow television Saturday.

And once he replied sharply to a question, "Are you really for peace?"

"What do you think?" Nixon answered.

"I think not," said the questioner, whom Soviet authorities identified as a Novosibirsk student at the Siberian scientific centre.

"I suggest you read my speeches carefully," Nixon replied, "and if you can get your government to stop jamming the Voice of America broadcasts you'll get the truth. You are not getting the truth now."

On reaching Sverdlovsk, Nixon was met with a huge crowd at a heavy machinery plant, one of the biggest in Russia.

Sverdlovsk, 900 miles west of Novosibirsk, is where the Bolshevik executed Czar Nicholas II in 1918.

Now a city of more than 400,000 Sverdlovsk has been a leading industrial centre since many Soviet war industry was moved there during the war. It is located in the eastern foothills of the central Ural Mountains, 850 miles east of Moscow.

Before leaving Novosibirsk, Nixon also looked over the local power station and took a boat trip around the shores of the Ob Sea.

The warmth and enthusiasm of his welcome in the Red West Siberian metropolis thrilled Nixon.

The American said this way it took at the multi-million-dollar scientific research centre which the Russians have built on the shores of the man-made Ob Sea.

The project is to house tens of thousands of scientists, students and their families by 1965.

Few details are known to the West. Original plans called for 11 large research institutes devoted to mathematics and natural sciences with potentials for expanding into other fields.

It was learned that Nixon party Tuesday touched off spontaneous outbursts of confidence that it had crippled the Americans and kept Soviet security agents busy.

"I think the Russians was going to be hurt by a bear hug," said Deputy Jo Ehlers, chairman of the Soviet Union cultural committee who is escorting the visiting Americans. "There were bugs of friendship."

Novosibirsk, which has grown to 880,000 population from 220,000 in 10 years, often has been called a "city" to foreigners.

About 1,500 waited outside the Opera House Monday night when the Nixons attended the ballet Swan Lake. The 1,500-seat theatre was packed. The Nixons had front-row seats.

Geneva Outlook Gets Darker After Rival Plans Revised

GENEVA (AP)—Western diplomats reported today that the revised plan of the Western powers for ending the Berlin crisis have increased the threat the Four-nation conference deadlock over the future of the city.

The outlook appeared darker than ever that the Geneva negotiations would break East-West conflict over Communist - surrounded West Berlin. But Western officials said that a last-minute Russian switch on some key points could prevent the negotiating tactic—could alter the whole situation.

The Western officials forecast "that unless the Russians pulled a surprise" they expected the next late next week without an agreement either on Berlin or on a summit conference.

U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter leaves Washington for Minister André A. Gromyko to lunch to discuss the revised proposals exchanged Tuesday night.

The proposals made no significant change in the opposing positions. The West continues to hold out for an agreement protecting the rights in East Germany to freedom. Russia still offered a truce on Berlin for 18 months or for a day or two. But the main outlines soon became known.

The Soviet proposal for Western offer to participate in a Big Four review of Berlin situation for two years if Germany is not reunified by then. But Western officials say the Russians the Soviets were not suggesting their right to the West Berlin should end in five years.

Mom Whyte Invites Cecile To Her Home, He Declines

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte has permitted that no children will be taken out of her foster home by government officials "without a real fight," but Tuesday she has invited Ontario Welfare Minister Cecile to visit the establishment.

Mrs. Whyte said today that Mr. Cecile, who has criticized what he called lack of accommodation in the home, declined to make the visit.

Mr. Cecile has suggested that only about 40 of the 120 children can be accommodated in the home. Mrs. Whyte leaves Miss Mason, at Bowmanville, about 40 miles east of Toronto.

Officials of the Ontario health department would like to reduce the number of children staying at the mission, bit recently by outlawing the infectiously hospitable petigo and influenza.

Mr. Cecile said he has no intention of closing the home but he has appealed to parents of the children to take them away.

No decision has been made on what action will be taken if parents do not remove their children voluntarily but Mr. Cecile has asked the attorney-general's department for permission to prosecute under the Children's Act because of overcrowding.

Mrs. Whyte's invitation to the welfare minister was made by telephone after she had refused to allow welfare department officials to examine her records. She said Mr. Cecile could personally take the names and addresses of parents whose children are being cared for at the home.

Mrs. Whyte said earlier "they will not take any children out of the home without a real fight. This is a mission, not a boarding home. They would be interfering with religious freedom."

She said she was prepared to accept advice for help from the welfare department.

Dr. G. Brown, Ontario deputy minister of health in view of a medical report made by two department officers, efforts will be made to radically reduce the number of children in residence."

Mrs. Whyte said she thought it wrong from a "health point of view" to overcrowd children, but when but it was overcrowded and a shortage of staff existed.

Had Time On His Hands For 4 Years

WINDSOR (CP) — Frederick Cann, no fixed address, appeared in magistrate's court Tuesday charged with the theft of an alarm clock from a city department store four years ago.

Cann has this to say for his absence from the court in the intervening period:

"I had an abscessed tooth, and the day I was supposed to be in court I took some pain killer pills."

"It must have been a powerful pill to keep you away that long," Magistrate Angus MacMillan commented.

"I took more than one," was the reply.

Cann was remanded.

SMALLWOOD RUNS AGAINST LEADER OF PC's

Leaves Own Riding To Fight Hollett

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Newfoundland's sudden election campaign got off to a whirlwind start.

Premier Smallwood announced Tuesday night he will leave his own Bonavista North constituency to run personally against progressive Conservative leader Malcolm Hollett in St. John's West. Mr. Hollett had no comment.

W. J. Browne, the province's representative in the federal cabinet, appealed to the voters to elect a Conservative government that would have "greater opportunity to work hand-in-hand" with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Smallwood said the Liberals will not contest three St. John's seats where the new Newfoundland party will run candidates. The party was launched last week by two former Progressive Conservative members of the legislature who supported the Liberal in a House vote on the new financial aid for the province.

VOTE AUG. 20

The election is set for Aug. 20. The premier said he called it to take his dispute with Ottawa to the people. His government wants special financial assistance because terms of Confederation continued indefinitely. A federal government spokesman in Parliament a few week ago would not grant special aid in 1962. Then Newfoundland's financial situation would be reviewed.

The premier announced some cabinet changes Tuesday. He gave up the education portfolio to Dr. Alan Frecker, deputy education minister. Municipal Affairs Minister J. J. Heffernon will retire after the election to become chairman of the St. John's Metropolitan Council.

The House standing at dissolution was: Liberals 31, Conservatives two, Newfoundland party one. One former Liberal seat was vacant.

Arena Share In Hockey Club Said Illegal

KITCHENER (CP) — Investment of $6,000 by the Kitchener Auditorium Commission in the K-W Dutchmen hockey club has been termed illegal.

R. W. Eby, city treasurer and Scully and Scully, city auditors, in their annual report of city finances, termed the commission's investment contrary to both a Kitchener bylaw and the Ontario Municipal Act which governs municipal matters.

Mayor Meininger promised to investigate the matter. He said:

"I believe the purchases were made in good faith and there was certainly no intent to speculate with the taxpayer's money. It is to the taxpayers interest that the club operate profitably."

E. M. Bob Crosby, auditorium manager said he felt the money advanced to the club had helped keep the club operating and had been a good investment for the auditorium.

Program on British TV Backfires, Drivers Do Better After Whiskies

LONDON (AP) — A television program backfired Tuesday night when three motorists did better after drinking whisky than they did while dry.

The three Britons — two men and a girl—volunteered to help a BBC safety program—How Good is a Driver Are You?—prove that alcohol slows a driver's reactions.

The test consisted of negotiating an automobile over a set course, with a lot of reversing, turning and going forward and without knocking down or touching a series of posts.

The first driver swung sober through the course in 63.5 seconds. Then he drank two whiskies and made it in 42 seconds.

The girl, a 21-year-old secretary, took 44 seconds before the drinks and 38.5 after.

The third driver's times: Before 43.5; after 38.

Prof. Robert Drew of University College hastened to explain that the experiment was carried out too quickly.

"The second test was taken before the alcohol really had time to get into the bloodstream," said the professor. "The drivers also knew they were under test conditions and so they pulled out that extra little bit."

HEAR UNREST GROWS AT 'PEN' IN DORCHESTER

100 Put in 'Solitary'; Ball Player Stabbed

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Warden David McLean of the Maritime penitentiary at nearby Dorchester has declined comment on reports that there is growing unrest behind the prison walls.

The Transcript said Tuesday there has been growing dissatisfaction among the more than 500 prisoners for the last several weeks.

An unidentified prisoner was stabbed Sunday during a softball game and is recovering from severe knife wounds. The Transcript said it learned he is a middle-aged man serving a two-year term.

Cancellation of card - playing privileges was reported to be the cause of at least part of the discontent. Between 75 and 100 inmates had been placed in solitary confinement as prison officials cracked down.

The prisoner's committee set up to organize recreation had resigned. Rumors spread among the prisoners that those in solitary confinement were receiving the same benefits as those in the recreation committee quit, resulted in Sunday's game.

STUNT IN RACK

Justice department officials said Monday the man was stabbed in the back with something to third base. The newspaper said the man has been the inner workings" of the penitentiary as a result.

The last disturbance in the penitentiary was in 1952 when several prisoners protested the food served at the institution. Several of the inmates were "paddled" and received the "paddle" at that time.

It could not be learned whether outside authorities have been invited to attend the softball game.

A prisoner's committee was set up to organize recreation and rehabilitation changed in a way that could mean lower price supports on eggs was made Tuesday by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

A resolution approved by the semi-annual meeting of the CFA here urged the federal - provincial government should repeal the mandatory portion of the Farm Stabilization Act regarding eggs and abandon its present cost-of-living payment program on the same product.

The mandatory provisions set the support prices on nine major farm products, including eggs, at not less than 80 per cent of the 10-year average price.

The CFA resolution was closed, but it was understood that many of the 30 delegates representing provincial federations felt that the current support level on eggs is an incredible price. It encouraged over - production and contributed farmers.

The support price on Grade A large eggs is 36 cents a dozen, 85 per cent of the 10-year average.

The greatest triumph came in 1946, two years after the formation of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, when through his efforts a government commission was appointed to investigate the problems of rural Canada and recommended the Rural Electrification Act.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine; three daughters, one son, Percy, and 11 grandchildren, all on the Capilano reserve in North Vancouver.

Ban Inner Tubes Air Mattresses

PETER BOROUGH (CP)—Inner tubes and air mattresses have been banned for use by bathers at both Peter and Jackson Point municipal provincial park beaches near here.

"People get too much courage and go out too far on these inner tubes," Provincial Constable Ken Johnston of Serpent Mounds said Tuesday.

He said the tubes and air mattresses have been banned since the beaches opened — old Martin Peter Pecoskie of Peterborough last week while playing on an inner tube in the Trent River at Emily provincial park.

Montreal Thugs Almost Got Away With Million Plus

Bank Robbery Foiled By Curious Policemen

MONTREAL (CP) — Five daring baddils almost pulled off what might have been a million-dollarplus bank robbery Tuesday, but fled with the appearance of two curious policemen.

The five entered a suburban Outremont branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada and bound and gagged Assistant Manager Gaston St. Germain.

Two of them were calmly loading safety deposit boxes into a panel truck parked in front of the bank, when Sgt. Carl Cotton and Const. R. Joseph of the Outremont police drove by to see what the men were doing.

The pair of thugs jumped into the truck and fled.

Inside the truck police found 118 safety deposit boxes and a bank cashbox.

However another bank cashbox, which police believe might contain $25,000, was missing.

In January, 1957, safety deposit boxes in the vault of an Outremont branch of the Bank of Montreal were looted of $1,100,000.

Would Lower Price Supports On Eggs

WINNIPEG (CP) — A bid to have federal support price legislation changed in a way that could mean lower price supports on eggs was made Tuesday by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

A resolution approved by the semi-annual meeting of the CFA here urged the federal - provincial government should repeal the mandatory portion of the Farm Stabilization Act regarding eggs and abandon its present cost-of-living payment program on the same product.

The mandatory provisions set the support prices on nine major farm products, including eggs, at not less than 80 per cent of the 10-year average price.

Indian Leader, Andy Paull, Dies In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Andy Paull, outspoken defender of the rights of Canada's 150,000 native Indians, died Tuesday night in hospital. He was 67 and had been suffering from heart trouble for several months.

He was founder and president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, building it up by uning while man's methods in trying to achieve full equality for the Indian.

Tall, heavily built and with the shoulders and head of a prizefighter, Andy Paull followed many careers—lacrosse player, sports writer, defence counsel, dance-band leader and labor organizer.

TRAINED AS CHILD

At the age of seven he was chosen by a mass meeting of the Squamish Indians to learn the ways of the white man so he could speak for the Indians. At 15, he was placed with a Vancouver law firm for four years, learning general legal procedures and gaining knowledge of the laws as applied to Indians. Although he didn't hold a law degree, he appeared in court as an agent in B.C. up to the Court of Appeal.

In 1938, when Mr. Paull was appearing before a joint committee of the Commons and Senate at Ottawa he delivered his evidence so well that Prime Minister R. B. Bennett personally congratulated him.

Six years ago he headed a delegation of 300 Iroquois to the Vermont state legislature at Montpelier to demand compensation for land taken from the Indians during settlement days.

COURTROOM VICTORY

He took on trained lawyers in Richmond, B.C., police court in 1955 and won an acquittal for an Indian charged with failing to file a 1954 income tax return. He argued there should be no taxation of Indians on reserves and that his client was a registered Indian without a taxable vote.

Earlier this year he wrote Ottawa urging an order-in-council to permit Indians to patronize B.C. liquor stores.

The greatest triumph came in 1946, two years after the formation of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, when through his efforts a government commission was appointed to investigate the problems of rural Canada and recommended the Rural Electrification Act.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine; three daughters, one son, Percy, and 11 grandchildren, all on the Capilano reserve in North Vancouver.

The boat, equipped with a 100-horsepower diesel engine, has been used by the Georgian Bay Sound, 30 miles east of here.

Queen, Prince Attend Harness Meet 'Thrilling, I Really Enjoyed It'

FREDERICTON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth, a striking figure in blue satin, went to the harness races Tuesday night and was obviously pleased that the race held in her honor appeared to be most exciting of the card.

"It was a very thrilling race and I really enjoyed it," she told 97-year-old Wib Jardine of Chatham, N.B., the owner of winning Abbeland, after presenting him with a trophy.

She and Prince Philip spoke at length to Jardine and driver Joe Goguen, 25, of Moncton, N.B., their searching questions reflecting their deep interest in horse racing.

The royal couple attended three of the races at Fredericton Raceway, leaving off a busy day in the New Brunswick capital.

SMOKY SKIES — Heavy clouds of smoke climb thousands of feet in the air over the flaming forests of the Gaspe Peninsula. The Red Cross at Montreal says at least 72 people had lost their homes and 218 others have been evacuated from communities along the northeastern side of the peninsula and around the village of St. Bernard-Des Lacs where this special picture was taken. Rain Falls on Fiery Gaspe, May End Forest Devastation

ST. BERNARD DES LACS, Que. (CP)—Rain fell Tuesday night on the charred timberlands of the northeastern Gaspe Peninsula.

It was just a drizzle, but a contrite one—the first substantial rain the area has had for a month.

The wind also abated, and with it furious forest fires that blackened miles of timberland, destroyed most of one village and threatened to devastate other communities.

If the drizzle continued and the wind stayed down, residents looked for an early end to the conflagration.

72 HOMES LOST

More than 300 square miles of rich pine, spruce and cedar stands and some 72 homes have been burned. The fires forced 218 people to evacuate settlements.

The fires were stationary Tuesday because of lack of wind. But they showed signs of their former frenzy when the wind picked up late in the afternoon, once more threatening this village 350 miles northeast of Quebec City and nearby Sacre Coeur des Monts.

A dozen St. Joseph des Monts buildings fell prey to the flames Saturday and only a few remained.

All women and children of the 30 families at St. Bernard Des Lacs were evacuated early Monday before the flames took eight houses. The men stayed behind to fight fire.

The village seemed about to be engulfed Tuesday night until a shift in the wind sent the fire danger toward Sacre Coeur des Laades to the west.

STOPPED AT OUTSKIRTS

The wall of fire was stopped at Sacre Coeur's outskirts when the wind subsided.

Henry Keiffer, chief of the forest protection service, said some 500 volunteers are working beside 800 regular firefighters. Authorities in Quebec City continued to debate whether to ask the army to send in troops.

Arena Share In Hockey Club Said Illegal

KITCHENER (CP) — Investment of $6,000 by the Kitchener Auditorium Commission in the K-W Dutchmen hockey club has been termed illegal.

H. V. Zinn, treasurer and Scully and Scully, city auditors, in their annual report of city finances, termed the commission's investment contrary to both a Kitchener bylaw and the Ontario Municipal Act which governs municipal matters.

Mayor Meininger promised to investigate the matter. He said:

"I believe the purchases were made in good faith and there was certainly no intent to speculate with the taxpayer's money. It is to the taxpayers interest that the club operate profitably."

H. M. Bob Dow, auditorium manager said he felt the money advanced to the club had helped to keep the club operating and had been a good investment for the auditorium.

Program on British TV Backfires, Drivers Do Better After Whiskies

LONDON (AP) — A television program backfired Tuesday night when three motorists did better after drinking whisky than they did while dry.

The three Britons — two men and a girl — volunteered to help a BBC safety program—How Good a Driver Are You?—prove that alcohol slows a driver's reactions.

The test consisted of negotiating an automobile over a set course, with a lot of reversing, turning and going forward and without knocking down or touching a series of posts.

The first driver swung sober through the course in 43.5 seconds. Then he drank two whiskies and made it in 42 seconds.

The girl, a 21-year-old secretary, took 44 seconds before the drink and 38.5 after.

The third driver's times: Before 43.5; after 38.

Prof. Robert Drew of University College hastened to explain that the experiment was carried out too quickly.

"The second test was taken before the alcohol really had time to get into the bloodstream," said the professor. "The drivers also knew they were under test conditions and so they pulled out after extra little bit."

After Enthusiastic Welcome, Nixon Suddenly Is Heckled

SVERDLOVSK, Soviet Union (AP) — A U.S.-Vice - President Richard Nixon flew to this city in the eastern Urals today for a two-day visit and was met by several thousand silently waiting Russians.

He flew from Novosibirsk in western Siberia where he was heralded last - minute heckling from otherwise friendly crowds. The welcome in Novosibirsk Tuesday was the warmest of his Soviet tour, and friendly throngs all but mobbed him.

But about before leaving Novosibirsk he was subjected to some questions from a crowd. One of Nixon's aides said some of the hecklers appeared to have been planted in the crowd.

Nixon showed no outward sign but being upset at the sharp questioning which came as he toured the huge hydro-electric plant and big scientific centre.

But twice he challenged intellectual critics of American overall bases to "hear the truth" by tuning in on his farewell speech from Moscow over television next Saturday.

And once he replied sharply to a question, "Are you really for peace?"

"What do you think?" Nixon answered.

"I think not," said the questioner, whom Soviet authorities identified as Vladimir Kuzichkin, Siberian scientific centre.

"I urge you to read my speeches again," said Nixon, "and if you can get your government to stop broadcasting the lies of America broadcasts you'll get the truth. You often have been told truth now."

On reaching Sverdlovsk, Nixon went ahead with a visit to a heavy machinery plant, one of the biggest in Russia.

Sverdlovsk, 900 miles west of Novosibirsk, is where the Communists executed Czar Nicholas II in 1918.

Now a city of more than 900,000 Sverdlovsk has been a leading industrial centre since much Soviet war industry was moved there during the war. It is located in the eastern foothills of the central Ural Mountains, 850 miles east of Moscow.

Before leaving Novosibirsk, Nixon also looked over the local power station and took a boat trip around the shores of the Ob Sea.

The warmth and enthusiasm of his reception in this West Siberian metropolis thrilled Nixon.

The Americans hailed his way into a look at the multi-million-dollar scientific research centre which the Russians are raising on the shores of the man-made Ob Sea.

The project is to house tens of thousands of scientists, students and their families by 1962.

Few details are known to the West. Plans call for a total of 13 large research institutes devoted to mathematics and natural sciences with provisions for expanding into other fields.

The arrival of the Nixon party Tuesday touched off spontaneous applause. Friendliness first astounded the Americans and kept Soviet security officials busy.

"I was afraid he (Nixon) was going to be hurt by a bear hug," said Joseph E. Johnson, chairman of the Soviet Union cultural committee and a friend of former president. "But they were hugs of friendship."

Novosibirsk, which has grown to 880,000 population from 230,000 in the 1926 census, is also called a "closed city" to foreigners.

Nixon was the guest outside the Opera House Tuesday night while the Nixons attended the ballet "Swan Lake." The opera house was packed. The Nixons had front-row seats.

Geneva Outlook Gets Darker After Rival Plans Revised

GENEVA (AP)—Western diplomats reported today that the revised Soviet and Western plans for ending the Berlin crisis have failed to break the Big Four conference deadlock over the future of Germany.

Prospects appeared darker than ever that the Geneva negotiations could ease the East-West conflict over Communist - surrounded West Berlin. But Western officials added that a last-minute Russian switch on some key points—a switch they hoped for—could still touch off the conference.

Mr. State Secretary Christian Herter invited Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to lunch in Quai d'Orsay for secret talks exchanged Tuesday night.

The proposals made no significant change in the opposing positions. The West continued to hold out for an agreement protecting the rights of West Berlin until German unification is reunified. Russia still offered to sign a treaty for 18 months of all-German negotiations and then for an unspecified period of the Four Powers talked.

But, if all these efforts were unsuccessful after a reasonable period, Russia would be free to act as she pleased.

The revised proposals were exchanged with the understanding that they would be kept secret for a day or so. But the main outlines soon became known.

The conservative Western offer to participate in a Big Four review of the Berlin situation in five years if Germany is not reunified by then. The Western officials said emphatically the allies were not suggesting their right to be in West Berlin should end in five years.

Mom Whyte Invites Cecile To Her Home, He Declines

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, determined that no children will be taken out of her foster home by government order, has invited Ontario Welfare Minister Cecile to visit the establishment.

Mrs. Whyte's husband, former Mr. Cecile, who has criticized what he says is the education standard at the home, declined to make the visit.

Mr. Cecile has suggested that only about 40 of the 120 children in the Whytehaven home are in foster home. Whytehaven Mission, at Bowmanville, about 40 miles east of here.

Officials of the Ontario health department, acting on a report on a number of children staying at the mission, list cases of tuberculosis of infectious hepatitis impetigo and influenza.

Mr. Cecile said he has no intention of closing the home but he has appealed to parents of the children to take them away.

No decision has been made on what action might be taken if parents do not remove their children voluntarily but Mr. Cecile has asked the attorney-general's department to prepare cases for prosecute under the Child Welfare Act because of overcrowding.

Mrs. Whyte's invitation to the welfare minister was made by telephone after she had refused to allow welfare department officials to examine her records. She said Mr. Cecile could personally take the names and addresses of parents whose children are being cared for at the home.

Mrs. Whyte said earlier "they will not take any children out of

100 Put in 'Solitary'; Ball Player Stabbed

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Warden David McLean of the Maritime penitentiary at nearby Dorchester has declined comment on reports that there is growing unrest behind the prison walls.

The Transcript said Tuesday there has been growing dissatisfaction among the more than 500 prisoners for the last several weeks.

An unidentified prisoner was stabbed Sunday during a softball game and is recovering from several knife wounds. The Transcript said it learned he is a middle-aged man serving a two-year term.

Cancellation of card - playing privileges was reported to be the cause of at least part of the discontent. Between 75 and 100 inmates had been placed in solitary confinement as prison officials cracked down.

A prisoner's committee set up to organize recreation had requested a ping-pong table among the prisoners that those in solitary confinement were receiving the paddle as part of their punishment. Effort to revive the softball game, discontinued when the recreation committee quit, resulted in Sunday's game.

STABBED IN BACK

Justice department officials said Monday the man was stabbed in the back while running to third base. The Transcript said it avoided a source "close to the inner workings" of the penitentiary as saying the man was stabbed after he left the softball field and walked behind the bleachers.

The last disturbance in the penitentiary was in 1956 when several prisoners protested the food served at the institution. Several of the disturbers were punished and received the "paddle" as punishment.

It could not be learned whether the ping-pong table controversy was would be admitted to the institution to play a scheduled game with the next fixture. It has been the practice for several such games to be played during the summer months.

Other entertainment is also staged from time to time, including boxing matches, track and field events, and vaudeville entertainment. These events were arranged through the convicts' recreation committee in co-operation with prison officials.

There have been few serious outbreaks in the prison. Few prisoners have escaped and many of those that did were soon recaptured.

Justice department officials have taken steps to relieve overcrowding at Dorchester, however. A federal prison farm is proposed for Springhill, and many of the Dorchester prisoners will be transferred to the new institution.

Dorchester also has a dairy and farming activities while several trades were also taught.

Montreal Thugs Almost Got Away With Million Plus

Bank Robbery Foiled By Curious Policemen

MONTREAL (CP) — Five daring bandits almost pulled off what might have been a million-dollar-plus bank robbery Tuesday, but fled with the appearance of two curious policemen.

The five entered a suburban Dorval branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada and bound and gagged Assistant Manager Gaston St. Germain.

Two of them were calmly loading safety deposit boxes into a panel truck parked in front of the bank, when Sgt. Carl Cotton and Const. R. Joseph of the Dorval remont police drove by to see what the men were doing.

The pair at the truck and three inside the bank fled.

Inside the truck police found 118 safety deposit boxes and a bank cashbox.

However another bank cashbox, which police believe might contain $25,000, was missing.

In January, 1857, safety deposit boxes in the vault of an Montreal branch of the Bank of Montreal were looted of $1,100,000.

Indian Leader, Andy Paull, Dies In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Andy Paull, outspoken defender of the rights of Canada's 150,000 native Indians, died Tuesday night in hospital. He was 67 and had been suffering from heart trouble for several months.

He was founder and president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, building it up by using white man's methods in trying to achieve full equality for the Indian.

Tall, heavily built and with the dignity and bearing of a prize-fighter, Andy Paull followed many careers—lacrosse player, sports writer, defence counsel, dance-band leader and labor organizer.

TRAINED AS CHILD

At the age of seven he was chosen by a blazz missionary to the Squamish Indians to learn the ways of the white man so he could speak for them. Before he was 15, he was placed with a Vancouver lawyer for four years, learning general legal procedures and gaining knowledge of the law as applied to Indian affairs. Although he didn't hold a law degree, he was allowed to appear in magistrate's court in B.C. up, to the Court of Appeals.

In 1926, when Mr. Paull was appearing before a joint committee of the Senate and SenRet at Ottawa he delivered his evidence so well that Prime Minister R. B. Bennett personally graduated him.

Six years ago he headed a delegation of 300 Iroquois to the Vermont state legislature to ask Montpelier to demand compensation for land taken from the Indians during settlement days.

COURTROOM VICTORY

He took on trained lawyers in Richmond, B.C., police court in 1955 and won an acquittal for an Indian charged with failing to file a 1954 income tax return. He argued there should be no taxation without representation and that his client was a registered Indian living on federal soil.

Earlier this year he wrote Ottawa urging an order-in-council to permit Indians to patronize liquor stores.

His greatest triumph came in 1946, two years after the formation of the Indian brotherhood, when through his efforts a government committee was established to study Indian problems across Canada and recommended Indians be given the vote.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine, three daughters, a son, Percy, and 15 grandchildren, all on the Capilano reserve in North Vancouver.

Would Lower Price Supports On Eggs

WINNIPEG (CP) — A bid to lower egg support price legislation changed in a way that would have supported the producer on eggs was made Tuesday by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

A resolution approved by the federation's executive at the CFA board of directors said the government should repeal the mandatory portion of the Price Stabilization Act regarding eggs and abandon its plan for a deficiency payment program on the same product.

The mandatory provisions set the support prices on nine major farm products, including eggs, at not less than 80 per cent of the 10-year average price.

The CFA meeting was closed, but it was understood that many of the farmers representing provincial federations felt that the level of support on eggs was an incentive price. It encouraged overproduction and contributed farming.

The support price on Grade A large eggs was 54 cents a dozen, 85 per cent of the 10-year average.

The resolution asked that to make up the difference between the support price and production costs, egg market supports in the form of a stabilization plan or support price basis at all main gathering points across Canada.

FOOD PRICES

The federal government will be asked to increase the incentive premium on Grade A eggs to 6 cents from 82 a hog."It also was recommended that the present minimum of 51 for Grade B animals be retained to see whether the grade price schedule is changed.

At that time, the CFA said, the family department would study "what would be removed and added to the list of products to make it up to 24. Retaining the incentive on Class B hogs would enable producers to continue to make high grades while the change-over was being studied.

She and Prince Philip spoke at length to Jardine and driver Joe Cloquet, 25, of Moncton, N.B., their searching questions reflecting their deep interest in horse racing.

The royal couple attended three days of races at Fredericton Race way, topping off a busy day in the New Brunswick capital.

The weather was hot, reaching 93, the welcome was affectionate, the crowds large. They arrested after her 21½-day holiday in Ontario, once again showed their ability to appear cool and comfortable despite the sticky weather.

Kiwanians Told Of Insurance Adjustment Job

Claims paid by Canadian insurance companies in all classes last year totalled $496,000,000, close to a billion dollars.

This was disclosed in an exciting classification talk on the work of insurance adjusters given by Fred Vance, manager of the local branch of the Underwriters Adjustment Bureau Limited, to members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club at their noon Adjustment Tuesday in the Kiwanis Centre.

Mr. Taylor in discussing this rapidly increasing business of insurance adjustment, said the volume of claims had doubled or tripled over the past few years.

Citing the rapid expansion of his own company, Underwriters Adjustment Bureau, he stated he started claims jumped from $6,000 in 1957 to $9,000 in 1958, for the year ending March 31st.)

The local branch of the company is a recent organization, having been in operation approximately three and one-half years, and employs a staff of seven.

STARTED IN 1861

The bureau, which started in Montreal in 1951, now has 92 branches in every province and territory except Edward Island, and employs 650.

Large staffs are needed to handle this tremendous volume of claims and the bureau, he explained, have specialized, especially in larger centres such as Toronto.

"The work is becoming so specialized in large centres that when a fellow joins the company he is asked what he wants to specialize in — from fender crashes or back fender crashes," he said with a grin.

He explained in smaller centres such as Belleville there is no need for specialization, although minor claims are given to specialists and larger ones are handled by senior staff members.

He particularly stressed the variety of claims handled by his organization and how they vary in size, from $4,500,000 (the largest) down to a few dollars, he said.

Mr. Taylor stated that claimants are referred to them by insurance companies and their agents of the insured.

Chief problem encountered by adjustment service is fluctuation of claims volume which largely depends on "Acts of God" such as severe wind storms, floods and such which in some cases causes considerable increase in staff or a heavier work day for particular periods.

Adjusters fall into three categories — staff adjusters attached to a particular company, independent adjusters, and bureau adjusters, the speaker explained. The latter two are licensed by the Department of Insurance for Ontario, and are paid a net fee depending on the amount of work performed by each individual claim.

Mr. Taylor stressed there is a good future for younger men in this field, but they must be intelligent for there is no daily schedule and "their time is their own".

The speaker was introduced and thanked by vice-president George Tripp who conducted the meeting in the absence of president Gerry Wishart.

Among the guests present were five Kiwanians from Trenton.

A talk urging members to register for the September district convention in Montreal was given by local attendance chairman Charles Lusk.

Today the public works department crews will be making repairs to the lower bridge. The approaches will be filled, paved and today there should be new asphalt laid on the deck of the bridge.

Elsewhere in town other asphalt road patching crews are at work keeping roads in a state of good repair.

On the gravel roads throughout the city there is a road oiling unit in continuous operation. This is a constant effort to keep the dust control problem well in hand. Waste oil for this program is obtained in Trenton.

Sewer crews are still busy remedying the effects of the last two rain storms in addition to their usual maintenance work.

Street cleaning goes on every day from 7.00 a.m. to about noon. The routes of the crews are laid out so that the heavily travelled streets are cleaned once a day with the downtown section being done first.

Trench inspection has been a big items over the past few week with the inspection being conducted by Fred Vance, Gordon Rollins, McCormack and Patrick, plumbing inspectors. New sewer and ditching work in these areas there has also been increased activity of late. New Kiwanis Club at their noon Adjustment Tuesday in the Kiwanis Centre.

Mr. Taylor in discussing this rapidly increasing business of insurance adjustment, said the volume of claims had doubled or tripled over the past few years.

Citing the rapid expansion of his own company, Underwriters Adjustment Bureau, he stated he started claims jumped from $6,000 in 1957 to $9,000 in 1958, for the year ending March 31st.)

The local branch of the company is a recent organization, having been in operation approximately three and one-half years, and employs a staff of seven.

STARTED IN 1861

The bureau, which started in Montreal in 1951, now has 92 branches in every province and territory except Edward Island, and employs 650.

Large staffs are needed to handle this tremendous volume of claims and the bureau, he explained, have specialized, especially in larger centres such as Toronto.

"The work is becoming so specialized in large centres that when a fellow joins the company he is asked what he wants to specialize in — from fender crashes or back fender crashes," he said with a grin.

He explained in smaller centres such as Belleville there is no need for specialization, although minor claims are given to specialists and larger ones are handled by senior staff members.

He particularly stressed the variety of claims handled by his organization and how they vary in size, from $4,500,000 (the largest) down to a few dollars, he said.

Mr. Taylor stated that claimants are referred to them by insurance companies and their agents of the insured.

Chief problem encountered by adjustment service is fluctuation of claims volume which largely depends on "Acts of God" such as severe wind storms, floods and such which in some cases causes considerable increase in staff or a heavier work day for particular periods.

Adjusters fall into three categories — staff adjusters attached to a particular company, independent adjusters, and bureau adjusters, the speaker explained. The latter two are licensed by the Department of Insurance for Ontario, and are paid a net fee depending on the amount of work performed by each individual claim.

Mr. Taylor stressed there is good future for younger men in this field, but they must be intelligent for there is no daily schedule and "their time is their own".

The speaker was introduced and thanked by vice-president George Tripp who conducted the meeting in the absence of president Gerry Wishart.

Among the guests present were five Kiwanians from Trenton.

A talk urging members to register for the September district convention in Montreal was given by local attendance chairman Charles Lusk.

District Gets New Inspector Travel, Publicity

The Department of Travel and Publicity, the Hon. Brian L. Cathcart, minister, has appointed Gerald Thomas Wood, for its Central Eastern Region. This region, which embraces the cities of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Peterborough, has headquarters in the county building at Napanee.

Mr. Wood was previously stationed with the department's office in Kitchener, prior to his appointment as manager of a furniture store in Barrie, his home town. He, his wife and two daughters, will be taking up residence in Napanee.

The purpose of a district inspector is to maintain contact with 1st accommodations, to inspect local tourists accommodations, to distribute booklets in the area, and to work with local associations to promote and publicize the area.

Postpone Court Appearances In Narcotics Case

MONTREAL (CP) — Voluntary statements of three men charged in connection with a multi-million dollar illegal narcotics seizure have been postponed to Wednesday. Tuesday because the judge hearing the case was out of town.

The men, Giuseppe (Pepi) Cofroni, 45-year - old restaurant owner, and Rene Robert, 31-year-old nightclub waiter, appeared briefly in court before Judge Omer Legrand granted the postponement.

Voluntary statement is a pretrial stage in Quebec criminal procedure following the preliminary hearing at which the accused may offer a defence.

Police seized narcotics worth about $8,000,000 in a series of deals in the underworld-charged and arrested Cotroni and Robert.

Both are charged with conspiracy to traffic in narcotics and Cotroni faces an additional charge of possession of goods stolen from the Brockville Trust and Savings Company in May, 1958.

PRESS-BUTTON CHURCH

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—A seven - by - 11 - foot church called "the world's largest little church" has welcomed its 25,000 visitor in the year since it was built. Prayers, services and meditations are available in the tiny church merely by pressing a button.

QUEEN, PRINCE

she was welcomed by Premier Hugh John Flemming.

This airy, unconventional city of 18,000 with its United Empire Loyalist heritage welcomed the Prince and Princess with the reception wasn't overly noisy.

SMILES FOR SCOUTS

During the afternoon the royal party was driven to Queen Square where Elizabeth presented Scouts with their long - awaited shaking hands and smiling as each one tried by.

From there they went to old Government House, now an RCMP barracks, where provincial dignitaries were presented to her and where she had tea in the garden of the manor.

After resting in her newly-refurnished suite at the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel—the only hotel in which she has spent a night since her tour began June 18 — she emerged in a dazzling Hartnell creation. The short evening dress of cobalt blue satin, set off by two rows of diamond and pearl and diamond and pearl and diamond earrings, brought a gasp from the crowd that watched her leave the hotel.

PRIVATE LUNCEPEON

With Philip, dressed in dinner clothes, at her side, she was driven to the Lady Beaverbrook residence for a private dinner for New Brunswick where some two dozen guests joined her at a private luncheon. Among them were Lieut-Governor J. Leonard O'Brien, Premier Flemming and Mrs. Flemming, a dinner featuring Miramichi salmon and Miramichi lamb specially flown in and from the Miramichi district of the province. Finishing touch to a feast of green collected from a small curled fern.

Then they were off to the races and a crowd of more than 4,000 to see the royal party get the same applause as their car was driven round the half-mile track, escorted by scarlet-clothed Mounties.

FLIES DISRESPECTFUL

The atmosphere at the track was as informal as could be. The flies attracted by the bright light disrespectfully called for the royal couple sitting in a special enclosure. Members of the Queen's party made attempts to keep the flying intruders away, with little success.

The Queen was most impressed with the superb condition of the Queen's Own winner despite 11 years of racing. She wanted to know where Jardine made a business of handling the pacers and was told that he has a farm at Lakeville to pay only in summer.

Philip asked all sorts of questions about the harness racing methods and congratulated driver Goguen on his fine handling of the horse in the $1,000 free-for-all race.

Philip didn't give his best effort in the 12th victory of his long career, coming in fifth in the mile event, seven and two-fifth seconds, a full second faster than he had ever covered the distance before.

Creamery Safe At Campbellford Robbed of $7,700

CAMPBELLFORD — Approximately $7,700 in cash and cheques were stolen from the Trent Valley Creameries on Doxsee Ave., here Tuesday night when the safe of the creamery was looted by persons who either knew the combination or found the safe unlocked.

Police Chief Sam Baird, who is heading up the investigation into the robbery, said entry to the building was gained through a boiler room door, following which the thieves forced the lock on a second door leading to the main part of the building and then made their way to the office.

The robbery took place some time between midnight when a night patrol checked the premises, and 5.30 this morning when a buttermaker, Carl Stephens, arrived for work and found and discovered the breakin.

Creamery manager Arthur Moody told police that he had checked the safe before leaving the office Tuesday night and said it appeared to be locked.

He said that at the time of the time of the robbery, $4,700 was in cash and the balance in cheques. Some of the cash was bank but signed by a company official.

Investigations here have been stopped.

Company policy in paying farmers for their milk was the reason for the large amount of cash in the safe, it was stated.

Provincial police identification officers from Toronto headquarters are assisting in the investigation.

When fired in anger, the Atlas would carry a nuclear warhead.

The successful firing last week of an earlier, test - powered model ended more than five months of bitter frustration for the Atlas program. Five previous rockets—including three of the operational prototypes—failed.

Pictured are some of the approximately 100 persons attending a picnic sponsored by the Belleville French Canadian Club, Fere Marquette, in honor of the 15 French-speaking students from Roberval, Quebec, on a two-week exchange visit to the city. The picnic was held Sunday at Outlet Beach, Picton.

15 Roberval, Quebec, Pupils Have Ball on 2-Week Visit

Some 15 Roberval, Quebec, students nearing the end of a two-week exchange visit to Belleville, sponsored jointly by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews and Visites Interprovinciales will have many pleasant memories to take back home with them.

They have literally been having a ball.

Rounds of parties, dances, picnics, barbecues, lunches, and a tour, with a few sightsight trips arranged by local parents playing hosts to the French-Canadian students, have filled out the agenda for the past two weeks.

The students will be leaving for home Friday.

Said one brother, Mrs. C. McBrien, 81 Goldale Road who has four French-Canadian "guests" at her home. "They're enjoying themselves so much, they don't want to go home.

"We enjoyed having them," she added, "they're so well behaved and mannerly."

Mrs. Greta Bunting, 181 George Street, who has done a good deal of work helping to organize some of the parties and picnics stated: The students are having a wonderful time. Belleville has done all out to make them happy, and they will go home with wonderful memories of Belleville." She particularly commended the local parents and the Chamber of Commerce for arranging such an entertaining program.

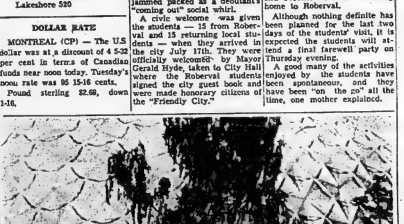
Their schedule has been as jammed packed as a debutant's "coming out" social whirl.

A civic welcome was given the students — 15 from Roberval and 15 returning local students — when they arrived in the city July 17th. They were officially welcomed by Mayor Gerald Hyde, taken to City Hall where the Roberval students signed the city guest book and were made honorary citizens of the "Friendly City."

Other Chamber of Commerce-arranged activities included Rotary and Kiwanis Club luncheons on Monday and Tuesday of last week, a tour of the Entomological Laboratory, 328 Dundas Street E., following the Kiwanis luncheon, and a picnic at the Y.M.C.A.'s Oak Lake Day Camp, last Saturday.

OUTING AT BEACH

On Sunday afternoon the local French Canadian Club held a picnic-style dinner for the students at Outlet Beach, Picton. Prior to the picnic the students were entertained to lunch at the beach by Mrs. C. McBrien and friends.



Monday afternoon a barbecue was held at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sills, Redrersville Road. The party was jointly arranged by Mrs. Sills, Mrs. Purdy and Mrs. (Dr.) E. C. Kennedy.

On Tuesday and Wednesday evening dances were held at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. The dances were arranged by the Yacht Club' in honor of French-speaking students. Another private dance was held at Tobe's County Gardens, courtesy of the proprietor.

Since arriving in the city, several of the parents with whom the students are staying while on the two-week visit have take their French-Canadian guests on side trips. Some have visited Old Fort Henry in Kingston, while others are planning on visiting Lindsay and Toronto before returning home to Roberval.

Although nothing definite has been planned for the last two days of the students' visit, it is expected the students will attend a final farewell party on Thursday evening.

A good many of the activities enjoyed by the students have been spontaneous, and they have been "on the go" all the time, one mother explained.

FIGHT DUST STORM IN U.S. EXHIBITION — United States and Soviet officials tour U.S. Exhibition in Moscow Friday. Background is aluminum dome of predominant building. The exhibition's director made plans to cover with asphalt 30,000 square feet of poor quality concrete flooring provided by Russian workmen. It seems 70,000 Russian visitors Sunday churned up too much dust for cleaning crews to cope with. From left in foreground are Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, Vice President Richard Nixon, Soviet President Kliment Voroshilov, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Milton Eisenhower and Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov.—(AP Wirephoto).

This is in marked contrast to the reported lack of organized activities for Quebec students visiting Oshawa.

Oshawa students and parents publicly charged in the Oshawa Times last week that Quebec students are being shown little in the way of organized activities either in Oshawa or elsewhere in Ontario.

City's Big Ben Is Running Again

The city needed the time o'day
So it called upon Paul Mercier.
He looked at the clock—then looked again.
But the stern four-visaged old Big Ben
Ne'er batted an eye — nor moved a hand
But cast a sneer from its towering stand.
"I refuse to run", it seemed to say
But innards-twisting Mercier
With skilful hand and modus quick,
Gave the clock the works — it began to tick.

Liberals Meet Tonight To Name Candidate

Liberals in the riding of Hastings-Frontenac will meet at Marmora village this evening to select a candidate to contest the riding in the bye-election which is scheduled for some time this fall.

The riding seat was left vacant by the sudden death last spring of Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs. The Progressive Conservative nominee to contest the riding is Norwood reeve Reid Weiss who was named some weeks ago.

Marmora Reeve William Shannon is rumored as the likely choice of riding Liberals although it is expected that several other men may be in the field by convention time at Marmora township hall this evening.

Foreigners Get Over Half Canadian Industry Profits

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than half the profits of Canadian industry go to non-residents — mostly Americans — and the figure could rise to two-thirds in 20 years, a seminar on Canadian-United States relations was told Tuesday.

Dr. John Davis, director of research for the British Columbia Electric Company, said the magnitude of foreign ownership may make it impossible for Canadians of future generations to get in on the ground floor and start buying back "our national heritage."

"Notwithstanding the many economic advantages flowing from the U.S. in direct investment in Canada, the last few years have seen developments of a deep, though intangible, sense of disquiet over the social and political implications of the increasing foreign ownership and control of Canadian industry," he said.

"Canadians . . . might well ponder the question as to whether the country can have an independent existence in circumstances where non-residents hold most of the means whereby it earns its livelihood."

Dr. Davis' speech followed an address Tuesday by Willis Armstrong, assistant to economic affairs in the United States Embassy at Ottawa, who also termed "simply foolish" the idea that substantial U.S. ownership of Canadian industry renders the Canadian government or the Canadian people any less independent. . . .

Parents' Night At Y Camp

Thursday evening will be Parents' Night at the YMCA Day Camp for Girls. The camp, which has been going for almost two weeks now, has offered 60 girls from Belleville the opportunity of learning campcraft and handicrafts under the shade of the many trees located on the "Y's" camp location by Oak Lake.

Today a general clean-up and preparation is being made for the occasion. The girls will be putting on a display of their recently acquired skills, which include building a fire, erecting a tent, reading maps finding their way by means of the stars and the sun. They will also conduct a tour of the grounds for the parents.

The program starts at 5.00 p.m. with a half-hour tour of the camp, followed by a cook-out at which the girls will prepare their own suppers. Parents are invited to bring their picnic suppers. Following the supper hour there will be an hour or so for a campfire program with a sing-song, several demonstrations, and a presentation of awards which the girls have earned in swimming proficiency.

This afternoon the girls will be taking their final swimming tests and also a course in artificial respiration during a special waterfront lesson program.

DEFENCE AND PROSPERITY

There is no more puzzling field -- for the strictly amateur economist -- than that regarding the impact of defence orders on a nation's prosperity.

Commonsense tells us that a dollar spent for defence is a dollar wasted, since it does not add one peanut or one jujube to the sum total of products which can be consumed and neither does it in any way increase a nation's ability to produce.

Experience, though, tells us that this is only part of the story. Defence orders have played, are playing and will almost certainly continue to play a major role in stabilizing our economy. If all "production for destruction" were stopped tomorrow, in all the nations of the world, the immediate result would almost certainly be a decline, rather than an increase, in the amount of consumer goods produced. Not only those people who formerly earned their living in industries producing defence needs, but many more too, would be looking for jobs.

Currently there is much concern in Canada about the division of defence orders between Canadian and U.S. industries. This concern is apparently duplicated in the U.S., as shown by a story from Washington in The Ontario Intelligencer the other day.

By a curious coincidence, though, the same issue carried a report of an entirely different economic problem which, it seems to us, would be automatically on the road to solution if the day ever came when much of the productive effort of the nations of the world was not devoted to defence, or plans for offence masquerading under the name of defence.

This other report concerned the conviction of James S. Duncan, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, that the nations of the west will have to keep their production costs down or have their standards of living reduced as the result of competition from countries with cheaper labor. What he recently visited China, is concerned, and understandably so, by the fact that backward countries, where labor costs are low, are now acquiring modern machinery. This will enable them to sell goods in the markets of the world at prices which our high living standards and high wage costs will make it impossible for us to meet.

There is, though, a catch in this. If modern machinery and low labor costs enable these lands to monopolize the world markets, what will be their gain? Their profits could be used to finance defence expenditures, but if these expenditures were eliminated the expenditure of the profits on luxuries for a few would be the only alternative to expenditure on projects which would raise the standard of living in these lands. And that, in effect, would mean an increase in the cost of labor. Automatically, it would appear, the menace of these low-living-standard nations would be eliminated as they were transformed into countries with high living standards.

Mr. Duncan appears to feel much the same way about the situation, for he advises the West "to hold our own for the next 20 or 30 years" in the assurance that "human nature being what it is, the inexorable pressures for better living conditions will make themselves felt."

NOT HANDICAPPED BY A PILOT

Occasionally we earth-bound creatures, (who think nothing of aiming a ton of steel at a hole only twice its size and hurtling towards it while the hole moves about) have had our qualms about suggestions that we should take to the air answered by the reply that today's light planes practically fly themselves.

One did the other day. It took off from St. Hyacinthe, Que., and flew some seventy miles east, while sweating RCAF types kept back of it through two and a half uneasy hours. When it landed itself in a clump of trees, damage was only $100, less than par for the fender-clashing course at most city intersections.

All we want to know now is whether the plane's maker can guarantee that it will behave in just as sweetly docile a fashion if a novice rider is aboard and is disrupting its built-in ability to fly by manoeuvres he fondly imagines add up to "controlling" the plane.

RESIGNATION

By EDGAR A. GUEST

It may be some day I shall fret
And shall worry all the while,
But up to date I haven't met
A thing to rob me of my smile.

It may be some day I shall frown
And grovel that everything is wrong,
And vow the world is upside down,
But never while I'm well and strong.

There may be troubles on this earth
Too great for me to try to bear,
There may be things to lift my mirth
And I'll meet them I shall be up high.

My smile and plod along my way
And simply do the best I can,
And take things as they come each day
Unless I find a better plan.

I shall not let the trifling things
Disturb my rest or peace of mind,
But I shall wait till something brings
Convincement that the world's unkind.

Hell! I'm friendless, broken down
In health and spirit, I shall
Ne'er be my way without a frown
And bear my burdens, head up high.

Blueberry Vacation

John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

The dozen high-bush blueberry shrubs I have out back have not materialized this year, and I shall declare a bumper crop I was showing the boys how to pick blueberries the other evening, and a reminiscent gleam came into his eyes. "We used to have a vacation every year picking blueberries," he said. "I don't suppose picking pay, but I would never call that an "awful good time," Flint said. "One time we got $1.50 a day and board."

"Flint grew up in the hall-room and putty-brush region up in the northwest corner of the state of Maine, and that's the neighborhood they call Down East. Every summer, when the blueberries were ripe up in the Deadriver [Flagstaff] region, practically the whole town of Strong went berrying and camping, to gather the crop. These were not cultivated berries, but wild ones, the bushrests in the lee of Bigelow Mountain, and nobody but a fool would bother them if the people of Strong failed to come. So everybody in town, and many relations and supplies in a haywagon, load into nearly all the respectables he could find, and they'd set out in a caravan for Deadriver.

"It's a little hard to picture it. We see the wagon-train yarns on TV, and Flint's reminiscences of deep adventure. Flint says there were twenty-three in all, and they just rode in under Mount Bigelow, came to the Carrabassett River, and then went up-river to the height of land. Then they picked up the Dead River and went to a place where a stream came in off the mountain, to the spot where the people of Strong always camped. Everybody from Strong was under the alternative would be to stay home in Strong with soul alone, which was unthinkable. Of course they'd spend a night or two on the way, because there was an element of pleasure in this trip and that memory was delightful. "I can still see almost the man who brought some changes The old Deadriver road, which was through wilderness have become paved and modernized, but in Flagstaff it's gone entirely, for village was eliminated by a hydro-power dam a few years back. The Strong folks all they could, including the commissary stuff, in the hay-wagon lay, and then they just flocked the place. Progress can't be denied, and Flagstaff's progress was swift. The place was called Flagstaff because it was flagged in 1775 when Benedict Arnold was on his way to Quebec. Flint and I could talk about as it was when Arnold saw it.

"Arriving the folks from Strong would make the camp. Each family had a tent or tents and the gear would be stowed in the wagons. The horses were tethered, and bales of hay broken out. Wood was worked up, pails of water drawn, and the women would bend over the fires to cook. Every family had its supplies, but in that country deer and moose were available, and trout. Every-one of the menfolk had the meat-hunting urge.

"Flint, according to him, was assigned to the brook where the trout lived. He was to supply this new village, while they stayed. There were trout in Sandy River back at Strong, but nothing like these beauties. The boys were ashore for the commonwealth. He strung them on a willow withe, and he'd have help to lug them to camp. Indeed, steady application to this task made him think it would be better to pick blueberries, but more than he stuck to it and endured the labor.

"Meantime, everybody gathered blueberries. They'd soon have enough to make a hundred bushels sitting around — all cleaned. It would take a week, perhaps, to get what would last through a strong winter, and then came time to break camp and start the trek home. The blueberry vacation was over. The blueberries were carefully packed for the long ride, and everybody was tired and looking forward to a bed again. Quite an adventure! But Flint says it was an adventure. It was most exciting and none of the untoward things that did were considered eventful. He remembers the first gathering of blueberries emptied in great juicy piles — the pastry rolled out, pies baked, and the feasting done by the hot rocks and embers. Baking a pie on a campfire might faze some folks now, but in those days it was the way it had to be done.

"I asked Flint how the blueberries were handled after they got home. Did they dry them, as they say the Indians did, or did they deep-freeze them, or can them? A hundred bushels of blueberries on the hands of the women of Strong sounds like a prodigious job. The menfolks would go to work farming and lumbering, but the women would have to do something with them afterward. "I don't remember," said Flint. He looked a little puzzled at it. He had recounted manifold details about everything else on the trip, but this was not in his recollections. "I bet you hadn't asked me," he said. "I'm going to wonder about that always!"

Strictly Personal

Every Person Has Two Personalities

By Sydney J. Harris

In his brilliant book, "Young Man Luther", Erik Erikson uses a remarkably simple and elegant device for overcoming the biography.

When he is referring to the man in his personal aspects, and especially in his early years, he uses the word "Martin"; when he refers to the leader of the Lutheran reformation in his public aspects, he uses the word "Luther."

In this way, Erikson enables us to distinguish between the two — for every man is a public figure and a private personality, and often the two are in sharp and unexplainable at later historians and critics can isolate.

This is not a matter of hypocrisy, but simply a psychological fact. History is full of men and figures who were publicly wicked but privately kind, or those who were publicly self-sacrificial and privately mean.

We can discuss a Caesar or a Napoleon, or even a Lincoln, it is important to distinguish between their private and public aspects to reach a full understanding of the total personality. And a full understanding is usually means accepting the contradictions within ourselves.

When we are young, we desperately want those we admire to be all of a piece. And often we find that a part of them does not live up to our expectations, we resent and turn away from the hypocrites or frauds.

This is a very narrow view of human kind. Beethoven's personal life was petty and vindictive; this does not change the quality of the "Eroica" symphony or the last quartets. Rousseau sent his five children to the foundling home; this does not negate his splendid book on education.

When Jesus said, "Judge not, that ye be not judged", He did not mean that one should not judge the acts of men; we have to do that every day. He meant we should not judge hastily, that the essential character of men, for that is buried under layers of contradictions and circumstances and compulsions which no human being can justly evaluate.

The most we can do is try to

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
FOUNDER THAT ONE

First the Greeks, then the Romans, then the people of Western Europe, then the people of North America! That is the order in which the great civilizations of the past 3000 years have arisen. The Greeks built up an empire of art and beauty. The Romans showed the world how to rule and administer. The people of Western Europe added various contributions. The Spaniards and Portuguese were the discoverers. The Germans contributed largely to scientific achievements. The English extended the empire to far distant areas. The Americans and Canadians have built up a manufacturing and commercial civilization which has raised the standards of life to heights hitherto unknown.

But it is most disconcerting that the Greek civilization was washed up centuries ago. Rome had great era, but A.D. 476 is the date the tragic close of history. Spain and Portugal may still be great for they are notoriously unprogressive and unspiritually. England shows the effects of having passed through the poundings of two World Wars.

And what about ourselves? Whither are we going? Where will we come out? Of one thing we can be sure — civilizations persistently rise and fall because they do not obey certain inflexible moral laws and principles. Will we learn through the disasters through the mistakes of other peoples and through the pounding of the waves of adversity, or will we have to be overwhelmed by the tidal waves of disaster and destruction before we learn the lessons of life?

You ponder that one and answer it if you can.

Railroads Make Changes

Windsor Star

Both of Canada's trans-continental railways are in the throes of an organizational upheaval. Sweeping changes to fit modern demands of transportation are being carried out in both the privately-owned Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways.

Each of the railways has an impressive list of improvements to be carried out to enable it to give better service and cut costs. Dieselization is proceeding rapidly. The railways are offering the most vigorous opposition to Government ownership. Streamlined schedules have been introduced. There are improvements in other fields for greater efficiency.

Some people gloomily predict that the day of the railway is over. Canada's Big Two are not worried by that kind of talk. They're too busy adapting themselves to changing conditions.

To Your Good Health

TRANQUILIZER DRUGS CAN BE DANGEROUS

Some with me, because I suffer from indigestion — a belch. You'll see why — and I hope that you and I will at least achieve a certain amount of amusement and understanding.

Here's a letter:

"Dr. Molner: I am 33 and married two years last week. A friend gave me a 25 milligram tranquilizer pill. I took it in an office worker and taken two each day.

"Within 15 minutes after swallowing it, I had a chill and then both arms ached as they have never ached before. (I have a little arthritis, I guess.)

"Why did this tablet affect me, when tranquilizers are being use so commonly now? I don't expect an answer, but I thought you might write about tranquilizers sometime. — V. M. R."

I'll say, to start with, that I don't know why you had this particular response to a tranquilizer. Maybe it was the tranquilizer. Maybe it was nerves. Or maybe the tranquilizer did disagree with you. That isn't the point especially.

The point is that with any drug we cannot predict positively what will happen. It isn't the doctor's fault, it's nature's way. The human body is so complex that we cannot anticipate all the variations. I wouldn't be surprised if we never did so, ever, and I wouldn't classify you as either. It suits me to feel that man, in all his marvelous ingenuity will have to have enough humility to realize that he doesn't know everything and must do the best he can with the available secrets of Nature.

To get back to drugs, the government insists that many of them, including tranquilizers, be given only on prescription. Why? Some are dangerous; virtually all can, in some cases, be dangerous.

THE DOCTOR KNOWS

A doctor, having given considerable time to learning all he can about drugs, knows in quantities that are reasonable. He also knows the occasional bad effects — and what signs to watch for. And what to do if trouble develops.

I doubt whether Mr. V.M.R. has suffered any serious harm. Yet he has experienced a fine example of the fact that drugs aren't simple. And that side effects are not 100 per cent predictable. He has also shown a very good reason why people shouldn't go around giving prescription drugs to their friends.

Yes, the tranquilizers are relatively safe — really excellent

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INFLUENCE

Influence is perhaps the greatest power in the world of anything else, and is manifest daily by us all. It spreads, too — in fact, is contagious. It is as well as in every act of our lives. We are forever exerting influence and compounding it.

Nature in nature knows its power. We echo ourselves in beauty, and the handiwork of the Creator. In every direction this influence asserts itself. There is health-giving influence everywhere. It is hard to measure the extent of influence. Each of us is living and does not make yearly reports.

We cannot even pass judgment upon a useful person, since so hidden are so many facets of that influence and such good it does. Men and women often remain unappraised for a long time after death. The people have failed to appreciate their greatness. How unfortunate that they had to wait so long and then die!

Influence is like the air in which we breathe. We are unconscious of it. That is what happens with influence. Influence lies itself to

Is that as high as we want bel guard against subsidizing lazy employables.

Two New Zealand Scientists Duplicate Conditions When Life Started on This Earth

By IAN MUNRO

WELLINGTON (Reuters)—Recent discoveries by two New Zealand scientists have put them in the head of research work into the mystery of how life began and taken science another step towards the realization of its ultimate goal—the creation of life.

The two scientists, working independently and along wholly different lines of approach, are Dr. A. T. Wilson of New Zealand's Institute of Nuclear Science, and Dr. R. E. F. Matthews of the plant diseases division of the department of scientific and industrial research.

United States research workers, by freeflasing solutions of simple inorganic compounds with ultra - violet light or subjecting them to electrical discharges, have succeeded in synthesizing amino acids from their primary elements — oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen and carbon. Hitherto, only green plants and a few bacteria have been able to do this.

The next step towards the creation of life in the laboratory would be to induce the amino acids to combine to form proteins, the principal constituents of all living organisms. But a protein molecule is an extremely complex one which may consist of hundreds — even thousands of amino acid molecules of 20 or more different kinds.

SIGNIFICANT FACT

One particularly important class of proteins are the enzymes, essential to the life of both plants and animals, because by their mere presence they can break down insoluble compounds, which neither plant nor animal can assimilate, into soluble, and consequently usable, ones, without themselves being consumed in the act. This peculiar property of enzymes, and the fact that enzymes are proteins and have been described as "the physical basis of life," is significant in view of experiments recently carried out by Dr. Wilson.

After collating all evidence as to the conditions which must have existed on the earth's surface when the world cooled down to a temperature where water vapor condensed to form lakes and seas, Dr. Wilson has reproduced these conditions as nearly as possible in his experimental flasks. These contain a solution, in water, of hydrogen sulphide and ammonia, with traces of the various mineral elements, under an atmosphere of methane.

Dr. Wilson then set out to ascertain what effect a thunderstorm, with its release of terrific concentrations of energy in the form of lightning, probably would have had on the primeval earth 2,500,000,000 years ago.

Subjecting the contents of his flasks to electrical discharges of some 2,000 volts, he found at the surface of his solution giant molecules of wax — like structure, many times bigger and more complex than those of the amino acids synthesized by U. S. research workers.

HYDROCARBON TYPE

Moreover, although these giant molecules seemed to be made up of hydrocarbons rather than of amino acids, the building blocks of proteins, they nevertheless exhibited some of the properties of that vital group of proteins, the enzymes.

Simultaneously, Dr. Matthews, by his experiments on viruses, which seem to come from a nebulous half - world where the distinction between "living" and "non - living" becomes virtually meaningless, is throwing new light on the ability of the living to reproduce its kind.

Dr. Matthews' experiments in growing a culture of an approximately spherical virus, about one-millionth of an inch in diameter, have produced a discovery of the first importance.

By centrifuging cultures of this virus in certain solutions, he separated out from the virus a series of incomplete, non - infectious virus particles which seem to represent stages in the synthesis of the complete virus—in other words, they are virtually viruses in the making.

Two or three, or more, according to their size, of these particles could, it seems, come together to form the complete virus, thus duplicating what must have happened when the earth was young—groups of molecules joining up to form giant molecules of increasing complexity and culminating in assemblies competent to carry on the simplest functions of living.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keith Richards are shown following their recent marriage in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville. RICHARDS — CAMPBELL

Pink and white gladioli and white Shasta 'mums adorned the altar in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 11th at three o'clock for a lovely double-ring wedding ceremony when Barbara Joan Campbell, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. James and the late Mr. Campbell became the bride of Howard Keith Richards, of Frankford, son of Mr. Howard Richards and the late Mrs. Richards. The Rev. R. D. MacLean, pastor of the church, officiated. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

The traditional wedding music was provided by Mr. Kenneth Peacock, Toronto, uncle of the bride, who accompanied the soloist, Barry Johnston, cousin of the bride, who sang before the ceremony "Wedding Prayer," and during the signing of the registry, "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Wayne Campbell, the bride was radiant in her floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and net over satin taffeta, having a molded bodice encrusted with sequins and seed-pearls, long lily-point sleeves and a high collar lined with tiny seed pearls. Her fingertip illusion veil was held by a headdress encrusted with sequins and beaded pearls. She carried a semi-cascade of red Sweetheart roses and white feathered carnations.

Mrs. Jim Rainie, of Wellman's Corners, was matron of honor gowned in ballerina length mint green taffeta having an overskirt of white embossed nylon. She wore a white headdress, shoes and gloves and carried a nosegay of pink and white baby 'mums.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Hugh Lyons, of Harold and Miss Lois Campbell, of Frankford, sister of the bridegroom were identical gowns of yellow and mauve with white accessories and carried nosegays of yellow and mauve 'mums.

Mr. Carl Richards, of Frankford, brother of the bridegroom, performed the duties of groomsman while Mr. Douglas Detlor and Mr. Douglas Campbell, of Stirling, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors which were prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride's table was attractively centred with a beautiful three-tier wedding cake on pillars, and silver wedding bells and lily-of-the-valley.

The bride's mother received wearing an avocado green shantung sheath ensemble beige hat, shoes and gloves and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Douglas Detlor, gowned in bronzed pink nylon with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

For her wedding trip to the United States, the bride chose a pastel-blue and white gown, with large collar, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Upon their return, they will reside in Winnipeg, Manitoba, where the bridegroom is stationed with the R.C.A.F.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored by two showers: one, a shower given by the pupils and community of S. S. 2 Thurlow, where the bride was teacher for the past two years. Here she was presented with a beautiful electric living-room clock.

Also a miscellaneous shower, held at the home of Mrs. Jim Rainie, with Mrs. Hugh Lyons as co-hostess.

Guests were present from: Ottawa; Eldorado; Trenton; Wooler; Frankford; Stirling; Foxboro; Belleville, and local districts.

BOWES — WOOD

FRANKFORD — On Saturday afternoon, July 26th, at 2.30 p.m. in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle, a double-ring wedding was performed when the Rev. Gwerton Pierce, assisted by the Rev. Varnor O'Brien of Granby, Quebec, cousin of the bridegroom, united in marriage Vivian Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Wood, of Frankford, and Mervin L. Bowes of Cochrane, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bowes of Deux Rivieres, Ontario.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace with nylon tulle lined with satin. She wore a white crown of sequins and seed pearls with circular shoulder veil and matching white mitts and carried a cascade of white satin Bible crested with pink Sweetheart roses and rose-bud-knotted streamers.

The bride's attendants were her sister, Miss Connie Wood of Toronto, as maid of honor; Mrs. Betty Charbonneau of Pembroke, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Jean Parks of Belleville, also a sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. All were attired in mint green Swiss embroidered satin cotton gowns in princess style with matching bonnets. White chrysanthemum headbands, white gloves and shoes and carried semi-cascades of pink carnations with satin leaves and white lace ribbons.

The flower girls were little Miss Dianne Maher of Actinolite, Ontario, and little Miss Leslie Ann Jackson, of Toronto, nieces of the bride, wearing pink nylon dresses trimmed with white lace and white apple blossom headbands, white shoes and gloves and carrying baskets of white baby 'mums with pink ribbons.

The groomsman was Mr. Tom Charbonneau of Pembroke, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Ross Bowes of Cochrane, Ontario and Mr. Clifford Bowes, of Chalk River, Ontario, brothers of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Carl Andrews of Frankford, presided at the traditional wedding music and the Rev. Charles Benn, of Napanee, was soloist, singing "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with baskets of white spirea and pink gladioli with white satin bows on the guest pews.

Following the ceremony and pictures, the reception was held in the lower church auditorium which was decorated with pink and white streamers and pink and white bells over the tables.

The bride's mother received in a sheer-length dress of dusty rose Chantilly lace underlined with taffeta, with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in a street-length gown of green paisley silk with pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

The head table was set with a white linen cloth, white candles and flowers and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake with miniature bride and bridegroom adorning the top. The table flowers were bouquets of white bridal roses, pink sweetpeas and pink corn flowers.

Two vocal duets were enjoyed at the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Andrews sang "Together with Jesus" and the Rev. Charles Benn and his sister, Miriam sang "Then I Met Jesus."

The guests were invited to the bride's parents home to view the lovely gifts. The home was decorated with pink and white bells, gladioli and streamers and snapdragons.

For the wedding trip to Lake Ontario and points in the eastern states, the bride chose a turquoise linen sheath with white picture hat and white accessories and wore a corsage of red roses.

Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

This - - - and That

By HARLEY STEVENS

Let's not do any shooting today! It's a beautiful day, and the sun is shining, it's not hot, the song birds are singing, and the fish are biting merrily in the creek back of the bank. Sometimes I wonder how much I know about and we let things go, but maybe I am the wrong way when we matter more. Anyway, I took a positive attitude toward the bank today.

We know of some people who change rugs and draperies and covers for warmer furniture for the summer to make their rooms look cooler. It does one trick, too, but everybody can't do that. However, there are ways of establishing a kind of summer living that will make things simpler and cooler. Take away the excess of odds and ends, even decorative furnishings, to give an airier and more open look. Replace ornaments with a cool-looking bowl of citrus fruits. Put a large bunch of shiny green leaves in a copper or wicker bowl on the floor. If you do replace heavy draperies, try using Oriental straw blinds and even straw matting instead of rugs. But you will need some strong clear color accent in your accessories to act as a tonic in your spirit.

If we don't have air conditioning, we can take a tip from southern women by making a habit of closing windows and drawing shades or shutters during the day, and opening them only at night. This has been used by the south since plantation days to keep indoors many degrees below outdoor temperatures. So much for heat.

Reading the papers these days, one item will be bad and disparaging, another will be good and inspiring. We like what has come out of the Commonwealth Education Conference at Oxford. As we have also noted, the part played by Canadian, the

by Mary Moore

Ethel and Stella Barter were visiting their brother Joe, who as you may remember is making use of Might Lend Services in Germany. They were the guests of honor at a tea for about forty guests, many from Canadian Headquarters staff. So Nan and Joe reserved the Patio at the Old Red Path Club for the party.

The day was scorching hot and Marianne and I took wee Tom, who was three weeks old to the day and held court from her white leather cot.

The menu was out of your world for on the umbrella-topped tables were trayfuls of beautifully decorated German pastries (see below) and we were served tea and coffee. That was the first course.

The second course was dainty assorted sandwiches many of which were open-face, and a frosty clear punch.

Then believe it or not, for a third round cams ice cold beer.

So you see you must be adjustable to belong to the Army in a foreign community. The novelty was delightful and the source of conversational wonder.

The garden party clothes were a mixture of the latest from Canada for it is winter time and many new arrivals from Canada; some American styles, for Joe's sister Stella is a nurse from Cleveland; European fashions were worn by some of the Army wives who have been doing their shopping in Amsterdam and Paris and were très chic.

Incidentally Miss Ethel Barter is a nursing supervisor at Women's College Hospital in Toronto and remembers Pete from his three month stint there on obstetrics this past spring.

You may be sure that as much as propriety permitted I analyzed those pastries and the girls at our table helpfully examined them too so I could give you a possible description.

It is fruit season here and they are used in season in abundance. On Bonet market I can buy an abundance of dark sweet cherries, which were served in a cake served to us, there are white summer peaches from Italy, russet-skinned pears, pale rather sourish raspberries and fine Canadian-like blueberries (bilberries); pale green apples which make fluffy applesauce.

The cherries were featured at the tea party and I have the authentic cherry cake which you can reproduce in Canada if you are quick about it.

WESTFALISCHEN KIRSCHKUCHEN:

(Westphalian Cherry Fruit Cake). 3 oz. (1 1-4 cups) sifted flour, 6 egg yolks, 6 oz. sugar (1 cup), 1 lb. stoned cherries (roughly 4 cups when stoned — may be sweet or sour), 2 oz. butter (1-4 cup), 6 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 1 oz. stale sponge or plain cake or plain cookie crumbs.

The typical German sweet pastry is prepared by cutting the butter into the flour and moistening it with two of the egg yolks. Work bits into a smooth paste and roll out to fit a flat tin. (You may use a 9-inch layer cake tin.) Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 5 to 8 minutes. Beat well together remaining four egg yolks with sugar and when thick and fluffy fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and fine crumbs. Arrange the stoned cherries as close together as possible in the partially baked pastry case and pour over the egg mixture. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Serve cold.

HAT WITH DINNER DRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just received an invitation to a dinner - dance which is to be given in a large out-of-town hotel. I know that it is proper to wear a dinner dress, but how about a hat? The affair is from 6.30 to midnight.

E. J.

A hat is not appropriate to wear with your dinner dress on this occasion. (However, going to and from the dinner - dance you might wear some kind of veil - or - flower arrangement, to keep your hair in order.)

HAS HER ENGAGEMENT BEEN ANNOUNCED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is engaged to a man who has just been invited to be best man at the wedding of a close friend of his. She and I are wondering if she should expect to be invited to the dinners and the other parties to which the members of the wedding party would be invited. She thinks she would not necessarily be invited, but my husband and I think she should be, just as a wife is expected to be.

Mother.

Has your daughter's engagement been announced? If so, you are right. If her engagement has not been publicly announced, she should not expect to be included in the pre-wedding festivities.

WHERE THE HONORARY PALLBEARERS SIT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"A" says that at a funeral, either in church or in a funeral chapel, the honorary pallbearers always sit in the front pews to the family's left. "B" insists that they all in the pews directly behind the family. Who is right?

Two Readers

"A" is right.

HOSTESS BOTHERED BY THE GUEST-ON-A-DIET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Today two of my very close friends and I were complaining together about this increasing problem of guests (generally women guests) who accept a hostess' invitation to dinner and then, when they come, eat practically none of the food served, explaining that they are "on a very strict diet." This is certainly infuriating! They sound (and look) so self-righteous when they explain about their diet.

I love to cook. I do all my own cooking, and I have a very special pride in planning what my husband calls a "noble menu" when we invite guests to dine with us. This means that I spend many hours the day before the dinner and the day of the dinner preparing for and cooking the dinner. (To say nothing about the cost of the foods.) Then of course it's just wonderful to be greeted by the stupid explanations of these dieters.

Would it rock their world if they just forgot about their diets for one evening? If this would be impossible, why in the world don't they explain to me, when I call to invite them, that they are on a diet? What is your suggestion, Mrs. Beeckman, about how to cope with this discourtesy?

T. W.

This discourtesy you describe is a colossal lack of consideration, and really is inexcusable. Dieters can be so ridiculously dramatic and self-centred about their diets that they are completely lacking in consideration for a thoughtful and kind hostess like you, who takes such pride in being a fine hostess and a fine cook. If you're not brave enough to intimate that they might "forget about the diet for this one evening" (I doubt very much that you could be that brave) the only solution is for you to ask any guest whom you are inviting, and whom you might possibly be on a diet, if she or he will please tell you what they can eat so you can, as an alternative, prepare these foods.

Luncheon Attraction

By VERA WINSTON

This attractive dress, keyed to dressy daytime wear, makes an excellent choice for the woman's figure as well as for the young slims. The fabric is black or brown silk crepe of a light supple quality. The deftly draped bodice starts from the waistband and is drawn up to form a draped collar effect. The waistband buttons in back. Short sleeves and a slim skirt complete an excellent design of a type that is practically ageless.

Mr., Mrs. H. E. Martin Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

A honeymoon at the Thousand Islands Park, and a passenger boat trip up the Great Lakes to the Lakehead enroute to their new home at Raymore, Saskatchewan, were recalled here yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Martin, 31 Howard Street, as they observed their golden wedding anniversary.

The anniversary was marked by a family reunion attended by all of their seven children and 10 of 11 grandchildren. Family members enjoyed a lawn supper on the Martin back lawn.

The couple were married at the bride's home in Tamworth by Rev. H. S. Spence. Mrs. Martin was formerly Myrtle Woods and was born in the Tamworth district.

Yesterday the couple recalled early days in the then small hamlet of Raymore, Sask. where Mr. Martin opened a drug store in the pioneer community of the Canadian West. They recalled the cosmopolitan population of the district at the time where the English tongue was the exception rather than the rule.

In 1950 Mr. Martin sold his drug store at Raymore and the couple returned to Ontario to live. For the past eight years they have lived in Belleville and are members of Holloway Street United Church.

Although his days of responsibility as a drug store owner are ended, Mr. Martin still serves as a part time pharmacist at Schryver's Drugstore in Belleville and at Simmons Drugstore in Trenton.

Both in their seventies, the couple enjoy good health and are fond of gardening.

A surprise anniversary gift to the 50-year wed couple from their children was a new sunroom at their Howard Street home which will face the lovely back lawn. The sunroom is now in course of construction.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. A. Martin and Donnie Martin, Clinton, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Atchison, Sharon, David and Donald Atchison, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. French, Janet and Colin French, Ottawa; Miss Edna Martin and Mr. R. S. Martin, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodcock, Glenn and Garry Woodcock, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Martin, Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Martin, Carole and Wanda Martin, and Mrs. E. Hudgins, Frankford.

'Othello' at Stratford

Distinguished Performances Given by Canadian Cast

By ROBERT TANNER

"Othello" is not one of Shakespeare's most entertaining plays; it is also a long play, and for this reason is usually performed in "cut" versions which often remove the few humorous interludes which provide such necessary comic relief to the grim saga of jealousy, deceit and vengeance. Sometimes the cuts also remove passages which provide important explanations of plot or motive, and thus tend to obscure what remains.

The Stratford authorities thus very courageously decided to present virtually the whole play, about three hours of acting time, under the joint direction of two Canadians, Jean Gascon of Montreal's famous Theatre du Nouveau Monde, and George McCowan. It is a measure of their success that the play remains gripping and alive throughout the whole of its length, and has gained enthusiastic notices from such distinguished critics as Brooks Atkinson of the "New York Times" who claims this is the finest "Othello" he had ever seen.

It has already been suggested that much of the credit for this must go to the directors, who have given us a straight forward but deeply thought-out interpretation, which makes much more credible many of the situations which in previous productions have seemed quite unbelievable. In this way, the whole character of Iago is changed from a sleazy, scheming villain to a rather ordinary individual deeply hurt at being passed over for promotion, but getting more and more deeply involved in what starts out as a rather spiteful attempt at revenge against Othello, his master, and Cassio, his supplanter. Douglas Rain, as Iago, gives this new characterization great authenticity and, as usual, plays his part with expertness and sincerity. Mr. Rain is certainly to be numbered among the finest actors produced by the Stratford Festival and is a living argument for its success and importance.

In many previous productions, Douglas Campbell has exhibited his great comic genius in such roles as Falstaff, Sir Toby Belch and so on. As Othello, he proves that he can depict high tragedy with as sure a hand. Not greatly helped by his costuming (apart from our magnificent red cloak in which he appears for some ten seconds) he portrays the dignity and singlemindedness of the Moor, the tragic singlemindedness which finally led him to destruction. This is a great and gripping performance in tune with the whole scale of the production.

Frances Hyland's Desdemona is charming in the earlier scenes, bewildered later as her husband so unaccountably turns against her and finally pathetic

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Alice J. — Mother is too critical of the children.

Mrs. L. M. — They could become hoodlums.

Alice J. — My problem concerns my teenage son and daughter and my mother.

The children were brought up close to their grandmother and always loved her very much. They were happy when Grandma came to live with us three years ago. Partly as a result of her being with me, I decided to go back to work. We want to send both children to college and we won't be able to do it on my husband's salary alone.

Now that the children and Grandma are together several hours a day they don't seem to get along at all. We get long lists of complaints every evening. I feel that Mother is too critical of the children and takes things too seriously. We feel that we have nice children — even if they are a bit rambunctious at times.

Mrs. L. M. — Nobody could love children more than I love my grandchildren. It is just because I love them that I worry about them. The way they are growing up they could become hoodlums.

The boy isn't even as bad as the girl. She has no sense of responsibility. She comes home from school and starts playing her rock and roll records. Then her girl friends come over and they fool around with clothes and makeup the rest of the afternoon. After dinner there are the long telephone conversations. Homework? That's left until bedtime.

I used to spoil the children when they were younger and I guess they figured they'd be able to take advantage of me now. My daughter seems to think I'm just a cranky old woman.

The Council: Mrs. L. M. is placed in a very difficult position. If she is responsible for these children a certain number of hours a day, she cannot help but want to guide them according to her own ideas. Yet they aren't fully her responsibility and their parents are evidently satisfied with them. She cannot presume to overrule the parents.

Mrs. L. M. should consider the fact that older people tend to be more critical of adolescents than those closer to their generation. Parents are more closely attuned to the needs, desires and conflicts of the young generation and they remember their own teen years. They may be liked by "rambunctious" teenagers, but they are also sympathetic. If Mrs. L. M. must take on the role of parent for a few hours a day, she should try to remember that it is not necessary or desirable for her to take total responsibility for the children's conduct.

On the other hand, Alice should be aware of the fact that her children are not accustomed to seeing their beloved, doting Grandma in the driver's seat and they would be behaving naturally if they tried to take advantage of the situation.

Alice's hard - earned money will be of little help in getting her youngsters into colleges and keeping them there if their marks and their work habits are poor. She should carefully consider whether it might not be better for her to remain at home and help her children develop the kind of self-discipline and resourcefulness that enable many to achieve a college education without family support.

Dead Woman Asked Way To Commit Suicide, Jokingly Man Suggested Plastic Bag

OTTAWA (CP) — A picture of Joan de Marcy's other self—despondent, feeling forsaken and evth desperate — began to emerge Tuesday night as the inquest into her love-quadrangle death ground through its second sitting.

The image contrasted sharply with that painted by prosecution witnesses, principally the 30-year-old - model's parents, which suggested a buoyant personality and a passionate love of life.

The night before she died Mrs. de Marcy told a male acquaintance, according to evidence: "My husband is gone, my lover is gone, now my best friend is leaving me."

Evidence indicated she made the remark to Fred Ferrance as he was leaving. Testimony also has given that her husband was in Toronto and radio announcer Max Lipson apparently had called that same night to say he would be unable to keep an appointment the next day.

It also was learned that she previously had discussed with Ferrance methods of committing suicide.

The body of the pretty blonde was found in her living room floor of her home here early June 16, a plastic bag covered her head.

PARENTS NOT SATISFIED

Authorities ruled it a suicide but an inquest was ordered after her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bensen Hamlet of Scarborough, told the attorney-general's department they were not satisfied with the ruling.

Tuesday night's inquest session lasted more than two hours. The 150-seat inquiry room was filled to capacity nearly three hours before the hearing resumed. Many brought lunches.

Ferrance, Ottawa sales manager for a magazine publisher, came home between 11.15 and 11.30 p.m., June 18, his wife Violet testified. She had known of his relationship with Mrs. de Marcy, which she considered of a strictly business and "friendship" nature. Their offices were in the same building.

Three days later, Ferrance told his wife that he had been with Mrs. de Marcy the night before she died and when he left her home she made the remark about everybody leaving her.

EVEN THE CAT LEFT

She even stated that her cat was leaving her—the cat had followed Mr. Ferrance out the door.

Mrs. de Marcy's husband, Hubert, is insurance company executive with whom she had been quarrelling, was then in Toronto. A friend, Mac Lipson, had phoned her that night to say he could not keep an engagement with her the following day, according to evidence.

On an earlier occasion, Mrs. Ferrance said her husband told her Mrs. de Marcy had taken an overdose. Ferrance: "Freddie, what's the best way to commit suicide."

Mr. Ferrance, thinking she was joking, had replied that "diddies seem to do well with plastic bags."

The dead girl's mother, Mrs. Bensen Hamlet, stated categorically that her daughter would not take her own life — she loved life, loved people and loved life too much.

FILM SEIZED

OTTAWA (CP) — A press photographer's film was seized by police Tuesday night after he had snapped a picture in a Toronto legislature.

Photographer Cliff Buckman of Ottawa, on an assignment for the Toronto Telegram, aimed the boom after the coroner's inquest had been sitting and took a non-flash picture of a witness at the inquest.

Coroner Dr. J. S. Cross, who earlier had forbidden photographers to enter the room with cameras, spotted Buckman and ordered police Sgt. Tom Walsh to seize the camera.

Sgt. Walsh agreed to take only the film. Police said later the film would be processed today, the inquest-room exposure would be removed and the rest of the negatives returned to Buckman.

Wintermeyer Asks Special Fall Session

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer called Tuesday for a fall session of the legislature to study the province's fiscal problems.

This is a new legislature," said Mr. Wintermeyer, "and a fall session would allow much of the preliminary work to be completed" before the budget is brought down in the spring.

The Liberal leader made his comments after he and 26 of the 28 other Liberals elected in the June 21 provincial election were sworn in as members of the 26th legislature.

Mr. Wintermeyer said that "from now on, it's going to be hammer and tongs." He added:

"The fiscal problems facing us today are so great, we can't wait until spring when the budget is brought down we have no time to study it.

"A fall session would make us acquainted with the problems," he said.

MacMillan Govt. Beats Down Two-Day Socialist Assault On Its Nyasaland Policies

LONDON (CP) — Amid shouts of "squalid Parliament" and "Sues," the Conservative parliamentary majority Tuesday night beat down a two-day Socialist attack on the government's policy in the central African territory of Nyasaland—an area described by an independent commission as "run temporarily as a police state."

After one of the noisiest debates in months, the Conservative government endorsed the policy of Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd and the governor of the territory, Sir Robert Armitage.

They also rejected a Labor amendment calling for full endorsement of a special commission report on the Nyasaland riots earlier this year.

Fifty-two African natives were killed in the clashes and 1,300 were arrested for "political crimes" or breaches of the peace. The arrests sparked the activities of the African National Congress party in the colony.

The commission reported there was no real evidence of a "massacre plot" which had been the government's justification for declaring a state of emergency. The report added, however, that the government of Nyasaland had to "act or abdicate" and was right in declaring the emergency.

For the colonial Secretary, it was an ironic stage in a career which included playing a leading role in guiding Ghana and Malaya to nationhood within the Commonwealth and laying the groundwork for an independent Nigeria and federation of the West Indies.

The commission report and Nyasaland affairs generally almost certainly will develop into major election issues. A general election is expected in October.

Lennox-Boyd made clear the government has no intention of releasing Nyasalanders arrested during the riots until it feels the emergency has ended.

He also stressed the government's determination to keep Nyasaland with the two Rhodesias in the Central African Federation. The hope is for the development of racial partnership.

If Nyasaland pulled out of the grouping, Africa could be split into areas of "black socialism" and apartheid, the colonial secretary said, Southern Rhodesia, with the largest number of British technical whites live, might turn to South Africa.

"If this happened, the world would be a much poorer place," he said.

Labor Aneurin Bevan pushed the no-confidence motion was the worst he ever sat in.

"This will be known in history as the squalid Parliament," he said. "It reached its natural end in 1956 and has been kept going to try to revive the fortunes of the political party opposite to us."

Russia Opposes Any Non-Nuclear Representatives

GENEVA (Reuters) — The Soviet Union returned Tuesday to its accusations that the West is trying to set up espionage rings within Russia by means of an East-West treaty to ban nuclear weapons tests.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin referred at the session of the three-power nuclear conference to the Western proposal of July 20 that the technical staff to control posts on the territories of the three nuclear powers should be made up equally of Russians, Anglo-Americans and other countries.

Tsarapkin rejected the right of other countries to have representatives in control posts on Soviet territory.

He said such representatives would be "merely allies of the West" who would be ordered to poke their noses" everywhere.

The Soviet delegate said if any non-nuclear countries were represented in control posts, they would have to be included in the one - third designated for the Anglo-American.

Tsarapkin said his comments were not final and he would speak in more detail later.

Sir Michael Wright of Britain said it was important for the agencies to insist that two-thirds of the staff of a control post on Soviet territory be Russians.

This merely amounted to selfinspection and "the inspectorate powers joining the treaty had an indisputable right to be represented in control posts.

Suggests Ike Hold Chats With Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was urged today by Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota to pave the way for informal talks here with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as a substitute for a summit meeting.

But Republican Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire said he would suspend guilty Khrushchev visit, even if Vice - President Richard Nixon should recommend it. Nixon indicated after his talks with the Russian leader in Moscow that he was considering such a recommendation.

Aides of Nixon also were quoted as considering New York City as a possible site for a summit meeting. But Nixon has denied reporting is that Khrushchev could certify with the U.S. after the talks if they would like to be American city.

Humphrey, senators' conflicting viewpoints were given in separate interviews. Others also indicated a variety of opinions about the wisdom of extending an invitation.

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, talked for eight hours with Khrushchev in Moscow last December. He said Ike could make more progress might be made if Khrushchev would be here by informal talks between Eisenhower and Khrushchev than would be held at a formal summit conference.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican policy committee, said he remains unconvinced that any good would come from a Khrushchev visit.

Over Half Canadian Content For CBC and Private TV Programs Proposed as Rule

OTTAWA (CP)—The 15-member Board of Broadcast Governors has proposed television regulations designed to meet Parliament's call a year ago for a broadcasting service "basically Canadian in content and character."

One proposed rule would demand that at least 55 per cent of a week's TV shows broadcast by any station—CBC or private—be Canadian in content. Content as "Canadian" would be Commonwealth and foreign French-language programs.

In addition, board chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart said Tuesday, BBG permission would be required for every United States show broadcast by Canadian stations. The board also would keep a tight rein on Canadian stations' microwave hookups with U.S. TV networks.

REPEAT A.M. PROGRAMS

Another major proposal is to ban pre-noon TV broadcasting except for religious programs and school broadcasts, children's Saturday - morning shows, and any special events approved by the board. Otherwise, the BBG set no limit on station hours.

The governors will hold public hearings in Ottawa Sept. 14, at which all interested parties making written submissions on the regulations will have a chance to make further oral representations.

Dr. Stewart said the regulations as finally approved will go into effect in the fall of 1960.

This date probably would be close to the one foreseen for the start of operation of a second TV stations in Canadian cities.

In this connection, the board announced that applications for second stations will be accepted after Sept. 15. Public hearings will begin Jan. 11 in Winnipeg and Jan. 18 in Vancouver. Later hearings will be held in Toronto, Montreal, Edmonton, Calgary, Halifax, Ottawa.

FIRST TV RULES

The new regulations would be the first specifically intended for TV since television began in Canada seven years ago.

Since last June 1, TV stations have been operating under the same regulations as radio stations. These call for a basic Canadian program content but set no minimum percentage.

As for the CBC, its recent annual report for 1958-59 estimated that of the 60,000 programs it offered that year, in radio about 95 per cent were Canadian-produced while the more expensive TV program source about 45 per cent Canadian on the English network and 70 per cent Canadian on the French network.

A CBC spokesman said following Tuesday's BBG announcement that the corporation's English network programs this fall will be about 50 per cent Canadian content, and the French-network percentage is even higher.

Percentages for privately-owned stations were not immediately available.

BOARD MEMBERSHIP

Dr. Stewart told a press conference that the "standards for membership contained will be those prescribed by the Board of Broadcast Governors."

Asked by a reporter how this could be construed as anything but censorship, Dr. Stewart replied that he could see no way to head off this extra power of censorship under the 1958 Broadcasting Act.

The proposed regulations also provided that up to two hours of TV broadcasting time each day during the peak listener period—8 p.m. to 11 p.m.—be reserved for purposes prescribed by the BBG.

Lawyer for Young Robbers Questions Bank's Procedure

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence counsel for two 18-year-old boys, who pleaded guilty Thursday to stealing $73,264 from a bank, questioned the practice that allowed a $44-a-week teller to walk out with the money.

Richard Boudreau, teller at a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, and longtime pal Donald Leclerc were to appear again today in magistrate's court for sentencing on charges of theft from money. Magistrate Joachim Sauriol indicated sentence will be announced next week.

George Addy, counsel for Boudreau, said it seemed unusual that a lad not yet old enough to sign a legally valid contract is legally handle $73,000 and that the bank in question did not check the tellers at Friday night when they picked up.

The theft would not have been discovered until the following Monday if Boudreau and Leclerc had not been picked up by borden police Sunday attempting to cross into Mexico near San Diego Calif.

With the help of their parents, the boys have replaced $1,500 not, the bank recovered all but $200 picked up. Also returned was $300 they paid a convicted bookie who did not identify, to drive them across the border into the United States in the trunk of a car.

The man and wife said in a statement to police that Boudreau forced them at gunpoint to drive him and Leclerc across the border. Police found no trace of his father's .32-calibre pistol.

After both boys pleaded guilty Magistrate Sauve said he was satisfied there was no force involved.

He Should Try It in The 'Frig'

OVEILAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — Police Lieut. Myron Seafe, checking a supermarket parking lot, saw a man crawl into the trunk of a convertible and close the lid.

A woman employed at the store saw him, said the car was hers and asked what he was doing.

"There's a man hidden in the trunk," Seafe said.

Just then the lid opened. Out stepped a man with a sheepish look.

"Charles," exclaimed the woman, "what on earth are you doing in there?"

"Well, I know this sounds silly," replied Woman's 13-year - old husband, Charles Ernest, "but I felt there was shut the lid just to see if the trunk light goes out."

U.S. Steel's Record Profits Made Union Talking Point

NEW YORK (AP)—The Steelworkers Union opened its latest skirmish in the drive for higher wages in the five years.

Farmers have an estimated $3,-100,000 acres sown to wheat this year, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday.

That represents a 10-per-cent gain from the 20,889,100 acres grown last year and is the largest amount since the 24,707,000 acres sown in 1954.

Ontario's winter wheat crop, hit by heavy winter killing, is down 41 per cent from last year to 425,000 acres.

Planning 28 Million Outlay On Commonwealth Education

OXFORD, England (CP)—The first Commonwealth education conference ended Tuesday with an announcement that $28,000,000 will be spent during the next five years in a Commonwealth assault on educational problems.

Canada's share will be about $8,000,000.

Details of the educational programs were announced at the conference chairman, Sir Philip Morris, vice-chancellor of Bristol University.

His report said that half the money will be used on a scholarship plan, first suggested by Canada, whereby more than 1,000 students of the highest intellectual promise" will be exchanged between countries with strong government for another five years.

With only a few votes to be counted, unofficial returns indicated Monday's People's National Party would have 28 of the 45 seats in the new House of Representatives. He thanked supporters in a radio broadcast for "glorious victory."

The conservative Labor Party led by his cousin, Sir Alexander Bustamante, appeared to have taken 16 seats, one independent elected.

MORE SEATS

The number of seats has been increased since the last election. Before Tuesday's balloting, the People's National Party held 18 seats and the Labor Party 13, with one independent.

Voting was brisk and comparatively orderly after sporadic campaign violence in which one man was killed.

Manley, 48, an Oxford-educated lawyer, led the People's National Party to power in 1955 after 11 years of rule by the conservatives headed by his 75-year-old cousin, Bustamante, a former labor leader.

Laughing Woman Teller Confuses Would-Be Thief

HAMILTON (CP) — A lone bandit was thwarted in his attempt to rob four Hamilton bank Tuesday afternoon when a woman teller refused to take his threats seriously.

The man fled without any money.

Mrs. Hilda Boudreau, 30-year-old teller at the Bank of Nova Scotia branch was on duty when the bandit pushed a brown paper bag across the cashier's desk in front of her.

On the bag was pasted a white note which said: "This is a stick up. Put the money in the bag. I have a gun in my pocket."

Mrs. Boudreau, mother of three children, said she laughed and pushed the bag back toward the bandit and asked him if he was joking.

She said the man, who was between 28 and 32 and had a piece of adhesive plastic on his nose, pushed the bag toward her and said he was "serious."

Mrs. Boudreau said: "I pushed the bag towards him again and he seemed to panic. He turned and ran out of the bank."

HUSBAND SLAIN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—William Schweltzer, 72, and Dora Keck, 36, were married 22 days ago Tuesday. Schweltzer, a retired machinist, was found shot to death in the living room of his apartment home and his wife was charged with murder.

TV Programs Of Ads Alone Seen Possible

OTTAWA (CP) — In about a year, Canadian housewives may find it possible to tune into a television program consisting entirely of nothing but advertisements.

The idea of ads uninterrupted by entertainment is included in proposed regulations for Canadian TV stations announced Tuesday by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Explaining the reasons behind the idea, Dr. Andrew Stewart, BBG chairman, said it would be mainly to give TV stations additional revenue. The ads would be shown before noon only with board permission.

It would also be in the nature of an experiment. It was generally believed that people do not tune in their radios or TV sets for advertisements. A program of nothing but ads might

Ex-Convict Held In Slaying

WHITEFIELD, N.H. (AP)—An ex-convict has been ordered held without bail in the picnic slaying of Mrs. Elizabeth Bourdon, 31.

"I didn't plan to kill the man, I just planned to rob him," Gilbert Gonyer, 45, Tuesday told Judge Harold Keir.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering the vacationing mill worker's wife during a fishing his last meal. He was held for October grand jury action.

Police said Gonyer admitted to Elmer Bourque said Gonyer admitted shooting Mrs. Bourdon with his horrified wife and robbing him of $150, after accepting the couple's picnic hospitality.

Donald Gordons, Father and Son, Spar Vigorously

LONDON (CP)—Two Donald Gordons, father and son, sparred gently at a London press conference Tuesday.

The elder, unexplained reason, a British reporter asked CNR chief Donald Gordon whether he has any sons.

"I have two," the railway chief said. "I'm not sure which one of them is that handsome fellow standing over there."

The son, also named Donald, is a CBC correspondent in London.

"He's such an expert on everything that I'm going to hire him any more."

Replied the younger Gordon: "and that's a rather welcome change."

The railway president answered questions from reporters on a range of subjects following a luncheon address to the Canada-Chamber of Commerce in Britain.

He said he hopes the deficit of the publicly owned CNR will be substantially reduced this year.

Hunt Three Boys Who Petted Coon Believed Rabid

TORONTO (CP) — A province-wide search began Tuesday for three Toronto boys who may have handled a suspected rabid raccoon in the suburban Jon Valley area July 15. The boys are believed to be on vacation.

Sought are: Wayne Hudder, vacationing in the Sault Ste. Marie area; Terry Wright, believed to be in Lindsay with his mother; and Fergus Ferguson, vacationing with his parents in Joaquin Park.

The three boys in all were suspected of handling, feeding or playing with the racoon, which was found dead by the Jon Valley YMCA's day camp and later was found to have fits and foam at the mouth.

The animal was killed and first reports indicated the racoon was rabid. Further tests are under way at the Ontario health unit are expected shortly.

All the 150 boys involved, 125 have been located and 21 are still

Jamaica Vote Gives Victory To Socialists

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—Prime Minister Norman Manley was set to form a new government with a big majority in Parliament today over Jamaica's socialistic government for another five years.

With only a few votes to be counted, unofficial returns indicated Manley's People's National Party would have 28 of the 45 seats in the new House of Representatives. He thanked supporters in a radio broadcast for "glorious victory."

The conservative Labor Party led by his cousin, Sir Alexander Bustamante, appeared to have taken 16 seats, one independent elected.

'Jest a Second'

Reynolds Metals Company and Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation reached a similar agreement with Alcoa.

The Aluminum Workers International Union reached a similar agreement with Alcoa.

A strike threat affecting most of the U.S. aluminum industry and scheduled for Friday midnight, was postponed in a related labor dispute.

David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers president, said the "astronomical profits being reported by steel firms" are evidence the public that the Steelworkers were forced to strike "by a cold-blooded plan of an industry that wanted and planned this shutdown for its own selfish reasons."

U.S. Steel's board chairman, Roger M. Blough, replied that U.S. Steel would hold the price line, unless the government forced a strike settlement that might change the picture.

Blough said the record profits were partly the result of increased production earlier in the year by steel users who expected the strike and wanted to have enough steel on hand.

COST EVER

U.S. Steel reported half - year profits of $254,948,636—more than any steel company had earned in a similar period in the past. This amounted to a return of 10 cents on every dollar of sales, and equalled $4.50 a share.

The union seeks a 15-cent-hourly increase and other gains. At the time of the strike steelworkers averaged $3.10 an hour.

The Steelworkers and other unions seeking similar demands in the aluminum industry and were turned down. Aluminum wages range between $2.76 and $2.81 hourly.

Competition for New Rifle, Family Camp, Feature Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — A family camp site and the army's new rifle, the 7.62millimetre FN, will give a new look to this year's Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches.

For years, both have been knocking at the gates of the week-long shoot at the Connaught ranges west of Ottawa.

An FN match is on the program for the first time but it will not count toward the Aug. 9 - 15 meet's main prizes—the Queen's medal, the Dominion of Canada service rifle championship and the 18 places on Canada's 1960 Bisley team.

Some 600 competitors, including several women and about 150 teen - age cadets, are expected from all 10 provinces for the matches.

ONTARIO SHOOT

They will be preceded by the Ontario Rifle Association meet, Aug. 2-7 and the national small-bore rifle and pistol championships Aug. 7-9.

The DCRA, which traditionally fires the army's rifle, is expected eventually to replace the existing weapon, the .303-calibre No. 4, with the FN. The army began conversion to the new rifle in 1957, but DCRA officials are hesitant to estimate when they will make the change.

The family campsite is a welcome innovation for competitors' wives and children who previously had to stay at motels some distance from camp or at tent town—a roadside area outside camp limits. The only women's accommodation in the sprawling, 2,600-acre camp was a hut for women competitors.

Work gangs now are busy transforming grassy fields into a 450-tent city to shelter competitors and the 300 employees needed to look after them. The camp has its own kitchens, messes, post office, canteen, theatre, telegraph office and police force—a tri-service provost unit.

Quartermasters and armorers will keep the riflemen supplied with cots, blankets and ammunition.

TEEN-AGE MARKERS

An Ottawa militia unit, the 3rd Signal Regiment, will operate a communications system linking by phone and radio the camp office, the butts—a mile long firing ranges and the concrete butts where 150 markers, mostly teen-agers, patch targets and signal hits.

Absence of a British team has forced cancellation of two competitions for Commonwealth squads — the Canada and Commonwealth matches. A senior or cadet team from Britain has competed here almost every summer, but DCRA officials say none is coming this year because of lack of funds.

About 200 rifle shots are entering the Ontario Rifle Association shoot, held here for the first time last year after the defence department sold the Long Beach ranges near Toronto.

The small - bore and pistol matches, sponsored by the DCRA and the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen, are expected to attract some 150 Canadian and United States competitors.

U.S. shots have dominated open pistol and small bore rifle events for years but a Canadian, Gary McMahon, 26, of Dartmouth, N.S., won the 1958 handgun title.

Will Extend Hospitalization To Arctic Area

CHESTERFIELD INLET, N.W.T. (CP)—A bill to extend hospital insurance to the Northwest Territories will be placed before the Territories Council at its 17th session which opened here Monday.

Gordon Robertson, commissioner of the territories, told the opening assembly that the hospital ordinance is the only wholly new ordinance among six to be presented.

Mr. Robertson in his keynote address also said that a one-hour radio program, which the CBC has been beaming to the north daily since the Royal Visit began, will be continued.

Referring to the Keewatin re-establishment project, in operation for about a year, Mr. Robertson said it was significant that during the first winter of its operation not a single case of starvation was reported from any part of the Arctic.

The Keewatin project was designed to give Eskimos a chance to regain the self-sufficiency that was lost to them through the disappearance of the caribou.

Pakistan Tribe Ends Long War Against British

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Two war - weary tribesmen came out of the hills this week to surrender, after 25 years of fighting the British Raj. Somehow had finally convinced them Britain doesn't run things out here any more.

From the early 1930s the Wazirl tribe had carried on a campaign of brigandry against the British sahibs, raiding caravans and holding officers and men for ransom on the northwest frontier.

Sceptical of claims that British forces had departed in 1947 the tribe continued its campaign against settled areas which now constitute Pakistan.

But now its last lieutenants, Jalaal Khan and his uncle Razmadad, have sued for peace. They told Pakistani officials they were convinced the British forces are gone. They and their followers now will give their loyalty to Pakistan.

Artillery Duel Staged at Matsu

Must Pay $70,000 to Move 'Cayuga'

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Howard, director of the Cayuga Steamship Company said Tues. a $70,000 debt would have to be paid before any move would be made to register the cruise ship Cayuga at the port of Montreal and obtain a bar licence from the Quebec liquor commission.

He said the debt was incurred in the operations of the ship over the last four years. The vessel is at present laid up in Toronto.

The Cayuga was refused a beer license by the Ontario commission in 1957, for "no reasons at all" Mr. Howard said. He said that CPR ships operating from Port Menticoti, Georgian Bay, have beer and wine licenses.

If a license could be obtained in either Ontario or Quebec said Mr. Howard, "we know of financial interests that would acquire her or operate in collaboration with the company."

Federal Prison At Joyceville Nearly Finished

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's first medium - security federal prison will be brought into full use during the next couple of months.

The new institution at Joyceville, about 15 miles northeast of Kingston, has been under construction for more than two years and is expected to cost $4,000,000 to $5,000,000, officials said.

By Oct. 1 plans are to have some 350 prisoners in it and by next Jan. 1 about 400. All will be sent to Joyceville from the penitentiary at Kingston which has been sorely over-crowded for many months.

LONELY SPOT

Joyceville, at a pleasant but lonely spot along the Rideau River, has no high stone walls as such, although its main cell building is like a four-storey fortress and most of the vocational training shops are connected directly by a tunnel-like corridor of brick.

The prison property includes, however, 600 acres of farmland, large herds and a substantial herd of beef cattle. Many of the prisoners will work in the fields and farm buildings.

During construction, Joyceville has been the centre of the first federal experiment in a minimum-security institution — with a minimum of supervision by armed guards.

RECENT ESCAPES

Ironically, as construction nears completion, the minimum-security experiment has been going a little badly in recent weeks compared to previous experience.

A low, barrack-type temporary dormitory was put up at Joyceville in its beginnings, with accommodation for up to 48 men. An average of perhaps 45 have been kept there ever since. In two years this might mean a turnover of several hundred men.

Despite four recent escapes, only eight prisoners have tried to escape in the short history of the institution.

Two disappeared last Friday and at the latest report were still at large.

Two others escaped July 10. One has since been shot to death in a Toronto holdup attempt and the other recaptured.

Four previous escapees were recaptured in a short time.

They'll miss the Smiths at Trout Lake this summer

Everyone on Trout Lake knew and liked the Smiths. You'd see them up at their cottage every weekend. You'd hear the children's carefree laughter echoing across the lake. And Mr. Smith never failed to give you a friendly wave as he cruised by in his boat.

But Trout Lake won't see the happy Smith family any more . . . all because Mr. Smith was in a hurry to get up to the cottage for the weekend. He left at night and drove too fast — and there was an accident!

The Smith's cottage is for sale now. And it needn't have happened!

Is it worth your life and your family's just to get to the cottage a few minutes earlier? Remember, you have a whole summer for fun and relaxation—don't try to squeeze in a few extra minutes by driving carelessly!

Your Ontario Department of Transport urges you to observe the speed limits. And when driving at night, always lower your headlights when approaching or following another motor vehicle.

Shag Remarks Third League Won't Hurt a Bit

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Formation of a third major league "won't hurt the International League one bit," president Frank Shaughnessy was quoted as saying Tuesday.

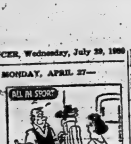
"I'm really not worrying about this talk of a third major league," said Shaughnessy in a telephone interview with the Richmond News Leader. "A new league won't hurt us at all. In fact, I think it will help us.

"They'll be calling themselves a major league and we'll actually have better talent than they will."

Among the five founding cities of the third major league announced Tuesday is Toronto, now an International League member.

"If we lose Toronto, we'll just go out and get another city and continue operating as we have," said Shaughnessy.

"I'm not worried. I'd hate to lose Toronto, but we've lost cities just as big as that before and have survived. I feel sure we can do it again."



He added that he's not concerned about the prospect of losing Montreal and Buffalo to the third major league.

"I live in Montreal and I haven't seen any evidence here that anybody's really interested in the third major league," Shaughnessy said.

Boxer, Girl Fight Draw With Cleaver

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Professional heavyweight fighter Cleveland Williams fought a couple of fast rounds with his girl friend, it was learned Tuesday, but he used a meat cleaver instead of his fists.

The girl friend, Miss Gwendolyn Scott, 20, ended up in a hospital with head and back wounds. She refused to file charges.

The fracas came to light when Williams, 25, jogged into the police station while doing roadwork and asked for the meat cleaver back.

He told police he and his girl friend had an argument July 20 and she hit him with the cleaver. He grabbed it from her and floored her.

"I was doing some roadwork," Williams said, "and I thought about getting the meat cleaver back. It was a borrowed cleaver and the lady wants it back."

Police gave him the cleaver.

Promoter Says Underworld Has Him 'Tabbed'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boxing promoter Jacob Leonard said Tuesday the underworld has a "price on my head" and he will go to Mexico.

"I've heard the price is $500," he said a reporter at his planned to move.

Leonard said he would put his home in suburban Northridge up for sale. A mysterious fire caused $1,000 damage to a bedroom of the house Sunday night.

"I will tell no one where I locate," he added. "Perhaps my family will have a little peace."

Leonard said the blaze was preceded by a number of telephone threats resulting from his testimony on hoodlum influences in boxing.

WAS POLICE GUARD

Police have been guarding him since his appearance before a grand jury probe. But Monday Police Chief William H. Parker charged that Leonard hasn't been co-operating.

Last June 3 Leonard was found in unconscious in his garage. He said two men attacked him. Police said they believed he had injured himself in a fall after blacking out.

The fire department's arson detail said the fire at Leonard's home was incendiary and not accidental.

Chief Parker said the home is still being kept under surveillance.

Third Major League Silly Says Former Yankee Prexy

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — Larry MacPhail, former baseball magnate who once advocated four major leagues, says the current plan to form a third one is "silly."

Inconsistent? Not at all says the 60-year-old sportsman.

MacPhail, who retired as New York Yankee president in 1947, gave a typically frank appraisal of the new league's prospects Tuesday night. There has been speculation that he will be president of the new Continental League.

Discounting such speculation, he expressed doubt that any such independently born league could attain real major league status.

"What is a major league, anyhow?" he asked. "It is a league which has an agreement with minor leagues within the same structure and has a right to draft players from the teams in those leagues and whose players are not themselves subject to such a draft.

"So, if all of your ball players are playing on teams already under this setup, how are you going to form anything that can be called a major league? It's silly to try to do that, in my opinion."

He said 18 months ago that he favored working toward four major leagues as early as 1947 by letting the Pacific Coast League start on its way toward a third major league. His new idea also called for the eventual merger of the American Association and International League into a fourth major circuit.

But two key cities of the old coast league, Los Angeles and San Francisco, have been absorbed by the National League.

"Now there are still eight or 10 cities which deserve and could support major baseball and it seems to me the best way to give it to them would be by expanding the two existing leagues," said MacPhail.

Plans Made For New Pro Football League

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Football League commissioner Bert Bell disclosed Tuesday that plans have been made for a new professional football league to operate initially in six cities.

Bell said he has talked to the owners of all the 12 clubs in the National League and each one of them objects to the formation of the new league.

"We are in favor of new leagues," Bell told the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee. "The more teams and the more competition, the better."

Bell said he is not at liberty to reveal who is behind the new league. He said the league plans to start operations in 1960 in six cities and to expand later to have teams in eight cities.

Buffalo, Miami, Seattle, San Francisco and Boston are mentioned for inclusion.

The subcommittee hearing is on legislation to clarify the status of professional football, baseball, hockey and basketball under the anti-trust laws.

Says 'Real Ferment' Evident In Network TV Programming

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Louis G. Cowan, president of CBS-TV, says that the scenes "a real ferment in network television programming."

Although he feels that it's only partly visible as yet, he believes there is a fresh enthusiasm and new fertility of ideas in the creative minds of the medium.

This year, he says, there is "greater emphasis on the writer as the keystone of creative programming. Our intensive drive for creativity at CBS is having a reaction elsewhere in the medium as well as here in our network."

This ferment is apparent, Cowan says, in special shows and news and factual programming which will be visible on CBS-TV in the coming season.

For example, the network plans further editions of Wonzan, the special hour afternoon program that examines vital, controversial subjects—and breathes life into the generally monotonous routine afternoon programmings.

As other examples of creative innovations coming up on CBS-TV, Cowan points to Twilight Zone, the new weekly series which makes its debut Oct. 2 and the series of special 60- and 90-minute programs which will be visible on a general bi-weekly basis.

"Twilight Zone was created by Rod Sterling and its stories deal with the area between fantasy and the commonplace—with the real often seeming fantastic and the fantastic seeming quite real.

Peck Thinks Film Audiences Fed up With Bigness Theme

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Are movie audiences getting fed up with bigness on the theatre screens? Gregory Peck thinks so.

Bigness came in with a bang when the movies suffered the competition of the small home screen. Hollywood thought it had to give the people larger scope. That thinking brought on Cinemascope, Cinerama, Vistavision, Todd-Ao and the type of films that could fill such immense screens.

But too often the characters got smaller as the scope grew bigger. That time has come to reverse the trend, says Peck.

"I'm fed up with crowd scenes and spectacles," he said. "I don't think I could stand to see a big western now; the thought of watching pioneers conquer the frontier leaves me cold. We've had too much of it.

"I believe the time has come to find out what goes on inside the people, not on the outside. The province of pictures today should be to develop real people, put them in interesting situations and see what happens to them."

"BELOVED INFIDEL"

For just such reasons, he now is portraying F. Scott Fitzgerald in Beloved Infidel. This is the story of the jazz age author's romance with columnist Sheilah Graham during his Hollywood decline.

"It's a story of a man who is trying to recapture his talent and a rather silly girl who keeps getting mess and fall in love," he said. "Somehow, they manage to bring out the best in each other."

Peck arrived here as an actor two years after the novelist's death in 1940. But he has talked to many who knew Fitzgerald, and with conflicting results.

"You hear it both ways," he said. "Some say that Scott created terribly embarrassing scenes at parties. Others say that he was quiet and always acted in a corner.

"Some say that he wrote brilliantly. But David Selznick told me he was incapable of writing a dramatic scene that had a be-

Filmed in Technicolor and VistaVision, and directed by John Sturges, whose credits include, "Bad Day at Black Rock" and "Gunfight at the O.K. Corral".

"Last Train From Gun Hill" stars Kirk Douglas and Anthony Quinn, and co-stars Carolyn Jones and Earl Holliman.

In the tradition of "Gunfight at the O. K. Corral", which starred two great male personalities — Douglas and Burt Lancaster—producer Wallis' new production is another great story with two equally important he - men roles that call for top talent to deliver.

This time Douglas and Quinn are pitted against each other as erstwhile friends who become locked in a life-and-death struggle when the former comes after Quinn's son to avenge the rape and murder of his beautiful Indian wife.

Quinn is the strong man of the town of Gun Hill, and he is determined that Douglas shall not take his son out of it to stand trial in the town of Peverley where the crime was committed. Earl Holliman, who is winning increasingly important roles, is cast as the son. Attractive Carolyn Jones, who scored in "Bachelor's Party" and was recently seen in "King Creole", plays Quinn's woman, who backs Douglas in the showdown.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

What looks like some of the best diamond fare in years for softball fans looms just over the horizon. The Ox Pointers have the league pennant some more Rotterini from their staff but Cobourg and the Bobcats may have something to say, with Trenton getting in its effort, too, before the championship is decided.

The dopesters have it that the Lott-shaw crew should take their half of the final brackets, but the boys in the back room are not placing any odds on the outcome of the Bobcat-Cobourg series. This should be a thriller-diller.

But that's only half of it. Regardless of the outcome, the Cats or Cobourg will go into the finals against the powerful Pointers with fangs bared and claws sharpened in an effort to snatch the titular bauble which has rested on a Point Anne mantel for quite a while.

Temple's Tabbies played good consistent softball throughout the main part of the season, but faltered in the stretch and the experienced Pointers, who had been in-and-out, overlook them rounding the bend and finished in top spot by a couple of whiskers. Actually the Point never hit its true potential until the latter part of the season.

Now it's chips-down time and "Smile-when-you-say-that-pooner" brand of softball is upcoming. As was said and with all deference to the gallant team from the town to the west, Point Anne should, on the past showing, not be counted out but not be sold short. After all, they CAN play softball as they proved to the Bobcats on more than one occasion.

On the other side of the bracket, we're looking forward to some real-hot jousts between the Cats and Cobourg. "Sleepy" Dawe and company would like nothing better than to eliminate the squad that edged them all season, besides they'd love to get another crack at the Pointers, and if they do, they'll give their shirts and right arms in an effort to take the league trophy back to the lakeshore town.

Back to the Cats for the moment, it would seem that Temple's Terrors are going to get a ballyrid of softball before they cross raplers with a Peterborough club, if they are selected, in the first round of the OASA intermediate "AA" playdowns.

They have a stiff league semi-final series with Cobourg which could go to seven games — and if they win will take on the Ox Pelat-Trenton winners. That could be another seven-game affair. Then, as we are informed, they will play that vengeful series with Stratford and the Commercial League's Sports Centre to decide an "AA" representative.

That is a lot of softball for any team, and they should be either "pooped" or in the peak for the opening game of the playdowns if they survive, which they should do.

In other years, due to some quirk of schedules, league playoffs have overlapped OASA playdowns. This has proven disappointing to fans, and in the long run unfair to teams. Some clubs were "up" for their league duties ,but were not slightly "down" for a playdown game. Teams should be "in the clear," so to speak, by the time playdown time arrives so they can use their full potential in the championship run instead of cheating it with league playoffs.

There is a little over three weeks to be exact, August 23, before the OASA playdowns start. District league president Carl Morgan who has done a grand job this season, should see that the league "business" is cleared before that date.

We are sure the Ox Pointers, especially will want it that way, for they run up against what appears to be the toughest opposition of any team in the league. None other than the famous Ray Judd and his Lakefield Chartiens. These teams have been keen, but friendly, rivals in exhibition tilts this summer with the mighty Judd and his crew having the edge. The starry Mersman hurler has been going at a terrific pace this season and has piled up a sensational record of victories and strikeouts.

However, the Pointers are undaunted. They have beaten Judd before and feel they can do it again. With Pat Marsole and Al Carlyner at peak form, the series should be one of the best ever played here.

Casey Slippers Beaten 4-3 As Indians, Red Sox Split; Phillies Shave Giant Lead

By TED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago White Sox, still cutting it close and making the most of Al Smith's home run, have the American League lead to themselves again. They got some help from Boston Red Sox.

The last-place Red Sox, warmed by owner Tom Yawkey to get a move on or move out, whipped Cleveland Indians 6-4 in the second game of a doubleheader Tuesday night after losing the opener 5-2. The loss sent the Indians 7½ games off the pace, a half-game behind the White Sox, who beat New York Yankees 4-3 and dumped the world champions into the second division.

It was White Sox' 34th one-run victory of the season and they got it on Smith's two-run homer in the eighth inning. It was Smith's 12th homer of the year and half of them have rallied one-run victories.

NINE STRAIGHT WINS

Kansas City Athletics won their ninth in a row, longest streak in the majors this season, and replaced the Yankees in fourth place with a 6-1 bruising over Washington Senators. The Athletics, last two weeks ago, are within a half-game of the third-place Baltimore Orioles, beaten 8-3 by Detroit Tigers.

The Red Sox, after losing six straight, have taken two of three in a five-game series at Cleveland. They put the nightcap away on Frank Malzone's three - run homer in the fourth inning and Pete Runnels' two-run homer in the fifth.

Bill Monbouquette (3-3) was the winner, giving up Billy Martin's solo homer in a three-run first inning and needing Mike Fornieles' help in the ninth. Jim Perry was the loser in relief for Cleveland.

SOX INFIELD SHUFFLED

Malzone, at third, was the only man at his usual post in the Red Sox infield for the second game. Rookie Jim Mahoney replaced Don Buddin at short, and rookie Pumpsie Green was at second while Runnels shifted to first, replacing Vic Wertz.

Green, Boston's first Negro player, singled for his first major league hit ahead of Runnels homer.

The Indians took the first game in a five-run fourth, featured by Jim Baxes' homer, to beat Frank Sullivan (6-7). Gary Bell, 11-6, was the winner.

Smith's home run gave the White Sox and Billy Pierce a 4-3 lead, but the Yankees scored twice in the ninth. Ralph Terry (3-4) lost it.

MOSSI STOPS BIRDS

Southpaw Don Mossi (8-4) beat the Orioles with a three-hitter, giving up his lone walk ahead of Willie Tasby's first-inning home run Tasby also drove in the other run with a sixth-inning sacrifice fly for the Orioles. The Tigers, tying it in the first on Neil Chrisley's homer, beat Hoyt Wilhelm (10-7) with four in the third.

The Athletics bagged their 12th victory in 13 games with four runs in the first inning against Philadelphia's failing Phillies are chilling the contenders in the National League pennant race.

They've won seven of their last eight games and 11 of their last 14, rolling up a 5-2 edge over San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers in the two-week spurt.

They trimmed the Giants' hold on first place to a half-game with a 3-2 victory Tuesday night at San Francisco on a single by Gene Freese and the four - hit pitching of Jim Owens.

The Dodgers reclaimed second place, whipping Pittsburgh Pirates 9-4 while Milwaukee Braves, who had won five straight, collapsed to third as 8-4 loss to Chicago Cub. The Braves trail by 1½ games. St. Louis Cardinals are four back after a 4-0 loss at Cincinnati.

MILLER'S ROAD ROCKY

Freese's 14th home run broke a 2-2 tie for the Phillies and beat reliever Stu Miller (5-6), who lost three in a row.

Both Giant runs scored on homers. Kirkland's 17th in the fifth inning for their first hit, and Orlando Cepeda's 20th.

Wally Moon drove in four runs for the Dodgers, hammering his eighth and ninth home-run double and breaking a 4-4 tie with a sacrifice fly off losing reliefer Ron Blackburn (1-1) in the fifth inning.

Stan Williams (4-3) was the winner with six innings of four-hit, shutout relief. The Pirates, who have lost eight in a row, had built a lead in two frames against Larry Sherry, two of them on starter Bennie Daniels' first home run.

BOBBIE HOBBLES BRAVES

Chicago righthander Glen Hobbie, 8-6 against Milwaukee in his two-year career, beat the Braves a time this season with the relief help of Bill Henry.

Singles by Bobby Thomson and George Altman and Ernie Banks-all's double cracked a 2-3 tie in the sixth inning. They were the only hits allowed by loser Carl Willey (4-6) in his 3⅓ innings of relief. Tony Taylor homered in a two-run first against Juan Pizarro for the Cubs, who have taken four straight from the Braves and eight of 13 for the season.

The Reds, shut out on four hits for six innings by Ernie Broglio, tied the Cards in a four - run seventh, then won it in the eighth on a single by Gene McMillan, who had been out six weeks with a broken hand. Marshal Bridges (6-2) was the loser with ex-Card Jim Brosnan (4-5) the winner in relief.

Camilo Pascual (11-6) who has walked the bases full with two out, then gave up a single by Ken Hubby and a double by Harry Chiti.

Johnny Kucks (5-6), the Athletics' only loser in their last 13 games, won his second in a row by allowing only five hits—two by Jim Lemon, who hit his 32rd home run as the Nats lost their 10th in a row.

O'Connor Meets 'Hardboiled' Here Friday

That sprightly Irishman, Pat O'Connor, will put his world wrestling crown on the block in the ring at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. Like most Irishmen, Pat doesn't pick his spots for a fight, as is evidenced by the hardrock challenger, name of Hardboiled Haggerty, whom he's agreed to meet on this occasion.

Haggerty, though recognized from Anchorage to Zululand as one of the most rugged and ruthless grapplers in the game, stoutly maintains this is a misconception and that, actually, he is a highly scientific wrestler.

"In fact", quoth H.B. warming to his subject, "I am the most scientific wrestler in the sport today, which I will prove beyond any doubt by defeating O'Connor."

Whether or not he's the most scientific H. B. is definitely one of the most optimistic.

That hurtling Hurdman, Sam Steamboat, will clash against Karl Kulaski in the semi-final.

Don Jardine and Jack Laskin will be the first bout opponents.

Senior Clubs May Pay Forfeit If Quit, Turn Pro

Kingston, NOHA Officials Face Suspension if Debts Not Paid Other Clubs, OHA

By BOB KELLY
Canadian Press Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The five teams of Ontario's new senior A hockey league may be asked to insert a clause in their constitution requiring them to forfeit a "substantial amount" of money should they withdraw from the league and turn professional.

This was disclosed Tuesday night by George Dudley, treasurer of the Ontario Hockey Association, at a special meeting of the OHA's subcommittee. Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie of the OHA-NOHA recently announced they are turning professional this season.

The subcommittee ordered the OHA - NOHA's three northern clubs, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay, to show proof they intend to pay $3,245 in hospital tax to the three southern clubs.

FACE SUSPENSION

Officers and executive members of the NOHA teams will be suspended by the OHA if the teams they haven't got the money set aside in trust accounts to pay the OHA clubs.

Sault Ste. Marie owes a total of $1,362.40 to Kitchener, Windsor and Chatham of the southern division. North Bay owes $783.74 and Sudbury owes $1,237.

The southern teams were exempt from the hospital tax during the two years of the league's existence but northern clubs had to pay it since their players' only source of income was hockey.

Tax was levied on the OHA of notification.

Leafs Wallop Marlins 15-8; Royals Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian teams in the International League went on a scoring splurge Tuesday night.

Toronto Maple Leafs skipped out of last place with a 15-8 victory over Miami Marlins and Montreal Royals overcame a 3-0 lead Havana Sugar Kings held in the first inning to belt the Kings 12-4.

Rochester Red Wings replaced Leafs in the cellar. The Wings, who not long ago were first-place contenders, suffered their 17th defeat in their last 21 games when beaten 6-2 by Richmond Virginians. The league-leading Buffalo Bisons defeated Columbus Jets 4-1.

Leafs teed off on four Miami pitchers for 20 hits, including two doubles, two triples and three home runs. Tre key blow was centre fielder Jim King's 10th home run of the year. King capped off a five-run Toronto fifth with a three-run homer to tie the score 5-5.

HENRY STARTS HITTING

Catcher Ron Henry enjoyed his best night since joining the Leafs in mid-season. He had four hits in five trips, scored three runs and had five runs batted in.

Leaf pitcher Dave Johnson came in the sixth inning and picked up his fifth win against 12 defeats. The second of four Miami pitchers, southpaw Micky McDermott, suffered his sixth loss in nine decisions. Marlins have lost 19 of their last 21 games.

At Montreal, Royals' starting pitcher Tom LaSorda was relieved with one out in the first inning. Fred Rodriguez took over and pitched no hit, no-run ball until the seventh, when Leo Cardenas homered. Miguel Cuellar was the loser.

Zack Monroe went the route for Richmond to pick up his sixth win against as many losses. Deron Johnson and Frank Lelj each clouted homers for the winners.

Luke Easter hit his 12th homer of the season for the Wings. Cal Browning (11-7) was the losing pitcher.

Ken Hamlin scored the only Columbus run with a homer in the seventh that gave the Jets a temporary 1-0 lead.

Buffalo came back in the bottom of the inning with four runs on four hits, an error and an intentional walk. Don Leadrum singled in two of the runs.

Jim Short scattered seven Columbus hits for his 10th victory in 14 decisions. Dave Jiminez (2-3) was the loser.

Quebec Junior Team Champs, Now Seek Canadian Crown

By W. B. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Four happy youngsters, members of Quebec's winning team in the first interprovincial golf team competition for juniors, set out today in a field of 33 for a crack at the Canadian junior crown.

It was certain the going will be rough for Quebecers or anybody else. The match play tournament will narrow down through eliminations until two are left for a 36-hole final Friday.

All team members of Tuesday were on their own today. Among them are a scattering of individual stars and there were also highly rated non-team members who came through Tuesday's demanding qualifying round.

MAN TO BEAT

If there is one individual player who rates the man to beat, he is Bobby Panasiuk of Windsor, who put on a tremendous show for Ontario's team and earned it second place behind Quebec and ahead of third-place British Columbia.

Panasiuk's 69 was the only subpar score for the two rounds played over Kanawaki's par-70 course. The Quebec team surprised even a lot of its supporters in beating out the well-liked Ontario and B.C. entries.

Quebec finished with an aggregate medal score of 610 for the 36 holes. Ontario's 618 and Columbia slipped when every stroke counted and finished with 618 and 620 respectively.

Only Panasiuk's great effort saved Ontario from dropping into third place. Bobby, the 1958 junior Canadian champion and this year's Ontario Open amateur title winner, rapped out a 73 and then his 33-36 in the afternoon for his 69. Kanawaki has pars of 35 for each side.

Charlie Jacobs of Toronto was Ontario's high man with a 76-80—156 while Peterboro's John Kindred had a 79-75—154 to be second low and Phil Brownlee shot a 76-80—156.

122 TO QUALIFY

The qualifying mark was 162 or better and no one on the Prince Edward Island - New Brunswick team qualified.

Dave Stokaluk of Port Arthur led the Manitoba entry with 154. Two 18-hole rounds today will reduce the 32-man field to eight for match play Thursday.

Gary Black of St. Catharines was a likely candidate among the non-team contingent, Black had 151 for his two rounds.

Cats Defeat Cobourg 6-4 in Final Start Semi-Finals Here on Friday

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Temple's Bobcats wound up the Belleville and District softball league schedule in Cobourg last night by defeating the Merchants 6-4 to finish just one half game behind the pennant-winning Point Anne club.

Last night's fixture was actually a playoff preview as Cobourg and the 'Cats meet in one-half of the semi-final series. The first game in the four-of-seven series will be played at CNRA Park here Friday with the second game in Cobourg next Tuesday.

Bobcats built an early 5-0 lead and star Bobby Hull held Cobourg hitless for six frames. But the Merchants broke the spell in the seventh with all their runs. The winners added an insurance marker in the top of the sixth.

Hull making his first start in several weeks, pitched a steady ter. He struck out nine but had control trouble with eight walks. He was one of this club's top stars at the plate.

Reilly Campbell toed the rubber once again for Cobourg permitting 11 hits over the distance, including 2 homers, a triple and double. He whiffed four and walked the same number.

Extra-base blows built a 3-0 'Cats lead in the second. Bobby Hull smashed a home run and Harsden's failure for a shoestring catch gave Cousins a triple. Pfort Goegan slammed his second round-tripper of the season to deep centre. In the fourth Hull and Goegan had singles amid a walk, error and wild pitch for the 5-0 lead.

Leo O'Brien broke Hull's no-hitter leading off the seventh with a lined single. A walk, infield hits by Campbell, Byran Hart and Jim Hart plus two miscues plated four runs to make it a tight 5-4 game.

Bert Faulkner took care of the Belleville insurance marker. He stretched his hit into a double in the ninth, took second on a passed ball and stole home to close the scoring. A walk and Jim Hart's bloop double put the tying run on in the bottom of the frame but Hull got McIvor on a popup.

Pfort Goegan had a perfect night for the winners with a home run, two singles and a walk. Bobby, Hull homered, added two singles and was robbed on another homer when he hit a terrific line drive to centre in the eighth. Bert Faulkner repped a double and two singles, Cousins a triple and J-P Lamirande a single.

Jim Hart collected a double and single for Cobourg while Leo O'Brien had a brace of singles. Reilly Campbell and Bryan Hart also hit safely.

Newcombe, Hoyt Major Leagues Big Comebacks

NEW YORK (AP) —Pitchers Don Newcombe of Cincinnati Reds and Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore Orioles have made the major leagues' outstanding comebacks in 1959.

Newcombe, the only consistent winner for the seventh-place Reds, has won 10 games and lost five with an earned run average of 3.13. He has pitched 12 complete games in 21 starts. The 33-year-old righthander will finish nowhere near his 27-7 record with Brooklyn in 1956 when he won the National League's most valuable player award. But his performance this season is in sharp contrast to his 11-12 record of 1957 and 7-15 (4.06 ERA) mark of last year.

Wilhelm, 36, is almost certain to win the American League earned run championship. He leads with 1.93 and shows 10 victories against six defeats. The right-handed knuckleballer won three games and lost 10 with Cleveland and Baltimore in 1958 and then was moved from the bullpen to a starting role.

DISTRIBUTE FUND

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Money from a million-dollar fund for minor league baseball player development will be passed out in October.

Minor leagues president George Trautman said he received notice Tuesday from baseball commissioner Ford Frick that the fund, promised by the major leagues has been established.

A distribution formula, involving all clubs except those owned by major league teams, has been drawn up.

Alouettes Edge Stampeders, Lions Twist Tiger Cats' Tail

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, on the passing arms of a veteran quarterback and the mass who'd like his job, edged Calgary Stampeders 26-25 Tuesday night in an exhibition football game.

Sam Etcheverry, the veteran, and Wes Gideon, the Montreal newcomer, each threw two touchdown passes as Montreal went ahead 26-7 in the first half, then hung on to defeat the Western Interprovincial Football Union team.

The game was played before 21,622 in muggy, 80 - degree weather, and was hard-fought as players sought to win regular berths.

Alouettes dressed 45 players, Calgary 37.

Etcheverry completed 12 of 18 passes with one intercepted. He hit Bill Bewley and Bill Gioson for first-quarter touchdowns.

In the second, Gideon, from San Antonio, Texas, tossed 40 yards to Ivan Livingstone, then 12 yards to Bill Bewley for touchdowns.

Bewley converted all four.

HAPP GETS CRACKING

Calgary's first touchdown came in the second quarter when quarterback Joe Kapp teamed up and Jack Gotta who plunged five yards to score. Doug Brown missed the convert, but the point was made up when Alouette halfback Ed Learn was caught behind the line on Bill Duncan's kick.

Gene Filipski scored on a pass from Kapp—who tried 16, completed 11, had two intercepted—and stepped over to start Stampe rolling early in the fourth quarter.

Don Stone was stopped on the five by Tom Campbell on a 42-yard pass and run play, but scored on the next play, Brown converted both.

Calgary coach Otis Douglas alternated Kapp and Knobby Winkowski at quarter.

Gideon suffered a knee injury and was out most of the last quarter. He had completed seven of nine pass attempts.

Gene Woodling Has Made Long Trek Back

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats won two successive Big Four championships and a Grey Cup by rewriting the old dictum about the best defence being attack.

But the Tiger-Cats' vaunted defensive line crowd in Tuesday night before the furious ground on slaught of British Columbia Lions. The one-time paisies of the Western Interprovincial Football Union ran over the Tabbies for a 15-6 exhibition football victory.

With Iowa's passing wizard Randy Duncan in their stable, the Lions scorned the aerial approach. They rolled to two early touchdowns and held the Hamilton powerhouse to a crawl in the second half before less than 10,000 disappointed fans.

COACH RYPIEMINUTS

However, Jim Trimble tossed all of his big camp into the fray in an attempt to separate the men from the boys.

His regulars stalled the visitors last night by scoring headway.

Al Dorow, the former Philadelphia Eagle, may give Duncan tough competition for first-string quarterback job. He master minded both B.C. touchdowns and scored the second himself. Ed Vereb scored the other and Ted Hunt kicked two converts and a single.

Tom Dublinski, the one - time Toronto Argonaut battling Bernie Faloney for the regular quarterback assignment with Hamilton threw down the middle to Paul Dekker for the Tabs' only touchdown in the second quarter. It was unconverted.

Dublinski and Faloney completed 11 of 19 forward passes for 119 yards compared to the Lions' 68 on eight aerials thrown out of 13. Lions made 378 yards rushing to Tiats' 197.

Neither Faloney nor Dublinski was able to get any sustained attack moving against B.C.

The Lions, who defeated Saskatchewan Roughriders 30-14 in their first exhibition victory, now move on to Ottawa for an exhibition encounter with the Rough Riders Thursday night.

No Birthday, No Retirement Snarls Casey

CHICAGO (AP) — Casey Stengel, the guarled little man who manages New York Yankees, will be 69 Thursday. There won't be any birthday parties and Casey says he won't announce his retirement from baseball.

"Retirement I don't know anything about," Stengel said Tuesday. "They started that talk 12 years ago and I'm still around, ain't I?"

There have been several reports that Casey is ready to quit the game, mainly because the Yankees are gradually fading from the 1939 American League pennant picture.

What about a birthday party? "If I were in Kansas City like the last two years, it could be," said Casey. "But then, the way we've been going this year they don't want to give me a birthday and I don't care for one."

Fiery Hemus Dares Umpire To Fire Him

CINCINNATI (AP)—Solly Hemus declared Monday the latest of his six ejections by National League umpires is the last straw and he virtually dared umpire Stan Landes to recommend a fine or suspension.

The fiery little St. Louis Cardinal manager — ejected by Landes after just 13 minutes of action Monday night — asserted Landes was out of shape and "can't move off a dime," because of his weight.

Hemus vowed his ejection was all a mistake—that a remark he intended for pitcher Vinegar Bend Mizell and not for Landes caused it. General manager Bing Devine and catcher Hal Smith backed him up.

"Landes was the first to use profanity when he pulled to our dugout," said the incensed Hemus.

"As I walked past Hal Smith, I told him to 'make him bear down,' referring to Mizell. Landes thought I was referring to him and said: "You're out of the game."

Devine said:

"It was the most ridiculous ejection I've seen."

Hemus was fined $250 and suspended for five days after a hopping-mad protest involving a foul tip in a game with Los Angeles Dodgers July 2. A ban stalled onto the field and slugged plate umpire Bill Jaconski after Hemus was ejected. The first such incident in the majors in almost 19 years.

Lacrosse

BRAMPTON (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors defeated Peterborough Mercuries 13-11 Tuesday night in a hard-fought Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series game.

Bill Wanless paced Excelsiors with three goals, Charles Pulford and John Ford each scored a pair.

Top scorer was Larry Ferguson who clicked for four goals in losing causes, Teammate Rock Bailey added three.

CNE Stadium Will Be Ready For Football

TORONTO (CP)—The finishing touches are being made to the new Canadian National Exhibition football stadium as the new home of Toronto Argonauts and the site of this year's Grey Cup game.

It will be the second largest stadium in the country with a regular seating capacity of 32,183, ranking next to Vancouver's Empire Stadium with its 34,218 seats and standing room for another 6,500 customers. However, the Toronto park seating capacity can be increased to 43,000 for the Grey Cup game by erecting temporary bleachers behind the end zones.

RENT $800,000

More than $800,000 has been spent in building a 12,673-seat stand between the goalines opposite the present covered stand with its 20,561 seats and moving the field closer to it. But it is not suitable for baseball, ruling it out as a possible home for Toronto's entry in the new third major league starting in 1961.

One Driver Will Qualify Race Two Boats

SEATTLE (AP)—For the first time in unlimited speedboat racing history, one driver will try to qualify and race two boats in the Gold Cup race here Aug. 8.

Sounds impossible?

Willard Rhodes, owner of Seattle's Miss Thriftway and Thriftway Too, said Tuesday it can be done and Bill Muncey is the driver who'll do it.

Muncey, piloted an earlier Miss Thriftway to victory in the Gold Cup in 1956 and 1957, said he was delighted at the chance to drive a "double-decker."

Here's how Rhodes says it will work:

Muncey will qualify both boats. That poses no driving problem.

But Gold Cup rules require that the driver who qualifies a boat must be at the throttle in the first heat. However, in hydroplane racing boats of the same camp are drawn into different sections when the number of craft entered requires the heats to be split. That's the case here where up to a dozen and a half hydros are expected to qualify.

So Muncey could wheel the Thriftway boats through the first two 30-mile heats. Then he would have to decide which one he wanted to drive if both qualified for the final 30-mile championship heat.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Work at all material and fundamental matters and forget entirely about mixed and amusement. Get real status. Chances increase. Be at your most dynamic best and accomplish much. P.M. after respiratory tract.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Get down home as early as possible now and pursue your career or emotional goals with vim and enthusiasm. Make a fine impression on the right people and get their full support. Then look to collecting your wealth.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Confer with that authority in private who can extend the aids you require for most efficient operation in the future. Take closest ties into your confidence, see that they benefit also. Care on the road is most necessary.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Put aside any monetary worries and think in terms of being creative, and deal in policy matters. Consult with clever comrades and get their cooperation and backing. P.M. is most fine for important social functions.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Be of as great service to other persons today as you can. Also, any civic duties can be performed with utmost efficiency. You can then get the approval and esteem of all, particularly big. Push on. Put your heart into this.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Rather than stew over the inevitable, get out where you can gain knowledge and insight into more lucrative methods. Meet worthwhile individuals and make this a wonderful day.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A comrade who is a perfectionist may annoy you somewhat today, but if you realize that he, or she is endeavoring to show you how much more efficient and successful you can be by working in orderly fashion, you will gain much.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) —The information you have long looked for can be yours now if you listen to the ideas and conversation of others instead of doing most of the talking yourself. Expound your theories at another sitting.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — There is much work that awaits the doing, but get this out quickly and efficiently so that you release time in order to attend lectures, find new and more lucrative outlets and systems. Find peace of mind.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Aspects are fine for you to be at your most delightful best today. Also, assist others with their burdens by entertaining them charmingly. Be sure you steer clear of those who are only interested in how much money they can get from you.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day to avoid all those persons who have nervous problems that could make you feel upset and disturbed, too. During latter part of day then is ideal time to make a fine agreement with associate, but be clever.

If your child is born today . . . The delightful child born today will soon feel badly if things do not go exactly as planned, so it is up to you to early teach that one is only human and the higher, interrupting forces have to be taken into consideration, too. Then the chart is fine for big enterprises that can be whittled down to practical size and brought into realization. Provide the best education possible here.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

(ADVT.)

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this impressive substance with the discovery of their condition without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

Relief, shrinking and retraction that relievers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those reporting such a long wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is a wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed easy-to-insert Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back.

Will Check Channel Bridge At Seaway

OTTAWA (CP) — A team of consultants is being asked to have another look at the Cornwall Island seaway channel bridge, Transport Minister Hees said Tuesday.

The step is designed to allay any further doubts voiced in the Commons and elsewhere, about the structure, he said.

At the same time he made public reports turned in by previous inspections, with the conclusions that bases of the bridge piers had not been cleaned properly before concrete was poured.

The high level bridge was arranged for in notes between Canada and the United States in 1956 as a joint enterprise. Canada built the sub - structure and the U.S. the super-structure and the bridge has been in use about a year.

Mr. Hees' statement said that the four concrete piers had based on glacial till with a density almost equal to concrete but on completion in 1957 some voids or gaps were found between the till and the concrete base. Remedial action was taken and Foundation of Canada Engineering Corporation Limited was retained to make a report.

NOVEMBER REPORT

It was stated in part in November of last year that core drilling of the concrete bases showed that the "Prepakt, concrete appeared to be of poor quality, especially for that portion immediately covering the glacial till."

But the Prepakt Concrete Company Limited disclaimed responsibility and said that the bottom of the coffer dam—into which the concrete was to be poured to form the bridge piers—could not have been clean. It said the bottom must have been covered with a soft layer of silt and clay which became mixed with the concrete being forced down to the till base.

West Will Ask Russ Agreement To Long Recess

Hope It Would Suspend Threat To West Berlin

GENEVA (AP)—The Western Allies planned today to ask Russia to agree to a long recess—beginning next Wednesday—when the Big Four foreign ministers conference. The Allies hope that as agreement to restore negotiations would suspend the Soviet threat in West Berlin.

There was no indication Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko would agree to a recess.

There was no expectation on the Western side that Premier Nikita Khrushchev's speech in the Ukraine, made public today, contained any changes in the Russian position that might make it worthwhile to continue negotiations now.

NO CONCESSIONS

Although Khrushchev called for renewed efforts by the foreign ministers and said the Geneva conference had made progress, he offered no modification of the Soviet demands which the West has rejected.

American official, after a first study of Khrushchev's speech, made clear they still had no intention of prolonging the conference without major Soviet concessions. They said Khrushchev has to get a summit meeting unless he lifts his threat to sign a treaty.

Herring a sudden turnabout by Russia on some crucial issue before the negotiations, most Western diplomats now think the foreign ministers meeting will break up in failure.

The next deadline was set on the initiative of U.S. Secretary Christian Herter, who said he is going to attend the meeting of the Organization of American States opening in Santiago, Chile, Aug. 12 and wants a few days in Washington to prepare for the summit conference. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and French Premier Maurice Couve de Murville agreed to the meeting that they agreed to at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference end Wednesday.

GROMYKO AGREES

Following a long luncheon meeting between Herter and Gromyko, it was announced by a joint statement that "Mr. Gromyko will be in Moscow for most of next week."

But Gromyko's spokesman said Herter's departure left Gromyko no choice but to go home himself. It appeared the Russians were putting themselves in position to put full blame for a breakoff on the U.S. secretary.

Western officials talked of another foreign ministers' meeting in perhaps three months if the Russians agreed to a recess.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has called on the Big Four foreign ministers to finish their work in Geneva and make way for a summit conference.

"We believe that it is high time for the heads of governments to take on this difficult job," the Soviet premie, delrgFsee ,ufBicdeodog olaste ¼ ¼ claimed in a speech published today.

Khrushchev spoke Tuesday at a worker's rally in the Ukraine. His accompanies his call for top-level talks with an assertion that he is sure President Eisenhower wants peace.

"Mr. Eisenhower knows what war means," said Khrushchev, referring the Second World War. when he was comm ander-in-c'ief of the Anglo-American troops on the Western front, Mr. Eisenhower fulfilled all the terms of the agreements us."

URGES FRESH EFFORTS

The Soviet leader did not suggest a time limit for winding up the Geneva conference but said that the foreign ministers already have accomplished a lot of "good work." He said the ministers must make fresh efforts to search for mutually acceptable solutions and agree on what they disagree.

"Then let the heads of governments discuss the most difficult questions of fundamental importance," he said.

He repeated previous Soviet statements that Russia is not trying to get a deadline for the Allies to end their occupation of West Berlin.

"The question of time limits is not of permanent importance," he continued. But he warned that the Soviet Union will not "underwrite an agreement prolonging the occupation regime that now exists in West Berlin."

The Soviet premier said the Geneva conference made clear that "the desire of the two world powers with to "upset the present way of life of the people of West Berlin."

THREE OWN CHOICE

"If the people of West Berlin themselves live under the regime of them," he asserted. "It is their own choice to make. We do not intend to interfere."

Khrushchev said he learned Mr. Herter, Vice President Richard Nixon that the West Germans have no right to speak for the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Mr. Nixon asked: 'Are you afraid of the Germans'" said Khrushchev.

"We are not afraid of the German revenge-seekers and militarists, I answered. The Soviet Union is not afraid of a mad dog, yet he does not want to be bitten by it."

FREE-METHODISTS MEET

THAMESFORD, Ont. (CP)—A new organization of Methodists in Ontario will be elected during the 19-day annual district conference of the Free Methodist Church, which opened Wednesday. The conference will deal with "reading of the appointments" Aug. 1, when ministers of all the Free Methodist churches from Windsor to Niagara Falls learn where they are to remain in their pastorates.

The Queen smiles at the fatherless children of one of the New Brunswick fishermen who lost their lives in Northumberland Strait, and has a word of consolation for the sorrowing mother. The younger woman at the right was married less than a year when she lost her husband, Haynes Willeston.

QUEEN'S KIND WORDS START WIDOWS' TEARS

Extends Sympathy On Deaths In Storm

POINT DU CHENE, N.B. (CP) — A tiny grey-haired woman in black, surrounded by all of her 11 surviving children, sat on a Northumberland Strait wharf blinked back the tears as she received a sympathetic smile and kind words from Queen Elizabeth.

It was a moment of solemnity that contrasted with the usually gay atmosphere of the royal tour.

The woman was Mrs. Albert Chiasson of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., whose husband, 37-year-old son and three other relatives were among 18 fishermen drowned as a storm battered the fishing fleet off Escuminac, N.B., June 19 and 20.

Shortly before the Queen and Prince Philip boarded the royal barge bound for the yacht Britannia and as overnight trip to Charlottetown, they talked with 25 widows and members of men and youths lost in the disaster. Clustered around Mrs. Chiasson were women were some 65 of the 83 children surviving the storm deaths.

WORDS OF COMFORT

The Queen and her husband had comforting words for the bereaved women, some of whom wept openly.

The Queen asked Mrs. Chiasson

Blistering Heat Hits Ontario, Que. No Hope of Relief Until Friday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Blistering heat hit Ontario and Quebec again today while folks in the east and south coasted in ideal summer weather.

Sizzling humidity and temperatures reached late into high 80s and low 90s were recorded in the Toronto-Windsor area and Montreal sat in the mid-80s. Newfoundlanders enjoyed 60-degree readings.

Even the 80-degree air which covered most of the two provinces would have been a relief for the sweltering citizens of Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto Wednesday's high of 92 and 86 respectively are expected to be topped tonight.

Quebec City and Montreal had their hottest July 29 on record with no hope of relief until Friday, the weather bureau said.

A high of 94 broke a 31-year-old mark of 89 in Quebec City while the 92 in Montreal was two degrees over the 1931 record. For Montreal it was the 10th straight day of above-80 temperatures.

The heat were broke on the Prairies Wednesday with record temperatures in Winnipeg and Regina clocked in at 97. Temperatures in the same range were expected today.

British columbia temperatures varied from the 80s in the interior to the 60s on the coast.

In Nova Scotia many thunderstorms were reported and temperatures of about 80 were forecast for today.

The heat was held responsible for at least on death when a 59-year-old construction worker in Barrie collapsed on the job.

A man in Windsor who tried to beat the heat by sleeping in a second-storey veranda fell out of bed and suffered a possible fractured neck when he hit the ground 25 feet below.

The risk of forest fires was heightened by the general dearth of rain. A record 56 fires, all under control, were burning in Ontario.

Uneasy Gaspe Folk Afraid Winds May Rekindle Flames

ST. BERNARD (ex LACE, Que. (CP)—An uneasy calm hovered over the fire-stricken northeastern Gaspe Peninsula today. An increase in wind velocity could rekindle the conflagration in which 300 square miles of timber were destroyed and a village partly razed.

Two days of respite in the wind has given firefighters a chance to dig fire - breaking ditches and re-organize their defences.

This village 330 miles northeast of Quebec City, n.arby Sacre Coeur des Landes and St. Octave de l'Avenir, 15 miles southwest of here, were still evacuated Wednesday night.

Mayor Romuald Rioux of Ste. Anne des Monts, 10 miles northwest of here on the St. Lawrence south shore, said communities along the shoreline will be in danger if the north wind picks up. The fringe of the fire is about three miles away, he said.

Another fire which has burned an area near St. Paulin, 30 miles southwest of here, was crowding east toward St. Octave de l'Avenir. It was reported burning out but channelled against it from human habitation.

Red Cross emergency shelters at nearby Ste. Anne des Monts and Cap Chat and shoreline residents have taken in evacuees left homeless. The Red Cross said 487 persons have registered for aid. Eighty - four were reported to have lost their homes in the flames.

The weather forecast for Gaspe announced warm weather for today but a chance for thunder showers in the evening.

Iraqi Premier Hits Hard At Reds and Leftist Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem has carried his campaign to controls communism in his country two steps farther.

Without mentioning them by name, he accused the Reds Wednesday of planning simultaneous uprisings in Iraq's two biggest cities on July 14, the anniversary of the Iraqi revolution, the only trouble developed in Kirkuk, on July 18, and the army put it down.

Kassem's government also ordered members of the Popular Resistance Force, a Communist-dominated militia, to turn in their uniforms and said the force's deputies had been abolished. Those wearing the uniforms can be fined.

Baghdad radio said Kassem will press conference in the Iraqi capital that the revolt was limited to Kirkuk only because the army was able to suppress trouble elsewhere before it could begin.

"As from today, no such uprising will occur again," the premier said. "We have enough force to crush them all."

Kassem showed photographs of atrocities, Kassem said attackers in the city centre 150 miles north of Baghdad "buried some persons alive . . . They were killing

Four Years of Terror

CANOCA PARK, Calif. (AP) Four years ago a man slipped into a pretty housewife's home and grabbed her as she stood ironing.

Mrs. Patricia Faye Smith smashed her iron against the face. The man fled, screaming, his face burned.

Police later she received a crudely written note. "I'll get you for this." It said, and for four years it was the beginning of four years of torment.

Once the man appeared again at her home and tried to rape the 30-year-old housewife but children came home. Countless times her phone has rung.

A man's voice would say: "I'll get you."

Three times the Smiths moved—from one Los Angeles suburb to another. They were beginning to feel secure in their home in Canoga Park.

Then, Wednesday the man returned. Mrs. Smith, 30, recognized him, A long, livid scar stretches from his left eye to his mouth, she said.

Mrs. Smith ducked her into the bathroom of the bungalow and her threats and pulled a peaknife. She said he told her:

"Now you are going to know what it feels like to be ugly."

He slashed her cheeks her the ankle twice, then slashed at her shoulders, arms and breasts.

Her oldest son heard her screams and pounded on the locked door of the home. Mrs. Smith said the man smashed her face with his clenched fist and warned:

"I'll be back to finish the job."

Then he fled. Police put out an all-point bulletin for the scarred man, whose identity isn't known.

None of the knife cuts was deep, but Mrs. Smith was reported in near-hysterical condition. Police are watching her home.

2 CONNECTICUT TOWNS ROCKED BY CHEMICAL BLASTS

100 Families Flee 500 Foot Flames

PORTLAND, Conn. (AP)—Exploding chemicals shook two communities today and lit up the predawn sky as flames destroyed a chemical distributing depot.

Thirteen tanks of industrial chemicals exploded in the blaze, which a fire official said appeared to have been accidental.

No deaths or injuries were reported.

The biggest blast, which knocked sleepers from their beds here and in Middletown across the Connecticut River, came when a 12,000-gallon tank of alcohol went off.

The flames at times burst like rocket blasts 500 feet high. Flaming debris was scattered over a wide area. Sparks showered in every direction, even landing on some private homes.

Between 20 and 100 families were evacuated temporarily from their homes, a few aged persons in ambulances.

Firemen were kept from the blaze by the intense heat and unable to examine the scene.

LOSS HEAVY

C. Albert Mugford, manager of the company, Mallinjoes Industrial Chemical Company Incorporated estimated the loss of approximately $500,000.

He said the company lost $250,000 in a fire in 1955. Only 10 of the ships employed 14 persons, is in effect a warehouse. It receives chemicals, stores them and then ships them. The depot housed about 1,000 tons of industrial chemicals.

The plant is located almost under the 120-foot-high Middletown-Portland highway bridge, a vital link in a multi-County route from to Providence, R.I. The bridge was closed to traffic for several hours.

Mugford said fumes from the acetic acid could be dangerous. There were also 3,000 to 4,000 gallons of acetic acid at the plant, Mugford added. He said there did not appear to be any threat from the fumes but he'd let the fire department be the judge of that.

EVACUEES FROM RED

Resident rate Policeman William Ackerman said of the first explosion:

"It knocked me and half the town out of bed."

A scrap yard across the street, Charles M. Gordon and Sons, Incorporated, was damaged by the fire. One of the sons, Yosef, said the loss would run to $30,000 or $40,000.

Portland is about 17 miles south of Hartford, the state capital.

Breaks Fist In Fit of Anger

COOKSVILLE (CP) — Ray Medal, 29, of Toronto had a black day all around when he appeared in court this week for sentence on a charge of theft from the store of a Toronto Township home.

Magistrate R. W. Blain noted that Medal had been fined for theft of a phonograph and a tape recorder.

In a fit of temper at the verdict Medal swung around and struck the court room wall with his fist. He broke his hand.

It Could Be World of Methuselahs If Causes of Aging Can Be Found

TORONTO (CP)—A world-famous Montreal medical scientist says there is no theoretical limit to human life expectancy.

Dr. Hans Selye, head of his studies of the effects of stress on health, relates in an interview published today that possibly that body tissue from rats has been kept alive and healthy in laboratory conditions for a period equivalent to 1,000 years in the human body.

"If the causes of aging can be found, there is no theoretical reason to believe that it will not be possible for science to prolong indefinitely the life of slowing the process down or even bringing it to a standstill," he says in the article.

"In the terms I am using aging can be defined as a diseases. Like any other disease, it is probably preventable or curable.

"And since tissue is technically immortal, the theoretical life span of a human being may be described as any number of years the total science of the moment is capable of making it—seventy years, a hundred, two hundreds or perhaps more.

"There is no theoretical limit, although by this I do not mean to suggest immortality for mankind.

"There will always be a practical limit set by the available practical skill and knowledge, and the risky but unavoidable adventure of living outside a test tube."

The 53-year-old Vienna - born doctor is director of University of Montreal's Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery. He describes current experiments he and colleagues are making into the problem.

In one, a glass tube inserted in the heart of a rat develops a tiny cord which scientists are studying as a new form of lifeline to the rat's circulatory system and connective tissues.

"The cord is not unlike what we use in medical curiosity with no larger significance at this time.

The average human life expectancy has increased to 70 from 40 years since 1900, he says. Most of the increase has been the result of basic medical research.

World's Largest Liner Repaired After Collision

None Hurt as 'Lizzie' Hit by 10,000-Ton Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—The Queen Elizabeth, world's largest luxury liner, was set to sail again today. Repairs were being rushed on her bull following a collision with a freighter during patchy fog in New York harbor.

There were no injuries to passengers or crew aboard the outbound 83,000-ton Queen and the inbound 10,460 - ton American Hunter. The ships came together about 3:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday near the entrance to Ambrose Channel about 1½ miles off Coney Island.

Both vessels were damaged above the water line. Harbor pilots were at the helm of each. The mishap in the heavy fog drew no visibility in some areas and good visibility in others—led to the harbor being shut down for 2½ hours.

THREE-FOOT HOLE

Repair crews went to work on the three-foot hole in the starboard bow of the Cunard liner immediately after dusk, when tugs brought her back to pier 90 where she had upped anchor just two hours earlier.

The impact was felt only as a dull thud aboard the Elizabeth. None of the ship's 2,000 passengers knew what had happened.

The American Hunter, just arrived from the Elizabeth's home port of Southampton, carried a crew of 50 manned by Americans. The freighter suffered a two-foot hole in her bow. She is privately owned by the United States Lines.

F. Seymour Bell, general manager of the Cunard line, told reporters that a fog curtain "suddenly closed in" when the crash.

RADAR WAS BUSY

He said both of the Queen's radars were functioning and showed no other ships closer than 1.5 miles.

The Queen was sounding her fog horn steadily, Bell said, when the other vessel suddenly appeared out of the fog on the starboard bow.

He added that the Queen's engines, thrown full speed astern, brought her to a dead stop before the collision.

American Hunter was at right angles to the Queen Elizabeth at the time, Bell said. The impact was very light, Bell said.

Lewis Funke, New York Times reporter, said he was on board the Elizabeth, wrote in a dispatch from the vessel that the collision made mammoth vessel to quiver, but not a glass stirred on the ship's salon floor.

All passengers elected to remain aboard the Elizabeth when it was said the collision had not ruined their schedule and they would enjoy a cream of tomato soup.

FREIGHTER UNLOADED

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—The Salvamar, a Panamanian registry of Liberian registry, was unscheduled Wednesday after being detected for six days in a protest by the Seafarers' International Union against the owners of the ship and wage rates. A contract was signed with the union between the SIU and the ship's agent, calling for Canadian crews, Canadian wages, Canadian waters, and better food and living conditions.

3 Belleville Men Injured Clearing Track

PORT HOPE (CP)—The main CNR line between Toronto and Montreal was cleared of debris early today, 14 hours after a freight train derailment.

Eight boxcars of the westbound freight were derailed about a minute after a passenger train passed on the eastbound track.

A. R. Wilson of Belleville, divisional superintendent in charge of clearing the tracks, was struck by a snapped cable during the operation and taken to hospital. He suffered bruises and shock and was in satisfactory condition today.

George Vanderwater, assistant engineer, and John Clarke, track master, both of Belleville, also suffered bruises in the mishap.

The derailment tore up track for about 200 yards on both lines. No one was injured.

W. C. Brown, who lives nearby, said he saw a boxcar on the long freight bouncing strangely. Then it jumped the tracks, pulling others with it.

The passenger train, heading east from Toronto, was hauled out of sight when the accident occurred.

Queen, Prince Arrive at Charlottetown

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Under bright skies the Queen and Prince Philip landed at this province Edward Island capital right on time today at 11:18 a.m. ADT (10:10 a.m. EDT). They had made a leisurely overnight voyage on the royal yacht Britannia from Pictou in Nova Scotia.

The Britannia anchored two miles out in the roadstead and the Queen's barge made the trip into the harbor through a cluster of gaily - decorated pleasure boats.

At the jetty she was welcomed by Lieutenant-Governor F. Walter Haviland and Premier A. W. Matheson. The Queen, Canada's tallest at six-foot seven, towered over the Queen as they shook hands.

Sharp Increase In Price of Cheddar Cheese

Cheese milk producers are now enjoying the highest prices ever paid for June and July cheese, Prices went up from 37 to over 38 cents per pound on the Kingston exchange for the past several weeks and added to the farmers' present subsidy of 25 cents per cwt, or just under three cents per pound. This makes the total price of cheese from 40 to over 41 cents per pound. From all forecasts, the picture looks very attractive for cheese during the year 1959 and 1960 chief dar cheese again, and during 1958 and to the end of May, 1959, nearly 170 million pounds have been exported to the United Kingdom.

This is contributed to by the position of cheese as to the United Kingdom from Canada were removed last spring on this means that English importers can purchase any quantity of cheese that they may need for their trade.

(3) There are no bidsdiscounts stocks of Canadian cheese in Canada, the 1957 and 1958 stocks of surplus cheese have been shipped out of the country, and Ottawa is not purchasing any grass cheese to date under the federal price support program.

(4) All two-cooperatively owned cheese factories in the Belleville area, one paid $1.00 per pound bonus for butterfat and $1.03 per pound butterfat for June milk delivered at the plant, including the government subsidy. This amounts to $3.50 and $3.60 respectively for 3.5 milk. Other factories may not have paid this high price, but the board has heard from some who have paid just under the $3.50 per cwt.

Future for Canadian Cheddar cheese business looks most promising and it is a great pleasure to see the cheese milk producer obtain a high return for his milk when he has had the foresight and courage to support cheese plants during the lean years. Cheese milk producers should not forget to support the dairy farmers of Canada in the June set-aside for advertising cheese in 1959. Advertising your dairy products pays off.

Moira Authority Is Told Govt. Payment Just a Loan

What apparently has been a change of policy on the part of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests ruling that payments made by the department must be repaid by conservation authorities for land purchases are merely a loan and not an outright grant, is being contested by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Bruce Smith, chairman of the Moira Authority, says that the department is trying to change its agreement covering purchase of land for reforestation purposes.

"Our agreement with the department says the department will pay 50 per cent of the cost of land for reforestation purposes," Mr. Smith said.

Now, the department has notified the Moira Authority and six other Ontario Authorities, that the contribution is a non-interest loan and not an outright grant.

SCHOOL ENROLLED

Mr. Smith said that the department's contribution to the Moira Authority for the reception would be upwards of $50,000.

"We have been in touch with the department on the matter and I am now awaiting a reply," said Mr. Smith this morning. "But I doubt that the government would stand for a change in an agreement already in force."

He said the Moira Authority agreement was for 50 years and we don't want to leave a fee for someone else to clean up. Negotiations have been between authorities and the department between 1948 and 1953 to say the agreement will pay 50 per cent of the cost of acquiring reforestation land. Later agreements say the contribution is a loan.

Other authorities affected are the Ganaraska, Upper Thames, Saugeen, Grand, Saugeen and the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Authority.

Enquiry to Cost About $30,000; Awaiting Date

Announcement of the commencement date for the judicial enquiry into the financial affairs of the city of Belleville which has been ordered by the Ontario Affairs Minister Hon. W. K. Warrender, is being looked forward to with interest by city taxpayers.

Judge Arthur Roy Willmott of Cobourg has been named to conduct the enquiry which was formally requested by city council Monday evening after hearing a report from Mayor Lloyd Jeffery that the city was $255,000 in the red.

Of the total deficit listed, the Belleville Memorial Centre was said to have a deficit of $142,000 and the deficit attributed to the Arena sponsored world champion Belleville McFarlands hockey team.

Since the announcement last May by Mayor Lloyd S. Hyde of what was termed "gross misspending" of the city's money on behalf of the McFarland hockey team, city treasurer Drury Denyes, who also acted as hockey team manager, has been under suspension.

It is understood that setting the date for the commencement of the judicial enquiry is now in the hands of Judge Willmott named to conduct the enquiry.

Cost of the enquiry to the city could run to $30,000 or $35,000 it is stated.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army has developed a supersensitive radar which can see and "hear" a soldier crawling on the ground two miles away or spot a tank or jeep at 10 miles. The army claims Mom Capacle can tell the difference between a man and a woman walking at more than 600 yards in the night or fog.

Therefore they need funds to carry on all their activities, and the Monday evening project was a financial success.

A large number of visitors was in attendance from many points.

Canada Ready To Play Host At Summit Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Wednesday reiterated the Canadian government's willingness to be a summit meeting held at Quebec City.

"The country concerned were informed of this through diplomatic channels," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statement apparently was prompted by reports from the United States that members of U.S. Vice - President Nixon's party are talking of Quebec City as the site of a possible summit conference.

Water safety plays an important part where child-ren are swimming. Above, a group of the campers attending the "Y" Girls' Day Camp receive instruction in artificial respiration under the direction of Marie Hall, camp waterfront director.

Busy Day Spent Preparing for Visit by Parents

This evening the YMCA Girls' Day Camp will be having its Parents' Night. Anyone visiting the camp yesterday afternoon would not have missed the impression that much work was being done in preparation for the occasion. At a couple of tables in the shade of one part of the camp ground the girls were binding the spatter-paintings they have made over the past week and a half. At another site a general cleaning up campaign was underway. In the main building the finishing touches were being applied to papier-mache bowls which the girls had been working on.

Down by the waterfront several were taking their beginner's swimming tests whilst another group was being given instruction in artificial respiration. Water safety, of course, plays an important part in any "Y" camp and many children receive the benefit of proper supervised instruction in swimming and life-saving which they would not otherwise obtain.

During the camp each camper's progress is recorded on a chart. As a girl passes a test in handicraft, woodcraft, camp lore, or swimming, a star is placed opposite her name under the appropriate heading. From the many stars in evidence on the chart it is quite apparent that the campers have acquired many skills during the camp session.

Tonight the results of their efforts and the skills they have developed will be displayed before the parents and visitors who attend the Parents' Night function. This starts at 5.00 p.m. and continues to about 8.00 o'clock. Visitors are invited to bring their own picnic suppers. The girls will be cooking their own fare during a cook-out.

PLOT WAS WIDESPREAD

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem said Wednesday there was a plot for simultaneous uprisings in all major cities of Iraq July 14. Kassem said the uprising materialized only in Kirkuk because the army was able to snuff it out elsewhere before it could begin. He blamed leftist newspapers and communist front organizations for "the chaos in which the country finds itself."

Needless to say everyone is delighted as a Day-Camper. Elizabeth Kuglin reaches the end of her 50-foot swim to pass her Beginners' swimming test. Instruction is given to all non-swimmers attending the camp.

Humidity High, Dial System Refuses to Work

"Tain't the heat, it's the humidity".

The above is a common saying during the hot summer months, and it applies not only to human beings but to telephone systems as well.

A local dialing mechanism for telephones at the Ontario Intelligencer has been acting up and putting phones out of commission. So the telephone repairman was called in to rectify the trouble.

"It's the humidity which causes the contact in the dial equipment to become coated" he noted. "We have been having quite a bit of this sort of trouble in offices where there is local dialing equipment."

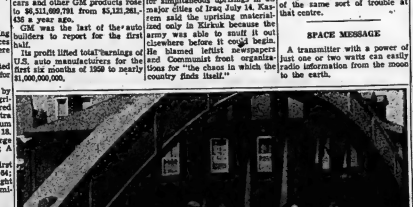
Temperature control at the main dial exchange building on Bridge Street, lessens the danger of the same sort of trouble at that centre.

SPACE MESSAGE

A transmitter with a power of just one or two watts can easily radio information from the moon to the earth.

As each girl successfully completes a camp course a star is posted on the chart. Above, Joanne James, who passed every course at the Girls' Day Camp, carefully places the last star in place opposite her name.

General Motors 6-Month Profit Half a Billion



NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corporation biggest of the world's auto makers, reports a net profit of $590,285,641 for the first six months of 1959.

This was a gain of 77 per cent over the $333,514,949 earned in the first half of 1958.

Sales of Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac cars and other GM products rose to $6,511,699,791 from $5,121,261,458 a year ago.

GM was the last of the auto builders to report for the first half.

Its profit lifted total earnings of U.S. auto manufacturers for the first six months of 1959 to nearly $1,000,000,000.

For the past several Wednesdays crews of the Belleville Public Works Department have been working at resurfacing the approaches and deck of the lower bridge. Above, a crew may be terday afternoon. This work has been scheduled for Wednesday afternoons in order to cause the least possible disruption of the flow of city traffic, according to city Engineer Malcolm Turnbull.

Firemen's Union Elects Officers

ST. PAUL, Minn. (CP)—H. E. Gilbert, international president, and all incumbent officers were re-elected by acclamation Wednesday at the 37th annual convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engine-men (CLC).

Among those elected to a second term was W. E. Gamble of Montreal, a Canadian vice-president who led the brotherhood through two major diesel disputes with the CPR and CNR.

Two Canadian officials are retiring. They are vice-president W. L. Druce of Vancouver and G. M. Murray of Rainy River, a member of the board of directors.

By ALTON GEORGESON — DIAL EX 2-3323

School Will Not Be Built This Year

TRENTON — Things are very quiet with the Board of Education in the past few weeks, Val Carswell, secretary to the board, reported yesterday.

Mr. Carswell said the air conditioning units, newly installed in the board rooms are now in operation and it is "providing a nice atmosphere in which to work." He and a staff of two are on duty all during the summer months despite the fact schools are closed.

Preparation work for the opening of classes in the fall are still underway and the partition which will divide the auditorium at the Marmora Street school into two classrooms has been completed.

This was made necessary because of the increase of pupils this coming year and it had been previously expected these students would have been absorbed by the new school on Dufferin Street south.

No further word has been received by the board on the date the arbitration court will be held concerning the price of the land which it is to be bought for this new school.

Until this is determined and the deed to the land actually in the hands of the board, the town will not be granted permission to sell debentures to obtain the $200,000 plus, it will need to build the school.

It is quite definite the school will not be built this year and it will be necessary for the other schools to observe the increase of town students.

Men Showing Interest in Drama Group

TRENTON — A greater number of men in Trenton are showing more interest in dramatics and as a result are turning out for the weekly meetings of the Trenton Drama Group.

Each Wednesday night the group meets at the Orange Hall on Ontario Street in an informal gathering to discuss matters of the "show business." However they would like to see more turn out.

At present the three-year-old Drama Group has 48 members listed but, as is with other organizations in towns, not all of them are as active as they could be.

During some of the recent meetings Jim Alexander has given talks on stage fundamentals and Mrs. Ray Greenwood has given pointers on voice production.

Mrs. Marjorie Oakes of Trenton is the president of the group.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Burning rubbish between two houses owned by House and House and Bailey's Hardware stores brought the Fire Department on the scene last night at around 7.20 p.m. The fire had made little headway and was quickly put out with the use of a hand pump. Damage was almost entirely confined to the Salvation Army Citadel.

MATERIAL STOLEN

Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police are investigating the theft recently of a quantity of roofing supplies from the St. Lawrence Construction Company at Betawa. At present the company is doing work at the shoe factory and the roofing was part of the material to be used for the extension there. The estimated cost of the material stolen was not disclosed.

HOLE DANGEROUS

Residents of lower Champlain Heights are urged to keep children away from a hole in the park there until the materials can be obtained to "fence it in." The hole contains a large cement tank which will box a water meter and the area around it has been left open to allow for the use of the Utilities Commission to install the water line off King Street.

STOP STOLEN CAR

Cpl. L. G. Tyle of the Brighton Detachment of the OPP and Staff Sergeant Walter Yeomans of the Trenton Police Department teamed up early this morning to apprehend the driver of a stolen car. It is believed the man was also charged with break, entry and theft and for stealing the car. It was reported he have been arraigned in Dundas Street at about 4.30 a.m. Full particulars were not available at the present time.

THIS IS TOO MUCH

Modern man cannot live without insurance - - which is probably one of the reasons why nobody is so often the target of abuse as the man who sells this essential service.

We do think though, that the critics have a better than average case for their abuse in connection with the latest insurance dodge - - an English invention which provides would-be husbands with the opportunity to insure themselves against the loss of the heart and hands of their intended to continental lovers.

One Birmingham insurance broker reports that 200 young men whose little buttercups are planning to travel in the lands of romance, France, Italy and Spain, have taken out this form of jilting insurance.

These young men should be sent to Coventry - - English style - - and kept in that state of social ostracism.

They have dug the pitfalls thick and deep before the feet of Englishmen and, who knows, these same traps may soon appear along lover's lanes on this side of the water for those that upon spring potholes can make love's chariot bounce painfully.

The difficulty with this scheme is that the boy friend (that's Canadian for the Reuters "swain") is likely to be scratched if he does and kicked in the shins with stiletto heels if he does not.

Take out the insurance - - and the girl friend will swear that he is secretly hoping to collect a thousand quid, or three if she is a film star may be, as more than ample compensation for her charms.

Refuse to listen to the insurance salesman's pitch and it is obvious that the boy friend is either insufferably certain of his charms or places a very low valuation on his girl friend's a. a. (Mr. Linolype Operator - - no capitals on you, please or becomes Salvation Army, whose appeal is not what we have in mind.)

The only conclusion we can see for young lovers is that even a moony calf could sense the loopholes here opened. The larcenous have had opened to them a path into the vaults of the insurance companies who do this type of business. All that needs to be done is for a young man to come to an agreement with a young lady who is bound for the continent, to take out insurance of her faithfulness, receive with shock the news of her change of heart while abroad, collect the insurance, split it with her and seek out another girl with a similar love of money and no reluctance to taste the thrills of lovemaking by the Latins.

WARNING TO VISITORS

Pan-American Airways, being of conscientious company, not only tries to carry passengers safely to their destination in the U.S. but also endeavors to make sure that they are able to make the return trip to their homeland. This may be regarded by some as nothing more than good business, but we prefer to think that Pan-Am had an altruistic motive when it distributed a mimeographed warning to 36 Latin-American journalists whom it brought to New York City. The warning: "Do not walk in Central Park after dark - - it can be dangerous."

This warning can hardly be considered news. Not only are the facts behind it well known to New Yorkers, but even so deep in the sticks as the Quinte region many of us were dimly aware of the fact that hoodlums roaming the Manhattan jungle were much more dangerous than the jaguars of the Amazon.

The warning, though, does serve to make the recognition of this condition quasi-official and, therefore, it will be received with a shock by many Canadians. What a confession of impotence on the part of the world's richest city when it cannot even guarantee the safety of its citizens within a few blocks of some of the world's most famous streets!

The New York Times, though, takes the whole affair philosophically. "We should like to assure our journalistic colleagues that there is nothing personal in this warning," it says. "They are just as safe at night in Central Park, or on the streets, as we and all other New Yorkers are. The whole city is underpoliced. We all live a little dangerously."

Which, we suppose, makes everything all right - - except for those unfortunates who happen to get slugged, stabbed, mugged, booted, beaten with bicycle chains or merely killed.

THE ENDLESS CHAIN

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The grocer sells us eggs and beans
And sticks the money in his jeans.
Our empty purse we view and sigh
And think that he's a lucky guy.

The plumber holds it for a day,
Then comes a bill he has to pay;
He would be rich, he loudly sighs,
But for the men who sell supplies.

The [illegible] presents his bill
And [illegible] the grocer's till.
[illegible] to cuss;
[illegible] on knees
[illegible] from sight;
The world is filled with discontent
And nobody can save a cent.

Why Cunning Is Like a Short Blanket

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Shouting is a sign of weakness, not of strength, the most effective orders are given in a low tone, which signifies strength in reserve.

We are bitter when we envy other values in ourselves, generous when we envy one extreme to the other; but we must learn to say with Walt Whitman, "I do not envy those who try hard, but thank God I am as good as the best."

Why does the average motorist, after locking his car at a public parking lot, always look back at it as he walks away?

Sir Thomas Browne could console himself, for cunning is like a short blanket, — if you pull it over your head, it exposes your feet.

The hardest thing in the world for a man just over 40 to accept is the cast-iron fact that a girl of 18 places him in the same ancient limbo as men of 60.

The trouble with politics is that wise men discuss issues, while fools make tools of the men.

We decide a movie star who married for love will, in time, but think nothing of another who has three illicit affairs every year; at least the former is legitimatizing her romances, and is merely a poor seeker after matrimonial happiness, while the latter is not even pursuing a definite goal.

Fanatics flourish on attention. No matter what you say about them, whether when they are ignored, as the Rev. Sydney Smith observed a century ago, "A bigot delights in public ridicule, for he considers that he is a martyr."

The optimist who is late for a letter in order to reform him stands in as much need of psychiatric help as the man for the punishes is usually as sick as the masochist.

Most communal projects collapse not by trying to make a bad thing better, but by trying to make a good thing better; the communal spirit does not know about social goodness in its optimum point.

Still, we are disappointed in the prospects we first thought important, we are unable to understand the full value of the ordinary benefits of life; a person is blind, and everything his own way becomes a monster or dwarf according to the mere fact of living.

Technicians Are Needed

Financial Post

Here's a place where Canada is painfully short of people.

The public health engineers, the Canadian Association of Physicists by Dr. A. W. Currie, head of the Physics Department at Saskatchewan.

"Take a Master's student doing a photo-nuclear study with our betatron. In addition to the betatron, he will probably be using counters, a kicksorter and perhaps a cloud chamber, in black boxes. Who is to look after this equipment? Certainly it is risky for him to look inside them in case of failure; it may be even dangerous. It is not professional in it. Technicians are needed—and technicians with training considerably better than is given in Canada.

"The head of a physics department where the staff is already fully occupied, will object to a professor doing work which could be done, and done better, by a technician who is paid a quarter when I see a graduate student who is highly trained microscope or radio receiver or counter apart and attempting to remedy a point which may be good for the student, but he probably will produce some less costly units and ones less vital to the research projects as a whole.

"The first problem is where are these technicians to come from. There are only about two schools in Canada giving the level of training required. The number of graduates from these schools seem to be doing no more than keep up with the loss of this type of person to the U.S."

Currie makes the practical suggestion that those who provide grants with which universities buy expensive research equipment should provide, in their grants, for the cost of paying a properly trained person an adequate salary to look after them and ensure their efficient use.

But the whole problem of intermediate-level training is, as he agrees, very broad indeed.

The skilled technician with no pretensions to genius is an absolute necessity in a modern economy. We should get around to some adequate means of training him.

How Perfume Is Produced

BBC London Letter.

"A sunny place with rather a lethargic air" was how Paddy Davies, a perfume chemist, in a recent BBC talk the famous manufacturing town of Grasse in the south of France, where he first began working. It was a hilly town, he said, and every square inch of soil on the many terraces was used for growing flowers for the perfume industry. In order to grow flowers of quality a large concentration of soil had to be maintained year after year, and water had to be carefully conserved.

When the flowers were ready to be gathered all the members of the family helped in the picking. Mr. Davies said, which was quite a task when it was remembered that about a thousand jasmine flowers weighed only just over two pounds. Nearly all the flowers had to be picked before sunrise, preferably before they were opened and while the early morning dew was still on them. The baskets of flowers were weighed and examined for quality at local centres and then transported at the latter were treated immediately for the production of their essential oil. About one thousand roses only one-twentieth of an ounce of oil was obtained. Some essential oils were derived from fruits such as lemons, oranges and tangerines; some from roots such as orris, which came from a certain violet perfume; some like cedar fgd sandal, from the wood of trees, and some from seeds, bark, leaves and seeds.

Essential oil was extracted either by the distillation in immense copper stills, or by using a solvent such as benzine or petroleum ether. In the latter method flowers were placed on grills in a closed chamber, heated, and the solvent flowed over them. The solvent was then again on much the same principle as a coffee percolator.

Perfumers all over the world bought essential oils from Grasse to blend with their own different perfumes. Many were costly; for example, Attar of Roses (otto) cost about £10 per ounce more than gold.

In order to make a perfume, Mr. Davies said, essential oils had to be blended with fine aromatic chemicals, natural products such as myrrh and incense, and with natural animal products such as ambergris, civet and musk, which act as a fixature.

"The real personalities in Grasse are the men we refer to as 'noses,'" he said. "They spent their lives in the industry, although everybody knew their own, day after day, year after year, and remembering what they smelled. Sometimes they smell a jasmine oil they mean, from memory, compare it with a year's crop when a lot of the year before last, or the year before that. Their skill is developed by dependent on memory because existing samples of previous crops cannot be kept long and therefore do not offer a true comparison.

The perfumier needed all that "noses" have, plus an all-important quality, said Mr. Davies said. It was his task to blend all sorts of different odors into a single scent. Only by his method of working involved immense patience, concentration and association. One mistake, and he had to start all over again, for it was only possible to add to a formula, never to subtract. The perfumer was trained for his firm to create its latest perfumes, and such formulas were so precious that only very few people had access to them.

"The perfumer has to live up to women about wearing perfume. It should be put on the pulse spots, where it is always nearest to the surface of the skin and the extra warmth will vitalize it; for example, on the temple, the back of the neck, or the bend of the arm.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

IF YOU HAVE INSOMNIA, READ SOMETHING HEAVY AND FALL ASLEEP

My comments about reading something "heavy" to help go to sleep at night, if you have insomnia, has had interesting notice.

"It should be something big and heavy, too, kept to finish and something that takes real concentration. It should be a classic that you feel you should read but nothing you are exhausted about. My favorite reading potion is "Plutarch's Lives". I've always thought I ought to read it, but personally I tire of it very quickly. When I can't sleep I pick up Plutarch.

Needless there are other books that do as well. Bacon's Essays. Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress. But I don't think they get around to them. It looks like I'm never going to finish Plutarch, I. G."

This sounds like good advice to me. Of course, maybe Plutarch would have yawned reading Mickey Spillane.

Another notion: How about keeping a small writing board by the bed, and when you can't sleep, start answering all the letters you should have answered? Maybe Mail-Star will print them.

Here's a problem I hate to see that of any young man of 19, with diabetes, which doesn't upset him terribly. He should see what to do about it.

But he's desperately in love with a girl of 18, and now he discovers that her father has diabetes. The girl doesn't have it. Not yet, anyway. Should he marry her? If he does (he says) will their children necessarily have diabetes or not?

I'm just a doctor, not a deity. Still, diabetes is one side of the family indicates that a high percentage of the children will have it, too. The Diabetic Society will also make it more difficult for the children — which is torture's way of solving the problem.

MARRIAGE IS THEIR RIGHT

If these young people want to marry in spite of this rather doleful outlook, that is their right. Marriage can be happy and successful even if the children have diabetes. Children of diabetic parents can be happy and successful in the world. I certainly can't say don't marry.

But at age 19 and 18, they might well agree to wait a couple of years. If they still want to marry, then they've considered the pros and cons and may well be right. Medical Marriage at 21 and 20, after all, is hardly "late".

A couple wanting a baby, and going to a doctor because they have been unable to succeed so far, complain that he asks too plain anything to them, but is "terribly expensive." The letter he says, "And we don't feel we have enough confidence in him to call our family doctor. How do we 'shop' for a doctor?"

The first way to find a good family physician is to ask your old doctor, when you move from one place to another. Or if you are starting from scratch, ask some well-respected neighbors. (Not just anybody; somebody who is a sound, solid citizen.) If no one else is listed in the particular hospital, the administrator can tell you which men in your vicinity are staff members at the hospital. And there is the county medical society which will gladly give you a list of three or more qualified men in your vicinity. When you find a doctor you like, confide in him — and for the sake of your peace of mind, speak up frankly about the questions you have in mind. Nowhere does frank simplicity pay bigger dividends to all concerned.

"My 14-month-old girl has been sucking her thumb almost all day. Could it be because I am slowly taking her off the bottle? Should I use a guard?"

At 14 months, don't worry about thumbsucking. Don't use a thumb guard. Don't do anything that will call attention to the thumb. If a couple of years later it's still a problem, then maybe I'll have you persuading worry about it. Certainly not now!

Banks Need New System

London Free Press

There is something seriously wrong with a banking system that permits the kind of thing we have seen make headlines in the last few days. In one case the crimes involved less risk than shoplifting in a dime store.

An Ottawa bank teller, aged 19, simply stuffed $72,000 into an empty box at closing time, put his locked cash box in the vault with the rest, and felt quite secure in the knowledge that a time lock would conceal his deed for more than two days.

His remark to California police after his apprehension was disarmingly frank. He worried about the bank angle," he said. "They trust people in the bank too much. That made it easy." Easy, indeed, and only the lad's conscience could be said to be arrest before the bank knew the money was missing.

In Calgary, two female bank employees strolled out for a coffee break and didn't come back. A check of their cash revealed that $13,000 had been taken. That would have bought a lot of coffee. As in the Ottawa case, the theft was so timed that a weekend would elapse before the cash would be missed. Again, luck was on the side of the police.

Some banking trends will likely roll after these thefts, but the banks themselves are probably best able to make much temptation in the way of young tellers. It should be difficult to adopt some method of double-checking such large amounts of currency.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO BE OR NOT TO BE

There are multitudes of people who fail to appreciate this beautiful world, commenting meanly on it. But W. H. Hudson, the great naturalist, was not one of them. Nature was his goddess. He said: "The beauty and splendor of nature has had a cumulative effect on his mind, so that the whole world around him is so compelled to exist shut out from Nature in London, and the sense of poor and friendless, I could not always feel that I was infinitely better to be than not to be."

Hudson, the author of "Green Mansions," grows greater every day because of his courage in adversity, and his appreciation for everything in Nature which never fails him in his heart, or lessened his love for the beautiful in life. I have been picking up some stray leaves in my yard. Maple, Oak, Dogwood, Sycamore, and many others. I have always watched the shape of feet. Each a miracle. What was the intelligence that moved over the land such examples of beauty? Why is there such a universal love for all this? Has it made of this earth a garden?

It is what I could write among the wonders of the earth that the means of each of my readers always watchful to take a brave front and measure out life in strands of spiritual gold? Most of us have had our pains, troublet, disappointments, and sorrows, but let us take them all as medicine no mere doctor prescribes, but which God knows all about. Send your name to Him! He will know how to make of the prescription. Health and happiness can run it.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS
GOD AND MAN TOGETHER

We often think of the creation of the world as something which is finished.

The Bible indicates quite the opposite. God created the world in the beginning, that is, He started off the project of creation, but through the ages He has been sustaining that creation and by so doing has been forming it. So that having once begun creation, God has continued it to this very hour. We live in a world and universe which is only partly made. It is not yet finished. Ever after one it will continue building up and elaborating more complex. "In the beginning God created the heaven and at present He is creating the future. He will continue to create.

What does this mean to you and me? It means, first of all, that we are part of a most exciting enterprise. God is always going on round about us all the time. We are part of that continuing process. Life pervades the whole universe. New life is being born into the world every day. The life which is here is letting itself out. The one thing we can be sure about God's world is that it is that it never stands still.

The second thing we can know about this creative process is that we contribute to it. We are co-workers with God. Life is everywhere. God is everywhere. We are joining with God in the furtherance of His creative work.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARE

In 1940, the British Government founded what is called the Nature Conservancy which in the ten years it has been in operation, has expended £10,000 annually, which is provided by the British Parliament seventy-five "nature reserves" totalling 120,000 acres in all parts of the British Isles.

These are not parks. The public is not admitted. Only persons with proper reasons for wishing to enter an area for scientific observation, and qualified persons at that, are given permission to intrude upon what is an entirely undisturbed natural habitat. These are areas and lands in which to grow and live and die entirely free of the influence of that great improver, man.

These nature reserves are chosen because they contain particularly full representations of the vegetable and animal life indigenous to that part of Britain in which they are located, Britain having, for all its size, a very great variety of landscape and soil.

The breaking up, in the past forty years, of the natural estates of the nobility of Britain, many of them dating back hundreds of years, is one of the main factors in the organization of the Nature Conservancy. What vast wealth has done for conservation, in the past, is now being undertaken by public funds. But they tell me it is now harder to find lands — and there are many — than it was to poach a duke's estate.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Marmora reeve William Shannon (centre) receives congratulations from George McIlraith, federal Liberal member for Ottawa West, on being chosen as Liberal candidate for the riding of Hastings-Frontenac at a Marmora nomination meeting Wednesday evening. Third man in picture is Jack Davidson, new riding association president.

Marmora Reeve W. Shannon Named Liberals' Candidate In Hastings-Frontenac Vote

William Shannon, reeve of Marmora village, was the choice of Hastings-Frontenac Liberals as candidate to contest the riding bye-election which will be held Oct. 5 to fill the vacancy caused by the sudden death of Hon. Sidney Smith.

Mr. Shannon was named party candidate at a nominating convention held Wednesday evening in the Marmora township hall. He was the only nominee at the meeting and was unanimously approved as the party candidate.

The nominating meeting called by the Hastings, Frontenac Liberal Association saw about 75 persons turn out under sultry weather conditions. Guest speaker was George McIlraith, Liberal member for the federal riding of Ottawa West.

Mr. McIlraith accused the Diefenbaker administration of being a "fumbling and bumbling" government and claimed it was practising a policy of government by public relations, with tremendous press releases in many instances having little foundation in actual fact.

OFFICERS ELECTED

A new slate of officers was named by the Association.

Honorary president is Liberal party leader Hon. Lester B. Pearson, and Norman Lidsey of Coe Hill as honorary vice-president. President is Jack Davidson of Havelock, who acted as chairman for the evening. Association vice presidents are Carl Heath, Marmora; Michael McAlpine, Bancroft; Ross Hoard, Stirling; James Gourney, Arden; Joseph McDonald, Tamworth; L. Rous seau, Norwood; Wm. Goodchild, Madoc; Mel Good of Parham and Herb Tupper, Apsley.

Mrs. Nellie Edmunds of Marwood was returned as secretary while Ed McNamara was given the position of treasurer, succeeding James Shannon of Marmora who has acted for the past 25 years.

The new Liberal candidate unsuccessfully contested the riding against Hon. Sidney Smith during the last federal election.

In accepting the candidacy, Mr. Shannon said he was happy to be chosen as one of the men called upon to work in the interests of the country.

In his acceptance talk he paid tribute to the late Sidney Smith and expressed his sympathy to family members.

Calling for support of the Liberal party at the forthcoming election, Mr. Shannon said a strengthened opposition party at Ottawa would be for the betterment of government.

STRENGTHS ORGANIZATION

Mr. McIlraith, veteran Liberal member of Parliament at Ottawa told riding constituents that the only way to win elections was at the local polling sub-division level. He called for a strong organization at this level with each member working personally for his party.

He said that with its tremendous majority in the house of commons, the loss of a bye-election meant nothing to the party in power. On the other hand the election of Mr. Shannon would give needed strength to the Liberal party, thus enabling it to better carry out necessary work.

The speaker attacked what he termed the "fumbling and bumbling" of the Conservative government in the various departments of administration.

He said the government's budget deficit in two years was almost equal to the debt which the Liberal party was paying off before the war and criticized the government conversion loan which he claimed had cost $72 million, plus the added load of increased interest costs.

ASSAILS CONVERSION LOAN

He termed the conversion loan as "ill conceived and irresponsible action on the part of the government" which he said would hurt the country and each individual.

Mr. McIlraith said that Mr. Diefenbaker had failed to fulfill many of his election promises, among which were one to divert 15 per cent of Canada's trade with the United States to the United Kingdom.

"You just don't make such statements as that about your best customer," he said.

Mr. McIlraith charged the government's approach to many trade problems was "unrealistic."

The speaker questioned the government's defence policy and said no one seemed to know just what Canada's defence policy was. Contracts for the supersonic Arrow had been cancelled to be replaced by the Bomarc missile, and now an American interceptor had been adopted, making Canada dependent upon American production.

LACK INFORMATION

He said he was not satisfied that the Bomarc missile was effective and charged that not enough information had been given to parliament.

A contrast was drawn between the attention given international affairs by the Liberal government and the present policy of the Conservative administration.

Top men had been assigned by the Liberals to external affairs, while currently the post was being filled by a cabinet minister as a part time job, Mr. McIlraith said.

Farm Federation Opposes Federal Hog Payments

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture Wednesday opposed federal deficiency payments on hogs but favored payments on Prairie grain.

A resolution approved at the semi-annual meeting of CFA directors recommended federal government drop its proposed deficiency payments on hogs and stay with a market price support system.

The statement issued after the closed session said delegates felt a deficiency payment program for hogs "could be expected either to purchase in the market as a result of low prices, could result in a chaotic market situation.

"Further, it is the opinion of the CFA that such a deficiency payment program would almost certainly endanger Canada's ability to market pork products on its regular export markets."

He blamed the leftist press, saying those newspapers and Communist or Communist-dominated organizations caused the "chaos in which the country finds itself."

Owners of some newspapers that continue their present policies will be brought to justice, Kassem said.

He also told newspaper editors to cease attacking Western countries. Kassem said he is a friend of "Western as well as of Socialist countries" and newspapers should stop attacking the friends of Iraq.

Amongst those persons responsible for the success of the Civil Defence exercise held yesterday in Belleville for Militia officers from across Canada were (left to right), Major K. D. Willcocks, Belleville Civil Defence Co-Ordinator; Major-General M. H. S. Penhale, Commandant of the Civil Defence College at Arnprior; Lt.-Col. Angus Duffy, Commanding Officer of the Hastings Pees; Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, and Colonel R. A. Keane, Officer Commanding of the Militia Staff Course, Fort Frontenac, Kingston.

Civil Defence Lecture Given Militia Officers

Belleville was chosen for the site of a Civil Defence lecture on civil-military co-ordination, in the event of a disaster occurring in a community, for 80 Militia officers from Vancouver B.C. to Halifax, N.S. yesterday. Although perhaps not too many local citizens were aware of it, there were several military units in Picton and Kingston who were on twenty-four hour notice for several months this spring whilst the flood danger existed on the Moira River. They were prepared to move into the Belleville area to assist local authorities in meeting any emergency which might have arisen. What these troops would have done, the terrain and the probable situations which they would have encountered, how they would have dispersed and channeled their efforts — these were all discussed in great detail by local and military authorities as a part of the lecture yesterday afternoon.

In the morning the students and 11 regular Army Directing Staff Officers were split into two groups, one under the instruction of Lt.-Col. Angus Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the other group under Major K. D. Willcocks, Civil Defence Co-Ordinator for Belleville, also of the Regiment. They took their groups to the areas where difficulties would probably have arisen and gave their audiences an on-the-spot briefing as to what action would have had to be taken, by whom, and how.

In the afternoon lectures were held in the Mayor Arm-ours with Mayor Gerald B. Hyde leading off the session. Mayor Hyde was assisted by Police Chief Walter Probert and Deputy Fire Chief "Wary" O'Brien. A question and answer period followed before Lt.-Col. Duffy took the podium to lecture on the military aspects of the situation. This was followed by a question and answer session.

The visiting officers then departed for Kingston, where they are taking a two-week course at Fort Frontenac on survival and disaster techniques. This is the first year that this course has been offered and is due to the recent change in the purpose which the Militia is to fulfill in the event of an outbreak of hostilities. A faculty of 11 regular Army Directing Staff Officers, from Canadian Army Headquarters in Ottawa, is conducting this course under the direction of Col. Keane, director of Militia Staff Courses.

The Army personnel are also assisted by the senior instructors from the Civil Defence Colleges at Arnprior.

The program in Belleville was organized by Lt.-Col. Duffy and the civic authorities and all the facilities of the Armouries and the local Militia were put at the disposal of the course instructors. Catering arrangements for the course members, who had the various participating civic officials for their guests at the noon buffet luncheon, were put on by regular Army staff from Kingston.

Wedding

JENKINS — McKENZIE

Gilmour United Church was the setting on Saturday, July 25th, for a lovely, double-ring wedding when the Rev. C. Baintntyre, of Coe Hill, assisted by the Rev. M. Raley, of St. Olo Ontario, united in marriage, Betty Marilyn McKenzie, of Gilmour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. McKenzie, to William Thomas Jenkins, also of Gilmour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jenkins.

Tall standards of mauve and yellow gladioli, interspersed with ferns, formed a pretty background for the ceremony.

Miss Jeanne Sprackett, of Coe Hill, cousin of the bride, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Lionel Gunter of Ormsby, who sang, before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of white French lace over taffeta with scalloped bateau neckline ending in "V" pointed lace scallops at the back. The pointed bodice had long, sheath-like lace sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The billowing, nylon skirt was accented by rows of French lace appliqué, over nylon and taffeta underskirts, with back detail of tiny nylon-taffeta buttons. She wore a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestones, and carried white carnations centred by a mauve orchid.

Mrs. Philip Kimlinck, of Indian River, as matron of honor, was gowned in white scalloped nylon over taffeta bodice, finished with harem skirt, and molded bodice having an illusion neckline, and tiny cap sleeves. A deeply pleated cummerbund accented the slim waistline. Her headdress was of white imported alpine, white shoes, and gloves, and a nosegay of yellow roses centred with white and yellow mums, completed her ensemble.

Miss Dianné McKenzie, sister of the bride, was gowned in green made on lines similar to that of the matron of honor. She also carried a nosegay of yellow roses surrounded by white and mauve 'mums.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Marjorie Jenkins, sister of the bridegroom, was gowned in yellow similar to that of the senior bridesmaid, and carried a nosegay of yellow roses encircled by white and mauve-shaded 'mums. She wore a matching bandeau headdress.

Mr. John Jenkins, of Barrie, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Brian Jenkins, of Toronto, a cousin, and Ronald McKenzie, of Gilmour, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlor, where the Rev. Keith Rogers acted as master of ceremonies, and Miss Jeanne Sprackett, of Coe Hill, cousin of the bride, favored with a solo, "The Wedding Prayer."

The guests were received by the bride's mother, attired in beige lace over taffeta, with matching accessories, and corsage of pink, Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother, wearing a slate-blue sheath, white accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses, assisted in the receiving line.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by the traditional three-tier wedding cake decorated with yellow roses and silver leaves. White and yellow streamers, white wedding bells and candles in silver holders, completed an attractive nuptial setting.

For travelling to the Eastern United States, the bride wore a black petit-point ensemble in sheath style with reversible jacket, black and white accessories and mauve orchid corsage.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will reside in Gilmour Hill September when they will move to, Kingston.

Smithfield United Church Setting For Music Pupils' Piano Recital

The annual piano recital of the pupils of Mrs. Percy Charlesworth was held recently in the auditorium of the Smithfield United Church. The front of the chancel was attractively decorated with baskets of flowers which made a nice setting for the program.

Miss Gale Whitehouse, on behalf of the music class, thanked their teacher for her interest and co-operation. Little Miss Deborah McWilliams presented Mrs. Charlesworth with a fountain pen set and a plaid wool motor rug.

The following program was presented: — Johnnie Breese; Gary Whitehouse; Georgie Wilson; Mary Eaton; Debra McWilliams; Joanne Eddington; trio — Johnnie Breese, George Wilson, Ann Eddington, Mary Siller; Gary Whitehouse; Sharon Maybee; Donna Powell; duet — Joe Doris Sabo; Barbara Ann Dainard; trio — Gale Whitehouse, Joan Goodsell, Clare Dainard; Suzanne Yonge; Diane Ferguson; Sandra and Joan Goodsell; Gale Whitehouse; Mary Siller; Clare and Barbara Ann Dainard; Joan Goodsell; Sharon, Maybee Doris Sabo, Barbara A. Dainard, Mary Siller; Clare Dainard; Gale Whitehouse; trio — Donna Powell, Mary Eaton, Deborah McWilliams; Joan Goodsell; Myrna Wilson; duet — Sharon Breese, Gale Whitehouse; Sandra Goodsell; trio — Sandra Goodsell, Myrna Wilson, Suzanne Yonge.

St. Ola.

The bride was entertained, previous to her marriage, by a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Jack Deshane, with Mrs. Harry Fitzgibbon, as co-hostess; and at a bride's tea, held at her home by her mother.

Lazier Cup Won by Mrs. Mary Haig

Mary Haig won the Lazier Cup at the Bay of Quinte Country Club yesterday defeating Betty Ingram 2 and 1.

Mrs. Ingram and Doris McLean will tee off in the near future for the club ladies championship.

Mrs. Zoa Corke who shot an 86 yesterday was the first lady member of the Quinte Club to break 90.

CHILD SURVIVAL

Only three out of every 100 children born in Canada and the United States fail to survive childhood.

Mother's Helper

A CARD SHOWER is a pleasant surprise for a special person. And as "I love you" day for a favorite person. A number of postal cards, addressed by Mommy, may be decorated with drawings, pasted-on cartoons or pictures. Older children may write a joke, riddle, or poem —illustrated. Fine project for a rainy day!

Beaded Beauty

By VERA WINSTON

Beading again enters the sartorial scene and is being handled with taste and discretion. A nice example of this trend is this evening dress of eggshell beige silk crepe, which is elegant and glittery without being overdone. Rows of gold bugle beads are deployed to give a striped effect, the beads catching the light like delicate raindrops. The crescent-shaped belt is entirely covered with beads. The dress is a fine buy for late summer as it will be perfect for early fall gala evening wear.

PERCIVAL'S ANNEX

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

MARY K. — I'm afraid of marriage for his sake.

Bill G. — How could I be hurt by it?

* * * *

Mary K. — I am 37, the mother of two children by two separate bad marriages, and now have a sullen five years my junior.

Bill is good looking, kind, makes a good living and loves my children. The only thing I can find wrong with him is that he must be crazy to want me, an older woman with young children and a history of failures.

Five years ago I promised myself never to marry again and I have devoted myself to my children. I started my own small business, which I hope will insure the future for us. I'm not looking for financial security and I'm afraid of making a mistake that might hurt Bill. He's too nice to get burned as I was.

* * * *

Bill G. — I have known Mary for four years and I didn't ask her to marry me until I was sure of what I wanted. My friends, my family all advise me against it, telling me she's too old and must be difficult to live with or else she wouldn't have had two broken marriages.

In spite of this, in the time I have known her I have found her a wonderful, congenial woman, full of kindness and understanding. She is a marvellous mother to her children and I would want her to be a mother to any child of mine. To me she looks very young and attractive.

I don't see how I could be hurt by such a marriage. I'd like to make her happy. Her ex-husbands must have been jerks.

The Council: Here is a vivid example of how love, devotion and a strenuous effort can reap unexpected rewards.

According to the picture given here, Mary has changed very much in the past five years. Her love for her children and desire to create a better life for them were the motivating forces that helped her reconstruct her own personality.

Because Mary did not brood about her past or look for scapegoats for its failure, she became the strong, kindly, vital woman to whom Bill is so attracted.

Bill shows himself to be an equally strong, kind and vital person. Although he has listened to his friends and family and taken plenty of time to make his decision, he is sure enough of his judgment and feelings to take on whatever risks or responsibilities may be involved in this marriage.

From the evidence given, we don't think that any obscure forces are menacing this relationship. We would bet on the success of a marriage between Mary and Bill much more readily that on many that might appear smoother on the surface.

Jellied Salads That Keep Their Promise

by Mary Moore

A negative, cynical attitude is foreign to my nature but time after time on eye-catching buffet tables at parties and receptions I have been so sadly disillusioned by the disappointing taste of gorgeous-looking jellied salads and desserts that I don't try them any more.

To restore my own faith I am writing to you today. Believe me you won't find any bilious green jellies filled with marshmallows in this collection.

My jellied mixtures have to have ingredients that give authority and compliments flavour. I'm betting there will not be one pupil of mine in this audience who will disagree with this zesty

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

(Guests — Fresh Supper)
Chilled Mixed Vegetable Juice; Italian Spaghetti with Meat Balls (see Monday) with Grated Parmesan or Old Cheddar Cheese; Fresh Vegetable Salad with Garlic French Dressing; Tinker's Torte (see Tuesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY (Guests)

Roast Quarter Turkey; Cranberry Sauce; Gravy; Sliced Zucchini Squash; Crumbed Baked Tomatoes; Radishes; Celery, Gherkins, Olives; Cheese Cake (see Friday); Coffee.

TOMATO ASPIC WITH SOUR CREAM CUCUMBER DRESSING:

2 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatine, 1 3-4 cups tomato juice, divided, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-8 teaspoon Tabasco, 2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice.

Sprinkle gelatine on 1-3 cup of the tomato juice in saucepan to soften. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine is dissolved. Remove from heat; add remaining 1 1-4 cups tomato juice, salt, sugar, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco and lemon juice. Pour into a 3-4 cup mould or individual moulds. Chill until firm. This makes 4 servings. If desired, recipe may be doubled and chilled in a large mould. Unmould and serve with Sour Cream Cucumber Dressing: One cup diced but seeded unpeeled cucumber, 1-2 cup commercial sour cream, 1-4 teaspoon Tabasco, Combine all ingredients; mix well. Makes approximately 1 1-3 cups.

SIMPLE ASPIC:

(For many purposes). 1 10-ounce can undiluted consomme, 1 1-2 teaspoons gelatine, 1-2 cup cold water.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water 5 minutes. Dissolve by stirring into undiluted consomme which has been heated to just below boiling point. Use this aspic in which to set sliced or slivered meats such as tongue, chicken, and ham; deviled eggs; vegetables such as asparagus tips, shredded beets and carrots, cooked green peas, etc. To do this pour 1-2" layer of aspic into large or individual moulds and arrange the meat or vegetables in it and allow to set until firm in refrigerator. Meanwhile keep remainder of aspic at room temperature so it will not congeal. Then fill moulds to brim with remaining aspic and chill until firm.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

"SHOULD MARRIED BROTHER BE HIS BEST MAN?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiancee and I are to be married soon, and after the ceremony, there is to be a large reception and dinner. We were considering having as my best man my brother, a married man with 3 small children. Would it be inconsiderate of us to expect his wife and children to come unescorted? Or should we put the question to him? Or should I ask an unmarried friend of mine to be the best man? — Joe

You should, I think, invite your brother to be your best man . . . this is the honor he would expect. I am quite sure that this traditional gesture would be expected both by him and his wife . . . that they would be disappointed if you don't do this, would think it "inconsiderate" if you don't give your brother this compliment.

However, if you have any doubts about this plan, do consult with your brother and ask him to talk it over with his wife, and follow their suggestion. Perhaps the wife would be willing to make an arrangement for her and the children to be escorted by a relative, her brother or uncle or aunt or cousin. Or, if the children are very young, they might come to the ceremony and then be taken home by a kind escort, so that your sister-in-law would not then have the care of them at reception and dinner.

DISCOURTEOUS TO WRITE "PERSONAL" ON AN ENVELOPE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion we are having in our family, please tell us: Is it, or isn't it, courteous to write "Personal" on the envelope of a letter sent to a person's home? (We don't mean a letter sent to a person in his or her office.)

Mother and Father

It is certainly discourteous to the other members of the family to write "Personal" on a letter sent to a person's home. It is wrong to assume that a letter sent to that home may perhaps be opened by any member of the family. Not a pleasant idea!

NO REPLY REQUIRED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have carefully kept the forms you suggest for replying to a formal invitation to a wedding reception, both acceptance and regret. They are a great help!

Now my husband and I have just received a formal invitation to the church wedding of a friend of ours. It is, we know, to be a large church wedding, but we also know that there is to be only a very small reception afterward, just for the members of the two families and a few relatives and intimate friends. We did not receive an invitation to the reception; naturally we did not expect to. We are planning to go to the church ceremony. I would like to know how I should make reply to the invitation to the church. Thank you.—Anna G.

This formal invitation to the church only . . . the invitation that "requests the honor of your presence" . . . does not require an answer. It is the invitation to the reception that must be answered. (And thank you for your kind words about this column has given you.)

RECEIVING - LINE QUERY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been invited to a large formal reception for the installation of officers in a very important organization. We are comparatively new residents in this city, and we have not before attended this formal kind of reception. We have been told that there will be a receiving — line and that the officers will formally receive the guests.

We are wondering if we shake hands with each person in the line (some are men, and some are women), or do we merely bow formally and pass along the receiving-line?—K. and F.

You will both be expected to shake hands with each member of the receiving-line, man or woman . . . in fact, I think you will find that each one in the line will extend his or her hand for a hand-shake while saying a few words of greeting. To each one you also say a gracious greeting and some sincere words of congratulation.

INDIVIDUAL REGISTRATION CARDS IN HOTELS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I are going to take a trip together soon, and we will be staying at hotels. She says that when you register in a hotel, you write your street-address as well as your name and city. I have always thought you wrote only your name and city. I'm sure that is what I have always read. Who is right?—LIT.

Your sister is. Formerly, hotels used the book - registry, with space only for the guest's name, the city and state. But today practically all hotels, even small resort hotels, use individual registration cards (usually enclosed in a leather frame, which the desk-clerk turns toward the guest for registering) . . . and these cards, more spacious, have a special line for the street address. Very convenient this is, too, for future reference or communication and for the forwarding of mail, or any articles the guest may have left in the hotel.

MAKING APOLOGIES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle our discussion. A friend of mine maintains that when one has to disturb anyone by passing in front of her in a theatre row or in a concert or in a church pew), one simply says "Excuse me" or "Pardon me" or "Pardon" or Sorry." I emphatically disagree with this, because these seem to me to be too curt, too clipped. I think that one should say "Please excuse me" (instead of "Excuse me") . . . "I beg your pardon" (instead of "Pardon" or "Pardon me") . . . and "I'm sorry" or I'm so sorry" (instead of the clipped "Sorry"). Who's right? — Anna.

You're right . . . because your way of apologizing is the gracious way. Your words "curt" and "clipped" are perfect to describe "Excuse me," "Pardon," "Sorry" . . . these are not easy to say graciously. But when we practice saying "Please excuse me" or "I beg your pardon" or "I'm sorry" (or "I'm sorry"), we realize at once how easy and pleasant it is to say these with appropriate graciousness and sincerity.

It is one hundred years since the sufferings of the wounded on the battlefield of Solferino in Northern Italy so moved a young Swiss business man, Jean Henri Dunant, that he conceived the idea of a humanitarian society to help those in distress of all nationalities, races and creeds who the Red Cross was born. A RBC program to mark its centenary recalled details of the bloody battle fought on June 24, 1859, when 300,000 men, French, Italian and Australian, fought under the hot sun for more than fifteen hours before torrential rain forced a withdrawal. Casualties amounted to more than 40,000 and it took three days to gather the living into the shelter of churches and houses in the surrounding villages, and three weeks to bury the dead.

By far the greatest number of casualties went to nearby Castiglione della Pieve, and it was there that Jean Henri Dunant, a tourist unconnected with either army and without medical training, was so appalled by what he saw that he set about organizing a volunteer service to provide food, water and improved nursing care. "Tutti fratelli — we all brothers", was the motto Dunant and the women of Castiglione, they tended the wounded of every nationality without distinction.

Dunant eventually returned to Geneva, but he could not forget what he had seen, and three years later at his own expense published a small book called "A Memory of Solferino" in which he suggested the formation of relief societies to care for the wounded in wartime. As a result, a conference was held in Switzerland in 1863 at which the foundations of the Red Cross on a white ground, the colors of the Swiss flag reserved. In most Muslim countries the emblem has become a Red Crescent, but their societies are all part of the same international organization.

The work of the Red Cross is closely linked with what are known as the Geneva Conventions. Miss Evelyn Bark, international Relations and Relief Adviser to the British Red Cross Society, pointed out in the program that these are Governmental Conventions, signed and ratified by all the major powers and most of the small countries too. The four current Conventions, drawn up in 1949, concern the care of the wounded and sick of the armed forces in the field, and the sick, wounded and shipwrecked at sea; the treatment of prisoners of war; and the protection of civilians in time of war. The whole movement, she explained, was known as the International Red Cross, and that was composed of three parts: first, the national societies themselves, today recognized in 84 countries; second, the federation body which coordinates their work, which is called the League of Red Cross Societies and has its offices in Geneva, and third, the International Committee of the Red Cross, which recruits only from Swiss citizens and goes into action mainly in the time of armed conflict. As the headquarters of this neutral arm of the Red Cross there is an index of prisoners of war, wounded and missing, among both civilians and service personnel, amounting to over 47 million cards, which is constantly referred to.

The Countess of Limerick, vice-chairman of the British Red Cross Society spoke of the link of common humanity the national Red Cross Societies formed between nations, and of the many ways they could provide help in peace time as well as in war. "This help may be in the form of emergency feeding centres in time of famine, in organizing a blood transfusion service or a maternity and child welfare clinic; or in providing clothing and emergency arrangements for the victims of fires, floods or hurricanes. It may be in giving medical and nursing care to a small and remote tribe stricken by a sudden epidemic, or taking patients to a hospital perhaps hundreds of miles from their home, in teaching elementary hygiene, caring for the elderly and orphans or in reuniting families disrupted by war and civil upheaval."

The program ended with a message from Switzerland from Judge Emil Sandstrom, a Swede and the present chairman of the League of Red Cross Societies, who expressed the hope that the Red Crescent Societies, now over membership of Red Cross and one hundred million, would be doubled in the next twenty-five years and their activities for the relief of suffering doubled in volume and intensity.

Donald Gordon Lauds Canada as Land Rich in Opportunities for All Men

Text of an address by Donald Gordon, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, London, on Tuesday night.

It was very kind of your committee to arrange that I should break bread with you today. Indeed, the warmth of the welcome given me, on my infrequent visits to the islands of my birth, leaves me wondering sometimes if it suggests forgiveness for whatever I may have done while absent from my homeland, but is intended to greet the return of the prodigal.

But know you that I speak to you as a Canadian, proud in the knowledge that I am recognized as such, and anxious to tell you something of the Canada I have come to know in the long years since I ventured forth from these shores. My story is, of course, tinged with personal experience, but my image of Canada is shared by many millions of individuals who, during the past five or six decades, left the lands of their birth, and by varying routes and many endeavors, became citizens of Canada. Their individual stories added together produce the surge of emotions, aspirations, ambitions, beliefs, loyalties, and occupies, which have gone into the making of Canada — a country which, within the memory of man, has passed from the status of pioneer colony to the dignity of independent nationhood. Let me tell you how I first saw it!

In June of 1914, the good ship, Grampian, docked in Quebec Harbor with the Gordon family on its passenger list; and in no time, we were embarked on an immigrants' special train heading for the City of Toronto. For many months, I had heard discussions of the great venture. My mother had stoutly in her mind, or it from the beginning, but what I didn't know, until much later, was that she had been told dire stories of the hardships that would face settlers in Canada — a country of extremes and vast distances, where Red Indians, buffaloes, wolves and sundry wild animals lay in wait for the unwary; where long and dreary winters were succeeded by summers of intolerable heat, during which mosquitoes and flies of every description combined to feast upon the unacclimatized.

As our train pulled out of the environs of Quebec City and gradually began to roll through the countryside, I was startled to observe trees running down my mother's cheeks as she peered out of the window at the passing scene. As a sturdy young man of some thirteen years, I simply could not understand what was happening, since I verily believe it was the first time I had ever known my mother to shed tears. But just as my world was about to fall apart, and when I too might have yielded to the infection of homesickness, my mother looked out more carefully, at a passing farm, and with a smile breaking through her tears, turned to our group and said in a tone of complete relief: "Well, —the cows are a' the same."

The Gordon family had its full share of the vicissitudes and adjustments that await the immigrant. The first World War laid caught us in the early months of our arrival, and exacted from our family group a full measure of its grim toll of suffering and wealth. For some time, our economic circumstances seldom gave a twenty-four hours freedom from sharing Mother Hubbard's well known concern about her cupboard. But, while the going was strenuous on occasion, and even later in my life when things had looked greener, the assurance that in Canada "the cows are a' the same" never failed to restore my perspective. So it is that in speaking to you as a Canadian, I do not, of course, regard myself as one of the family. Consequently, you will expect me to tell you if we have done well, and encourage me to describe the development of the business story of Canada.

WITNESSED DEVELOPMENT

It has been my good fortune to witness the growth and development of much of this story. Hence, that part of my business experience in banking and in government service, in war and peace, gave me a feeling for and a perspective on, Canadian history that has been sharpened over the last decade of my experience in the railway industry.

For the fact is that the history of Canada — and by history I mean up to and including the present day, must be considered around the growth of its transportation services. The first railroads fought the early settlers' most formidable enemy, which was isolation. Later railway building made Confederation legally possible. And today, Canada's position as fourth among the trading nations of the world (and according to most recent figures first per capita, is in large measure attributable to the fact that the country's railroads, extending over a network of 60,000 miles, carry the products of farms, mines, forests, fisheries and, factories over vast distances at a level of freight rates that is among the lowest in the world.

The railways, once the only link among the provinces, are now but parts of an enormous transportation complex, serving a quickly expanding and diversified economy.

But the railways are still the chief transportation instrument in national development — the pioneering thought of as our barren North, bristling out uranium, copper, silver aluminum, cobalt and many other metals. We are still pushing back frontiers.

This, then, is a great era for Canada and Canadians. While inevitably there have been, and may be, ups and downs, the nation on the whole is prospering, and everywhere there are striking forerunners of future growth and development. A young airline-in-a-hurry is stepping up the pace in the second half of the century, bell-bent on bearing out an earlier prophecy that the 20th century would belong to Canada.

And believe me, if you were to sit behind my desk, or that of any Canadian railway executive for one day, you would know what I mean. You would come face to face with that determination: you would become absorbed in that spirit — and it is a very genuine, real, practical one — because the railways of Canada help to make it so. For, I repeat, Canada cannot think in terms of its economy, its future as a nation, without paying heed to the transportation industry, and particularly to the health and capacities of the railways. That is why we have become accustomed to Royal Commissions, and other inquiries into railway policies and operations, and as you may have yet another Royal Commission was appointed earlier this summer to enquire into the transportation.

IMPORTANCE OF SERVICE

Past commissions have stressed the continuing importance of the railway in national development. They have also confirmed the principle, which Canadians have long considered inviolable, that the railways should operate under the disciplines of the marketplace — in other words, should pay attention to costs and revenues as well as to service. This, of course, is plain common sense.

As far as the Canadian railway industry in general is concerned, the observance of this principle has preserved the competitive liberty that must exist between a non-communist-owned way on the one hand, and a privately-owned one on the other.

For the Canadian National Railways it means that as a matter of national policy, and infinitely in the national interest, its operations, its organization, and its business principles must be modelled upon those of private enterprise. In fact, it has its own Board of Directors, with all the usual powers and prerogatives of other corporate directors, and control of its administration is vested in the hands of a fully autonomous group of professional managers, and not in a department of the government. To move important, it means that to ensure the continuity of its day to day operations the yardstick of success must be found in its profit and loss account. Consequently, short-run results must not be confused with long-term objectives.

MASSIVE PROGRAM

In an endeavor to develop business and improve operating performance and financial results, the Canadian National Railways have been carrying out since the Second World War a massive program of technological advancement. This period of "Rehabilitation and Recriminations" has already paid dividends in better service to the public, and important economies to the railway. But, as in most large railways, there are continuing improvements in efficiency, and a never-ending series of fresh opportunities for further improvements. The task for the future is to readjust the railway's plant, facilities and working forces to the kind and quality of service which the public, increasingly accustomed to a choice of alternatives in transportation, is prepared to pay for — and pay for.

That, of course, it takes money, has physical plant, capital and resources to build a railway or keep it.

Canadians are humble — and realistic — enough to acknowledge that their vast resources in lands, forests, minerals and waters are the primary facts of geography. And Canadians are practical, enough to understand the reasons for their economic success. Outsiders, hundreds of years ago, put it this way:

"Not houses finely roofed or the stone walls well builded, say, nor canals and dockyards make the city, but men able to use their opportunity."

"Men, able to use their opportunity!" This, I submit, has been the outstanding fact in the growth towards nationhood. Such men have proved in their task despite obstacles economic, geographical and human. The desire to grasp opportunity, standing out above the short term, the narrow, the parochial, has influenced from the beginning the character of the Canadian nation, and the patterns of its international dealings. The habit of critical examination, the ability to subordinate special interests to national interests, the gain ultimate or long term ends — these qualities of "men, able to use their opportunity" despite the odds — have been an outstanding feature in the industrial and commercial progress that has captured the attention of the rest of the world.

On this very date, Her Majesty The Queen of Canada, accompanied by His Royal Highness The Duke of Edinburgh, is nearing the end of a remarkable tour of her Canadian realm, which commenced on June 18th and has carried them across the length and breadth of the country of Canada by barge, by railway train, by automobile, by aeroplane and by seaplane. Joining up an impressive record of 45,000 miles travel in 43 days. The highlight of the royal tour was, of course, the official opening of that stupendous achievement, the St. Lawrence Seaway when Her Majesty the Queen of Canada joined with the President of the United States in the ceremonies surrounding that event.

HISTORIC OCCASION

During her most excellent address and after having referred to another historic occasion ninety-nine years before, when her great grandfather, King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales had officiated at the opening of the Canadian National Railways' Victoria Bridge, which in that day was a tremendous engineering feat, Her Majesty made this to say:

"Today, within sight of the spot where the Prince of Wales stood in 1860, we are opening a project with exactly the same significance for our own age. In the context of a much larger and stronger Canada, this enterprise reflects the same confidence and determination. The same creative vision has conceived — built a highway which will open the middle of this continent to the commerce of the world."

Once again, we face the forces of "men able to use their opportunity," and the Royal Couple might have had ample reason to reflect upon the phrase on day after day kept to an unchanging schedule all across the country, including route parades, armed forces reviews, receptions, dinners, and other social events, countless presentations of the economic life and of life, and as well, visits and inspections of industrial plants and commercial ventures representative of the economic life of Canada. One can only hope that the first hand picture that they were given of Canadian accomplishment, and the warmth and loyalty of the welcome unanimously accorded the Royal Couple, gave them some compensation for the tremendous strain that must have been imposed upon them. Certainly, the unifying symbolism of the Crown has never been better exemplified.

Canadians are currently experiencing, as happens from time to time, temporary dislocations and reorientations — no one knows it better than a railroader. Canada is suffering some of the growing pains that must needs be associated with rapid expansion and developing maturity. Growing pains are such peculiar maladies that in recent years we have experienced simultaneously the seemingly contradictory symptoms of both inflation and deflation.

But frankly, I have never been able to worry too much about the process of prosperity, or those associated with depression and developing maturity. For, provided the honesty of purpose and the fundamentals good are that I verily believe are to be found in our businessmen and responsible leaders generally, I remain convinced that, when my father decided to emigrate, he was right in his choice Canada, and that my children and my children's children will continue to enjoy that decision!

Since I came to Canada with my parents in 1914, tens of thousands of other immigrants, from the British Isles as well as throughout Europe, have arrived to throw in their lot with the vast young Dominion. Many more are sure to come, and in the long run we need them.

Then, you may ask, way not open the doors immediately to those who are waiting to get in? The long term prospects justify, and indeed depend on their realization on, increased population. The answer to the question then lies simply in the complexities of transitional growth which I have already mentioned. It has been a basic part — and I think an admirable, fair and sensible one — of Canadian immigration policy throughout the years, to encourage Immigrants to Canada only if the Canadian economy is expanding the buoyancy to provide opportunities for their employment reasonably soon after their arrival. What has been, as I say, a fair and sensible policy, and a successful one. No immigrant has ever been sold a bill of goods by Canada on Canada. We have never pretended that opportunity in Canada comes pre-packaged, prepared like some frozen food, waiting to be gobbled up. There are no easy practices waiting for the medical doctor, no court cases being held up waiting for new barristers, there are no guaranteed easy fortunes to be made on the stock markets, and, in my reasonably certain knowledge, there are no Presidential chairmanships in our railways.

What the immigrant will find when the Gordon family found in 1914, and what thousands have learned since, is that there is in Canada a remarkable degree and diversity of opportunity open to everyone, regardless of the station or circumstance into which he was born; that there are opportunities for self improvement and advancement, in abundance for those who are willing to work and to take advantage of them.

SUCCESS STORIES

What he will also find is that there are problems and discomforts associated with settling in a new land, the adjustment of a new life in a strange land. He will find that success does not always come easily but that the rewards are worth every ounce of effort.

That has been the experience of people, like the Esmond immigrant in Western Canada who put five sons through university on a railway section foreman's pay, in the process they had to lighten their belts a bit no doubt and those years may have been trying ones but the important thing is that the opportunity was there, and the boys had the ambition, the energy, the desire, and the courage to take advantage of it. The other day I heard a Dutch immigrant who graduated from Dramma Festival. And among the guests at a dinner given at Government House in Ottawa by the Queen and Prince Philip on July 1st, was a 29-year-old New Canadian of Czechoslovakian birth, who, one day last spring, received a Doctorate of Dental Surgery at McGill, and a Ph.D. from Univ-from the latter institution.

From the British Isles, literally dozens of immigrant success stories come to mind — a former bakery manager in England who came to Canada in 1852 and now owns his own business in Ontario; the Alberta man, born in Ulster, now manager of a British west coast branch, who began as a laborer in 1953; the former printer's boy in England who arrived in Vancouver with but $4.00 in 1949 and is now part owner of a restaurant there; the former ship's printer who with his wife operates a school in Saskatchewan; and many men of British birth who are heads of major corporations, or who are prominent in municipal provincial and federal government in Canada.

Many in this audience will recall the career of the late Charles A. Dunning, immigrant from Leicestershire in 1891, who broke ground in a homestead farm, rose to be Premier of Saskatchewan, and later Minister of Finance for the Dominion of Canada. Even after his retirement for health reasons in 1930, he became chairman of one of our largest flour companies and held many director-ships in banking, finance, and in other large industrial and commercial enterprises.

DUPLICATED BY THOUSANDS

These, of course, are the striking immigrant success stories that made newspaper headlines. But the stories that are most important, in the long run, are those of the thousands of men and women from all over the globe who have been successful in establishing a stake in Canada — a business, a job, a home, a family.

Canada has welcomed over nine and three quarter millions of these newcomers since the Second World War. They have established homes, farms and businesses, provided a significant addition to the Canadian consumer market, and contributed to industrial and commercial expansion.

But more than that, they have added a depth, a richness of spirit, of thought, of creativeness that becomes steadily more apparent in the area of cultural and artistic progress.

Perhaps this is as good a note as any on which to end this talk — which has begun to take on the appearance of an inventory of Canadian resources and accomplishments. Indeed, I confess that I can think of no better vantage point from which to take stock of my adopted land than that of these islands inhabited of our most cherished traditions and institutions. I see Canada in the light in which men of many races have come together in the atmosphere of a new world democracy which is the best way of living that human ingenuity has yet hit upon, and I stand unabashed in my expression of confidence in the continuing development of its resources both human and physical.

A long time ago somebody wrote "That which the fourth sends forth, returns again to fountain." In Canada, the cycle of life is spouting, and the main cycle of its replenishment opens to all within the area of its influence, opportunities of great exertions, great accomplishments and great satisfactions!

FAMILY CAMPING — A boom in family camping across Canada has sparked provincial and national programs of camp-site expansion. Completion of the Trans-Canada Highway with campsites every 100 miles is expected to increase the number of campers. Shown in these photos are two typical Ontario campsites. Plastic Bag Death of Model Ruled 'Accidental' by Jury In 13-Hour Ottawa Inquest

OTTAWA (CP) — The plastic bag death of Joan de Marcy, beautiful young model-wife of a fashion photographer, was accidental, a coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night.

The five-man jury deliberated for an hour and 55 minutes.

Its decision ended an inquest that lasted nearly 13 hours, beginning late Wednesday afternoon and occupied four sittings in Ottawa's No. 1 police station.

Mrs. de Marcy, a blonde 30-year-old, was found dead from one of her living room early June 19, a plastic bag wrapped around her head.

Her French-born husband, Hubert, found the body on returning to the de Marcy home from a business trip to Toronto.

LOVED HIS WIFE

On the witness stand Wednesday night, Mr. de Marcy, an insurance manager, testified that he had been deeply in love with his wife.

His evidence appeared to conflict with that of Mrs. de Marcy's mother, Mrs. Bensen Kincaid of Scarborough, who had expressed the marriage as wrecked by quarrels and misunderstandings.

De Marcy, the second last witness, said he met Joan de Marcy, architect jury, said the plastic bag was wrapped around his wife's head and body, but that it was not inside the bag as had been suggested.

He demonstrated by wrapping a plastic bag produced by the police around himself and his chair. The original plastic bag was produced by police earlier in the month.

De Marcy said he had had to kick into the room because the doors were locked. After coroner Dr. Morris Shulman called police, then applied artificial respiration in a vain attempt to revive her.

NEAR TO TEARS

The Sorbonne, and Cambridge graduate de Marcy, impeccably dressed in a light grey suit, was near to tears as he answered the questions of Assistant Crown Attorney Gordon Scott in a nearly-accented English.

This was when Mr. Chilcott asked him why he left his bags in his car after arriving from Toronto instead of in the house.

He had wanted to kiss his wife immediately, but instead, de Marcy said, adding in a trembling voice: "My wife unfortunately was down with a heavy cold and was coming home. I didn't want to go up."

Earlier testimony showed that two male friends were with Mrs. de Marcy at different times the night of June 18. One of them, Fred Farrance, a magazine salesman, testified she had spoken of committing suicide several times when with a radio announcer Mac Lipton, could not recall her next morning for breakfast.

PARENTS' VIEW

Mrs. Kincaid testified that Joan was too buoyant a girl to think seriously of committing suicide. She and de Marcy, 14 years her senior, had married about two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kincaid, who had insisted on an inquest despite officials' ruling that death resulted from suicide, sat impassive to the front row as the verdict was read by coroner J. C. Cross. They seemed horrified with sorrow.

De Marcy also showed little emotion. The crowded court room was tense and hushed.

Only those directly involved filled to capacity throughout the inquest, and crowds also waited outside in the corridors.

But the number waiting outside on the night of decision was extremely small.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

Lipson testified at Wednesday afternoon's sitting that his relationship with Mrs. de Marcy was "strictly professional. I resent any suggestion that it was otherwise." He said he saw her May 17 on business and saw her perhaps once or twice a week in the corridors. Also early the night she died.

Lipson said de Marcy wanted him to handle newspaper and radio advertising for her husband's dress firm. He resented because she gave no indication that he would get "an arrangement for payment."

Ferrance said he was "fond" of Mrs. de Marcy, and that he was as far as their relationship went.

Hubert de Marcy described his wife as a very happy person who "was always very up-and-downs." He wasn't aware that his wife had threatened to leave him, as testified by Mrs. de Marcy's mother.

"We quarrel a little often had arguments, "but they never lasted very long and we always ended up in each other's arms."

DENIES STORY

De Marcy also denied — as testified by Joan's mother — that he had called two of her male acquaintances "dirty names" at dinner.

There had been problems with his mother-in-law, but these he attributed to Mrs. Kincaid's meddling and not to Joan's too much information about the husband's marriage life.

His wife's business was doing as well perhaps as any new business could be, he said. He had borrowed money from the bank to finance it, and debts were behind payment schedule. He did not approve of her business methods, he said, but never saw the books.

At the opening session last Wednesday, neighbors of the de Marcys testified they heard "screams" and "shouting" from the de Marcy home shortly after 3 a.m. June 19.

The inquest ended Wednesday night after a short session by him under first testing by counsel for his wife, however the words would be the French term, "non."

After reading the verdict, Dr. Cross commented: "I think it is a just verdict."

Cannery Workers Strike as Salmon Run Nears Peak

VANCOUVER (CP)—With 9,000 hoy workers on strike and the sockeye salmon run only two weeks away, British Columbia's fishing industry fears it is facing its worst season on record.

More than 3,000 cannery workers and 700 tendermen, who take fish from the boats to the canneries, struck Wednesday in dispute over pay and hours, joining 5,000 seiner fishermen already striking for increased fish prices.

James Sinclair, spokesman for the Fisheries Association of B.C., said the strike could be long and costly. He said the sockeye run will have passed its peak within 14 days.

Fish stores here expected they would be forced to close. Troll fishermen, not members of the striking United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.), were selling fish at docksides of landing their catches to U.S. canneries.

SECOND MAJOR STRIKE

The coast lumber industry, mainstay of the B.C. economy, is also threatened by a walkout of 20,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC). It is estimated to be costing the industry $1,000,000 a day.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday criticized both sides in the industry dispute for their adamant stands. The men seek a 30-cent-an-hour rise to $1.73 and the companies a $1.25 maximum basic hourly rate. The companies have offered increases equivalent to seven per cent.

"The management's offer is not enough, the union's demands are unrealistic," the premier said at a press conference.

Newfoundland Vote Will Be Bitter Affair

By IAN McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland general election called for Aug. 25 is shaping up as a bitter affair, with Premier Smallwood apparently intent on eliminating Progressive Conservative representation in the House.

The premier has said he will personally oppose Tory House Leader Hollett, minister for St. John's West or in any other riding he, Hollett chooses. The province would decide "who speaks for Newfoundland—Mr. Hollett or I, very truly."

The other half of the Conservative opposition — Opposition Leader Higgins of Dee, running under the colors of the newly-formed Liberal Reform party, Premier Smallwood said the Liberals won't enter a candidate in "his" district—Premier Smallwood's riding.

LIBERALS STAY OUT

James Higgins and A. M. Duffy, who bolted the Progressive Conservatives to start the Newfoundland party, won't be opposed by Liberals in St. John's East and West, respectively.

However, they will probably be opposed by Liberal leader Peter Hollett said his party will have candidates in all 42 constituencies in the province and confidently predicted that he will head Newfoundland's next government.

The election, and Mr. Smallwood's determination to stamp out the Progressive Conservatives, follows passage of the Newfoundland-Labrador Power Contract referendum two weeks ago. The act cuts off provincial financial aid to Newfoundland in 1962. The premier insists that the island province can handle it.

Three-Man Group Will Soon Present Recommendations For Sweeping Penal Reforms

OTTAWA (CP)—The first-ever, long correctional planning committee of the justice department has begun to rough out recommendations to the government for widespread reforms in Canada's penal system.

It is scheduled to hand over its proposals by December for a 15-year program designed to bring into line Canadian penitentiaries and other correctional institutions the most modern and effective methods of dealing with their offenders.

The committee two weeks ago completed thousands of miles of travel that began last January. It visited close to 75 correctional institutions in nine countries, besides travelling to every penitentiary and jail of any consequence in Canada.

Its members are Col. J. R. Stone, 50, army provost marshal; Allen J. MacLeod, 56, former chief of the federal parole service, and James A. McLaughlin, 52, assistant commissioner of penitentiaries.

By December, they will have carried out in a year an assignment that likely would have taken a committee at least twice that long.

Their recommendations will cover, among other things, the type of new prisons Canada needs, whether the existing parole supervision services—largely provided by voluntary agencies—are adequate, a new approach to handling drug addicts, methods of treating confirmed offenders and implementation of a system of classification to ensure all prisoners serving a year or more go to federal institutions.

At present only those in for less years or more go to federal penitentiaries.

The committee's work is aimed at implementing sweeping reforms proposed by the Fauteux penal commission in 1956 and follows an Ottawa federal - provincial conference on Canadian penal problems last fall.

Canadians can look for some imaginative proposals by the committee.

It might suggest greater use of convicts in developing public projects that otherwise might go unbuilt, such as national and provincial parks.

It likely also will urge that greater emphasis be put on skilled prison staff and less on tall walls and imposing cell blocks.

Another suggestion might have to do with the fate of the convict after release. How is he to stay clear of crime if society will not accept him when he's paid his debt? How is he to stay clear of crime if society will not accept him when he's paid his debt? How is he to stay clear if he cannot find a job?

The committee might suggest some kind of public education program intended to alleviate these problems.

The committee will only recommend action, however. It will be up to the government then to implement the suggestions.

This will cost money. It could run into the millions over the 10-year implementation period the suggestions will be designed for.

But the hope is that somebody in the back of the government's mind is whether Canadians will be willing to foot the bill for a better system of handling the country's few offenders.

Family Camping Becomes Hottest Trend in Holidaying In Canada, Coast to Coast

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Family camping has become the hottest trend in Canadian holidaying.

From coast to coast this summer camping grounds are bulging with a record flow of visitors and sales of outdoor gear are trailing cash registers as never before.

First noticeable year, five years ago, the craze has become so strong that "crash programs" of national and provincial camp expansion have been unable to keep up to it and most observers say the end of the boom isn't even in sight.

It has been responsible for a sharp increase in interprovincial travel by families moving from camp to camp. This is expected to be more pronounced when the Trans - Canada Highway, with modern camping parks strung like beads every 100 miles, is completed.

MANY NEW CAMPS

Alberta alone has 200 provincial camps, most of them built within the last two years. Ontario has developed nearly 100 major camping areas — some handling 2,000 campers a night—and Quebec 50.

Yet the increase in demand still is outpacing the growth of facilities, a Canadian Press cross-Canada survey shows. In some Ontario park areas the overflow of weekend tents stretches for miles along the highway.

Campers make no bones about the main attraction — economy. For an outlay of under $300 a family of five can be set up with gear for years of vacationing and weekend outings.

Still available are mobility, relaxation, all types of outdoor recreation and the casual style of living that camping allows.

There's not much "roughing it" involved with modern outfits. Sleeping bags, folding cots, air mattresses, gas stoves, lamps, portable coolers, lightweight cooking utensils, flyproof netting and other aids bring all the comforts of home into the great outdoors.

Department stores in major cities report sales of outdoors gear have been jumping by an average 50 per cent in each of the last four years. Many have created special departments to handle this line of goods.

GOT FIRST STOVE

A veteran sports-shop manager in Montreal says most of the buyers are young couples with two or three children. A Toronto dealer says about half his sales are to women—"one of them even wanted a pink tent." And she got it, custom-made.

Most provinces are encouraging camping, establishing attractive forest sites with pure water, fireplaces, freeways, toilets and in many cases bath - houses with electrical outlets and hot water.

Quebec and Saskatchewan are exceptions to this, but even these provinces are planning to develop camping programs. Only Newfoundland, with few good highways and an almost negligible tourist influx, has not yet felt a great demand for new facilities.

The federal government gave camping a boost 18 months ago by offering to pay half the cost of parks built on the Trans-Canada Highway. Already 165 camping grounds and picnic sites are planned.

Operators of tourist camps, hotels and motels have been unhappy about the trend, contending it cuts into their business. Some are enterprising operators, however, have set up their own camping grounds and most are reported turning in a good profit.

Resort operators in Quebec and Northern Ontario have tried to discourage camping, but sympathy in Manitoba and New Brunswick has been expressed because they feel camps bring new people into their holiday areas and encourage them.

The situation by provinces:

NEWFOUNDLAND

Because good highways are few, family camping facilities are limited. Small federal-provincial camping grounds are located about every 100 miles along the Trans-Canada Highway in the province. These are being expanded this summer and use of their facilities is free. However, campers are free to throw up tents on almost any clear space along the country road.

Tourist traffic is small and there are almost no commercial camping parks. Information is available from the Newfoundland Travel Bureau, P.O. Box 2429, St. John's.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Three provincial camps opened this year, located at Strathgartney, Brundell and Elmira. Three camps in P.E.I. National Park have a total of 1,400 sites. Officials expect all site to be well patronized this year.

Charges at national park sites are $2 each per night, $2 for the week, with a maximum stay of two weeks. Extra charge or daily limit at the provincial camps.

Further information available from P.E.I. Tourist Bureau, Prince Street, Charlottetown.

NOVA SCOTIA

Only two provincial parks operate campsites, at Shelburne and Yarmouth, but six more are under construction — at Lawrencetown, Rohkards, Five Islands, Whycocomagh, Blue Mountain and Shubenacadie. The two parks drew 6,000 campers last year, and are already jammed.

The Cape Breton Highland National Park are being expanded and new national park sites are being added elsewhere. An advertising campaign to draw campers into the province is expected to swell the total this year to 20,000.

All parks charge 50 cents per night, $2 a week. Rates are about the same at private camps, which number about 65 and are mostly open only in conjunction with motels.

Detailed information available from Nova Scotia Tourist Bureau, Province House, Halifax.

NEW BRUNSWICK

Camping facilities are available at about 40 of the 50 provincial parks with no charges and no time limit. Camp development since 1956 has caught up with demand and only a few new sites are planned.

A few private camps are in operation with charges averaging $1 the first night and 50 cents thereafter.

All camps report heavy traffic, especially those with salt-water bathing beaches.

Information available from New Brunswick Travel Bureau, Fredericton.

Few areas are developed for family camping despite a tremendous increase number of campers. In the last four years the only developments of any importance have been in the Gaspe Peninsula, in Laurentide Park at Mont du Sault and at Mont Tremblant Park.

Many campsites are established in forest areas, however, for sportsmen travelling in the parks and game preserves. The limited access to these sites discourages family groups.

Most campers who have travelled in Quebec find the best way is to ask farmers for permission to camp on their lands. Usually $1 a day will obtain this and farms have milk, butter, eggs and other fresh food at reasonable prices.

The province has shown no interest in the federal offer to pay half the cost of camps on the Trans-Canada Highway but the opening of more camps in adjoining provinces is expected to increase camping interest among Quebec residents.

For information: Provincial Travel Service, Game Department, Provincial Government Buildings, Quebec City.

ONTARIO

Well - equipped campsites are available in 39 provincial parks, about 20 of which are still under development. The province's budget for park purposes in 1958 was $3,000,000. Campers increased 25 per cent last year and early July.

Charges are 75 cents a night or $5 a week at supervised parks where work is complete. No charge where development is going on. Major camp areas are Algonquin, Rondeau, Bronte, Georgian Bay and in Algonquin Park, 150 miles north of Toronto. Last year attendance topped 300,000. Last year attendance topped 300,000.

About 20 private camps are opened, charging about $1 daily limit at the provincial camps.

Further information available from P.E.I. Tourist Bureau, Prince Street, Charlottetown.

MANITOBA

Forty provincial campsites with 1,000 facilities are in operation with 10 more under development. About half have caretakers and many are complete with bathhouses, outdoor kitchen buildings with electric outlets, fireplaces, playgrounds and beach safety gear including lifeboats and first aid stations.

Charges vary from $2 to $5 weekly or depending on what is provided and there are no limits on the length of stay. There are few private camps.

Whitesell Park, with 10 campsites in area, has 10,000 campers an average summer weekend. Among newest spots are Spruce Mountain, Sandilands and Northwest Angle forest reserves, each averaging 2,000 under-canvas each weekend.

Information: Bureau of Travel and Publicity, Legislative Buildings, Winnipeg.

SASKATCHEWAN

Camping with limited facilities is done in some provincial parks but more elaborate sites are being planned along the Trans-Canada route. A major campsite is being established near the South Saskatchewan dam project.

Provincial parks charge 50 cents nightly with a 75-cent rate proposed for the federal highway rates. There is no real network of campsites in the province although the province is starting a park area further more attention than it ever has.

Information: Tourist Branch, Legislative Annex, Regina.

ALBERTA

A spokesman for the Alberta Travel Bureau described the province's most "camper - conscious" province in Canada.

Extensive campgrounds are dotted through Banff and Jasper National Parks and two years ago the province began a large-scale park development program as a means of relieving winter unemployment. Already 200 of these are complete with bath houses, outdoor kitchen buildings with electric outlets, fireplaces, playgrounds and beach safety gear including lifeboats and first aid stations.

Charges vary from $2 to $3 weekly or depending on what is provided and there are no limits on the length of stay. There are few private camps.

Information: Alberta Travel Bureau, Legislative Building, Edmonton.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Provincial camps are free but national sites charge 50 cents a night for tents and 75 cents for trailers. Weekly rates are $2 and $3. No time limits and good facilities are available.

Many private operators have set up camps with varying facilities and rates. Camp traffic is expected to be "well above" last year but no figures are available.

Information: B.C. Travel Bureau, Victoria.

Mom Whyte Says Govt. Promise To Help Broken

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — Mrs Bertha (Mom) Whyte, mother to the children in Whytedale institution here, said Wednesday the Ontario government's welfare department has broken its promise to pay for a laundry service during the summer holidays.

After recent outbreaks of infectious disease at the home, Ontario Health minister Cecile Mae Mrs. Whyte she would have to replace the laundry facilities at the home from 120 to about 40. Mr. Cecile said the order was given to Dr. Fisher, chief coroner, to dress at the-home to a "managed-operation" and reduce hazards.

Mrs. Whyte said Wednesday the welfare department should pay for a laundry service "as long as the institution exists." The home is understaffed.

A Toronto welfare spokesman said the department assumed the cost of the laundry when it accumulated during the weekend.

"It was not the intention to provide a continuous service — just get things back to so-called normal."

Mrs. Whyte, 63-year-old wife of a rubber factory worker, said that if the government closed her home she would continue to care for destitute children even if she had to go to India to do it.

Meanwhile Mrs. Whyte's architect said he would pay for the home's laundry service for the rest of the week.

Foster Homes Hard to Find

TORONTO (CP) — The Children's Aid Society announced Wednesday it is meeting difficulty in finding foster homes for charges because of a sharp increase in the number of young starters under the age of 6 and the prospective foster parents.

"The children don't stop coming in during the hot weather but the foster parents do," said Mrs. Dorothy Hamilton, society relations director. "Many parents go away for holidays, and others decide to take a vacation from the children."

PEARKES SEES PLANES

Canada's Minister of National Defence Minister Pearkes saw British's fastest and most revolutionary aircraft—the English Electric Lightning and Fairey Rotodyne — at Farnborough Wednesday. The aircraft display also included the Armstrong Whitworth Argosy freighter and the jet Provost. The four are reported being considered for the RCAF.

Khrushchev's Propaganda Skill May Be Why Ike Cool About Visit

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower still seems cool on the idea of inviting Premier Khrushchev to the United States. Some observers suggest that Khrushchev's skill in dealing with East-West progress at Geneva. Others blame Khrushchev's propaganda skill.

The president's coolness was evident at his press conference Wednesday. Reporters observed that Vice - President Nixon appeared to be considering whether to recommend that Khrushchev be given an invitation.

Well, replied the president, Nixon had every right to discuss the matter on a visit but he had no right to offer any invitation. Nixon is not the representative of the president.

W. Averell Harriman, former New York governor, said after his own Soviet tour that Khrushchev made a lot of unknowing boasts about the U.S. and that a lot of people laughed them.

MOSCOW DEBATE

That was before Nixon's visit and the latter's encounters in debates debates before the Moscow television cameras. Nixon, Harriman said, acquitted himself "splendidly." To many Americans here it seemed that Nixon showed himself as a shrewd and cunning propagandist.

The Russian commentator wrote that to give Khrushchev the invitation "would be what the U.S. would give him also the opportunity to make propaganda to belittle the U.S. Then he would go home and distort the facts of his visit."

There have been various overtures from Nixon to persuade Khrushchev suffered a number of ailments but his television performance has been full of brisk, peppery individual in fair physical health.

COULD HE MATCH WITS?

How would the 68-year-old Eisenhower fare in debate in a verbal propaganda fight? Despite three major illnesses from heart attack to a slight stroke, Eisenhower is alert and ever-conscious of honesty and integrity in government.

But there is no doubt the illness have left their mark .Now and then, some of his comments and expressions seem hard to follow.

There is some question how the president would make out with the seemingly uncontrollable and wily Khrushchev.

Nixon Takes Long Look at Siberian Plants

By JOHN SCALI

SVERDLOVSK, Soviet Union (AP)—U.S. Vice - President Richard Nixon took a long look today at heavy industry in Siberia. He saw a huge tube rolling mill and a copper mine near this city 1,000 miles east of the Ural Mountains.

High spots of the nearly 12-hour schedule were tours through the Pervouralsk mill and the Degtyarsk mine. Nixon also took a long drive through the area surrounding Sverdlovsk, a centre for production of industrial metals, armaments, chemicals and heavy machinery.

Despite the hecklers who dogged his footsteps Wednesday and Thursday at stops in Sverdlovsk, Nixon said his welcome here and in Siberia has been warmer than he expected, especially in the mining region he most foreign visitors. Thousands of Russians lined the streets here and in Sverdlovsk to applaud him.

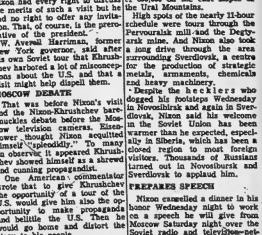
PREPARES SPEECH

Nixon cancelled a dinner in his honor Wednesday night so he could go on a speech he will give from Moscow Thursday night over the Soviet radio and television-network, in he will urge that Siberia be opened to more foreign visitors and to more ideas from them.

Nixon told hecklers here in Sverdlovsk that Western radio broadcasts to the Soviet Union banned and that they do not know the truth. The Russians have the right to hear both sides, he said, urging them to listen to the broadcasts.

The hecklers' themes in both Novosibirsk and Sverdlovsk were markedly similar and Nixon's press aide, Herbert G. Klein, said that he believes the Soviet government had primed agents with hostile questions and planted them among the crowds.

The hecklers usually asked why the United States maintains bases around the Soviet Union and why the United States will not ban nuclear weapon tests at once.



Blood Supply Low

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A special newspaper and radio publicity campaign has failed to attracted 264 blood donors to Wednesday's clinic here to replace a blood bank so low in supply it was necessary Tuesday to cancel treatment of a patient in hospital here.

Added to the 80 bullets already in the bank, it still left the Red Cross 256 short of its 600-bottle weekly requirement.

Officials blamed the lull on blood donations to hot weather and summer holidays.

'Jest a Second'

British Papers Support Report On Nyasaland

LONDON (Reuters) — British newspapers today voiced strong editorial support for the findings of a government investigation commission sent to Nyasaland after 51 Africans were killed in the potting down of an alleged massacre plot.

News of the government's victory Tuesday night over a Labor party bid to censure its policy on the central African protectorate was splashed across front pages. The vote was 317 to 254.

In addition to supporting the findings of the report some of the papers also call for the release of Dr. Hastings Banda, jailed leader of the Nyasaland African Congress who once was a physician in Britain.

The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, says, "We believe that a careful reading of the evidence will bring most people to the Commission's view."

The paper notes that the report was "critical of Dr. Banda's defects—especially of his appointment of extremists as his chief lieutenants and of his failure to intervene to prevent violence." But, The Guardian says, "it presents him as a frank and honest man, in whose word some trust can be placed."

The Scotsman of Edinburgh, Independent, describes the defence of the government position by Attorney-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller as being characteristic of the government's rejoinal to admit that there was anything wrong with its Nyasaland policy.

The Daily Herald, Labor, says that the blot of a "police state" still remained on Britain's reputation.

The News Chronicle, Liberal, says that Prime Minister Macmillan clearly believed that his election prospects would be hurt by admitting as error on Nyasaland but it adds he may find he has misjudged the voters.

The Daily Telegraph, Conservative, says the report went "so far in referring to a 'police state' but says, "nevertheless there is too much evidence for anyone to be entirely at ease."

Sicily Elects Communist as Govt. President

PALERMO, Sicily (AP)—Italy's governing Christian Democrat party suffered a sharp setback Tuesday night when the Sicilian regional assembly reelected Communist-backed Silvio Milazzo as president of the island government.

Milazzo, a rich landowner who campaigned on a Sicily-first platform, noted on his Christian Democrat opponent, Gaetano Magro, 48 votes to 43.

The Christian Democrats, acting on orders from worried party leaders in Rome, had formed an alliance with Monarchists and Fascists in a bid to keep Milazzo from retaining office. But the alliance caused bitter dissension within the party and some Christian Democrats obviously broke ranks on the secret ballot and voted for Milazzo.

Milazzo bolted the Christian Democratic party last year and formed his own Christian Social Union, contending that the national government was not doing enough for Sicily.

Nehemiah Hubble Descendants Hold Reunion in Frankford

By Mrs. Percy MacMullen

RAWDON—The tenth annual Hubble reunion picnic was held in Frankford Memorial dining hall on Sunday with an attendance of 70 members of the clan. The group was composed entirely of descendants of the pioneer, Nehemiah Hubble, who came to Hubble Hill, now known as Mount Pleasant, in Rawdon township, in the year 1784. He travelled with a group of United Empire Loyalists from the United States to Adolphustown.

From there he and his brother trekked to Rawdon township and built a log cabin in the wilderness. In 1793 Nehemiah returned to the United States and brought his wife, the former Lucinda Welton, and family to live in the area. Year by year more of the Hubble clan came to this part of Ontario and the district was named "Hubble Hill."

FIRST REUNION

Ten years ago the first Hubble reunion was held at Present'ile with the late Lorne Hubble as the first elected president. The reunion has been held at Frankford Memorial Hall for the past five years and date is set for the 4th Sunday in July.

The Sunday luncheon was served on long tables with family groups and was topped off with ice cream provided by the organization. Grace was sung with Mrs. Arthur Fryer presiding at the piano.

The sports committee arranged a series of games and races on the lawn for the children immediately following the dinner. The winners received prizes and all the children were given treats of confectionery.

Later, the younger fry enjoyed a visit to the Frankford Tourist Park. Guests were in attendance from Acton, Shannonville, Belleville, Redersville, Frankford, Foxboro, Marmora, Stirling, Roseslaw, Kilgerston, Campbellford, Trenton, Stockdale, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, and other points.

SHORT BUSINESS SESSION

Mr. Cecil Hubble of Foxboro, president, presided over a short business meeting which opened with "The Queen." Mr. Charles Hubble, of Acton, delighted with musical selections on the harmonica. Mrs. Russell Fryer, Stirling, gave a full report of the 1938 proceedings and also the year's financial statement, showing a bank balance of $27.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a brief account of what she had accomplished during the past year in writing the genealogy of the clan which will, some day, be published in book form. There is still research work to complete and families are asked to send in a list of recent marriages, births and deaths in order to have the manuscript as nearly correct as possible.

Mrs. Russel Hubel, who is a co-worker on the historical committee, gave an up-to-date report re the printing of the book. The clan will need to raise approximately $100 more for this venture, and it is hoped that the ways and means committee will stage an event in the early autumn.

VARIOUS VERSIONS OF NAME

Mrs. Hubel also displayed the crest which was designed for the Hubbell clan of England, with its mark of heraldry and the Latin inscription. When the clan came to the United States the name was spelled "Hubbell" but now there are several versions of the spelling of the name, and yet all are members of the clan.

When the book is completed, Mrs. Don Terry will be in charge of the distribution. Mr. Clifford Hubble is treasurer of the book fund and he has over $200 in the bank account.

One hundred books will be printed and any person who wishes may order a book until the supply is exhausted. About 35 books will be available in addition to those already ordered.

Five members of the clan have passed on during the year, and a period of silence was held in tribute to their memory. The deceased are: Fred Shaw, of Windsor; Robert Bateman, of Hamilton; Mrs. Hermon Tucker (Ella Hubble), of Tweed; Mrs. Peter Hubel, of Plainfield, and Wallace Cameron, of Cold Lake, Alberta.

The reunion will be held in 1940 at Frankford Hall on the fourth Sunday in July.

Awards and prizes were given as follows: youngest child, Brian Hubel born, May 1958, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hubel, of Stirling, R.R. 3; oldest person, Sandford Hubble, Belleville, 78 years; longest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hubble, Foxboro, 53 years; youngest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hubel, of Stirling, R.R.3 married six years; the largest family, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hubble, of Sidney township with 13 children; those coming the farthest: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hubble and family, of Acton, 158 miles; birthday prize: Mrs. Lorne Hubble, of Stockdale, whose birth date is July 28th. The group sang "Happy Wedding Anniversary" for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fryer as this was their special day, and "Happy Birthday," to Mrs. Lorne Hubble (Luella).

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. Everett Hubble, a past president, spoke briefly and conducted the election of the new officers. He hoped a larger number of the clan would plan to attend the 1940 reunion. The officers are: president, Elton Hubble, Campbellford, R.R. 4; vice-president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Russell Fryer; invitation secretaries, Mrs. John McColl and Mrs. Don Terry; sports committee, Donald Hubble and Don Bates; ball and ice cream, Mrs. Rose Hubble.

Mrs. Arthur Fryer voiced thanks to Mr. Cecil Hubble, Foxboro, for his four-year term of office as president.

The newly elected president, Elton Hubble, spoke briefly and asked for co-operation to carry on the reunion plans.

WORRIED ABOUT COST

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost will be asked by York Township council to discuss payment for the judicial inquiry into township land deals and financial affairs that they fear may cost $400,000. Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said last week that he has no authority to shorten the inquiry or relieve the township of its costs.

ALTON, N.S. (CP)—Fourteen-year-old Robert Miller, a grade 8 honor student at Brookfield High School, hasn't missed a single day of school since he started going nine years ago.

IVANHOE — Master Ronnie Smith, of Bloomfield, is visiting his cousin, Kenneth Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Laloode and daughter, of Midland, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kerby.

Lawrence Woodcox, Stirling, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Cooney.

Mrs. A. VanBuren and children, and Miss Maureen McAvoy, of Durand, Mich., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Philip McAvoy.

Peter and Ionne Hamstra, of Belleville, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fol-vertsma.

NBC-TV Will Inaugurate Live Anthology Drama Series

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Last season numerous television critics and viewers frequently asked this question: Why doesn't NBC-TV have a live anthology dramatic series?

Beginning Sept. 20, with Sunday Showcase, the network is going to have exactly that. And there is every indication that it should be one of the best on the air.

To my mind, it's one of the most significant programming experiments of the forthcoming season; NBC is gambling that enough people are sufficiently interested in good drama to match the program against Ed Sullivan and Maverick on the opposition networks.

Robert Alan Aurthur, executive producer of the series, was saying the other day that he and NBC are offering "maximum creative freedom" such as existed in the halcyon days of TV drama several years ago when Fred Coe developed a host of celebrated writers and directors—top-including Aurthur himself.

HAS GOOD SCRIPT

For the opening show Aurthur says he has an "extraordinary script" by S. Lee Bogotin called Pekoe Kill-Monday Sometimes. It will be followed by a two part adaptation of Budd Schulberg's What Makes Sammy Run?

A comedy by Patrick Dennis, plagued, as well as works by Alfred Bester, John Osborne and Paddy Chayefsky by Aurthur himself.

Well, you might ask, why get so excited about this program.

Because it's one of those remarkably few TV series that breaks the incresing trend toward filmed westerns and adventures.

It would have been easy for the network to sell two half-hour westerns in the hour time spot of Sunday Showcase.

Sad to relate, the series still is unsponsored.

Latta Defeats Shannonville By 10-0 Score

Latta wound up their official schedule in the South Hastings Baseball League last night defeating Shannonville by a 10-0 score at Latta.

Latta's starry southpaw Stan Reid let the Shannonville batters down with four hits one a double, while whiffing six and walking three.

The winners pounded three Shannonville pitchers for eleven hits over the five-innings route. The game was scoreless for three innings then Latta broke the ice with two runs in the fourth.

The roof fell in on Shannonville in the fifth, with eight Latta runners crossing the plate in a hit-run explosion.

Mortimer started on the mound for the losers and went well for three innings striking out two. He weakened in the fourth and Les Reid took over. Latta got single safely in the fifth and Bill Hill was called in to stem the Latta assault. He whiffed a pair.

Mike Brant hit a double and single for Shannonville with Don Sherry and Stub Bennett getting singles.

Lorne Carleton powered the Latta crew at the plate banging out a double and two singles. Wayne Grant, Jay Gass and Frank Ray each had a pair of singles while Cam Hilliard, Gus Ross Parks coming through with safe hits.

"Last Train Frees Gun Hill" Arrives Loaded With Action, Suspense, Drama

When two strong screen men like Kirk Douglas and Anthony Quinn clash, as they do in Paramount's Hall Wallis production of "Last Train From Gun Hill" which opened yesterday at the Belle Theatre, there are expected to be spectacular fireworks, and they got them in Technicolor and VistaVision.

Every once in awhile a Western of such stature as this one comes along. It did with "Shane" and with "Gunfight at the O.K. Corral," the latter, incidentally, also starred Douglas but with Burt Lancaster. "Gun Hill" was also produced under the Hall Wallis banner. GreatDouglas is determined he shall not be convinced that the double feature is no bargain, the theatre men will come around. For they are faced with three conditions that make the single bill money urgent.

1. Movies are longer than ever. The 90-minute feature is almost obsolete. two-hour minimum is standard for an important film three days. Three-hour spins are not uncommon.

There's nothing wrong with long pictures—if they can sustain your interest. But two longies in a row are hard to take for even the most rabid fans.

2. Movies are fewer than ever. Theatre men are screaming for more products to show. So why don't they make better use of what they get?

3. Movies are costlier than ever. The industry can claim that theatre admission haven't risen as much as other consumer prices. But people still resent paying premium fees for what was once inexpensive entertainment. Single features could help cut costs and bring ticket prices down.

ALS BUY BENNETT

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union purchased wingback Johnny Bennett Saturday from the Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Two Stamps Try to Lick Each Other

KITCHENER (CP) — A postgame fight involving two Calgary football players resulted in Stampeder quarterback Joe Kapp receiving facial lacerations Tuesday night in Montreal, team officials said here Wednesday.

What started out as a friendly ball session after Tuesday night's game in Montreal, won 25-21 by Montreal, ended up with Kapp spending some time in Montreal General Hospital having stitches taken in his chin.

Kapp's sparring partner was Canadian guard-linebacker Doug Brown.

Both boys were questioned by head coach Otis Douglas after the flareup. Douglas commented: "It was a case of two high-strung boys flaring up. They were good friends before this and I'm sure there will be no hard feelings."

Douglas said disciplinary action would follow, however.

Do People Want Twin-Bills? Can Industry Afford Them?

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The time has come for the movie industry to do some thinking about the double feature.

Does the public still want it? Can the film industry still afford it?

The twin bill has been with us since the depression days, when theatres tried to cure lagging business by giving the public double its money's worth.

OPPOSED BY PRODUCERS

Double features long have been attacked by producers, especially Samuel Goldwyn, but they continued to be the mode of film presentation. Why? Because theatre men thought movie - goers liked it that way.

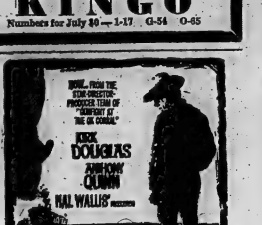
But times have changed. As a straw in the wind, Variety tells of two single-featured houses in Long Island, N.Y., that generally outdraw the double-feature theatres in the area.

The owner of the houses is convinced his patrons prefer good, single films with a few shorts to round out a two-hour bill.

It makes sense. Isn't it better to see an engrossing two-hour show, have some refreshment afterward and get home at a decent hour? Or endure two rather parallyze your posterior through four and five hours of movie watching and return to pay the sitter a whopping bill?

THREE CONDITIONS

If you, the movie-goer, can be convinced that the double feature is no bargain, the theatre men will come around. For they are faced with three conditions that make the single bill money urgent.



1. Movies are longer than ever. The 90-minute feature is almost obsolete. two-hour minimum is standard for an important film three days. Three-hour spins are not uncommon.

There's nothing wrong with long pictures—if they can sustain your interest. But two longies in a row are hard to take for even the most rabid fans.

2. Movies are fewer than ever. Theatre men are screaming for more products to show. So why don't they make better use of what they get?

3. Movies are costlier than ever. The industry can claim that theatre admission haven't risen as much as other consumer prices. But people still resent paying premium fees for what was once inexpensive entertainment. Single features could help cut costs and bring ticket prices down.

Panasiuk, Zabowski Battle Highlights Junior Tourney

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — What promises to be one of the prize clutches of the Canadian junior golf championship pops out of the draw today when Bobby Panasiuk of Windsor and Ray Zabowski of Montreal usher in the quarter-final round.

So far the tournament has escaped violent upsets. Panasiuk, the defending champion, nearly became a victim Wednesday at the hands of Mr. Rose, Jr., of Saskatoon. Zabowski, 1958 Quebec junior champion, breezed along serenely.

Panasiuk's recent win of the Ontario open amateur title kept him installed as favorite, but his close call gave rise to speculation that the potential winner was somewhere among the other seven quarter-finalists.

MORGAN STEADY

One of those booming into prominence was John Morgan of Vancouver, whose two steady rounds Wednesday — and victories by margins — leaned him as a distinct threat.

The lone foreign entry was turned back in the second round when George Stokes of St. Catharines pulled out a win at the 19th hole — the only extra-hole match of the day — with a par to eliminate Ron Righter of Landover, Md.

The East West lineup for the quarter-finals stood at five to three for the East, with three of the easterners in the top half of the draw.

Panasiuk appeared a bit off form Wednesday when he met Ross Rose, Bobby was two up at the turn but at the 13th he drove into a ditch and at the 15th put his ball into the trees, picking up and conceding the hole that squared the match.

Ross fell behind at the 16th when he hooked into trees and could do no better than halve the remaining holes, leaving Panasiuk with a one-up win.

Panasiuk reached the second round Wednesday with an easy 5 and 4 win over Andre Tremblay of Montreal. Scisson shook off Andre Maltais of East Angus, Que., one up.

ZABOWSKI WINS

Zabowski defeated Phil Fox of Cornwall 3 and 2, and Terry Campbell of Vancouver 5 and 4.

Alan Kennedy, 5 and 3 winner over Montreal's Stan Clarke in the morning, beat John Kindred of Peterborough 2 and 1.

Stokes got past Mike Whitney of Kitchener 2 and 1 before tackling Ron Righter. The American was down two at the turn. He finally got even at the 18th but his five at the par - four extra - hole shortfall him out.

Jorn Morgan plastered a 9 and 7 win on Peter Davidson of Trois Rivieres and walked only a little more in the sizzling hot afternoon to win 6 and 5 over David Lowery of St. Catharines.

GOES THE ROUTE

Brownlee won 6 and 5 over Carl Serra of Toronto in the morning but had to go the full distance in the afternoon against Gary Black of St. Catharines, winning one up.

Montreal's 16-year-old Leriche turned back Buster Ogden of Chester, N.S. 4 and 4 in the morning and won 2 and 1 over Don Stokalsic of Fort Arthur.

Jim Scissons had to battle through both of Wednesday's rounds. He won over Maltais one up in the morning and eliminated Bob Zadale of Edmonton two up in the afternoon.

Leafs Beaten In Overtime; Royals Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Richmond Vees aren't giving an inch in that battle for second place with Havana in the International League. Frank Lejs is seeing to that.

The big first baseman led the Vees to their second straight victory over Rochester, 10-6 Wednesday night while Havana defeated Montreal 3-1. Both are tied for second, 6½ games behind Buffalo, which beat Columbus 13-4. Miami defeated Toronto 6-5 for 11 innings.

Lejs homered Tuesday night to spark the Vees to a victory and Wednesday night teamed with Bob Deakin, each getting a pair of two-run homers. It was No. 15 for Lejs and No. 2 for Deakin. Ben Flowers (2-3) won it in relief and Howie Nunn (5-6) lost.

Walt Craddock (9 - 6) gave Montreal only three hits, one Sandy Amoros' homer. Rene Valdes (7-5) lost. Havana got an unearned run in the first and the other two on Tony Gonzales' two-run homer in the eighth.

Buffalo zoomed to an 11-0 lead after two innings with Ken Lehman (8-6) getting the victory. Jack Phillips led Buffalo with a double, single and three RBIs. Al Jackson (7-3) lost.

Jim King and Archie Wilson homered for Toronto and Fred Valentine hit one for Miami. Herb Moford (3-3) won and Dick Brodowski (2-1) lost.

Royal Henley Gets Gently Under Way

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (CP) — Three sculling finals and a batch of qualifying heats sped the 80th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta gently on its way Wednesday.

Times were generally slow and winners slipped across the finish line to the cheers of fallow crewmen. Few spectators gathered on the old Welland Canal to watch first-day events of the 77-year-old regatta.

The 68-race program, involving more than 600 oarsmen from 30 clubs, builds up to a climax of 19 senior finals Saturday.

The high school singles, Wednesday's main event, saw a 17-year-old New Rochelle, N.Y. sculler, John Sonberg from Blessed Sacrament High School, cover the one-mile, 550 - yard course in 6:10.7, more than 12 seconds better than last year's time.

LENGTH AHEAD

Sonberg swept across the line more than a length in front of Dave Hillman from Philadelphia's Approved Tutors School, although Hillman had won the morning qualifying heat.

Following well in their wakes were third-placed Francis Salpeter from New York Xavier and Jamie Delaney from Brockville.

Howard Hanna, 21-year - old Brockville sculler, skimmed across the finish to win the junior 135-pound singles final in 8:31.8 and give the Brockville club its first singles win since 1947. Hanna, using a 40-year-old borrowed shell, took the lead at the start and held it, despite strong challenges from Hamilton Leader's Stan McDougall who placed second.

The junior 155-pound singles was taken by Bill Myers of Philadelphia's Bachelor Barge Club with a time of 8:12.3.

On the Tracks

GOODWOOD, England (AP)—Harry J. Joel's Predominate is the third horse in the 136-year history of the Goodwood Stakes to win the event two straight years.

The seven-year - old chestnut galding took the lead in the last 200 yards Wednesday to win by a length over Al Serene, with Pappy Ahead further back in third place among the field of seven.

Predominate, off at 3-1, covered the turf course in Britain's oldest handicap in 4:37.6, to take first money of $4,356. Pappy was the 9-2 favorite and All Serene was 11-2.

The only other horses to win the Goodwood twice in a row were Stumps in 1825-26 and Orelia in 1840-41.

Says Sept. 22 Still Target For Big Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Promoter Bill Rosensohn returned from Sweden Wednesday and said Sept. 22 at Yankee Stadium is still the target for the return bout between heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson.

"All I need is six weeks," the dapper young ring impresario said. "If we can get a few kinks ironed out next week we will go ahead with these plans. If not, maybe we can make it later in the month.

"I looks as if the Yankees won't be making the World Series. That gives us more dates to work with."

The scene $80,000 purse which Johansson got for stopping Patterson in the third round June 20 at Yankee Stadium is held under a federal writ of attachment because of a suit by Eddie Machen. That purse comes from the gate receipts, Machen contends he had been promised a return fight by Johansson.

"Hmmmm' showed so much stuff throwing out the first ball that we've gonna let him pitch for us!"

nesday. "I don't know exactly what the expenses will amount to, but it will be close to $5,000."

Terms will be discussed when Durelle and Shaban return to Montreal. The Moore-Durelle rematch has twice been postponed, from July 15 to July 29 when cent option.

"I'm not going to get something in writing when I return to Montreal," said Shaban. He will try to change the $15,000- guarantee and 20 per cent option for Durelle. Moore's contract calls for a $175,000 guarantee and a 40 per

"This," points out Mayor Hyde, "has no reflection on the tournament. It seems to be a general condition all over the province. We have checked other outstanding tournaments and discovered the same condition exists. No one seems to be able to put his finger on the reason."

However, there will be a strong representation of bowlers from nearby and other districts. Keglers are expected here from Trenton, Odessa, Waterloo, Campbellford, Cornwall, Kingston, Cobourg, Toronto, Bridgeburg and Peterborough. Prizes, including Cadeaux, Almanacs and many other bowling centres.

A's Roll Up 10 Straight; Dodgers Take Over Lead

Longest AL String Since .56, 'Bums' Blank Bucs as Giants Lose to Phils, Braves Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

San Francisco Giants have blown a 3½-game lead and given up the National League lead to Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers, winning four of six series slugger Gil Hodges on the sidelines, Wednesday night hit the top for the first time since May 12 by beating Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 as Roger Craig's six - hitter tumbled the Pirates to their ninth straight loss.

That left the Giants, defeated 5-2 by last - place Philadelphia Phillies, a half-game behind the Dodgers and only a half-game ahead of third-place Braves. The third-place Braves, who had been without Lou Burdette and Warren Mathews for seven games, closed in with an 8-4 victory over Cincinnati Redlegs as Cincinnati Hodges whipped St. Louis Cardinals 9-0.

REDLEGS NO HODGES

With Hodges, their home run leader, out with a sore ankle, the Dodgers clipped the Bucs as Vern Law (11-7) in the eighth inning on a two-run single by Pignatano and a double by 180-hitter Don Zimmer. Dodgers' Law was blanked on four hits by Law until Dale Long singled and a walk touched off the eight.

Craig, who helped boost the Dodgers into the only world championship as a mid-season rookie in 1952, has a 9-3 record since being reclaimed from the minors last month. It was his second shutout and he struck out seven.

The Braves, using Mathews for the first time since he injured his hip a week ago, beat the Cubs in a home run duel between Hank Aaron and Ernie Banks. Each hit a pair.

Aaron drove in the Braves' first three runs against loser Dave Hillman (5-6) with his 29th and 30th. Banks, tying Mathews' league lead with 29, drove in the Cubs' first four runs against Lew Burdette (14-10), who needed Don McMahon's hitless, three-inning mopup after Sammy Taylor's solo homer in the seventh.

ANTONELLI STINGY

The Phillies managed only three hits off southpaw Johnny Antonelli, two were homers by Ed Bouchee and Gene Freese and all but a run came with two out in the fourth inning. Don Cardwell (5-6) went all the way and allowed Ed Giants' just six hits.

Cincy Cepeda's 21st home run while walking two and fanning five.

The Reds moved within a game of the sixth-place Cardinals by breaking a 2-2 tie in the third against loser Larry Jackson (5-9) on Frank Robinson's double and Ed Bailey's single.

They made it a rout with six runs in the eighth while Jerry Mitchell (4-3), who had lost six straight, blanked St. Louis on four hits over the last eight frames.

Kansas City Athletics have rolled up 10 straight victories for a streak that hasn't been topped in the American League since of 1956. They have jumped from last place to within a half-game of third.

They scored win No. 10 Wednesday night with a 5-4 victory over Washington that dropped the Senators into the cellar with 11 straight losses, a record in the major leagues this season.

No American League team has had a better winning string than the Athletics since New York Yankees won 11 straight in 1956. Chicago White Sox padded their slim edge atop the league when Early Wynn and Billy Pierce combined in a 4-4, six-inning tie after rookie Al Schroll had given Washington a four-run out of the cellar with a six-hitter for a 4-1 victory over second-place Detroit Tigers.

8½ BEHIND CHICAGO

The Athletics, still 8½ games short of first place after picking up 3½ games on the Sox, started two weeks ago, beat the Senators in the first game Wednesday night. Dick Williams, who drove in three runs, hit a two - run single and Bill Pleis drove in the first, then singled in another in a three-run rally. Daley, blanked the Senators on three hits until ninth, when Faye Throneberry hit a two-run single after a walk and an error. Bob Grim relieved and put it away, giving up two runs in the ninth.

The White Sox broke a 2-2 tie with two runs in the fifth on Early Aparicio's single. Nellie Fox scored, then seconded a leaping stab by left fielder Al Smith on Gene Leek's shot to the well to escape defeat in the sixth. Schroll, Barry's two - run, two-out homer had tied it again.

FORD FAILS AGAIN

Bob Shaw pitched the six innings for Chicago, giving up five hits. The White Sox chased Yankee starter Whitey Ford in a two-run second inning. Ford, who entered by arm trouble, has failed to complete any of his last seven starts against Chicago for two years.

Schroll, a rightthander who gained his major league victory in the National League with Philadelphia Athletics last April, evened his American League record at 1-1 while making nine and one-third innings of relief.

Baltimore beat Paul Foytack (9-8) with three unearned runs in the first two innings while youngsters Jerry Walker (6-6), and Jerry Fosnow collected for a six-hitter against the Tigers.

Knox, Green Spark Argos Club Game

TORONTO (CP) — Quarterbacks Johnny Green and Ronnie Knox threw two touchdown passes each as Toronto Argonauts played an intra-squad game Wednesday night which emphasized that coach Hamp Pool's biggest problem for the Big Four football season again will be pass defence.

However, this trouble doesn't look as bad as it did before the game. Pool discovered that he may have some fine pass defenders in his crop of rookie imports and Canadians, particularly Bob Gehlinger from Idaho University and boomerwers Ed Simms and Brian Acton.

Another rookie from the University of Chattanooga, stood out for the Knox all-line coach Joe Thoms' Blue team to a 29-15 victory over the White squad, quarterbacked by ex-Argo Green Gerry Doucette and import Hal Patterson.

"I was surprised at the poise shown by Green," said Pool. "He is the best quarterback outside of Knox we've got in the two years I have been here."

A crowd of about 6,000 in the new lakefront stadium saw Green and Knox score two touchdowns for the Blues on passes to Simms and Knox. And Doug Carter and Alan Schlosser count one each. Vic Kristopaitis kicked a 27-yard field goal and converted two of the touchdowns.

The Whites' Jack Cookie Gilchrist scored two touchdowns for the Whites on running plays. Gilchrist converted both and added a single on an unsuccessful field goal attempt.

Kingston Quits Pro League, Lack of Official Interest, Air Rights Said Reasons

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston will not have an entry in the newly - formed Eastern Professional Hockey League this year, President Reg Walton of the Limestone Hockey Club, spokesmen of Kingston Merchants, said he has wired Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, that Kingston has been unable to complete arrangements for entry.

Walton gave two reason's for the inability to make the admission deadline, Wednesday:

1. Only six persons were interested in forming an executive. Fourteen men were considered necessary.

2. Up to the deadline he had no written assurance from the Kingston Community Memorial Centre that the hockey club would be given broadcast rights. It is a rigid professional rule, Walton said, that the home teams have control of radio and television rights.

"Even if we had the necessary number of directors it would still have been impossible to enter without this guarantee," he said.

The new pro league now stands at five teams: Trois - Rivieres Lions, Montreal Royals, Hull Canadiens, Sudbury Wolves and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

Pointer Bludgeons Blast 15 Hits In 7-3 Playoff Win Over Trenton

POINT ANNE — Point Anne Cementmen lashed out fifteen hits last night but Trenton tossed a scare into them before they clinched a 7-3 victory in the seventh innings with a five run five hit outburst.

It was the first of the best-of-seven league semi-finals with the second tilt slated for Trenton tonight.

The Pointers failed to clout in the clutches, bashing out ten hits for only two runs in first six innings. They left eleven runners stranded before that game-winning explosion.

Big Al Carkner went the route and was hit hard and often although Trenton garnered only seven safeties off his delivery. The big righthander was good in the clutches twice re-tiring the side with the bases loaded and only one out. He had good defensive support although the Pointers committed two bobbles. Carkner walked two and struck out but one.

Ron Wannamaker started on the hill for Trenton and was hit aplenty, giving up ten hits in six innings and four in the seventh before he was relieved by Harold Cole. Cole took over with none out and gave up one hit before retiring the side.

The Pointers scored one run in the first off singles by Carr and Kingston. Trenton knotted the count in the fifth when Mills tripled and LeRoy Wannamaker singled. Triples by Claude Carr and Jack Elliott Sr. gave the Pointers a run lead in the sixth.

Then men paraded to the plate in the explosive seventh when the Ox Pointers poured across five runs to put the clincher into the victory.

Charley Kingston lashed out a left field triple to start the ball and a Trenton error, Jack Elliott Sr.'s double and singles by Claude Carr, Gary Goyer and Jack Elliott Jr. were good for the quintet of markers.

A Pointer bobble and Ken Foxe' single gave Trenton their second run in the eighth while another Pointer bobble and two passed balls scored their third in the ninth frame.

Veteran Jack Elliott, senior led his younger mates at the plate smashing out a triple, double and single, with Claude Carr getting a triple and two singles. Charley Kingston came up with a triple and single with Jack Elliott Jr. hitting two singles. John Batchelor, Al Carkner and Doug Soules also hit safely.

Mills' triple and Leroy Wannamaker's two singles powered Trenton with Drake, DeFosse, D. Cole and Stinson contributing single efforts.

TRENTON — Alexander, Drake, Mills, L. Wannamaker, D. Cole, DeFosse, Smith, R. Wannamaker, H. Cole, Stinson.

POINT ANNE — Carr, Jones, Kingston, Batchelor, Elliott, Jr., Goyer, Soules, Elliott, Sr., Carkner.

Davis Cup

Aussies Strong Favorites But Not Selling Cuba Short

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Harry Hopman, never a man to give his things away, today promised to name a strong Australian tennis team to go against weak Cuba this weekend in the American zone Davis Cup finals.

Hopman, whose teams have won seven Davis Cups in nine years, wouldn't commit himself about who he will name as his singles players for the two opening matches tomorrow against Cuba's two-man team of Reynaldo Garrido, 24, and Orlando Sarrido, 28.

"But we aren't under - estimating them or anybody else," Hopman said. "We had some tough matches in Mexico and some tough play against Canada's Bob Bedard. We are not taking the Cubans lightly."

STICK WITH STARS

It is expected Hopman will stick with the four-man team he used against Mexico and Canada —Neale Fraser, 25; Roy Emerson, 22; Rod Laver, 20 and Bob Mark, 21.

Mark has not seen action. Neither have Hopman's junior reserves, Alan Fletcher, 19, and Marty Mulligan, 18.

Laver and Emerson are expected to get the singles assignments.

Hopman ran his squad through a hard, thorough workout Wednesday after resting his three stars two days.

Fraser, Laver and Emerson were sent out to relax in the sunshine and to play golf after their big victory over Canada last weekend.

WEEKEND BREAK

"They needed the break and they deserved it," Hopman said. "The others have been practising pretty hard every day."

Hopman said practice didn't reveal anything sensational.

"They are fresher," he said. "When they first came here they had just had a tough series in Mexico and some long travel.

"As for their form, well, there is some improvement. Their strokes are somewhat polished up."

May Ask Vote To Build Ball Stadium

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto alderman said Wednesday he may ask for a vote on whether to spend the several million dollars necessary to build a stadium for major league baseball here.

Ald. Philip Givens said he would ask for a sub-committee to investigate the prospects of success for the Toronto entry in the newly - formed Continental League. Toronto Maple Leafs have been named a member of the league.

He said if the committee's report indicated the Canadian National Exhibition football stadium could not be easily converted, then we will have to ask for a vote of the people."

Althea Gibson May Turn Pro

NEW YORK (AP) — Althea Gibson may turn professional in the fall to head an all-women' tennis tour operating in competition with Jack Kramer's famous cast.

"Everything is in an 'ifty' stage at the moment but the tennis tour idea still is very much in the picture," the two - time Wimbledon champion said Wednesday after being honored as the 1958 woman athlete of the year.

"The present thinking is for a lineup of four women players. They would not be established professionals but would be girls picked from the present amateur ranks."

Althea declined to identify the possibilities but her longtime adviser, Sydney Llewellyn, said Britain's towering Christine Truman was a candidate as well as American stars Beverly Fleitz and Darlene Hard.

Harness Racing

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Blaze Hanover, a likely candidate for the 1960 Hambletonian, showed Yonkers raceway fans his big kick Wednesday night in the $113,812 Hilltop Trot.

Tonight the two-year-old pacers will take a crack at the $125,712 Empire Pace. The triple entry of Jan Hanover, Swain and Washburn Worthy from Billy Haughton's stable is the 8-to-5 choice.

The Hilltop Trot was the richest race ever staged for the juveniles, but tonight's Empire Pace offers more greenbacks than the standardbreds, regardless of age, ever have chased.

Eight young trotters started in the Hilltop and Blaze Hanover pulled away at the finish to beat Willowood by 1¼ lengths.

Blaze Hanover, driven by Joe O'Brien of Alberton, P.E.I., earned $62,506.

TORONTO (CP)— Rocky Hal Can, owned by H. C. Pappin of Pembroke, turned in a 2:02.1 mark Wednesday night, the year's fastest at Old Woodbine Park.

The pacer turned in the time in the first half of the divided $3,045 Gratrian Royal Stakes. Paul Hibert took the six-year-old to a whirlwind start from well outside in the five-horse field.

The second half of the stakes was won by Hi Acres Rudy, owned by Dr. R. J. Walker of Smiths Falls.

Boysaw Beats Flash Elorde

CLEVELAND (AP) — Solomon Boysaw, unbeaten Cleveland lightweight, won a unanimous decision over Gabriel (Flash) Elorde of The Philippines Wednesday night in a 10 - round boxing event.

Elorde, third - ranking among the contenders for the world featherweight title, held a one-pound advantage over Boysaw, who weighed 133.

Muskie Can't Stand Rats; It Eats 'Em!

CORDOVA MINES, Ont. (CP)— An avid ardent muskie fisherman will tell you, the muskie can eat almost anything that moves.

Jim Beckford, a Toronto traffic policeman, caught a 27½ muskie recently and saw the tail and paw of a muskrat in its gullet.

He cleaned the fish and discovered it had swallowed a full-grown muskrat head first.

The fish, 47 inches long, came from Dear Lake near this small community 40 miles northeast of Peterborough.

Pitching—Roger Craig, Dodgers, put Los Angeles back in the National League lead by shutting out the Pirates 2-0 on six hits.

Hitting—Dick Williams, Kansas City, drove in three runs, two with a homer and the other with a single for a 5-4 victory over Washington that gave Kansas City 10 straight wins.

DALEY INJURED

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Rod Daley, ace of the Kansas City mound staff with an 11-6 record, was sidelined Wednesday by an infected knee. Coach Bob Swift said he hopes Daley, who hurt his knee sliding, will see action later this week.

about her family, ranging in age from seven months to 12 years.

Bernard Jenkins, who saved three fishermen by taking them aboard his boat, was questioned by Prince Philip, who asked about the size of the fishing boats, thinking they were like riverboats. He was told they are usually about 40 feet long.

Several women expressed their gratitude to the royal couple for seeing and talking to them and for their contribution announced several weeks ago, to the Ecumenical Shantar fund which now has passed the $275,000 mark.

The episode was the final one in a day that began with a 76-mile motor trip from Fredericton to Lancaster and Saint John and carried on with an afternoon flight to Moncton and a drive to Shediac, the last stop on the royal couple's two-day visit to New Brunswick.

During the ride from Fredericton the motorcade passed between the ranks of several thousand men and officers from Camp Gagetown drawn up for more than a mile along the sides of the highway.

The weather in Saint John was cold and comfortable a welcome relief from the extreme heat in Fredericton the previous day. The Queen's luck with the weather held good later at Moncton when a heavy downpour stopped shortly before her plane landed and the rain held off until a few minutes after the last.

"great leap forward."
A few of the communes in the Swatow area of south China already have been dissolved, according to reports reaching Hong Kong.
Several others in Kwangtung province are reported being refashioned in name only—their communal mess halls, nurseries and "all folks' homes, have been closed down.
Independent but anti - Communist newspapers in Hong Kong have reported food riots in communes in Kwangtung, Hunan, Honan, Kiangsi and Kiangsu provinces.

Peiping has taken drastic measures.
It has ordered 37 of China's biggest cities to start growing their own food, an admission the communes are not producing enough.
The communists have also admitted millions of farmers have fled from communes to cities.
The government has indicated it probably will not meet its 1959 production 525,000,000 - ton grain target for 1959.

POLICY ABANDONED

It has abandoned last year's basic farm policy of intensive cultivation and stressing for expansion of China's cultivated area to include every available crop of land.
The intensive system has been pro-claimed. The government now promises that peasants who sow in their own backyards will

Communist Army From Viet Nam Attacking Laos

Home-Brew Red Forces Said Not Responsible

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Laotian government troops moved toward the mountainous northern sector of Xieng Khouang today to meet a Communist force reported to have launched a major offensive in the area.

The force, reported armed with modern machine-guns and other light weapons, appeared to be using a big drive southward from the borders of Communist North Viet Nam and China.

In Vientiane, the capital of Laos, the government announced that a number of emergency measures have been put in force. Several politicians belonging to the political wing of the Communist Pathet Lao movement were reported under arrest for "acting against the security of the state."

NEW GROUP INVOLVED

But the official Laotian news agency said the new offensive appeared to have been launched by new elements—"entirely armed, equipped and stiffened by the Communist troops of North Viet Nam" — and not by the Pathet Lao forces that led the revolt against the pro - Western government of Laos for several months.

The agency said the government's premier, Phoui Sanasenya, near the Sam Neua area, near the North Viet Nam border, had been attacked. Two members of the government troops have been sent to the area.

Under the agreement ending the Indo-Chinese war in 1954, the Pathet Lao forces, led by Prince Souphanouvong, retired to the mountainous provinces of Sam Neua and Phong Saly, which borders on Communist China.

ATTACK REPORTED

Negotiations were begun to try to integrate the Pathet Lao army into the regular government army but these broke down last year when a new government took over in Laos and placed several Pathet Lao leaders under house arrest.

Meanwhile, Communist China has intensified propaganda for a revival of the three power truce supervisory commission set up under the 1954 armistice.

The commission — made up of Canada, India and Poland — has spended its work indefinitely last year. The Western powers oppose its reactivation on the grounds that it would infringe Laotian sovereignty.

Officials of Russia and Britain, co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference which brought about the end of the Indochinese war, have been asked to seek over a possible revival of the commission but no decision was reached.

PILLS STOLEN

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Wednesday 250 barbiturate pills — enough to kill 25 persons—were stolen from a dentist's office Tuesday night. The thieves probably thought the pills were narcotics, police said. They asked parents to caution their children against eating anything they find that may look like candy.

Queen, Prince Arrive in Nova Scotia

TRENTON, N.S. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth charmed the uncertain Maritime weather again today and arrived here from Prince Edward Island only 10 minutes behind schedule.

A transport department Heron aircraft put down at this northern Nova Scotia industrial town at 11:20 a.m. ADT (10:20 a.m. EDT) after a 20-minute flight from the Prince Edward Island capital, where she and Prince Philip spent the night.

She let the plane leave the blue checked coat over a blue dress with white accessories.

PRINCE STOPS TO CHAT

The royal couple was met by Revenue Minister George Nowlan and local officials. Prince Philip stopped to chat with the commander of the Canadian Legion branch at Debert, Tom Mason, Smiths.

"I wished him a good trip home", Mr. Mason said. "He replied "Fine, thank you very much."

About 500 were at the airport to greet the Queen. It wasn't certain until 11 a.m. that the Queen's plane would arrive here as scheduled in a use of fog plaguing Nova Scotia.

Royal tour officials first delayed the trip an hour and set the take-off time from Charlottetown at 11:30 a.m. But the Queen arrived at Charlottetown airport before 11 and the plane took off almost immediately.

From here, the Queen's car proceeded to New Glasgow, 45½ miles away. On her return the royal plane left at 12:41 p.m. for Sydney and a three-hour stopover before heading for Halifax, the jumpoff point for home.

The Queen and Philip had a day of activities in Prince Edward Island Thursday. It was highlighted by a harness racing program in Charlottetown.

VISIT TO FARM

The Queen and prince spent half an hour at the 100-acre showplace farm of Mr. and Mrs. William Prowse at Hackney, P.E.I., where the prince and 13-year-old Ernest Prowse got together for a chat on a mutual hobby — coin collecting.

When Ernest told Philip he collected coins, the prince replied: "So do I. Let's go look at your collection."

During the harness racing, the Queen tried twice to peek over six-foot-seven Premier Alex Matheson, seated to her right. The premier suddenly noticed and slouched down in his chair.

Couple Want To Be Alone

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) — Nelson Rockefeller, Governor of New York, and his Norwegian girl friend took refuge at a hill lodge today from reporters trying to find out whether they intend to marry.

"We want to be alone with my parents," said blonde Anne Marie Rasmussen, who first met Steven while working as a maid for his family in New York.

The 29-year-old girl and 23-year-old son of New York's multi-millionaire Republican governor, mounted a motorcycle Thursday night and roared off to Lindstad Lodge, eight miles up in the hills from Kristiansand. Her father, a local grocer, and mother followed by car.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis —
The very warm and humid weather that prevailed in Ontario has been replaced by cooler, much drier air. Today's weather charts indicate ideal holiday weather for the entire weekend. Nights will be cool, particularly in the resort areas, but sunny skies will result in daytime temperatures ranging in the middle or low 80s.

CRACK CN TRAINS CRASH HEAD-ON AT LOW SPEED

Fifteen Injured In Alberta Collision

GAINFORD, Alta. (CP) — To some passengers it was a quiet "oomph!" to others it was a crashing explosion."

It was the head-on crash—at low speed — Thursday of the Canadian National Railways' two top passenger trains, the Super Continentals.

Fifteen passengers were injured in the crash in this community 58 miles west of Edmonton. At least 10 were detained in hospital for observation. One man, CNR employee, was classed by Edmonton hospital officials as "not serious—but not well."

Train No. 2, eastbound, was standing on the main line here, waiting for westbound No. 1 to take a siding and permit No. 2 to pass.

MISSED SIDING

No. 1 coasted in at about four miles an hour. It didn't go into the siding. It hit No. 2.

CNR officials gave no official reason for the crash, but said it was "a case of human failure."

It was indicated the train which would have pilt No. 1 on the siding had not been thrown.

Dug up Meals Thrown Away --On Stolen Bike

ZWOLLE, The Netherlands (Reuters)—A new way to live off the land without working was discovered by a 45 year-old Dutch carpenter.

For four months, he just peddled around central Holland on a bike he dug up one wanted canned meals Dutch soldiers had buried while on manoeuvres.

Thursday he was in court, charged with stealing the bicycle.

Skeleton of Unhappy Orphan Boy Causes Outcry 3 Years After Death

LONDON (AP) — A national outcry broke out Thursday over the skeleton of an orphan boy.

The skeleton lies in a packing case in a storage warehouse here. It was pieced together there by two professors from the skeleton found in a shallow grave beside in 1956.

The bones are the remains of Dugie Johnstone, who died aged 13.

Tragedy first struck young Dugie when he was six. His mother and father died within a few weeks of each other.

Dugie and his elder brother Donald were taken by the unemployment officialdom stepped in and ruled that Macphersons — Donald in his 40s and Catherine in the mid-50s—were too old to have charge of young children.

Besides, they spoke only Gaelic and the children would need to speak English in adult life.

Dugie was moved to a succession of homes. He was bitterly unhappy.

Twice he tried to run off to the Macphersons' farm. Once he was away two days, once three days. But each time they found him and brought him back.

In April, 1955, he set off again. On the hills above Dunoon he was found and broke a leg. Eleven months later a woman came across his bones.

That might have been the end of it but for Jess Mann, a Scottish grandmother who sits in the House of Commons.

Mrs. Mann demanded in the House Wednesday, should county officials have been the unquestioned right to move a happy child from its foster home?

Why should the foster parents have no right of appeal?

And why was Dugie not given a Christian burial, but left to lie in a laboratory packing case?

The Scottish office defended officials who took the boy from his foster parents, saying it was in his best interests. And it disclosed that the Glasgow laboratory asked permission to keep Dugie's skeleton because it raised a unique medico-legal issue".

There was no explanation of what this meant.

4 of Mom Whyte's Children Are Admitted to Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — Four children from Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte's mission at Riverdale, Toronto, were admitted to hospital Thursday night and were believed suffering from hepatitis — inflammation of the liver.

Two doctors from the Ontario health department visited Whyte's mission, 10 miles east of Oshawa, and recommended that six children be taken to hospital.

Mrs. Whyte said "there is nothing bad enough wrong with them to be hospitalized" and explained that's why two of the six were taken to their parents' homes.

Officials at the Hospital for Sick Children declined to comment on the condition of the children who were placed in an isolation ward. The children are under two years of age.

There have been recent outbreaks at the mission of infectious hepatitis, influenza and impetigo which spurred the welfare department to ask Mrs. Whyte to reduce the number of children in the home to 40 from about 115. She has refused.

Interviewed here after she had driven the children to the hospital, Mrs. Whyte said she was so weary from all the tension that she could not say exactly how many of the children have been in the sick wards.

"It's difficult to keep track of it all but we know all things work for good," she said. "Hepatitis and all — it's all working for good."

A Toronto supply firm has offered to paint the home with clean linen until the outbreak has cleared up.

Earlier Thursday Mrs. Whyte said the welfare department had agreed to pay the cost of the mission laundry. A department spokesman said this would be done until "things get back to normal."

Mrs. Whyte reversed her stand on letting welfare department officials see her records. She said earlier that she would allow only Welfare Minister Cecile to see them but relented and said she would turn them over to his representatives.

Rising Wind Revives Flames In Vicinity of Gaspe Villages

ST. BERNARD des LACS, Que. (CP)—A rising wind Thursday night fanned new strength into six abated - forest fire which for the last week has scorched large segments of the rich northeastern Gaspe Peninsula timberland and forced people to flee their homes.

Only one family returned to this evacuated hamlet community 350 miles northeast of Quebec City during a Tuesday respite in the wind. About 30 other families stayed away fearing exactly what happened.

A southwest breeze, gentle as a baby, caressed the forest for three days then increased to 20 miles an hour with gusts to 40. It is this constant shifting of the wind that keeps firefighters bopping and dampers their defence.

Two other villages were also threatened. The fire lay in wait only a mile away from nearby Sacre Coeur des Landes and St. Octave de l'Avenir, a village southwest of here. St. Octave was evacuated and some 20 farms near Sacre Coeur des Landes were razed.

No injuries have been reported.

Mature spruces, cedar and pine stands have been ravaged by the flames.

Indian Govt. Strips Reds Of Power in Kerala State

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian President Rajendra Prasad today took all power away from the Communist government of Kerala and placed the state under direct presidential rule.

Prasad's proclamation came after six weeks of violence in the state. Dr. B. Ramakrishan Rao, the governor of Kerala, acted on the decision to Communist officials in the state.

Prime Minister Nehru Thursday advised the president to take this action following a cabinet decision Wednesday to institute presidential rule in Kerala.

At least 15 persons have died in violence in the state during the last six weeks as opposition parties campaigned to oust the Communists for alleged corruption, inefficiency and disregard of the people's interests.

Rao has sent the central government's decision to the chief ministers of Kerala, E. M. S. Namboodripad.

BARRIE POISONED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Fans of four premature babies mistakenly given sodium nitrate in their formulas instead of vitamin C last Friday at hospital here were reported in good condition Thursday. Hospital officials said the other infant was in fair condition. Two infants died as a result of the same medication error.

DRAUGHT BEER PRICE BOOSTED NICKEL A GLASS

Up 2 Cents a Bottle Or Nickel for Dozen

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government, taking note of increased costs to breweries and pub operators, Thursday jacked up the cost of living for fun-blowers.

It announced price increases of five cents a dozen for beer bought by the case in retail stores and two cents a bottle in beverage rooms. Those who prefer the draught in beverage rooms will pay 15 cents instead of 10, getting a somewhat bigger glass.

Clubs and military messes will pay more for their licences in order to reduce their competitive advantage over beer parlors and cocktail lounges.

All changes are effective Saturday except for the draught increase, which will be applied when the new glasses are distributed some time in September.

DEPOSIT CUT

The retail increase is worked out by decreasing the deposit on bottles, repayable when the empties are returned, to 25 cents a dozen from 30 cents.

Before the increase, a customer in southern Ontario (prices are somewhat higher in the north) paid $2.25 for a one-dozen case and got 30 cents when he returned the empties, making net beer price $1.95. For a two-dozen case, the price was $4.25 net.

Mrs. Maria Miguel Arvizu, who had worked for years in the marine ministry — and was captain of the ministry men's basketball team.

She refused to name the father of the child. She said she was a divorcee and resumed work in her present job and probably would return to her family.

Germans Fear May Yield Under Pressure

Against Modification Of Stand on Berlin

GENEVA (AP) — West Germany sought today to stiffen opposition to any major western concession to Russia in the closing days of the Big Four conference.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano made a date with U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter this morning to present arguments against any modification of the allied stand that the allies must remain in Berlin until Germany is reunified.

With the conference scheduled to end next Wednesday, the West Germans, and some other Western diplomats, were said to foresee this possibility:

CUT THE PRICE

Next Monday or Tuesday, perhaps even earlier, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko might offer a major concession to the West by suddenly cutting the price for an agreement to lift the Soviet threat to West Berlin.

The West Germans suspect he might declare a willingness to drop for the present his demand for direct negotiations between the West and East Germans.

This Soviet action would put pressure on the West to make a corresponding concession. It might insist on acceptance of his proposal for an agreement on Berlin guaranteeing the East German occupation for 18 months plus a period of negotiation for withdrawal from the Soviet foreign minister has suggested would be the minimum concession but the tactic is one used often by the Soviet Union.

Von Brentano and his advisers worked late Thursday night preparing a memorandum on West German views.

Mayor Willy Brandt also was brought here in the hope that the West Berlin leader could exert his strong influence to block any Western concession.

West Germany has advocated a tough policy from the start. A top official in Britain on the other hand has sought a compromise that, while preserving allied rights in West Berlin, would ensure the holding of a summit conference.

The official attitude of all west German politicians is that the end of the conference bears the end is that there is virtually no prospect of agreement.

Many Injured When Train Is Derailed

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP)—Forty-seven persons were injured Thursday when a freight train jumped the tracks and plunged into the Red Cedar River here.

The last seven cars of the 111-car train left the tracks when a 20 feet down a steep bluff overlooking U.S. Highway 12. Chunks of trees popped from the plunge of some of the cars.

The train, headed for Chicago from Minneapolis and St. Paul and carrying 208 passengers, was derailed at 2:30 p.m. It was estimated 30 miles an hour when the cars left the rails about 30 miles east of St. Paul.

Eight-Year-Old Blames Second Self For Thefts, Fires and Burglaries

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Who broke into 54 business houses here?

"Johnny did it", eight-year-old Richard assured police.

Who threw a lighted book of matches into a fireworks display, setting off a $500,000 supermarket fire?

"Johnny did it", said Richard.

And who broke that cute window?

Well, Richard got excited but — "Johnny did it!"

Johnny is Richard's best friend. Richard has a speech impediment but Johnny never laughs when Richard stutters.

The loot from the 54 burglaries totalled only $200. One job netted only three cents.

"He doesn't steal for value", said problem officer Jim Armstrong. "He passes up valuable things for something pretty".

"He apparently does these things in an attempt to get attention", Armstrong said at headquarters. Police Lieut. Phillip Brinkerhoff said.

The boy's father is unemployed. The family, which includes three younger children, is on relief.

Which boy? Johnny? No, they are known as Richard and Richard.

"Johnny is a figment of the boy's" imagination", Armstrong said. "He's Richard's other self".

Richard is being held at the county juvenile home. He will get a psychiatric examination and medical treatment.

Armantrout wouldn't reveal Richard's full name.

"He's not a criminal", said the lieutenant. "He's a disturbed youngster."

Cool Dry Air Moves in, Relieves Heat

By The Canadian Press

Residents of Southern Ontario and Quebec today were given relief from a week-long hot spell that has pushed temperatures into the high 90's—but the relief will be slight.

A mass of cool, dry air from the north has moved in to break up the heat wave. Temperatures are expected to drop to the high 80s, with less humidity.

Wednesday Ottawa baked under 95-degree heat while in Windsor it was 91. Killaloe, in the Ottawa Valley, also had a high of 93.

The hottest spot in Canada—for the second day in a row—was Quebec City. It was 94 there Thursday. Thursday, Bagotville, Que., was also a steady 96.

The 91-in Montreal Thursday, the third straight day of over 90 temperatures there.

Blistering humid weather will continue in the Maritimes provinces. But relief has been brought a cool 65 to Halifax Thursday. It was 61 in Debert, just inland. Moncntonians sweltered beneath 86 degrees.

Cooler, drier weather prevailed over Western Canada from Vancouver to the Lakehead.

Says Canadian Defence Outlay Is Worthless

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian economist said Thursday Canada's defence spending is "worthless" from a defence standpoint and serves only to show the United States that we're on defence.

Scott Gordon, professor of economics at Carleton University, Ottawa, told a seminar on Canada-U.S. relations at the University of British Columbia that Canada's fiscal policy is determined by U.S. foreign policy.

"Our defence establishment in Canada is like putting fillers on the shelves of stores," Dr. Gordon said. "We think we are doing something about the problem, but the analysis we are doing nothing. But we feel safer and maybe that is what we are paying for."

Dr. Gordon suggested Canada spend her defence dollars on aid to middle powers who are "western oriented." Huge defence expenditures left Canada with little room to maneuver in the field of economic development.

Defence spending in this country was only a token of Canada's determination to be a good ally in the West.

Dr. Gordon said "no other country in the world is so able to reduce its defence spending to zero without damage to itself. The only reason we don't do it is restrained, but we should be prepared to meet it."

FIREMEN CALLED TO DUMP FIRE

Yesterday afternoon the Belleville Fire Department was called over to the city dump to extinguish some burning rubbish. Other than for this call all was quiet yesterday as far as alarms were concerned.

Early this morning, at 4.05 o'clock, the local firefighters received a call to Lemoine Street where a resident's furnace motor had overheated. No serious damage was sustained fortunately.

Council Votes No Action On Denyes Request

City Council last night at a special meeting took no action on a request from suspended city engineer Drury S. Denyes to appear at a special meeting to answer any questions relating to the operation of the Belleville McFarland's Hockey Team.

The letter to council also requested a copy of the special auditor's report which shows a city deficit of $255,000, of which $11,000 was incurred by the Mac's hockey team.

Consensus of council was that Denyes be given the right to appear before council.

Although admitting that Mr. Denyes had the right to attend council at any time, Mayor Gerald Hyde suggested that it would not be in his best interest to go on the floor of the judicial enquiry to be held. Mayor Hyde noted that Mr. Denyes already had a copy of the auditor's report.

Order 4-Way Red Flashers On Bleecker Intersections In Try to Reduce Accidents

Four-way red flasher lights will be installed at the three sections of Victoria Ave. and Bleecker and at Bridge Street and Bleecker Ave. in a measure to reduce the possibility of accidents, it has been decided by city council.

Two serious accidents, one of them fatal, have occurred at the Victoria Ave. and Bleecker intersection in the past few weeks and the new measure will be tried in an attempt to reduce the hazard.

Flasher lights are already installed at both intersections but have red facing in only two directions with amber warning lights for cross traffic.

Mayor Gerald Hyde noted that at a cost of $41 each such traffic lights were out for the time being. "The city just does not have the money," he said.

He went on to remark that traffic lights would never prevent stupidity of drivers at intersections and declared that both accidents at the Victoria Ave. and Bleecker Ave. corner had been the result of stupidity. In addition to the red flasher lights a stop sign is also planned at the corner.

The question of the legality of a four-way stop was raised by Alderman Les Digby, but an amendment to have the matter referred to the city solicitor for legal opinion was turned down and the motion to install the 4-way flasher was approved.

SECOND AT SIDNEY

Last night's conclave of city fathers was the second special council meeting which council was called to deal with city administration matters which had piled up at the regular session late in June.

It was the first session of council for the newly appointed deputy city clerk Allen Stalker, and the official drew commendation for the clear and concise manner of his meeting agenda.

Council received a communication from the Express Traffic Association of Canada, noting that the Belleville express delivery in the city had been reinstated with the use of the built-up sections of the newly annexed area.

Council took no action of a resolution from the city of Barrie requesting provincial ruling for trucks and buses of over four tons to have two separate means of the brakes, with automatic application of brakes in case of mechanical failure.

ASK EARLIER NOTIFICATION

Council concurred in a Galt resolution asking for earlier notification of future winter works program. This earlier notice would allow more preparation on the part of municipalities prior to the stage of the grants available.

Correspondence was received from the Belleville Public Utilities, indicating that a petition for a water main along Sidney Street was not sufficiently signed, and also indicating that no request for a water main along an unopened section of Bridge Street East to Haig Street, should not be considered at this time.

A report from City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull indicated that temporary work regarding the drainage problem in the Goldcale-Southview Ave. district was being completed.

Due to the lack of adequate drainage a serious flooding condition exists in this area following heavy rainstorms, with several residences being troubled with basement flooding as result.

Mayor Hyde noted that the only permanent solution to the problem would be an expensive system of storm sewers to be provided.

Student Gives Impressions of Stratford Visit

Caroline Daugherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Daugherty, R.R. 2, Belleville, a grade 13 student of Quinte Secondary School last year, was the recipient of a scholarship to make a trip to the Stratford Festival under the sponsorship of the Canada Council. She left last Wednesday, returning Friday.

When I boarded the Atlantic Limited at Belleville last Wednesday afternoon, I knew Canada Council coaches were already crowded with students from the Maritimes, Ontario, and Quebec. Some of these had been on the train since the previous Sunday and didn't expect to be home until the following Tuesday. The number of French-speaking students was rather surprising, and when the western group joined the train at Toronto, the Irish, Japanese, Italian and even Eskimo were added to the rather heterogeneous group. The position was left vacant by the appointment of Adam Stalker to the role of deputy clerk.

The Hastings county clerk treasurer will be advised that the city wishes the entire financing of the Bleecker Ave. subdivision to be undertaken by the county with the city to enter a three year agreement over the share of the financing charges.

TO SET RETAIL PRICE

In the future when doing private work the city public works department will establish a retail selling price for all materials and labor at a maximum retail price of 10 per cent over cost.

In the past the practice has been to bill for materials and labor at cost and then add a figure for the overhead and supervision. It is felt the new method would be more satisfactory.

City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull told council that not over 10 industrial private lots have been done by his department since he became engineer and that he would be happy not to do any private work. "We are not out to get business," he said.

It was noted by one councilor, however, that the works department in some instances can do a quicker and cheaper job than could a private contractor and it was felt that in the interest of quest came in the works department should co-operate.

Mayor Hyde agreed with the engineer that the city should not sell city services.

A special committee of Aldermen Jack Ellis and City Engineer Turnbull will meet with Sidney township officials in an effort to come to some suitable agreement regarding payment for road construction work on Bleecker Ave. and Bridge Street to new township area. Engineer Turnbull said he had been informed that the sub-division had already paid the township for the work.

Indecent Assault Charge Is Laid

BANCROFT — Walter Russell Dwyer, (Jeff), a resident of this town from Cornwall, was arrested by Provincial Police Thursday afternoon and charged with indecent assault involving a five-year-old girl. Big Ben Called Booming Bother

LONDON (CP) — Big Ben, the London landmark that occupies a prominent place in nearly everyone's private view of Britain, has come under criticism for a change.

The great parliamentary timepiece, whose 100th anniversary is being celebrated this year, was described in the Commons by Frank Ilaun, a Labor member, as "this boomerang bother."

He said its chimes, sounding across central London at intervals through the night, disturb patients in St. Thomas's Hospital. "They are driven to silenced at night, as are those of Westminster and Lincoln Cathedral."

Harmar Nicholls, parliamentary secretary to the Home Ministry, gave a crushing answer based on personal experience.

"I myself slept for two years in St. Stephen's Club, the nearest point to the clock, and I can assure you I slept very well," said Nicholls.

St. Stephen's Club is just across the street from the Parliament buildings.

Rev. Spearman Conference Head At Silver Lake

The sixty-second annual session of the Canada Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church of North America had just convened at Silver Lake, Prince Edward County.

The conference was held on the tree conference camp ground, on the north shore of Silver Lake.

Due to the sudden passing of Dr. O. G. Wilson, editor of the "Wesleyan Methodist," who was to have presided, Dr. David Rees, of Zimira, New York, occupied the chair. "The age of preaching is returning," declared Dr. Rees. "The pulpit is used to get people to church and passing Ministers are again saying, 'We will go ourselves to pray' and to the ministry of the word."

Rev. J. S. A Spearman of Belleville was re-elected president of the conference. Visiting speakers were Dr. Stephen Paine of Houghton College, New York, and Mrs. Glen Pelfry of Jamaica. A fraternal delegate was present from the Free Methodist Church.

At the Women's Missionary business sessions, delegates who had just returned from the general conference brought back stimulating reports. "One hundred new readers per minute" due to the literary campaigns in various mission fields awakened one to the need for more Christian literature in the race for men's minds.

Rev. Carrol Brentinger, of Ottawa, president of the Wesleyan Youth, conducted the Saturday sessions of the Youth Conference, during the re-elected to serve this coming year.

The annual junior and adult camp is being held this week and the Bible Crusader camp 9-13 years, next week.

with a 40-cent refund, or a set of 12 for $3.60. Future net prices will be $2 and $3.75 respectively.

The announcement was made by the Ontario liquor licence control board which the government controls the brewing and distribution, also. Members of the board were Provincial Treasurer Allan Reid, Provincial Secretary Dana Porter and Attorney-General Kelso Roberts.

The draught price increase is accompanied by the introduction of 10.3-ounce glasses instead of the present eight ounces. A line will be engraved on the new glasses to permit half an inch of froth.

The price changes will cost Ontario drinkers an estimated $14,000,000 a year, of which $4,200,000 will go to the breweries, $6,000,000 to licensed premises and $4,000,000 into the provincial treasury. But they will still leave Ontario beer the cheapest in the country.

Among the licence boosts is one in the present $2 flat rate for banquet permits. It will go to $3 for wedding receptions. $10 for banquet permits. It will go to $15 for those with 201 and 215 where it is sold.

Breweries were granted their last increase of 10 cents a dozen in 1957. Draught beer prices have been unchanged since 1948 and the price of bottled beer in licensed premises reached its present level in 1950.

Kingston Man Arrested for Theft of Car

TRENTON — Ivan R. Belcher, 22, of Kingston, was arrested in Trenton early Thursday morning on charges of car theft and two charges of breaking, enter and theft. None of the charges concerned Trenton offences.

It was alleged that Belcher had stolen the car last Saturday and since that time had been "touring the province."

The car, not known to be stolen at the time, was seen in Trenton Thursday morning passing circumstances following a safe robbery there and the licence number was sent out to all stations of the Ontario Provincial Police to make a check on it and the driver.

Cpl. L. C. Lyle, of Brighton detachment of the OPP was giving the car licence number to Staff Sergeant Walter Youmans at 4.15 a.m. at the corner of Dundas Street West and Dufferin Ave. when he noticed that licence number on it drove past. They immediately followed it and it continued on to Bay Street, where the driver stopped to allow a couple of passengers to get out. (They turned out to be hitch-hikers and had nothing to do with the driver.)

The driver of the car was unable to produce a driver's licence or ownership papers.

He was arrested and it was found that he was wanted on charges of breaking into a home in Kingston where a wallet containing $30 was stolen and in Foxboro where cigarets had been stolen from a service station.

Name Seven Men To Make Plans For Hockey Team

TRENTON — A committee of seven was named last night to look into the possibilities of hockey in Trenton for the coming winter and to study what kind of a league should be played in.

The committee, named at the first meeting of hockey this season, consisted of "Mac" McGaughey, John Nokes, A. Burleigh, Paul Tripp, Ft. Lieut. Lynch, Al Sisenburg and Harry Lafferty. They will report their findings at another meeting to be held in two weeks' time.

The meeting last night unrolled chiefly in names as executive but it was of the opinion that many players could be returned out to do this and it was hoped there would be more at the next meeting.

A report on the financial situation was given by the former treasurer of the junior hockey team. This revealed that the club was $924 in the red last year. However, this was compensated by the fact that a considerable sum of valuable equipment was owned by the club and this would bring the liabilities down.

Following the regular meeting, the new executive held a brief session and it is understood the morning they have decided to get the opinion of the people of Trenton as to whether a junior or an intermediate league should be formed.

Aug. 1—8:00 to 10.00 p.m.— The final personal contact Her Majesty will have on this tour with the people of Canada will be as she waves goodbye from the balcony of the Nova Scotian Hotel in Halifax following the state dinner. Commentators W. B. Bridges, Doug Brophy, John Rae and Warren Davis will describe the departure as actual departure minutes later through the bright-lit Halifax harbor. Thirty naval vessels will be deployed in two rows of 15 ships each to bid Her Majesty from a harbor craft as the Britannia passes down the line between the ships. A poem of farewell commissioned by CBC) by Dr. Edwin John Pratt will be heard on the final broadcast. Production will be by Dick Halbed.

LABOR STARTS SOUTH AFRICAN BOYCOTT

A week or so ago, commenting on a denunciation of South African apartheid policies by an official of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, we remarked that no organization was in a better position than the Federation to do something about these policies, rather than merely adding another verbal protest to the long-running flood of such expressions of disapproval.

We now learn, somewhat to our surprise, that the Federation has started to take precisely the type of action which we had in mind. Mr. Tom Mboya, African representative of the Federation, has called for an East African boycott of South African goods. Any such boycott could easily be extended to other lands, should labor leaders in various countries so decide. Such a labor-imposed boycott would carry far more as an addition to government-ordered boycotts already started, with Jamaica leading the way and with trade union leaders in Ghana pressing for similar action.

That this threat of economic pressure is worrying South Africans seems apparent from the fact that on the same day papers like the Toronto Globe and Mail and The Windsor Star should carry special despatches on the problem, the Globe and Mail's story being by George Clay of the London Observer Service and the Star's by Edwin Lloyd. Both Mr. Clay and Mr. Lloyd agree that no serious threat is provided by present boycotts, but both foresee the possibility of future developments which would prove extremely troublesome for Dr. Verwoerd and his Nationalists.

Of all the dangers, that of concerted labor action would appear the most serious. It is extremely unlikely that either British or the United States would order sanctions against South Africa, and between them they take a major share of the Union's exports (total, $380,000,000, U.S.). Concerted labor action, though might have an effect, although 45 per cent of South African exports consist of two commodities which are likely to find a ready sale, gold and uranium. Marketing the latter, however, might be a big problem if the South Africans were barred from the British and U.S. markets and did not want to outrage their own principles by selling to the Communists.

Aside altogether from boycotts by governments and labor organizations, there is the pressure which can be applied by boycotts by consumers. Such actions, though, are rarely very effective and in South Africa's case would be made even less than usually so by the aforementioned heavy proportion of Union exports which consist of gold and uranium. Off-hand, we can think of only one South African product on the market here, Pearl wines, and there is really no need for any Canadian to buy these when our own Canadian wines are steadily improving in quality and when a bottle of the best Madeira can be acquired for much less than the price of a bottle of raw rye whisky.

HERE COME THE INDIANS!

Did you know that there were 571 bands of Indians in Canada, holding a total 5,897,177 acres in 2,226 reserves?

This information is gleaned from a booklet, "Review of Activities Canada Indian Affairs Branch Department of Citizenship and Immigration."

From the same source we learn that there were 174,242 Indians in Canada in 1958, compared with only 136,407 in 1949, a healthy increase of almost 28 per cent, surely a remarkable achievement.

Returning to the number of reserves, though, we are intrigued to learn that Ontario's 41,803 Indians hold 184 reserves, while in British Columbia the Indian population is fewer than Ontario's, 35,289, but holds ten times the number of reserves, no fewer than 1,629, or over two-thirds of the total number of reserves in all of Canada. This doesn't mean that B.C. Indians have much more living space - - for the total acreage of their 1,629 reserves is little more than half that of Ontario's 184 reserves.

Could it be that every woodworking shop capable of turning out totem poles is termed a reserve in B.C., while Alberta, with 1,543,867 acres in a mere 90 reserves, gives the Indians a home with land enough for the buffalo to roam?

Strictly Personal
Why Actors Prefer The Stage

By STONEY J. HARRN

"We murdered them in Cleveland," I overheard an actor say to a waiter at the restaurant table next to mine. "We knocked them dead for two weeks."

Phrases don't just happen; they are carefully selected by the unconscious mind to describe the actual hidden feelings in a situation. I've never overheard anyone speak of "murdering" an audience when they go over well.

For acting is basically a contest between two antagonists — the performer and the audience. The audience comes wanting to be seduced, but ready to turn and sneer if it is not; the performer walks out on the stage like the gladiators of old, to slay or be slain.

When actors are interviewed and they babble away about "the wonderful audiences in your wonderful city," they are either being consciously insincere or else are fooling themselves.

This is why actors take up stage careers for many reasons; but the most important, I feel, is the chance to exhibit exhibitionism, but a need to acquire the authority on the stage which they feel they lack in real life. The theatre transforms dull and drab creatures into glamorous specimens of courage, charm and beauty.

This is why the best acting coaches stress the importance of "authority in a performer—that mysterious critical ability to walk out of the wings and instantly command the audience's attention and respect.

Without this authority, all the training in the world is wasted; with it, a little talent can be developed to go a long way. In a sense, the actor is a kind of lion tamer; forcing the audience to do tricks which he hopes he has devised for them.

The best performances seem to be those which project the stage down to the seats; this current is unpredictable, like a truce between two sides in a battle. If the play falters or sags, the lions begin to bite their fangs and snarl.

Rodgers and Hammerstein, in a moment of candor, once referred to the audience as "The Big Black Monster." They meant no contempt, but were simply expressing the fundamental fact of stage life. The breathing monster is the dark pit of a theatre in which, sometimes, everything on the stage — and nobody knows why — becomes the weak or frightened actor.

This is a large part of the allure of the living theatre. An element of conflict that is lacking in films, where everything has been pre-determined. Actors prefer the danger of the screen, despite the lower pay, because they want to tame the beast and prove nightly that they are heroes.

Your Rudely Ear's Burnin'

Manchester Guardian

The Cockney has always had a reputation for his quick wit, but I have always thought the Liverpudlian a match for the equal of the Londoner. Only the other day I heard a typical example of Liverpool humor.

A workman sitting next to me in the train pulled out his tobacco, smoked cigaret and stuck it behind his ear for future consumption. But he did not succeed in extinguishing the cigaret properly. A little wisp of smoke curled alarmingly round his head.

Before I could draw his attention to it a young man sitting opposite leaned forward.

"Somebody's talking about you, mate", he said, "Your ruddy ear's burnin'."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
TRY THE IMPOSSIBLE

The four-minute mile appeared some years ago to be an utter impossibility. Track coaches and physicians were ready to testify that the human body was made in such a way that it was impossible for a human being to run a mile in four minutes.

Then a young English doctor did run a mile in four minutes. The astonishing thing was not just that he did it but that within five years a number of people bettered the record. He showed the way it could be done, then demonstrated that it was comparatively easy to achieve.

All the great minds of Spain tried to get the ears of King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella and urge them not to allow the foolish, murderous sailor, Christopher Columbus to start on his ridiculous attempt to cross the ocean. But once Columbus had crossed the ocean it was comparatively easy for others to do the same. Furthermore, it was possible for a human being to run a mile in four minutes.

Many of the things we have got first fight and the way the world that May day reacted when Charles Lindbergh, youngster landed in Paris, thirty-three and a half hours after he left New York. But hundreds of planes cross the Atlantic now, no, every day, almost every week.

After somebody has shown us how to do the impossible, we find that it is not only possible but that it is not too difficult after all.

He simply wore the clothes he

And steal away its fame and
But once the battlefield you

Far rather failure with its Pants Old, No Romance

Quebec Chronicle - Telegraph

We thought those things happened only in story books, but here, at any rate, this is one for the books. Dave Ackroyd, a 19-year-old sailor of Swinton, England, spent a pair of pants the other day. Normally this is a rather unromantic transaction, but Dave did found this one out of the ordinary.

Inside one of the pockets he found a letter addressed to a "lonely sailor," and since he considered himself a lonely sailor it was an invitation to write to a gay 17-year-old girl named Norma. Dave wrote her a letter, making the trousers. Dave wrote a full description of himself, his hobbies and his job.

The note reached Sylvia, but it was a bit late. Sylvia and Mrs. Frank Chapman, now happily married to an insurance agent and the mother of two children. She admitted: "I wrote the note during the war to Norma ago. It's incredible that the trousers have just been sold."

Mrs. Chapman's former stock-clerk forgot to follow the traditional instruction to move old stock first. And this would appear to be one instance of defective delivery that ended happily when the post office. It could also fall into the category of the hubby who carries wifey's letters in his pocket for weeks or months before dropping them in the pick-up box.

Coon Hunters Are Balked

Fergus News-Record

Boys are still boys and get the same old kick out of the same old things as when Ernest Thompson Seton wrote his "Two Little Savages."

We were working in the garden on Saturday afternoon, when we heard a chopping sound down by where the creek used to be. That is not a popular sound around Brairiea, where a couple of hundred trees have been chopped down by thieves at Christmas time.

Our first impulse was to call the police, but we decided to go down and investigate. Some of the neighbor boys are not above chopping down cedars in search of trees for a Christmas tree, but they are far enough from the house to get away with it.

Coming out of a thicket while ash, we saw three boys in the open, two of them armed with air guns, the third with a hatchet. They were all excited. They said they had a raccoon up the tree and they were trying to shoot it. They were Douglas boys, testing near Walkey's dam. They thought they were out in the country — at least that is what they said.

We doubted the whole story, but went to see. The tree was a big one, and the limb of a tall elm tree. There was no raccoon, however, but a ground hog, a big fellow, probably a couple of years old. He was sitting on the limb of a tall elm tree.

Now, we'd be glad to get rid of that raccoon. It's bad enough feeding radishes to grubs, and onions to maggots, but raccoons eat the larvae of the cabbage butterflies, and if we start exterminating the young robins, but when this raccoon comes around in September and in one of the spots on the back of our golden bantam corn, nibbling at every ear, and the whole family, inside of the house, we'd be glad to shoot him ourself. But we have no gun, and anyway only a few BB shots under his tough hide.

Gently, we pointed out that the boys could lose their guns for shooting in the city limits, and on private property and that raccoons are protected by law.

For the next 25 years or so, they will probably recall their Saturday afternoon as being spoiled only by some old grouch who stopped them from shooting a wild raccoon.

Cruel Law On Adoption

St. Catharines Standard

One would never suspect that religion — which teaches love, faith and love — can also provide a lesson in senseless cruelty. But this is the case in the 31½-year-old girl to prove it.

The little girl is ward of the Children's Aid Society. The only mother the child ever knew is a foster mother who took her into her home when she was but a few days old. Previously the little girl was happy in the home of her foster-mother. Certainly the good woman was happy with little Suzanne.

Recently she asked the court for permission to adopt the little girl. But there's where the court can do,.Mrs. Dunn and her husband were not only refused permission to adopt the child but they were warned that they'll have to give up the child!

Why?

Well, the little girl apparently was born a Roman Catholic and as such can only be adopted by Roman Catholic parents. Mrs. Dunn, when she first took the girl into her home, was a member of the Church of England Church. But she has since married a Catholic and, in Catholic eyes this makes her no longer eligible to care for little Suzanne.

Little Suzanne didn't choose her religion, but was given to her by a mother whom she never knew, a mother who couldn't care for her child. Not having a mother of her own, little Suzanne found one in Mrs. Dunne; the relationship between them was perfect love — and not religion.

What today a quirk of fate may mean the difference between loving parents and an orphanage for an innocent little girl.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WE INHERIT A GRAB-BAG COLLECTION OF OUR ANCESTORS' TRAITS

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have worried about inheriting insanity for a long time because my grandmother on my father's side had a mental breakdown in middle life. My other ancestors were O.K. except one aunt on my father's side, who had senile dementia at 70, which I understand resulted from hardening of the arteries. In a recent column you said insanity is not inherited, but that in some instances one might inherit certain factors which enter the picture. I don't understand what you mean. What factors are inherited.

"Another thing, why don't all doctors agree that it is not? It would make someone like me feel better. Just the other day I saw an article by another doctor who said heart disease, cancer and mental illness were inherited. Perhaps he meant something else than M.M."

So you had one grandmother who was sort of "queer," and an aunt who was odd at the age of 70, and it's my belief that a lot of other readers are now saying, "I had a grandmother and two aunts. So what?"

As to the article by another doctor, I don't know. But I don't think he ever said that these illnesses are inherited. If you still have the column, please read it again for any careful qualifications that were included.

There may be hereditary factors in all of these diseases, but not one of the diseases is inherited. That's what confused you in the first place, isn't it?

Let's put it like this: Among your ancestors, you probably must have one with a big nose, one with blue eyes, one with a strong tendency to obesity, one with a sharp temper, one with weak arches, one with a gay and humorous disposition, one bald as a baseball, and possibly one who died of apoplexy. That's what you inherit (grandparents.)

In all of these, you find tendencies that are hereditary. Yet in none of these do you have a trait that is inherited. There's a difference, you see.

GRANDFATHER JOHNSON'S EYES

There must be hundreds of traits, characteristics, strong points and weak points, which are all mixed up in our genes. What we inherit is a grab-bag collection of the traits of our ancestors. We inherit, for instance, a strong imaginative gift, a sensitivity, or a strong back or "grandfather Johnson's eyes" or what not.

You had one grandmother who "lost her mind" in middle life? Under what pressures, we'd like to know. Under what circumstances? Was she always that way, or did she change? Was it just a stroke, or was it a gradual thing?

Did you know that there were 571 bands of Indians in Canada, holding a total 5,897,177 acres in 2,226 reserves?

Could it be that every woodworking shop capable of turning out totem poles is termed a reserve in B.C., while Alberta, with 1,543,867 acres in a mere 90 reserves, gives the Indians a home with land enough for the buffalo to roam?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HATE

What a world of territory between Hate and Love. Hate is always destructive. Love is always constructive. Love is the heart of the world. I dislike even to hear the word Hate, for it always carries with it a bitter sting.

All the terrible and brutal wars have their inception in hate. In both of the two World Wars we fought young soldiers to hate the other side, but in most of these soldiers there was no inbred hatred for the enemy. In their hearts no soldier wanted to kill another, even though sworn to that fiendish business.

What a celebration follows when these brave lads return home after their service! Love, little Suzanne found in one in Mrs. Dunne; the relationship between them was perfect love — and not religion.

What today a quirk of fate may mean the difference between loving parents and an orphanage for an innocent little girl.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the drug store, an elderly lady was holding up traffic while detailing all her symptoms to the man behind the counter. When there were seven people on the line waiting, the druggist finally sold the lady a bottle of something as harmless politely as possible brought the consultation to an end.

Being the last, I lingered while the druggist sank back against the wall and let it slip.

"You must see awfully tired," I said, "of people coming in and treating you as a medical consultant."

"It has its advantages," said the druggist. "How else would I unload a lot of stuff I am stuck with? You have no idea how many thousands of articles we have to carry in stock. Every once in a while, either through an intensive advertising campaign or else by word of mouth, a certain cure-all becomes all the rage, and we have to stock up with it. Then the demand dies off as suddenly as it began. What am I to do with what I've got on the shelf?"

"Isn't that a rather cynical attitude?" I protested.

"No, it's the same in every business and profession," said the druggist. "Try your best to have a reasonable balance at the end of each day, each month, and each year."

Canadian PLACE NAMES

BANFF, ALTA.

This town at the edge of the great national park in the Rockies, had little or no romance about it in the choice of a name. Lord Strathcona, then president of the CPR, simply named it Banff for his birthplace in Scotland. The park adopted the name of the town in 1930.

Thieves, Prostitutes Gone, Peiping's Bridge of Heaven District Offers Just Fun

By RONALD FARQUHAR

PEIPING (Reuters) — All the sin of a Chinese city of seven times is Peiping's Bridge of Heaven district, once the haunt of beggars, pickpockets, prostitutes and hoodlums.

That underbrabble, however, long since have vanished, though acrobats, musicians, jugglers and story tellers still draw especially crowds to the small, rickety sheds and booths where they and others have performed for many years.

On weekends, hundreds of Chinese jam the network of narrow, unpaved lanes winding through its tightly - packed huddle of halls, theatres and restaurants in houses in Peiping's Chinese City, outside the high, brick - faced, mud walls of the inner Tartar City.

Ready, quavering Chinese music and the smell of garlic floats above the chattering, jostling throngs, dressed in a variety of garments ranging from old-fashioned, ankle - length gowns to merely a pair of shorts, and including many in the universal blue trousers with a splash of white shirts and colored blouses.

FAMILY ENSEMBLE

At one booth, about 100 people crane their necks for a glimpse of what appears to be a family ensemble playing local and ancient music.

Behind a nearby canvas awning, a three man orchestra in shirtsleeves plays in slow waltz time as small girls in bright gaudy costume and bright ribbons in their jet-black hair, bow very gracefully and bend elastically in complicated contortions.

Nearby, a solitary juggler, merely private, now function as co-operatives.

At a cluster of small tables, groups of youths are engrossed in a game which looks like a cross between checkers and billiards.

Another booth exhibits the small movie theatres. A "try - your - strength" device attracts a stream of wiry, muscular young men.

The energetic characters chuckle over a tale told by an elderly, wizened, professional storyteller with a wealth of eloquent gestures and grimaces.

ENDLESS WANDER

Many just wander aimlessly among the stalls and shows, or sprawl on the grass by the side of summer sunshine like some of the residents of the quarter.

The district takes its name—the Bridge of Heaven (Hsien Chiao)—from a bridge which used to be there but now exists only in name. It is far from the Temple of Heaven, where Chinese emperors used to pray for good harvests.

The district once had a bad reputation as the haunt of thieves and gangs, and there were often fights, brawls and brawls. But the Communist authorities cleaned out the trouble - makers shortly after they came to power 10 years ago.

Fourth Party May Seek Seats In 'Newfie'

By IAN MACDONALD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—There was speculation today that a fourth political party—labor—may be in the field at the Aug. 25 election to select seats in Newfoundland provincial legislature.

The Newfoundland Federation of Labor received the go ahead, at its annual meeting in Cartier Brook a week ago, to form a new party to protect recent labor laws passed by the provincial government.

The Evening Telegram quotes "informed sources" in the Corner Brook area as saying the labor group will name candidates in at least 10 electoral districts.

The sources are quoted as saying the federation, which claims a membership of 20,000, is waiting for confirmation of plans made to name and the appointment of a new non-labor candidate.

Federation president Larry Dalley would not confirm or deny the report. "the source of the information is not known to the Newfoundland Federation of Labor", he said.

But he admitted a meeting of labor leaders Thursday discussed political matters. He said the executive, eastern Newfoundland's CLC representative, Frank Cashin, will be candidate for Corner Brook for political meetings.

Also plaguing a serious game is provincial CCF leader Ewan Thomas who has announced he will contest the Placentia East district.

He declined to comment directly on a possible CCF-labor campaign. The announcement will come, he said, at the same time the labor bodies announce their intentions.

WEDDINGS

NELSON — CLARK

A pretty wedding was recently solemnized by the Rev. Ronald Vather in Princess United Church, Kingston, when Miss Jean Winnifred Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon G. Clark, of Napanee, became the bride of Charles, son of Mrs. Nelson, son of Mrs. C. W. Nelson, of South March, Ont., and the late Mr. Nelson.

Wedding music was played by Mr. Brian Crewe, and Mr. Alphonse McCue was soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Grant Clark, of Belleville, took her vows in a floor - length gown featuring a basque bodice of Chantilly lace, with scalloped fabric necklike embellishment with sequins and seed pearls. The fully gathered skirt of nylon tulle and net over taffeta, accented by inserts of Chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. She carried a white lace-covered Bible on which was arranged a white orchid and shepherdess.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Eldon Elliott, Kingston, sister of the bride, as matron-of-honor, and Mrs. Alfred Cullen, of Ottawa, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Janet Eller of Kingston, and Miss Ann Nelson, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. Dior Designer Tries to Shock, Shows Kneecap in Some Styles

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP) — Yves Saint-Laurent, for Dior, cut the tightest hemlines of the fashion season Thurs., some of them showing the kneecap in front, and even resurrected sacks.

His calls it all the "new woman of 1960" look.

None of the new skirts are literally above the knee, and all curve down in the back.

Saint - Laurent's attractive mother says she'll wear them, but the Duchess of Windsor says it won't.

Obviously out to shock with a "do or die" collection, Dior's designer didn't quite dare to go too far. Only a few of his boldest skirts show the kneecap in front, while a great many are at the top of the calf, and the majority cover the knees completely.

In many evening models, Saint-Laurent brought back the sack.

SHORT JACKETS

The shortest models are puffy paper bag" skirts caught in by a slim cut at the knee. Jackets are super - short, barely more than waist length. Obviously Saint-Laurent is out to be different, for other houses feature much longer jackets and slightly longer skirts.

Most new Dior creations are so flat - chested they look steamrollered but some have the deep-down decolletage known as "cleavage."

Waists range from small and belted to undefined to simon-pure sack. The dress and coat silhouette is generally trimly streamlined, but full seven-eighth - length coats look like capes in back view.

Black is the top color, with reds and blues to cheer up the many browns, beiges and greys.

When loaded, tampon should be pushed into vagina until dotted line on end of tube is almost or quite flush with body.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beechman

FLOWERS SENT SOME WEEKS AFTER FUNERAL

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

The other day a dear friend of mine happened to mention something that interested me very much, for it would fill a need I have often felt about the sending of a message of sympathy by means of flowers. She said that she and her husband often send flowers to a friend who has passed on, and that she and her husband feel that a month or two after, the death, is often a particularly difficult time, a time when flowers with a message of sympathy or friendship might be very welcome and most helpful.

I like this idea. Do you approve of it, Mrs. Beechman? I'm wondering if, when one did send flowers at such a time, sympathy should be enclosed? And, if so, would a message be added as to the words of sympathy? If so, how would the message be worded? — Mary

Yes, I do most heartily approve of this warmly-thoughtful gesture to those in sorrow, Mary. I like your good friend who told you about it often follow this kindly custom which has been practised by some in recent years. As a matter of fact, I feel delightful and most appealing note, even without flowers, can be a deep comfort and help at this time. I don't, however, ever enclose or send a card of sympathy — a message of condolence should be made of the bereavement. The idea of the message should be: "We want you to know, dear friends, that we are thinking of you these days, most lovingly and tenderly." And I hope you will add the benediction "God bless you."

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF "GODFATHER JOE"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am to be a godfather soon. Is it my place to give the christening fee to the clergyman? And do I give a gift to the new baby? If so, what? — Godfather Joe.

Well, dear sir, it definitely is not your responsibility to give the christening fee to the clergyman. This is the responsibility of the child's father. But you should give your godchild a christening present. You may give one of the traditional presents of silver; silver porringer or cup, or (more popular today) a small set of silver tableware, fork, spoon (or only the spoon or a pusher); or a small silver tray, perhaps made to sell with the baby's name, your name, and the date. Or you may, if you wish, start a savings account in the child's name, adding to this in whatever amount you wish, as a birthday or Christmas or graduation present.

Incidentally if there is a social gathering at the parents' home after the christening, you are the one who has the honor of proposing the first toast "To the Happiness and Health and Well Being" of your godchild.

WHO TIPS CHECKROOM ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I'm going to a large dinner-dance to be given in the ballroom of a well-known New York hotel.

(1) When I leave my wrap in the checkroom, should I tip the attendant? If so, how much?

(2) If my escort offers me the money to give the attendant, is it all right for me to accept it? — Joan.

(1) Yes . . . you give the checkroom attendant a tip — usually a quarter, leaving it on the plate which will be prominently displayed; and on which there will be several quarter "decoys." (2) Yes. But you should really carry your own tip-money.

MUST SHE INVITE THE CO-HOSTESS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Several days ago I went to a bridge party given by my hostess. That is, both their names were on the invitations. But I knew only one of them. In this case, what is my social obligation? Must I invite the hostess I didn't know to a party sometime? — Ruth.

There is no strict obligation but it would be courteous and gracious of you to include both these hostesses in a more or less general party you give . . . for example, a tea or other late-afternoon party, or a buffet supper, or a luncheon.

WHERE TO PLACE THE TELEPHONE IN A BOUDOIR

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When one sets the table for a luncheon party, where should the telephone be placed? — D.I.

Either above the plate or on the right of the knives. Above the plate is usually considered the more convenient place.

Leather For Summer

By ALSON ALDEN

Returning with quite a fashionable air is the leather summer bag, in eclipse for some seasons now. Jessel elaborates on this fact with a roomy 16 inch model in a handy shape. Shirred onto the plastic bracelet handles at the top, the leather is pouched at the bottom with inverted tucks. The inside zipper and wide gussets are happy adjuncts. The bag comes in several colors, dark, light and basic.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: My niece brought a German Cheese Cake when she came for tea last evening that I'd like to make. Here are the ingredients — had a pastry bottom, a cherry jam layer and then a 4 inches or so creamy cake - like cottage cheese mixture on top. Tasted delicious according to my German husband and mother - in - law. Can you give me a clue to the recipe? — M. R.

Answer:

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Baked Fish Fillets; Lemon Slices; Potato Nuggets; Creamed Green Beans; Tomato Aspic with Sour Cream Cucumber Dressing (see Thursday); One-Crust New Apple Pie; Tea.

CHEESE CAKE (using cottage cheese) — Crust: Five to 6 - oz. packago zwieback, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ cup melted butter. Filling: Three eggs, yolks and whites separated, ¾ cup sugar, 1/4 cup all-purpose flour, 1½ pounds cottage cheese, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 tablespoons grated lemon rind, ½ pint whipping cream. To make crust, grease an 8" pan with soft butter. Roll zwieback into very fine crumbs — there should be 1 cups. Mix crumbs with remaining crust ingredients thoroughly, and with fingers pat uniformly thick over bottom and up sides of pan to form a thin crust. Chill while making filling. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, sift sugar and flour together, add to beaten yolks and mix well. Rub cheese through a sieve into yolk mixture, then beat well. Stir in vanilla and lemon rind. Whip cream until stiff and lightly fold into cheese mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn mixture into unpeeled-lined pan. Bake 1 1/4 hours at 300 deg. Fahr. Remove to cake rack to cool. Makes 8 generous servings. Keep leftover cheese cake refrigerated. Delicious sliced cold on second day. Note: The cake you tasted had a "cheesy" bottom, a cherry jam layer . . . ". What I have given you is the standard cheese cake made with cottage cheese. If you prefer the pastry base use rich pie pastry (or Danish pastry see below) and spread it with a layer of cherry jam before turning in the cottage cheese mixture before baking.

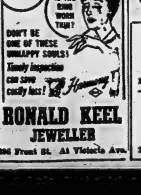
DANISH PASTRY

2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons salt
3/4 cup shortening
1 beaten egg

Mix and sift flour and salt. Work in shortening with pastry blender. Add egg and enough ice water to bind mixture (1 or 2 tablespoons). Chill. Roll out to 1/8 inch thickness.

I have a little nagging doubt in my mind. I think that since your husband and mother-in-law are German, they might enjoy the genuine.

Cheese Cake using Cream Cheese



15 ounces cream cheese, room temperature
1/2 pint cream (1 cup)
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
1 cup sugar
4 eggs, separated.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by readers-in-trouble and sympathy.

Client S. — What advantage is there to his faith?

Alan S. — We must talk to a clergyman.

Gloria S. — My husband and I are of different faiths and are concerned about the future of the baby we are expecting.

Our original idea was to bring up the child with a knowledge of both our religious and let him or her make a choice at the age of 21. On thinking it over, however, we feel that perhaps the child should be initiated into one faith or another through a ritual shortly after birth. He can change later if he wants to.

My husband claims to be open-minded on the subject, but I know he would rather have the baby be of his faith. This is perfectly fine with me, but I think the child's happiness comes first and we must consider what is best for him. There might be to him as a member of my husband's faith. I thought it was proper to discuss this with my in - laws, not to my surprise they showed no interest. And even seemed hostile about it.

Alan S. — I'm afraid my parents have left me down on this thing, but in a way I don't blame them and I can see their point of view. They aren't religious people and they brought me up with a mere smattering of knowledge of my own faith. Yet they were opposed to my marrying outside of my faith. Once I did it, however, they said they wanted to keep hands off my affairs.

My idea is that we should go to a clergyman and talk things over. I would be perfectly satisfied, if, after discussing it with the clergyman, Gloria feels she doesn't want to go through with this, that she says she doesn't want to talk to anyone who will put pressure on her. I am willing to go to a clergyman of her faith, but she claims I wouldn't really be open-minded.

It doesn't really matter, yet I feel we should straighten this out between ourselves.

The Council: We don't presume to hold the magic to dissolve such a tangle. But perhaps we can offer a little light on some of the inconsistencies and inconsistencies expressed on both sides.

Gloria maintains she doesn't want to be pressured, yet she shows some disappointment that her in-laws have put no pressure upon her. She chooses to interpret this as a hostile act. Her attitude suggests that she is merely flirting with the idea of bringing up the child in her husband's faith.

In any case, she shows no understanding of the meaning of faith if she thinks she can go out shopping for an "advantageous" religion for her child. Faith is belief, and while it is good for a child to grow up with belief, with a specific form of worship, with a clear - cut identity — did How is the time identity in this complex world, it is ridiculous to shop for a belief that will guarantee his future happiness.

Alan shows just as much confusion in some other directions. He apparently has a strong desire to bring up Gloria in his faith and would like his parents or a clergyman to speak for him. Yet he insists that he has no faith in his faith.

There is much to be gained from discussion with clergymen of both faiths, but Gloria and Alan should be aware that they cannot have this problem solved for them by outsider. They should try to rid themselves of their own confusions and conflicts and avoid as far as possible foisting the dilemma on their unborn child.

French Oppose Quebec City as Site of 'Summit'

Sunday School Lesson

Why Do Good People Suffer?

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the most difficult problems with which the religious man ever wrestles is that of pain. If God is a God of justice, why does it happen that good men have to suffer?

The Book of Job is a remarkable piece of literature that attempts to deal with his problem. The fact that it is, itself, an ancient piece of literature proves that the problem itself is an ancient one.

OUR FEW ANSWERS

The text of this book reveals the fact that there are no more than a few answers to the question, and that these answers have been given almost since the beginning of time.

Every year there comes from the religious presses a succession of books, each one of which tries to answer the question anew. But each of them, in turn, falls back eventually upon some form or phrasing of one of Job's answers. There is no real originality among them, although occasionally one author or another discovers an apt illustration, or a winsome pulling of some aspect of the case.

ONLY ONE ANSWER

For the Christian there is but one answer that can be made to this problem. That answer has been written into the constitution of life, and it does so...then we can be very sure that it is designed to make some contribution to life.

An aged man was lying on his bed in the hospital in the midst of great pain, when his pastor arrived. "I have been experiencing a very remarkable inspiration," the old one said, "I have been exploring my situation trying to discover just where I can put this experience to work. I know that, no matter how severe the suffering may be, that I can put it to work somewhere in my life. I can compel it to make a contribution to my character. I can extract strength and meaning from it. I can solve it as if it were a problem in mathematics. And just as I once took pride in solving the hardest problem of the lesson, I am determined to solve this one. Because the pain is so great, I know I will take great satisfaction in the solution."

In the course of the weeks he found the solution, and those who knew him well declared that forever after they were able to identify new peace and virtues in his life. "He has never been the same since he went to the hospital," they said. "He added something to his life during those weeks, which he never had before."

And the results showed that the gains were worth all the pains.

WAIL OF MISUNDERSTOOD

Life knows few hardships worse than that of the one who is misunderstood. Very few people are actually mean, coarse, wicked, vengeful, or impossible. It is only when they are misunderstood that they become problems.

Nothing is more painful than to be misunderstood — to be charged with selfishness when we have seriously tried to be unselfish, to be accused of double-dealing when we have made every effort to be above-board and honest, to have it said that we were stingy when we have been carrying obligations of which no one knew.

Blessed is that one who goes through the community trying to understand those who are accused, those who are ignored, those who are blamed, and those who have never been able to get their story told.

Job's boils were terrible, but some of his friends were more so. They had never been through a siege of boils, and they did not know how terrible the torment could become. They therefore found it easy to assume a superiority and assure him that he had, somehow, sinned.

A discerning woman once said, "No one has the right to criticize who has not earned that right."

WHEN A MAN DEFIES GOD

The Old Testament tells the story of a few rare souls who were so sure they were upright and honest, that they dared God to prove they were otherwise. No man is so strong as that one who knows he is right who is sure he has no evil thing in his background who fears no evil when his enemies begin digging into his past.

"So live," said a wise old man, "that it will start no fears when you hear that an old neighbor has moved to town."

Whale Gave Small Cruiser Quite a Lift

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) How does it feel to ride the back of a whale?

Capt. Ellis Hodgkins, skipper of the 36-foot, 16-ton cruiser Julyntha VI, told the story Wednesday as follows:

"It felt just like running aground except we went a darn sight higher.

"I was running wide open at about 14 knots and cut the engines to avoid running up on a whole we sighted.

"Then a second whale travelling directly toward us came up right under us.

"I'd say it lifted us a good four feet, but it submerged quickly enough to drop us back in the water on an even keel."

The vessel suffered no damage from the incident 18 miles at sea.

VIEW PROCESSION

RAWDON — Numerous folk from Rawdon township and Stirling village journeyed to Trenton on Saturday to have a glimpse of Royalty on their way to Port Hope. Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, was charming in a yellow frock, and had a lovely smile for all. Hundreds of folk lined the curbs as she and Prince Philip motored up the main portion of Trenton from Sidney Street to Lorne Avenue. There was also a large number of American tourists who were delighted to have this opportunity of joining with the Canadians in paying homage to the throne and what it stands for. The adults had a good view, but the cars travelled by too fast to give the children a fair chance of viewing their Royal Highnesses.

It was common news that the procession would travel about eight miles per hour; however, the escort must have been in a hurry as the speed was nearer 15 or 20 miles per hour. Surely those in charge of the tour could have given a little thought to the needs of small children who lined the parade route.

Usher Jacks were everywhere and the Queen was royally welcomed by a large host of common folk along the way.

On Sunday morning the broadcast from Port Hope Anglican Church was heard by many people in this area. The familiar hymn, "Rejoice, the Lord is King", was sung with enthusiasm and to this writer it stood out as a highlight of the service. Several folk from this section also spent the day at Port Hope.

Mrs. Milton Hagerman, Carmel, is visiting relatives in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson.

Mr. William Runnalls spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Grills and other Carmel relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, 4th concession and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan, of Belleville, spent a few days at Bronte with Mr. and Mrs. Allan Fisher and family. They also visited Niagara Falls, and Buffalo, N.Y.

Miss Sharrill Fisher returned home after a holiday with her grandparents in Rawdon.

A yellow Sperry car with an aluminum top and looking much like a street car passed over the railway tracks between Anson and Stirling, one evening last week, and it is understood it was testing the rails. It was a novelty to those who had not seen one previously.

ARTIST-DOCTOR IMPRESSES CRITICS — An exhibition by Walt Ruhman, German-born artist now living in Montreal, has drawn praise from London art critics. He calls his paintings "a record of an "age of trial," drawn from his own inner world. . Viewers, shocked by some of his creations, either reject them entirely or become excited about them. Dr. Ruhman is looking at is called "Heritage." Dr. Ruhman, who escaped from Nazi Germany in 1939, began painting in an internment camp in Canada during the war. He now practices medicine in Montreal. German-Born Montreal Man Wins Praise From Critics For His Strange Paintings

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Walt Ruhman, German-born artist living in Montreal has won strange praise from British critics for his paintings.

With a palette of lurid greens purples, blues and jolting yellows, the 60-year-old artist delves into a mysterious inner world of his own to record what he calls "this age of trial."

Some of his creations shock and jar. They are not pretty pictures. Some viewers are frightened, others awed, many impressed.

NOT FOR CHILDREN

"This exhibition . . . has to be seen to be believed," said Charles Spencer in Art News and Review, writing about Ruhman's current exhibition in London, England. Impressed, the critic added, however, that children should not be allowed to see the show.

"It is true," said the artist, a doctor specializing in treatment of rheumatic diseases. "I am told that people either reject my work bitterly or are excited about it. There seems to be in - between."

Dr. Ruhman escaped from Nazi Germany in 1939 and was interned in Britain after Dunkerque. In July, 1940, he was transferred to Canada with some 3,000 other anti - Nazis of German origin. He spent the next 30 months in internment camps in Eastern Canada.

It was then — behind wire fences in Canada—that he began to paint. On a piece of wrapping paper pinned to his camp hut floor, he sketched a man, legs easily roped and shackled to a tent, whirling in a towering ecstasy in horror at a pleading hand reaching for life from the water.

It was the birth of what Dr. Ruhman calls "expressionist art," his own peculiar style and message.

DISTURBING WORKS

Some of his paintings convey horror, revulsion, anguish. In one apocalyptic canvas, Saint John's Dream, the artist painted Christ - like figures tumbling through a gloom-ridden sky. In front of a raging inferno are weird tanks, like lizard's heads with glowing eyes. Mankind, tortured, bowed and fearful, screeches and scurries from the chaos.

"My art is apt to make the onlooker feel what humanity could be, but prevents itself from being," said Dr. Ruhman, a massive man with greying hair. "Others have called my paintings a warning."

The London exhibition, to go to Edinburgh Festival in August, includes a group of satires, more real and yet just as fantastic as his "age of trial" works. To show

Canadian's Book Called Study Of Decadence

LONDON (CP) — A new book by Canadian writer Ernest Buckman, Tomorrow Is Now, is said by a British critic to have "undoubted power" as a study in decadence.

John Davenport, writing in The Observer, says this power is evident even when the book's melodramatic quality "falls dangerously near to farce."

The critic adds that some passages are written with a melancholy savagery that makes John Osborne, a leader of Britain's "angry young men" school of writers, seem whimsical.

Buckman, in his 40s, was born in Germany. He went to Canada in 1939 as a war refugee, took Canadian citizenship and worked seven years at the National Film Board in Ottawa. Later, he worked in Paris and London.

In Canada he collaborated with Norman McLaren, brilliant Scots-Canadian producer, on Five and Four, Blitzkrieg Tactics and other film board documentaries.

Canadians Working For U.S. Receive Tribute From Herter

TORONTO (CP)—Three Canadians who have been employed for the last 30 years in United States government service recently received personal letters of commendation from U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter.

The letters were to John McGovern, Mabel Dorsey and Sarah Brook, Canadians who work in the U.S. consulate-general's office in Toronto, helping U.S. residents and tourists here.

The three, who have served in the past under the late Cordell Hull, Gen. George C. Marshall, Dean Acheson and the late John Foster Dulles, were thanked by Mr. Herter on behalf of the U.S. government and people.

John McGovern, 47, a native of Toronto with a son at the University of Toronto, suggests young people might consider the possibility of working for the Canadian external affairs department.

"A job with the department," he says, "would be very much like our work here at the consulate—interesting because of the people we meet."

Miss Brook, who came to Canada from England in 1913, feels most people are ignorant of the number of Canadians employed by the U.S. consulate in Canada.

"Actually," she said, "most of the staff is composed of local people. Only the officers are American citizens."

Mabel Dorsey, the third member of the trio, was born in Hamilton and served in the U.S. consulate there until being transferred here in 1952.

30 Czechs Flee Youth Festival, Seek Asylum

VIENNA (Reuters)—A group of 30 youths from Communist Czechoslovakia have fled from the Czech delegation to the World Youth Festival under way here and will not return to their country, reliable sources reported Thursday.

The sources, who refused to be quoted by name, said the group had already left the Vienna fairground where all the Communist delegations at the festival are quartered.

The group now is staying "somewhere in the city".

Western correspondents trying to see the Czechoslovak delegation were unable to get any information nor would Austrian authorities comment.

Police promised a full statement when the festival ends Aug. 6.

Settle Disputes, Says Nixon So Scientists Can Devote Time to Peaceful Efforts

BELOYARSK, Soviet Union (AP)—U.S. Vice-President Nixon appealed today for statesmen to settle their disputes so Soviet and American scientists could devote their full time to peaceful atomic projects instead of atomic bombs.

Nixon made his plea while travelling deep into a Siberian birch forest to inspect the site of a Soviet atomic power plant.

Vice-Admiral Hyman Rickover, father of the U.S. atomic submarine, accompanied Nixon and seconded his words with an invitation to the Soviet engineers to visit the plant to tour American atomic installations.

Nixon, looking out over the maze of semi-finished brick and concrete buildings, told the workmen:

"This is the most hopeful use of the atom. We look forward to the time when we can devote all our efforts to opening up great new vistas for both our people rather than production of atomic weapons."

Soviet engineers applauded Nixon's views. Alexei Semenkin, 46 - year - old construction chief, replied as Soviet foreign office officials nodded in agreement:

"Your words give me assurance that we almost have arrived at that stage. We are doing everything to develop ways and means for peaceful uses. If there is a will, a way can be found."

We are convinced in our minds that your people do want this co-operation. And we are assured that when statesmen and scientists will lead the way to new conquests in peaceful progress."

As Nixon talked, workers were beginning to pour the foundations for a huge concrete-walled reactor building.

Nixon reached the plant site after travelling in a motorcade over rough gravel and dirt roads, churning huge clouds of dust for the 12 miles of the trip from the eastern Ural centre of Sverdlovsk.

His hour-long visit, the first to the site by a Western leader, ended his two-day tour of this Ural area rarely opened to foreigners.

The vice-president was to fly back to Moscow this afternoon in a Soviet TU-104 jet airliner for a farewell television address Saturday night to the Russian people.

Nixon's hour-long speech is expected to be more personal contacts between Russians and Americans during his discussion of their leaders.

But Nixon is unlikely, sidestep, to mention his belief that a visit by Premier Khrushchev to the United States would relieve tension. They explained that Nixon's report to President Eisenhower to decide wrether Khrushchev should be invited, any public comment by Nixon would be improper.

Crown Attorney Pulls Trigger Exhibit Loaded

OSSAWA (CP) — Crown Attorney Alex Hall, 52, fired two provincial police to find out who handled a .32-calibre automatic pistol which entered as an exhibit in a court case here Thursday.

Mr. Hall, who says he always examines firearms likely to be entered as exhibits to make sure they are not loaded, pulled the trigger on the pistol. The bullet ricocheted from the floor, missing court witnesses and spectators waiting for the magistrate to arrive.

The crown attorney was examining the pistol while talking to Detective Ken Young just before court opened. He operated the mechanism which cocks the hammer, then pointed the pistol at the floor and pulled the trigger. The slug went through the carpet into the concrete underneath, then bounced into the panelling of Mr. Hall's desk.

The pistol was submitted in evidence against Ray Allen Wood, 29, a labourer serving three years in Kingston penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to housebreaking and possession of an offensive weapon. Mr. Hall wants to know who let that exhibit loaded.

Say Army Has Only Quarter Of Men Needed to Fill Role As Rescue Agency in A-War

KINGSTON (CP)—The government has designated the army as the rescue agency in event of nuclear-attack on Canada but only about one-quarter of the manpower needed for this role.

The army plans to form some 86 mobile columns, some to detect 900-man battalion size, to detect nuclear radiation and rescue and decontaminate as many persons as possible from blitzed targets. This will involve 70,000 to 80,000 men, including regular and militia soldiers.

But officers associated with the new army plans say that nearly 400,000 men will be needed to carry out the job properly because there are 13 major target areas in Canada. Even in a city of 250,000 would require six mobile rescue columns itself.

Nearly 30 militia officers today will complete at the Canadian Army Staff College here the first two-week course on organization and development of the mobile columns.

Where will the government find the personnel for national survival—the army's new term for civil defence?

Some officers say they believe the only feasible solution is the corporation of the some 157,000 trained civilian Civil Defence workers into the army on a part-time arrangement. This would mean, in a sense, a "militia" of well-trained workers out of the cities at a time when roads would be congested by evacuees.

A few officers say privately the only solution would appear to be some system of national selective service but that they doubt the government would ever adopt such a policy.

Until recently, Civil Defence was the responsibility of the federal health department.

But now responsibility has been split four ways — among the health, defence and justice departments and the prime minister's office. This has dismayed Civil Defence officials and they say they believe the defence department must ultimately become solely responsible.

On Sept. 1, the army will officially take over its new role, which already has gone down well with the militia. A military organization is required for the mobile column and the militia, as well as the regular army, fits the bill.

Now militia officer are getting working knowledge of safe and lethal dosages of nuclear radiation.

One of the most important factors in this acquisition of atomic-age knowledge is the nuclear fallout pattern.

The prevailing winds in Canada are westerly so that nuclear fallout will be carried to the east of any target.

Some officers say they believe the newspapers should publish daily the fallout pattern with the weather report.

Levy $10,000 Fine on Union For Contempt of B.C. Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — For the first time in British Columbia labor history a union local was found guilty Thursday of contempt of court.

Striking local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CIO) was fined $10,000 in B.C. Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Wilfred Fernand Leopold Whitmore, local president, business agent Norman Gibbons and financial secretary Tom McGrath were fined $3,000 or one year's imprisonment each in default of immediate payment. Eddison paid the fine. The other two are to be held in custody until they paid.

Defence counsel Tom Berger filed notice of appeal against Mr. Justice A. E. Lord's decision and said he will request a special session of the B.C. Court of Appeal.

The contempt action centred around striking union members' defiance of a court injunction ordering the ironworkers to instruct its members to return to work on the new $23,000,000 Second Narrows Bridge across Burrard Inlet. Workers testifying before Mr. Justice Lord said the new bridge was unsafe despite engineering reports to the contrary.

Eighteen workers were fired last summer when a section of the bridge collapsed.

The bridge was one of several projects in B.C. struck by building union some of which backed up demands for higher wages.

Mr. Justice Manson first granted the Dominion Bridge Company an injunction to stop picketing on a section of the bridge which the company said could become hazardous if it collapsed. He later ordered the union to instruct its members to complete the section.

B.C.'s new Trades Union Act, passed at the last session of the legislature, made it possible for Mr. Justice Manson to bring contempt charges against the union. The act makes unions legal entities that can be sued.

Slight murmurs were heard from the crowded public gallery when Mr. Justice Lord gave his decision.

Mr. Justice Manson said the union was largely to blame for the bridge collapse. He said it "made no honest effort to honor the court order instructing the union to return to work on the bridge."

He said his decision against the union was based on reports on "all their acts or commissions".

He listed them as:

1. Refusal to co-operate with the bridge contractors in making the bridge safe before going out on strike;

2. Literally obeying a court order forbidding a strike on the uncompleted south section of the bridge but still was said by them to "mediately torpedoing it" in a press statement;

3. Making no "honest effort" to obey a second injunction ordering the union to order the union to instruct its members to return to work;

4. Misbehavior and defiance by workmen in court;

5. Lying under oath.

Safety League Plans to Stress Plastic Hazard

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Safety League will open a national campaign next month in order to point up the danger of thin plastic films such as polyethylene bags used by dry cleaning firms, George Hall, the league's director of child safety, said Thursday.

Mr. Ham reported to the Society of Plastic Industries that the campaign, will cover press, television and radio media. He said he had been assured of co-operation by organizations in all other provinces and by federal authorities.

During the drive an effort will be made to have all Ontario hospital obstetrical and pediatrician clinics — and possibly those in other provinces — issue pamphlets warning mothers against improper use of plastic bags when they take their new-born babies home.

This year at least 144 children in Canada under one year have died of suffocation, Mr. Hamilton said. Of these deaths were attributable to, improper use of plastic bags.

Members at the meeting said the suggestion that plastic film material should be made safe by perforating it were not true. If two thicknesses of the material cling to a child's face they will still produce suffocation unless the perforations happened to come together.

U.S. Might Try Free Trade With Canada for Minerals If Latin America Included

WASHINGTON (CP)— Representative Walter Judd (Rep., Minn.) says the United States might be persuaded to try free trade with Canada if Latin America also could be brought into the deal.

"But I don't think members of Congress would go for the idea of free trade just between Canada and the U.S.," he said in an interview. "That would add to resentment by the Latins and to our troubles down there."

Judd is a member of the House of Representatives foreign relations committee and a co-member of the Canada-U.S. interparliamentary group set up to try to improve relations between the two countries.

CANADIANS WORRIED

The Texas membership of that group has just published a report on the group's last meetings at Montreal and Ottawa in June when the Canadian members expressed concern—over, among other things, the future of the Canadian mineral market in the U.S.

The report said some Americans had suggested reciprocal tariffic solution might be the establishment of a common market between Canada and the U.S. for basic minerals. It was further suggested that the arrangement might be extended to all western hemisphere countries.

Judd said the idea has been kicked around, discussed and explored. Senator Douglas (Dem. Ore.) strongly endorsed the free trade idea, another group member, Representative Frank Coffin (Rep. Me.), suggested that Latin America be brought in, though.

It may be that possibly greater mutual co-ordination could be extended beyond the mineral field, Judd said in an interview.

URANIUM PROBLEM

The group's report, intended for the house foreign relations committee, said Canadians were worried over the future of their big U.S. uranium market.

It also noted Canadian worries about markets for Canada's lead, zinc, copper, aluminium, nickel and iron ore.

Summing up, the report said:

"Some of the U.S. delegation was of the opinion that the long-term trend in the demand for materials and sources of energy are good. Whatever the immediate hardships suffered by the Canadian extractive industries, Canada does have huge reserves of minerals and energy sources which can be had at short supply when viewed on a long range basis.

"Furthermore, Canadian production will be more efficient than production in other areas of the world. Consequently, in their opinion, the long-term prospects are in favor of the Canadian producer."

Five Trumpeter Swans Hatched In Captivity

OTTAWA (CP)—The big trumpeter swan, teetering on the edge of extinction 25 years ago, has added assurance today that he will escape disaster.

The national resources department announced Thursday that five cygnets were hatched a month ago at the Delta, Man., waterfowl research station from captive parents—the first such hatch at least 20 years in North America.

The trumpeter, a 35 swan who may weigh up to 25 pounds, now numbers about 1,600—half in the western United States including Alaska and half in Western Canada. The main breeding grounds is Alberta's Peace River region and they winter on the west coast. Their name comes from the sound of their far-carrying voices.

The Canadian Wildlife Service, associated with the project, may use the grown trumpeters to restock silocated areas.

Crowded Celebration of 200th Anniversary Of Wolfe's Victory Annoys Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec City's St. Jean Baptiste Society has decided not to take part in a September celebration planned for the 200th anniversary of the Battle of the Plains of Abraham —a clash that decided the fate of Canada.

Gabriel Pelletier, president of the society said Thursday the diocesan council made the decision because of a storm of protest which broke after plans for the celebration were announced. Many French - Canadians, francophone newspapers and politicians called it an unwise display of bad taste.

The celebrations planned to commemorate the battle—Sept. 13, 1759—which the British General Wolfe defeated the force of General Montcalm, ending the French empire and claiming Canada for the British.

Reaction to the planned celebration was: "two hundred centuries of progressive partnership."

The society announcement was lively. Some of Quebec's French-language newspapers and periodicals indicated disapproval. Many letters were published in march French — specially those claims said it would be wrong to celebrate a defeat.

One of the most influential periodicals—Relations, published by the Jesuit fathers—said in its latest issue the celebration would be a blow to the sentiments of French speaking Canadians. The writer of the article said the celebration would be "a special cause for regret."

Striking Crew Told To Work Or Be Deported

HAMILTON (CP) — Immigration officials Thursday ordered 17 members of the Panamanian-registered ship Theodoros A to board the ship or face deportation.

The crew members walked off Wednesday and engaged members of the Seafarer's International Union in a protest against low wages and poor working conditions. Police lines were set up and unloading of the ship, which carried a load of phosphate, halted.

The Theodoros A cleared from Hamilton shortly after 10 p.m. when six members of the crew, who said they preferred jail to returning to the ship, decided instead to return.

Ship's owner representative John Valassakis of New York said the dispute was now over pay since the crew received the highest wages of any Panamanian ship—between $140 and $160 a month. They were paid Tuesday, he said.

The men claimed they received only $65 a month and had not been paid for five months.

The company hired two local guards to travel with the ship to Duluth, next port of call.

Thief Asks Victim for Reference

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—A man who served a jail sentence for stealing a car belonging to an alderman of Bowral city council asked for a reference.

On his release, he wrote the following letter to the alderman:

"I have decided to go straight.

"Can you know, when I stole your car I left it completely undamaged which I think is very good of me.

"Would you give me a reference to this effect?"

The alderman is still chewing things over.

TORONTO (CP)—Three bank robbers were imported from the United States to rob banks in Toronto banks earlier this year, Detective - Inspector Harry Cook of Metropolitan Toronto police said Thursday.

He said the two robberies were believed solved with the bank robbery Wednesday of the bank in New York 10 days ago, but police are still looking for the third.

Mr. Cook said the men were imported the hoodlums.

A February robbery of a Toronto branch of the Bank of Montreal netted $22,000. And in April a branch of the Royal Bank was robbed of $22,000.

Police arrested the three U.S. men and took warrants out for their arrest on charges they are identified as Joseph John Dellamura, 42; Joseph John Sullivan, 39, and Joseph Anthony Pravale, 41.

They were sentenced to from 18 to 20 years in New York.

Crop Hard Hit By Drought, Heat, Frosts

LONDON (AP)—West Europe has just come through a crop-killing drought, its worst in decades.

Farmers have lost tens of millions of dollars through the cut in food production from stunted plants and dried out pastures.

Even normally-soggy Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark all were hit by the drought, which started in the spring and lasted months ago.

In France and Italy, which also have sweltered, the worst effects of the drought have been avoided so far by irrigation around acreage.

Water in that form of heavy rain came over wide areas of Europe in midweek, but it was too late for the rain for 86 days.

But the rain came too late to rejuvenate many crops dried by the sun.

The picture:

Germany—In north Germany, the grain harvest was expected to be 60 per cent less than the below average. Only the hardy wheat crop looked anything like a success.

Denmark—Experts there estimated the country came out of the drought better than its neighbors.

Belgium—Unofficial estimates put the damage at through drought and fire, at millions of francs.

Famous Oil 'Wildcatter' Prospector Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Oil wildcatter Michael Benedum, 90, who said only a fortnight ago he was not afraid of death, died at his home here Thursday.

The king of the oil prospectors earned a fortune of $100,000,000 in his career which extended back almost to the start of the oil industry in America.

Benedum probably discovered more oil than any other man in history. He was born at Bridgeport, Va., began his career in oil fields earning $25 a week running a grist mill.

He had only oil busines because he courteously gave his last dime to train to another oil man. The man gave Benedum a job leasing oil and gas lands.

He later struck oil on his own, wildcatting in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

He then began prospecting and wildcatting in Illinois, Mexico and South America.

He had a large part in early development of oil fields in Kansanis, then turned to Texas and New Mexico. He found underground oceans of oil and became one of the world's richest men.

LONDON (Reuters) — Policemen came under fire for brutality in the controversial Notting Hill carnival procession Thursday night by the BBC.

The programme featured citizens, clergymen, probation officers and former policemen, giving their views anonymously.

The first one to speak said she was beaten in a police station because she would not make a statement as they wanted it.

A landlord reported that narcotics squad raided his house and made male tenants bare themselves from the waist down. He suggest that it is an infringement upon human dignity," he said.

A youth said the police nowadays "seem to think that the only way to treat them is right give a punch or two."

The program was screened in the wake of a furore over the case of Guenter Podola, arrested in connection with the slaying of a detective.

Podola, taken to hospital after his arrest, had to be helped into court several days later to be charged. He appeared in court with a black eye.

All Provincial Parks Crowded

TORONTO (CP)—The "No vacancy" sign went out today for provincial park campgrounds in Southern Ontario.

Ontario Lands Minister Spooner announced that all camping parks as far north as North Bay are expected to be crowded and prospective campers have little hope of finding space.

The hot spell in eastern Canada is blamed for sending thousands to the campgrounds in search of relief from city heat.

Provincial parks north of North Bay is not so severe, he said, but the Timagami area has a big avacuation left and campers are asked to go as far north as they can for the best accommodation.

Bluetick Hounds Have Killed 2,000 Cougars

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — Jim Dewar, famed predator hunter, and his bluetick hounds have killed at least 2,000 cougars. He once fought one with his bare hands.

The big cat got hold of one of Jim's dogs and was about to maul it. Jim grabbed the cougar by the neck and freed the hound.

The six bluetick hounds are scrawny looking, but they have tough muscles and have inherited a hatred for the predators.

They have treed hundreds of cougars, holding them with snarls and threats until their master appeared to shoot them.

Once a game warden, Jim now is the provincial government's chief predatory officer.

"We now have the best dogs we can get for the job," he said. "Three came direct from Tucson, Ariz., and the others were bred from Tucson stock.

"One mistake is for cougar hunters to try to breed dogs themselves. It's no job for a layman.

"Since I took up hunting cougars 25 years ago, six of my dogs have been mauled to death by the cats."

Jim is on call day and night whenever there are cougars around. All may be a trip aloof, with the dogs sniffing at his heels, or a trip by air. The dogs love air travel.

He cites the advice of another godfather, Swope: "The main thing about learning to act is to keep at it."

Godfather Gives Star Role To Henry Fonda's Daughter

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — She's a trim young beauty with golden hair and familiar eyes. When you hear her name, you realize where you have seen those eyes before.

She's Jane Fonda, 21-year-old daughter of Henry and latest of the second generation of movie names to seek fame in Hollywood. She appears to be off to a better start than most. She has the starring role in the new comedy, Tall Story.

Jane frankly admits how she got the role. The producer-director is Josh Logan, her godfather.

"Of course, I'm very grateful to Mr. Logan," she said as she was getting her hair styled at Warners. "Because of my name, I'm getting the kind of role it would ordinarily take years to earn.

"But there are drawbacks, too. Most actresses who would get a role like this would have had years of training. They would have done stock and Broadway plays and television and other movies. I haven't had that. I have to make good in a hurry—or else."

She'll have plenty of moral support, and not only from her famous father and Logan. Two other godfathers are Jimmy Stewart and John Swope, producer-husband of Dorothy McGuire.

I asked her how much help she got from her father.

"Not much help, because he has been gone a lot in recent years", she said: "But I've got some good advice. When I first tested for Mr. Logan, I went to dad and said, 'help me! What do I do?'

"His advice was 'you don't do anything. Too many actors go into a test thinking they have to give out with plenty of acting. Movies aren't like that. The camera picks up small things you don't even realize you're doing. The best thing to do is be natural.'

That's sound advice from an expert practitioner, and Jane plans to put it to use. She's still a little dazed at all that has happened to her.

The future? She has a picture-a-year deal with Logan, but she leaks more activity than that.

Sports keep burning in on each other. With football, golf, tennis, swimming, baseball and other summer sports grabbing most of the sports - page play, a rumor about hockey is drifting around.

It concerns a reported move of Fleming Mackell to Detroit Red Wings from Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. The deal, according to the reports, is that Mackell will be traded for Billy McNeill, a youngster from Edmonton who has found NHL nets hard to pierce, and Nick Mickoski, an old-timer around the circuit.

The portents, says Bax (Montreal Star) O'Meara, are that Mackell has run out his string at Boston, "if he hasn't worn out his welcome."

CLUBHOUSE LAWYER

"They say that Flem is hard to handle, that he is something of a clubhouse lawyer," adds O'Meara, who has been close to the NHL scene for 40 years or so. "We can buy that, because we have known the boy ever since he was 10 years of age.

"We knew his dad before him, and it is our opinion that had he been able to play with any team but the Ottawa Senators of 1920-21-22, he would have been a star as Aurel Joliat and Billy Boucher were stars.

O'Meara's memory goes back a long time.

Mackell's father, he says, "had to play and man out for a team that boasted Sprague Cleghorn, George Boucher, Eddie Gerard, Frank Highbor, Punch Broadbent, Cy Denneny and Jack Darragh. His main effort was to try and dislodge Punch Broadbent, . . .

"They said he was hard to handle, too, but that was because he had a mind of his own. He knew his talents and his worth. His son is cast in the same mould."

Mackell, now 30, should be good for at least another five years in the big league. He keeps in condition during the off-season. His wife works hard because, as O'Meara points out, "there are six little Mackells who have to be fed, clothed and housed."

STARTED WITH LEAFS

His hockey history has been extensive.

He joined Toronto Maple Leafs from St. Michael's College juniors in Toronto in the 1947-48 season, but played only three games with the Leafs before being shunted down to Pittsburgh of the American Hockey League.

The next two seasons he spent his time between Toronto and Pittsburgh and eventually was traded off to Boston at the start of the 1951-52 season. At the time, it was reported that Mackell and President Conn Smythe of Maple Leaf Gardens weren't exactly buddies.

In the player's last year with the Leafs—1950-51 — he managed to score 12 goals and 13 assists for a 25-point total. His first full year with Bruins saw him go full speed ahead with a 44-point total on 27 goals and 17 assists.

Since that season, 1952-53, he has been a steady performer. He reached his peak in 1957-58 with 30 goals and 40 assists for 70 points, his highest in major league hockey.

Last season, his output dropped to 40 points, a figure that a lot of NHL players would like to reach.

SHARP REJOINDER — This flying fencer wasn't spitted, despite appearances. The agile athlete, swordsman Koestler of Germany, eluded his opponent's point but lost a match point when T. Mendelenyi of Hungary parried the leaping thrust and scored on a riposte. The spirited action occurred in the recent world sabre championships at Budapest in which Mendelenyi placed second. Dragon Yachts on Month's Cruise Didn't Win Awards but Set Records

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Ottawa sailboats failed to win any prizes on a recent month-long outing, but they set some records.

The 30-foot craft—dragon class, with billowing spinnaker canvas as a trademark—voyaged down the Ottawa River to Montreal, the first to do so. They they came back up the St. Lawrence, first way as far as Kingston, Ont., another first for their type.

The dragons, which usually travel to regattas on trucks, are owned by stockbroker Charles Petch, and Leo McKenna, defence department engineer, both members of the Britannia Yacht Club.

HIT BY BAD WINDS

Petch's Shearwater set out June 21 and made the 120 miles to Montreal in two days. The Anok, hit by bad winds, took four days, it set out June 22.

With Petch for the month was John Roberts, 17, of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club. Sefan Marshall, 16, of the same club, accompanied McKenna on the Anok. Both boats were in the 200-vessel flotilla in Lake St. Louis that greeted the royal yacht Britannia on her way upstream.

Both took part in the Lieutenant - Governor's and Dulles Cup competitions, with the Shearwater being nosed out in the former by two feet. Then the boats set out for Kingston for the Duke of Edinburgh Cup race.

Certain measures had to be taken to gain access to the newly-christened St. Lawrence Seaway. The dragons were 10 feet under the permitted minimum length of 40 feet and lacked other requisities such as ship - to - shore radios, winches and power. They qualified, however, using two small outboard motors.

DROPPED OUTBOARD

At the Beauharnois lock west of Montreal, the seven - horsepower engine dropped from the Anok. It was recovered and the four-horsepower engine on the Shearwater took up the strain by towing the crippled boat.

They got a tow through Lake St. Francis from a tug and were back in shape at Cornwall, near where the two American locks are located. Strong currents at the Snell and Eisenhower locks complicated matters and were finally swamped the motor on the Shearwater.

The Anok took her turn at towing through the five locks—transit fee $10—and the crews then spread canvas for Kingston. The route they lost a friendly race with Prince Philip's Blue Bottle and failed to win at Kingston also. The crews motored back home and the sailboats followed aboard trucks.

ASSET EMIGRANTS

TOKYO (Reuters) — An agricultural emigration fund has been established by Japan's agriculture - forestry ministry to all farmers who lack sufficient funds and want to settle abroad.

REFUSES FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jess Bowdry, No. 4 light heavyweight contender, refused to enter the ring for his scheduled 10-round fight with Sixto Rodriguez of San Francisco Thursday night and the entire six-fight card was cancelled.

Promoter Benny Ford told patrons they could get refunds at the box office. Perhaps 500 fans were in civic auditorium.

The ring announcer told the fans Bowdry said he wouldn't fight without his manager in his corner, refused to get into his boxing trunks and left the auditorium. The announcer said Bowdry's manager was under investigation, but didn't say by whom.

Sports and elections have something in common. Somebody wins—somebody loses. But the backgrounds vary.

Nowadays an election is quieter than the inmate of a deserted urban. Compared to those swashbuckling, hair-raisers of a few decades ago.

Gone are the old torch-bearing, head-blaring shenanigans when a man was either "for or forninst" the party. When verbal exchanges sometimes ended in fisticuffing arguments and a man was not averse to taking a behind-the-door sniffer just for old times' sake—and a vote.

Take that 1926 bye-election frintance, when the eyes of political Ontario were centred on this Hastings County neck-of-the-woods.

This reporter covered some 600 miles of icy snow-covered roads and trails during that memorable December when the Grits sent "Mitch" and the Tories had Earl Rowe at the helm.

It was a "doctor" election with medicos Boyce and Welsh contesting the seat. Reporters were a close 4 dozen. Out-of-towners occupied nearly half a floor at the Hotel Quinte.

It was bitter winter weather with snow, ice and sleet. Many nights we slithered over icy roads to the electoral hinterlands. On one occasion Earl Rowe pulled "Mitch's" car out of a ditch. On another we got lost along with the correct Ontario minister of highways trying to find our way to Tamworth via the "Hog's Back." After we arrived the balding was pelted with rocks by opposition supporters and the meeting was cut short.

Then the memorable election night when we were cadged to Madoc. The premises "Marshall Hall" was an election inn and after the Liberals had conceded the election someone dragged a protesting yearling gentleman over from the warmth of the stall and paraded him up and down the Madoc main stem.

Coming home in a police car, as a social guest, in the wee small hours we halted at the sound of a trumpet. A lone bandsman sat on the edge of a verandah tooting "Hail, Hail the Gang's All." The gendarmes stopped and asked him to desist. He did reluctantly, grumbling that the "so-and-so" (opposite party) who lived in the house had been blowing his horn all winter and "I'm getting my own back."

And so it was with softball. That was the year of the triumph of the Parrishes, which won the Ontario intermediate championship, with guys like the "Ole Check-er," Clarence Tuttle, Johnny Rawson, Cossie Harvie, Harold Bawden, Carmen Cook, Shad Risley, Wilbert Kiser, Vic Hannah, Cy Barriage, Chuck Barriage and others.

"Them were the days" when you could amble up to the Coleman Flats open-air stadium and get either an exciting game of ball or real clashes, or both, depending on which way you were looking and how your vocal cords behaved.

They used to pack the bleachers and half the flats in those days. There was no admission but if you could get by a dozen ticket-sellers like Reg Hardwick, who could separate you from a dime as qui ck as a wink, you were either invisible or a Houdini.

Foini Anne was in on the picture, too, with their Marcelle, Brazin, Goulin, Genereux, Seros (remember Micky?) and the rest of them. Whether you were careful argue, play softball or fight — just name it. Sometimes they did all three at once. And they had a vocal chorus that the bleachers backed by a gal, which could make the Don Cossacks look like a bunch of Sunday Brudgy, when that woman could say—and did. She feared "nuthin' nor nobody."

There were other teams too, like Corby's, etc. And such players as Frank Morrow, Bill Hogan, Ken Knott who is still playing the game, Rene St. Denis, Bent Millar, Micky MacDonald, Harold Reid, Arch Simpson, Jack Murray, Ekhner Binfield, Sonny Tuttle, Les Jenkinson, George Jenkinson, Frank O'Neill and many others.

Then, too, were that pair of "Harry's", Knott and Rollins. Harry Knott managed the Percivals and took them to the championship. Rollins was a softball "congressman" in those days not having yet been elevated to the senate.

Well, bringing softball up-to-date, do not forget tonight's the night the Belleville and Cobourg open their "death or glory" series at the CNRA Park. The game, we are informed, gets under way at 6.30 and should be an interesting battle. Both teams have strong clubs. The teams go back at it again in Cobourg next Tuesday. We do not know who "Casey" Temple will toss at the leagueleaders but quite likely Cobourg will use the great "Sleepy" in an effort to cop the all-important first tussle. In any event, it should be quite a show.

LATER

And later you can top off with some wrestling high jinks at Memorial Arena where world champion Pat O'Connor meets the terrible Hardboiled Haggerty for the world crown. Hardboiled is cockier than a jack rabbit with four spouses, and swears he'll tear O'Connor apart and the only piece you will recognize will be the world title crown which Hardboiled intends to keep himself—for a while.

Kingston Mayor Calls Meet To Discuss Pro Hockey Club

KINGSTON (CP)—The Limestone City, sponsors of Kingston Merchants, will be given another chance today to enter the newly-formed professional eastern pro hockey league.

Harry William T. Mills said he has not scheduled a meeting of interested persons to map problems that confront the proposed new league but he will be present at the meeting of the club directors called to enter the league. Mills, himself, may be one of the directors.

Wednesday night the club directors refused to enter the league when they found they could not expand their board of directors to 14 from four. A problem of broadcast rights also harrassed the group.

Meanwhile, it is understood that new group wanted "four or five" days to see whether an entry can be organized to replace the Merchants.

President Reg Walton of the Kingston Club said he had attended the International Hockey League, that Kingston had been unable to complete arrangements for entry.

Crack Nats for 11 Straight But Chisox, Tribe Keep Pace; Bucs Beat Bums, Braves Win

By RED WILKES
Associated Press Staff Writer

San Francisco is back in the National League lead, but it took a whale of a parlay to do it—five unearned runs, a 6-for-6 debut by rookie Willie McCovey and Pittsburgh Pirates', first victory in 10 games.

The Giants cut their own slump at four and moved into first place by a half-game as McCovey, a .377 hitter at Phoenix notched 12 hours earlier, hit two triples, scored three runs and drove in two for a 7-2 decision Thursday over Philadelphia Phillies, who chipped in four errors.

Pittsburgh cleared the way for the Giants by beating Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4 in 12 innings, skidding the Dodgers to third. Milwaukee Braves took over second place with a 5-3 decision over Chicago Cubs, intermingling their runs as Warren Spahn gained his 260th victory.

AUSPICIOUS START

St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati Redlegs 7-0 with Bob Gibson blanking the Reds on eight hits in his first major league start.

McCovey, 21, a lean six-foot-four first baseman, also singled twice in his first major league game after managing but a single and a double in the Giants' lineup switching Orlando, Cepeda from first to third base and benching Jim Davenport.

With McCovey showing them how, the Giants collected 10 hits and rolled up their biggest run total in seven games. Willie McCormick (10-8) beat the Phillies.

A one - out single by Ray Mathias, followed by a single by Dick Groat and Bill Virdon's double, won it for the Pirates, who broke Los Angeles' 63 leadin Benny Daniels (6-6) was the victim as relief. Mejias homered for the Bucs.

BRAVES RUN WILD

The Braves gained .003 percentage points ahead of the Dodgers and within .008 of the Giants by batting Brabander Art Ceccarelli his first defeat in five decisions. Consecutive homers by Felix Mantilla (2) and Hank Aaron (27) clinched it in the third. Johnny Logan (13) and Andy Pafko (1) finished the home run performance for the Braves.

Spahn (14-10) allowed five hits, one Bobby Thomson's ninth home run.

Gibson, a righthander just up from Omaha of the American Association this struck out two and walked three. He got out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth when Johnny Temple fled out to end it.

Where do the Kansas City Athletics go from here? They've pulled off an incredible jump from the cellar to third place with an 11-game streak, longest in the American League in five years, but can they crack the exclusive, two-club "first division?"

The Athletics, making their run in just 11 days, moved past Baltimore into third by whipping Washington 4-1 Thursday night. But they still trail Chicago's first place White Sox by 8½ games and second-place Cleveland by 1½ after making up 8½ games on the leaders.

The White Sox kept their tough post-all star game pace with a 5-1 victory over New York, plunking the world champion Yankees 10½ games behind as Early Wynn (14-6) became the AL's top winner. It was the Sox' 15th victory in 20 games since the all-star break.

STAY CLOSE

The Indians stayed close by trimming Boston 4-3 with Minnie Minoso driving in all their runs. Detroit tied New York for fifth by taking Baltimore 5-1.

Southpaw Bud Daley, after losing his no-hit bid in the seventh of a lee injury, blanked the Senators on six hits for six innings, was succeeded by Jim Grant's mates relief for a 12-6 record. That 1½ after making up 8½ games on the leaders.

The Publicity on

'An Old Man' Says Durelle 'A Young Squirt' Quips Arch

MONTREAL (CP) — Archie Moore has supposedly demanded that his Aug. 18 fight — heavyweight title fight with Yvon Durelle be extended to 20 rounds so he could "give Durelle a lesson."

Moore and manager Jack Kearns, never men to miss a publicity angle, commuted their demands to the Montreal athletic commission after reading a newspaper article in which Durelle cast aspersions on the middle-aged champion's stamina.

Championship bouts have been scheduled for 15 rounds for the last 30 years.

The statement that roused the Moore wrath were made in an interview with Durelle at his Moncton, N.B. training headquarters.

"I feel sort of sorry for Moore," the Sir, Anne, N.B., slugger said. "He's an old man now. The last will murder him and I imagine he will collapse in five rounds."

Moore said he'd show "the young squirt" (Durelle is 26, Moore about 43) who could go to the longest route.

"I'll give Durelle the lesson and the beating of his life. I won't try to knock him out in a hurry, just carry him to make him suffer. Ordinarily, I don't like to hurt an opponent any more than is necessary to defeat him. But these old man cracks get under my skin."

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Yvon Durelle said Thursday night that if his battle with world lightweight champion Archie Moore went 20 rounds "there wouldn't be enough left of Moore to make a good soup."

Commenting on reports that Moore would like the fight proceed to 20 rounds, Durelle added: "Moore's going to run out of energy a lot sooner than he thinks. I'm going to hit him with everything I've got and he won't him out."

Blasting back at Moore for calling him a "squirt," Durelle said: "I'm going to be the sauciest squirt he ever met. I'll bound him to death."

Durelle said he isn't upset over the fact that Moore broke sparring partner Junior Washington's jaw during a three-round workout Thursday.

"It's a well hard enough and you'll break a boned. He's not going to hurt me any. If there's any hurting to do, I'll do it."

Minor League Sues Majors For $600,000

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Portland Baseball Club today filed a $600,000 damage suit against the major leagues charging that much loss under monopolistic practices.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, names baseball commissioner, asked treble damages, bringing the total to $1,800,000. It charged the clubs through television and control of players had violated federal law against monopolies.

At a press conference Arch Kingsley, president of the Portland club, a member of the Pacific Coast League, said efforts to negotiate a settlement within the baseball family had failed and "we have come to the conclusion that redress through the courts is the only hope for saving baseball for the Portland community and the minor league baseball generally."

Kingsley said that on television, baseball wants to participate in financial returns. He said no final offer was set on that.

Clyde Perkins, vice-president of the Portland club and head of a seventh group of baseball independent baseball clubs, said that 10 years ago there were 61 such baseball leagues and 8,200 players under contract.

Bobby Hunter's 6-Hitter, 18 Clouts Give Point 10-4 Win Over Trenton

TRENTON — Bobby Hunter's six-hit hurling backed by the blasting bludgeons of his mates gave Point Anne a 10-4 victory over Trenton here last night. It was the Point's second straight triumph in the best-of-seven league semi-finals.

Hunter hurled masterful ball over the route, striking out 13 batters and issuing only four walks. He lashed out two doubles in the six-hitting game.

The Pointer bats blasted 18 clouts off two Trenton hurlers. They topped starter R. Cole for five in the first innings then pounced on reliever Wannamaker who took over in the second for 13 safeties.

Outfielder Gary Goyer missiled the Pointers at the plate hoisting out a triple, double and two singles, Chuck Kingston was another "four-man" adding four singles to his collection. Jack Elliott, jr., was good for a double and two singles, Hunter two doubles, Doug Hull two singles with Wardhaugh, Soule and Elliott the remaining homerun clouts.

The Pointers scuttled the Trenton ship in the first frame with four runs off six doubles, three singles and a walk. They added three in the second, which sent Cole to the showers, with Hunter doubles and a single.

Wannamaker held them scoreless for a pair of frames then they broke out again in the fifth for a haul of singles by Goyer and Soule. Goyer's three-bagger and Kingston's single accounted for the singles. Point run in the eighth.

Hunter hurled no-hit ball for four frames, De Foss getting the first in the fifth backed by H. Cole's double. A Point lapse at this juncture helped shove across Trenton's first two runs.

They hit again for a pair in the sixth wheel Drake, Mitts and Cole came coming up with five Hunter blanked them with one hit over the rest of the route.

Drake's two singles led the Trenton clout parade with H. Cole getting a double and Mitts Smith and DeFosse good for singles.

The Pointers' fielding could have been a shade better than it was. coming up with five bobbles, while Trenton miscued but three times. The winners came up with a nifty double play in the seventh to choke off a Trenton rally after errors had put two runners aboard.

The teams:

Point Anne — Jones, Wardhaugh, Hull, Hunter, Elliott, Cole, R. Wannamaker (2) and L. Wannamaker.

Trenton — Alexander, Drake, Mitts, L. Wannamaker, Cole, Smith, DeFosse, H. Cole, Wannamaker.

The score:

Point Anne	4	0	0	0	0	1	0	5	10
Trenton	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	2	4

MONTREAL (CP) — Traditionally - reared Englishmen and the hard-headed Canadians are likely to be at loggerheads again with the start today of a series of cricket matches at Montreal between the Marylebone Cricket Club and Canadian teams.

Non - cricketing Canadians will again be astounded, bemused, baffled, puzzled and flabbergasted by such terms as leg-bye silly mid-on, silly mid-off, leg break, googly and bowl a maiden over.

It is hard to explain these without going into all of cricket's complexities. But roughly, a leg - bye is a ball which passes off the batsman's leg, just as a leg break is one which the bowler towards his leg when it is bowled.

A googly ball, the Oxford English Dictionary says tersely, is "an off - break ball with a simple or "screw" action." Perfectly obvious, of course.

Then mid-on and silly mid-off are fielding positions so close to the batter's person who plays them is thought a little "slitty" or at least foot-hardy.

And bowling a maiden over, however romantic it may sound, is simply "no runs" which no runs are scored, much like a scoreless inning in baseball. An over, which is six bowls or pitches by the bowler.

The MCC means more to cricket then the New York Yankees has meant to baseball. The club governs the sport and supervises the game generally.

Rough Riders Give Warning Hand BC Lions 24-22 Loss

By ART WILKES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A speedy first-year import halfback and a veteran passing artist look like the match for Ottawa Rough Riders' wheel of fortune in the Big Four Football League this season.

Halfback Don Clark and quarter Frank Tripucka turned in outstanding performances Thursday night as Eastern champion British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union 24-22 in an exhibition game before 10,000 fans.

The game wasn't nearly-as close as the score indicates. Lions had a whopping 425-149 edge in net yardage gained over Riders who had two previous exhibition starts.

Tripucka's outstanding signal-calling left little doubt that Riders would get rookie halfback quarter Don Allard of Boston College on the trading market and use him as a sensation Hugh Jackson as Tripucka's understudy.

TRADE REPORTED

Riders are reported dickering with Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders for the top import end in a trade for Allard but no deal has developed as yet.

Tripucka tossed two touchdown passes—one a 25-yarder—and accounted for most of Riders' 17 completions and 231 yards gained on 28 attempts.

Clark, a 190-pound speedster from Ohio State, accounted for a big share of Riders 18-yards rushing and caught several long passes. Returning imports Gerry Nesbitt and Rene Theberge showed well in the ball-carrying department.

Willie Fleming, Ed Vereb and Don Vicic were the leading ball-carriers for Lions.

Tempers flared twice during the game and resulted in three players being tossed out by officials. Given the gate were guard Lionel Hayes and tackle Ed Denk of Ottawa and Lions' Jerry Janes.

Young Hurler Proves Help To Kansas

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Thanks to seldom used, bench-weary young Johnny Tsitouris the sizzling Kansas City Athletics had the longest winning streak in the majors Thursday — 8 games.

Tsitouris, a 23-year - old strong right-hander, obtained from Monroe, N.C., drew an emergency relief assignment against Washington Wednesday night because of injuries to regulars Shod Dubiel and Ray Herbert. He had a shutout going into the eighth inning went on with a 5-4 decision. Bob Grim worked the last 1 2-3 innings.

It was only Tsitouris' second start of the season and his four-hit hurling left the Athletics half a game behind third place Baltimore and a full game ahead of the one mighty New York Yankees.

Tsitouris, who came to the Athletics in a 13-player deal with Detroit in 1957, had been used sparingly earlier in the season and had a miserable 8.34 earned run average for 12 innings pitched. He relief only 2 1-3 innings against Boston in his other starting role May 6.

Nine Players Tied for Top In Pro Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS (CP) — Nine players tied for first place Thursday in the opening round of the national Professional Golfers Association tournament shooting 70s, one under par for the 6,900 pesapolis Golf Club course.

Bill Casper, jr., who won the U.S. Open last month, and Mike Souchak set the early pace. Then Dow Finsterwald, a 39-year-old former of the golf world made 35s on the first nine, Souchak caught up, but none went ahead.

Tied with Casper and Souchak were Art Wall, Jr., Jerry Barber, Walter Zuberano, Jackson Bradley, Mike Krak, Chuck Klein and Dick Hart.

Such performers as Art Wall and Jerry Barber, a pair of big money-winner; Jack Burke, a former MVP; Jimmy Ken Venturi and Billy Maxwell were among a big group with par 70s.

Defending champion Sam Snead, who won the PGA title at match play last year, was joined by Doug Ford and Lionel Hebert, while Bobby Nichols, runner-up in this year's open, were clustered with others at 71.

Arnold Palmer, Jay Hebert, former Open champions Cary Middlecoff, Ted Kroll, Bob Goalby and several others had 72s. There are three more rounds of play here in the 36-hole, $25,000 event.

Cuban Brothers Do No Like Grass Courts

MONTREAL (CP) — Cuba's Garrido brothers have only two complaints about the site of the American zone Davis Cup finals — it is grass and it is pretty poor grass.

They think they could do a better job of playing Australia's powerful tennis team if the matches were on clay court.

"I'm not saying we'd win on clay court" Orlando Garrido said in an interview, "but we would make a better fight."

Orlando, 28, and Reynaldo, 24, form the entire Cuban Davis Cup team.

Reynaldo is to play Australia's Rop Emerson, 22, in the first of two singles matches today and Orlando is to play left-handed Neale Fraser, 25, in the second.

Doubles will be played Friday and two closing singles matches Sunday.

Orlando said he is satisfied with the draw and did not care which Australian he is to play.

"On grass courts they are all tough," he said. "They are used to grass in their country. On clay, they look like-look at in like, they had a hard time."

Australia beat Mexico 4-1 in a first-round tie two weeks ago in Mexico City but all the singles matches went into extra sets.

Balding Leads Millar Pack After 2 Rounds Match Play

TORONTO (CP)—Al Balding, the lanky touring professional golfer from Markham, found little difficulty Thursday in whipping the first two rounds of match play in his defence of the Millar Trophy.

In his first math on the dry, flat fairways of the Scarboro course, he defeated Stan Kurman of Toronto 3 and 2 to reach the one more hole in his second round as he fired seven birdies and Jim Kurman had five.

The biggest of the day's surprises was the demise of Bill Mawhinney of Burlington, winner in the tournament two years ago. Mawhinney, a highly - rated match player, lost one - up to Larry Gordon of Toronto in the second round.

ASSISTANT PROS STAR

Host pro for the first time assistant professionals were permitted to enter the Millar and WA'A of tournament, Balding, 36 is seeking the Canadian match play championship and the $1,000 first prize.

One of them is George Knudson of Toronto, who fired a 3-under-par 67 to win the qualifying round with a three-under - par 67. The 22-year-old Winnipeg native easily downed Vic Dimaro of Aurora 3 and 4 and then topped Stan Leach of Montreal 3 and 2.

Another is Moe Norman of Toronto who set a course record Wednesday with a 68 in the pro-amateur tournament. He was disposed of Peterborough's Al Balding 2 and 2 and Hal Butler of Oshawa 4 and 3.

Among the other favored players Dick Mayer, Inverness pro and ver who beat Len Diplock of Kanuskasing 2 and 1 and Vic Whitley of Guelph 3 and 4.

BY THE WAY

Whitley figured in an upset in the first round when he won one - up over Lloyd Tucker of Toronto 2 and 1 in the semi-final to Balding and also was runner-up to Mayer in 1940.

Ron Babcock, assistant pro at Thornhill, provided another first round surprise as he knocked out veteran Gordon Brydson of Toronto 2 and 1 after being eight in the running with a one-up win over Bert Turcotte of Toronto in his second match.

Norm Smith of Toronto played Bob Shaw of Toronto to a 2 holes. After beating fellow Torontonian Irv Lightstone on the 22nd hole Smith met the 20th by Gerry Magee of Toronto and Kitchener.

The field will be cut to four after today's two rounds.

TORONTO (CP) — Second-round play in match play in the Millar golf tournament included:

Harry McIldree, Hamilton, defeated Larry Allard, Parry Sound, 5 and 3.

BC Students Win First Eights Race

FORT DALHOUSIE (CP) — A smooth machine from British Columbia's Shawinigan Lake School won the first race for the first time Thursday and emerged with the Royal Canadian Henley's Calder Cleland Trophy for high school eights.

The race, considered the continent's champion high school rowing event, was the last of the finals races in the second day program of the four-day, 68-race regatta.

Shawinigan Lake, near Victoria, started this year as a feeder club for University of British Columbia crews. Thursday's race was the first competition for the young rowers.

Headed by 17-year-old con Jim Gibson, they came east with the UBC Pair-Oared Eights crew two last week. After UBC left for Chicago, Shawinigan Lake remained to practise on the one-mile high school course here, using the university's shell.

Thursday's race proved they knew what they were doing. Shawinigan Lake leaped ahead at the start and were never in trouble. They finished in four 52.3—a half length ahead of the local St. Catharines Collegiate crew, Lisgwell High School, another local club, was never in the race.

Smooth water, a healthy tailwind, and identical times in the high eighties, produced identical winning coaches. The day's events opened with two cracked records.

Stamps Whip Dutchies 21-8 In Exhibition

KITCHENER (CP) — Bob Cetkert's throwing arm gave Calgary Stampeders an early edge Thursday night but the westerners quickly gained their form and rolled on to a 21-8 exhibition football victory.

The win before about 3,000 fans was Calgary's first on the preseason circuit this year and was highlighted by the fine performance of quarterback Nobby Wirkowski, who went all the way while Joey Kapp recuperated from a minor incident.

For a time it appeared the Ontario Rugby Football Union club might be in for revenge against the pros who kicked the ORFU out of their Cup competition two years ago.

CELERI SPARKS

After Bernie Custis had been roughed on a Ted Duncan kick for a one-point Calgary Margin, the Dutchies launched an offensive. Celeri, the passing terror of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, hit Jerry Myers who ran another 34 yards for a touchdown without a hand being laid on him.

Wirkowski went to the air thereafter and baffled the Dutchmen, who were playing their first game of the year. The K-W club could get little attack at half time but Calgary's ground power was still too much.

Lacrosse

WELLAND (CP) — Ron Roy piled in six goals Thursday night including the winning, pair in the final 64 seconds, as Welland-Crowland Swiftons defeated Long Branch-Dixie Castrols 12-10 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A game.

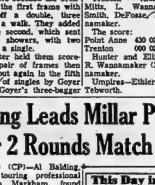
Pete Dupuis backed Roy's splurge with three goals while Mike Damloo accounted for two. Ted Howrie had six assists.

Larry Ruse with three, Brian Hall and Flory Tomchisen with two each, and George Kapasky, Leo Teatro and Paul Hendrickson scored four apiece.

Swiftson team captain Ted Sox on receiving a match misconduct penalty midway through the second period for arguing a British Columbia referee was forced to sit out the next game.

Harness Racing

FORT ERIE (CP)—Rix, five-year-old mare owned by Daniel A. Conny of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was the class performer in Thursday night's Club Purse at the Fort Erie Race track Thursday as best boy Faulkiss Maid by two lengths while Sun and Wind finished third.



TORONTO (CP) — Visitors dominated play in both the junior and senior men's singles Thursday as play progressed in the quarter-finals in the Ontario Lawn Bowling championships.

Advancing to quarter - finals were Tony O'Donnell of Cobourg Ont.; David Woodworth, Halifax; Keith Carpenter, and Tom Bell, both of Montreal; John Francis, Vancouver, Don Curtis, Harry Gardiner and Dave Bassett, all of Toronto.

INDIANS BUY PITCHER

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians have bought pitcher Jack Harshman from Boston Red Sox on waivers for an undisclosed amount. Boston had acquired the veteran southpaw earlier this season from Baltimore. He won 12 and lost 13 last year with Baltimore and was 2-0 with his two clubs this season.

HOMES WANTED
The Children's Aid Society is anxious to obtain foster homes for a number of boys and girls who will be entering Grade 9 in September. Foster parents will be paid a monthly allowance for children placed in the City of Belleville or in the immediate district.
Many considerations arise from being a foster parent to a child in your group. Some are:
—the companionship of a young child,
—assistance with the normal routine of the home,
—help with the supervision of younger children,
—$25.00 per month maintenance — the Society is responsible for clothing, medical and dental care, supervision, recreation, and education of the child,
—the opportunity to discuss the child's adjustment in your home with an experienced and skilled caseworker, who in turn receives professional supervision,
—the satisfaction that comes from knowing you are sharing with a person less fortunate than yourself.
If you are married, in good health, between the ages of 25 and 55, and would like to know more about what is involved in foster parenthood, telephone WO 9-3704 between the hours of 9:00 and 4:30 Monday to Friday and ask for Miss Payne. She will be pleased to tell you of some of the many considerations of foster parents presently caring for children.

Says Canadians Cause Trouble In Pakistan

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (CP)—A teen-age son of a Pakistani major-general says Canadians in Pakistan under the Colombo Plan are making natives worry "very jealous" of their way of life.

Ahmed Hayaud - Din, son of Maj.-Gen. Hayaud-Din, Pakistan military attache in Washington, told the annual strategy conference of Naval Re-Armament.

"The Canadians have built their own bowling alleys, swimming pools and night clubs to remind them of all the fun they had in Canada, but it has made our workers who have never even seen these things very jealous.

"As you know our standard of living is very much lower than Canada's and our people sometimes don't earn enough to eat properly.

"Some of our engineers and workers have been going out dancing at the night clubs with the wives of the Canadian engineers. The Canadian husbands don't like it one bit and the wives of the workers don't like it one bit either."

He said a great deal of trouble is being caused by the Canadian engineers and their families working on the Warsak dam at Peshawar, North Pakistan, a Colombo Plan project.
